LBJ Checks Baker Issue, Missile Claims To Senate

LBJ WANTS RELATIONS

U.S., Panama's Efforts At Peace Falter On Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called Saturday for a resumption of relations with Panama, but efforts by the Inter-American Peace Committee to bring the two countries closer together bogged down.

"We are hoping that we can have diplomatic relations and, after we do that, then we can try to reason together," Johnson told a White House news conference.

Within the councils of the peace committee, however, it was reported that the President's obejctive would not be filled immediately. The reason, an old one, was Panama's insistence on a U.S. agreement to negotiate new conventions regarding the Panama Canal.

TREATY SHY

The United States has offered to discuss all outstanding problems with Panama, but has shied away from a commitment to write a new treaty.

Johnson said the United States is following a policy "of being fair and just and discussing any problem that arises."

Both Johnson and President Roberto Chiari of Panama expressed similar conciliatory lines Thursday, and it appeared then that the peace committee's efforts to win agreement for a formula for discussion might succeed.

But Panama fell back on its position that the United States agree to negotiate new rules regarding the canal and Saturday's committee meeting broke up after six hours with agreement that another session would be held today.

Johnson met with newsmen while the committee was taking a luncheon break.

Asked if he was more encouraged of late that a solution could be reached, he said: "I don't have that thermometer with me. I'll have to take a blood test next week. But I think agreement can be reached, and I think men on both sides, men of good will, will try hard. Nearly everyone in the world would rather talk than fight."

Red Peace Note Lacks Strength, British Claim

MOSCOW (AP) — A British note made public Saturday criticized Premier Khrushchev's proposals on settling frontier disputes as insufficiently ironclad to safeguard peace.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home welcomed the ideas advanced in Khrushchev's 6,000 word New Year's message to world leaders, but said only one of his four main points was acceptable to Britain.

This was a call for international commitments to solve all territorial disputes through peaceful mediation and negotiation under the U.N. charter.

The prime minister suggested Khrushchev's ideas "need to be expanded if they are to contribute to the solution of the real problems of our times."

Douglas - Home's response, delivered to Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko here Friday and released by the British Embassy Saturday, resembled in some respects the reaction of President Johnson.

Johnson, in a letter made public Monday, told Khrushchev he has no quarrel with the Russian's proposal to outlaw the use of force in settling frontier disputes, but he suggested "broader and stronger" guidelines.

Douglas-Home dismissed two of Khrushchev's points as either too restrictive or too loosely defined and suggested another did not go far enough.

France Cajoles Reds On Policy

PARIS (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle apparently has persuaded Peking to accept France's two-China policy and has made his pitch for President Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government to go along, informed sources said on Saturday.

De Gaulle was reported to have asked Chiang not to sever its diplomatic relations with France after it recognizes Red China, an event now expected Monday. Chiang's response was not recorded.

The informants said the French leader's request was presented in Taipei recently by a French diplomat, Gen. Zinovi Peckoff, a Russian-born, one-armed veteran of the Foreign Legion.

Sen. Dirksen Pledges GOP Tax Cut Help

Senate To Work Long Sessions For Quick Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), pledged Saturday Republican support for efforts to deliver the $11.5-billion tax reduction bill into President Johnson's hands shortly after mid-February.

Dirksen, the Senate minority leader, said Republicans are willing to go along with a speed-up schedule including lengthy daily sessions after the bill reaches the Senate floor, about Feb. 3.

Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader, who has opposed long sessions in the past, said in a separate interview he will ask the Senate to meet early and work at night in an attempt to get a final vote by Feb. 11.

LINCOLN BIRTHDAY

This schedule would send the bill, which Johnson has described as "the single most important domestic economic measure in 15 years," to a Senate-House conference committee before congressional Republicans depart for a week of speeches at Lincoln birthday fund-raising rallies.

Most of the Republicans will be back on the job Feb. 17. The timing of final action on the measure then would be determined largely by how long it takes to compromise Senate-House differences.

Very little public emphasis has been placed on it, but the fulfillment of such a schedule as this would relieve the administration of some deep anxieties about a possible Senate collision of the tax bill with civil rights legislation.

The House is expected to take up the civil rights measure Friday and may pass it Feb. 11. Democratic leaders want to clear the tax measure and thus avoid any filibuster against it that might be inspired by prior arrival in the Senate of the civil rights bill.

Dirksen, who expects to vote for the tax reduction, takes the position that nothing is to be gained by further delays. The House took from January to September last year to act on the bill. The Senate committee has been considering it since then.

"The taxpayers have been told that they are going to get some reductions and have made their plans accordingly, particularly businessmen," Dirksen said. "There needs to be fair consideration of the bill in the Senate, but I think we can have that if we have long daily sessions."

Johnson, who has been exerting vigorous pressures to get speedy action on the measure, contends that there is a $30-million economic loss for every day its final enactment is delayed.

MOONSHOT, SATURN-5

U.S. Plans Two Key Space Steps

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — America plans two key steps this week in its climb to the moon with an orbital firing Monday of the rocket billed as the world's largest by the late President Kennedy, and a Ranger moonshot three days later.

The 562-ton Saturn-5, to be launched at 10 a.m., EST, Monday, is the forerunner of boosters that will hurl men to the moon before 1970. It will be the first in the successful Saturn series to carry a satellite.

The Ranger, sixth in its ill-fated program, is designed to provide the first close-up lunar pictures needed for manned landings. It is set to be rocketed into space at 10:15 a. m., EST, Thursday.

AMBITIOUS WEEK

It will be one of the nation's most ambitious weeks in its drive to conquer space. Russia's space program apparently also has been active. Last Thursday, the Soviet Union announced it had launched "new improved" space rockets expected to carry cosmonauts into orbit later this year.

Ranger-6, to be boosted on its 2½-day voyage to the moon by an Atlas Agena, has been revamped to get the nation's failure-plagued lunar exploration program moving. Five previous Rangers and nine other moonprobes have failed, although a lifeless Ranger hit the moon in 1962.

The 16-story rocket, first of the new breed of "super boosters," will carry a live second stage for the first time and will loft into orbit the world's largest man-made satellite—18 tons of useless burned out rocket casing and sand.

Not only will Saturn be the nation's most powerful rocket—1.5 million pounds of thrust in its first stage alone—but it will carry more instruments than any previous boosters. It will take 1,183 measurements of its performance, and its eight movie cameras and one television camera will record its flight operations.

In a few months, America hopes to be using Saturn boosters to orbit unmanned Apollo moon ships around the earth. Later Saturn models using a more powerful second stage will orbit manned Apollo craft in preparation for manned moon trips planned this decade by even larger Saturns.

ECHO II SATELLITE

Largest Artificial Moonlet In Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A glittering new man-made star — the 13-story balloon satellite Echo 2—rocketed into the heavens Saturday.

Popping open in space some 800 miles above South Africa, the 135-foot diameter balloon became the largest artifical moonlet ever launched and was expected to be seen by more people than any other object ever made by man.

The United States and Russia have agreed to try to bounce radio signals off its reflective aluminum foil skin in the first joint experiment in communications via space between the two powers. A date for the first tests has not been set.

The huge balloon, carried aloft folded in a 30x40 inch pod in the nose of a Thor-Agena B booster at 5:59 a.m., was expected to become visible over the United States the first time early this evening when illuminated by rays from the sun below the horizon.

The U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration said a timetable of visibility in major cities would be announced today after the precise orbit is computed and compared with the earth's rotation.

Although Echo 2 is the largest satellite yet launched, it is far from the heaviest. Its 535 pounds are virtually all plastic and aluminum foil skin, except for a few pounds of small radio beacons to help scientists track the balloon on its two-hour circuits around the earth's poles.

The space agency said the balloon, visibile only in dawn and dusk conditions, would be seen first by people on the other side of the world.

Britons Keep Tense Watch Over Africa

Uneasy Quietness Lies Upon Three Troubled Nations

JINGA, Uganda (AP)—British commandos stood a tense vigil in Uganda, Tanganyika and Kenya Saturday night after brushfire army mutinies threatened to enflame all three former East Africa colonies in a wave of violence.

Rebellious African soldiers sniped at a base north of the Kenyan capital of Nairobi that was seized by an airlifted commando unit.

WAVE OF UNREST

An uneasy quiet settled over the other two Commonwealth nations, whose leaders asked Britain's help amid the wave of unrest set off on the mainland in the wake of the Zanzibar coup two weeks ago.

Brig. Pat Sholto Douglas, ousted by mutineers of the Tanganyika Rifles in a brief revolt last Monday, led 500 commandos in a dawn attack on an African barracks near Dar es Salaam after helicopter landings from the British carrier Centaur.

Three African soldiers were killed and 20 wounded in the renewal of violence at the barracks. The British troops restored order without casualties. Other troops took over an African base at Tabora, 400 miles west of Dar es Salaam.

Commandos were flown in from neighboring Kenya at the request of President Julius Nyerere of Tanganyika. He said he feared that a threatened general strike plus the new army flareup would bring bloody violence. Seventeen Africans were killed in rioting after last Monday's revolt.

Nyerere went on state radio to urge mutinous soldiers still in the bush to surrender and put down "foolish talk that the British have come back to rule Tanganyika." He said he would have asked help from Kenya or

Rusk Launches Talks On Asia With Japanese

TOKYO (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk is launching a three-day mission in Tokyo for President Johnson which could determine roles of the United States and Japan are to play in Asia during months of doubt ahead.

Originally scheduled as a routine economic conference with Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz playing the key parts, talks beginning Monday will be more concerned with repercussions throughout the Far East over France's imminent recognition of Red China.

Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira greeted the American officials at Haneda Airport late Saturday and said he was happy to see them because of the "moving tide of world development."

Rains Threaten To Flood South

By United Press International

Torrential rains threatened to send streams out of their banks in the Southland Saturday following a night of tornadoes that killed nine persons.

The Pacific Northwest was drenched with up to four inches of rain, and snow and roaring winds brought blizzard conditions to portions of the Midwest.

A bus and a car collided head-on on a rain-slick highway near Augusta, Ga., Saturday, killing two persons and injuring at least 12 others.

Rain and thunderstorms moved northward into New England.

A Friday night tornado at Harpersville, Ala., left at least nine persons dead and several homes demolished. Other twisters struck at Frisbie, Mo.; Gorgas, Ala.; Marmaduke, Ark., and Fort Knox, Ky.

Fair Skies Due In Area Today

The weatherman predicted fair skies for Monroe and area residents today, with a continuance of the cool snap that moved in Saturday.

COOL

The mercury is expected to climb a little higher today than Saturday's high of 57. Maximum temperatures will range from 60 to 64 today with light breezes of 4 to 10 miles per hour, blowing from the southwest.

The fair, cool weather is expected to run through Monday. Saturday's low temperature was 39, while lows for tonight should be about the same.

CUBAN QUARANTINE

GOP Blasts LBJ About Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican Congressional Committee chairman accused the Johnson administration Saturday of abandoning the U.S. embargo policy against Cuba. The State Department called his charge "a total distortion of the facts."

The GOP leader, Rep. Bob Wilson of California, said in a statement that since Johnson became president 40 ships have been taken off the U.S. blacklist of free world vessels trading with Cuba.

State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips replied that only 15 ships have been removed from the blacklist, and these under conditions which in effect would reduce free world shipping with Cuba even more.

REBUTTAL

"The accusations of Rep. Wilson, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, are a total distortion of the facts concerning U.S. policy toward free world shipping to Cuba," the State Department spokesman said.

"It has been and remains the purposes of the U.S. government to reduce free world shipping to Cuba in every possible way."

Wilson said in his statement: "Our ban against the use of these ships for transport of U.S. government goods has been sacked. Our ostensibly firm policy toward Castro has been abandoned.

Cuba Requires Big Sugar Hike To Meet Goals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba will have to boost the sugar production by 50 per cent to meet Prime Minister Fidel Castro's announced commitment to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, according to figures compiled by U. S. officials.

Castro's Moscow visit was concluded with a Soviet-Cuban agreement under which Russia is to buy two million tons of Cuban sugar next year, three million tons in 1966, four million in 1964 and five million the following year. The announced price was six cents a pound.

Castro went on the air Friday night, exorting his fellow Cubans to step up production of sugar, the Caribbean island's main money earner.

Washington forecasters estimate Cuba's 1964 crop will be even lower—about 3.3 million tons—and that 1965 will see little increase.

FEUDS WITH PENTAGON

Small Phone Firm Produces Big War

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — When Edward Striegel first got into the communications business by trading a house trailer for a telephone firm in 1951 he never dreamed he some day would be at war with the Pentagon.

A quiet-mannered businessman with greying, close-cropped hair, a mustache and glasses, he moved to Idaho in 1950 to get away from the "rat race" in Barstow, Calif., where he had operated an electrical business.

Now 49, he was proud that in 13 years he had taken a magneto, manually-operated phone company serving 183 subscribers at Richfield, Idaho, and built it into a business serving 700 subscribers in three communities.

Two of his three children were attending the University of Idaho. He had a contract for special service to the Strategic Air Command. Business seemed to be prospering. He even started a phone company across the border in Owyhee, Nev.

Saturday, his business gem state utilities was in financial troubles and Striegel was in dutch: with the Air Force, the Pentagon, the Idaho Public Utilities Commission and, possibly, the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Frustrated because he could not get SAC to pay a $41,000 construction bill, he pulled the plug on two of the three Titan missile complexes at nearby Mountain Home Air Force Base. He cut off the phone service for more than an hour,

Lists Events, U.S. Policies To Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday he expects — and is sometimes amused by —Republican criticism such as he's been receiving in the Robert G. Baker case.

And he said it's up to the Senate to decide whether the wide-ranging activities of the former secretary to the Senate Democratic majority have created a major ethical problem in government.

In another surprise, informal news conference, the President referred to the Senate also the matter of investigating charges made by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that U.S. long-range missiles are not dependable, saying:

"That's a matter entirely for the Senate."

But he implied he places little credence in the assertions made by Goldwater, while campaigning for his party's presidential nomination. Johnson said he'd be surprised if there's any major aspect of national defense that the Senate Armed Services Committee hasn't already investigated thoroughly.

TAX REVISION

Johnson expressed satisfaction progress on the $11.5-billion tax cut bill and expressed hope it may "even come out of Congress before we get out of here on Lincoln's birthday. That is the schedule for the Senate."

Senate leaders have been shooting for passage by that chamber before Feb. 12 with final compromise and passage in time to make the cut effective March 1.

Johnson praised Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., of the Finance Committee for expediting action on the tax cut even though he opposes it. He disclosed Byrd agreed to expedite the bill if the President's new budget was under $100 billion—it was $97.9 billion.

In a lengthy statement and in answers to questions, Johnson expressed these views on other subjects:

—FRANCE and RED CHINA: "There is a good deal of concern throughout the world about the action of the French government" in deciding to recognize the Communist regime. "I told them about our concern. But this is a matter for the French government."

—PANAMA: The United States will pursue "the policy of being fair and just and discussing any problem that arises between two countries. Either side can bring up anything they want to. We are hoping we can have (restored diplomatic) relations, and, after that, then we can sit down and try to reason together. Nearly everyone in the world would rather talk than fight."

—MALAYSIA: "I have wired the attorney general (Robert F. Kennedy) commending him for his efforts" in arranging a cease-fire between Indonesia and Malaysia. Johnson added he looks forward to a report from Kennedy when the attorney general returns Tuesday from his special peace-making assignment.

—CIVIL RIGHTS: "We are very happy about the progress being made in civil rights." He added he is hopeful "that we would get civil rights voted on in the House, (before Feb. 12) getting at least half the job done so that we could take it up as

Three African soldiers were killed and 20 wounded in the renewal of violence at the barracks. The British troops restored order without casualties. Other troops took over an African base at Tabora, 400 miles west of Dar es Salaam.

Commandos were flown in from neighboring Kenya at the request of President Julius Nyerere of Tanganyika. He said he feared that a threatened general strike plus the new army flareup would bring bloody violence. Seventeen Africans were killed in rioting after last Monday's revolt.

Nyerere went on state radio to urge mutinous soldiers still in the bush to surrender and put down "foolish talk that the British have come back to rule Tanganyika." He said he would have asked help from Kenya or

Rusk Launches Talks On Asia With Japanese

TOKYO (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk is launching a three-day mission in Tokyo for President Johnson which could determine roles of the United States and Japan are to play in Asia during months of doubt ahead.

Originally scheduled as a routine economic conference with Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz playing the key parts, talks beginning Monday will be more concerned with repercussions throughout the Far East over France's imminent recognition of Red China.

Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira greeted the American officials at Haneda Airport late Saturday and said he was happy to see them because of the "moving tide of world development."

Fair Skies Due In Area Today

The weatherman predicted fair skies for Monroe and area residents today, with a continuance of the cool snap that moved in Saturday.

COOL

The mercury is expected to climb a little higher today than Saturday's high of 57. Maximum temperatures will range from 60 to 64 today with light breezes of 4 to 10 miles per hour, blowing from the southwest.

The fair, cool weather is expected to run through Monday. Saturday's low temperature was 39, while lows for tonight should be about the same.

CUBAN QUARANTINE

GOP Blasts LBJ About Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican Congressional Committee chairman accused the Johnson administration Saturday of abandoning the U.S. embargo policy against Cuba. The State Department called his charge "a total distortion of the facts."

The GOP leader, Rep. Bob Wilson of California, said in a statement that since Johnson became president 40 ships have been taken off the U.S. blacklist of free world vessels trading with Cuba.

State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips replied that only 15 ships have been removed from the blacklist, and these under conditions which in effect would reduce free world shipping with Cuba even more.

REBUTTAL

"The accusations of Rep. Wilson, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, are a total distortion of the facts concerning U.S. policy toward free world shipping to Cuba," the State Department spokesman said.

"It has been and remains the purposes of the U.S. government to reduce free world shipping to Cuba in every possible way."

Wilson said in his statement: "Our ban against the use of these ships for transport of U.S. government goods has been sacked. Our ostensibly firm policy toward Castro has been abandoned.

Cuba Requires Big Sugar Hike To Meet Goals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba will have to boost the sugar production by 50 per cent to meet Prime Minister Fidel Castro's announced commitment to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, according to figures compiled by U. S. officials.

Castro's Moscow visit was concluded with a Soviet-Cuban agreement under which Russia is to buy two million tons of Cuban sugar next year, three million tons in 1966, four million in 1964 and five million the following year. The announced price was six cents a pound.

Castro went on the air Friday night, exorting his fellow Cubans to step up production of sugar, the Caribbean island's main money earner.

Washington forecasters estimate Cuba's 1964 crop will be even lower—about 3.3 million tons—and that 1965 will see little increase.

FEUDS WITH PENTAGON

Small Phone Firm Produces Big War

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — When Edward Striegel first got into the communications business by trading a house trailer for a telephone firm in 1951 he never dreamed he some day would be at war with the Pentagon.

A quiet-mannered businessman with greying, close-cropped hair, a mustache and glasses, he moved to Idaho in 1950 to get away from the "rat race" in Barstow, Calif., where he had operated an electrical business.

Now 49, he was proud that in 13 years he had taken a magneto, manually-operated phone company serving 183 subscribers at Richfield, Idaho, and built it into a business serving 700 subscribers in three communities.

Two of his three children were attending the University of Idaho. He had a contract for special service to the Strategic Air Command. Business seemed to be prospering. He even started a phone company across the border in Owyhee, Nev.

Saturday, his business gem state utilities was in financial troubles and Striegel was in dutch: with the Air Force, the Pentagon, the Idaho Public Utilities Commission and, possibly, the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Frustrated because he could not get SAC to pay a $41,000 construction bill, he pulled the plug on two of the three Titan missile complexes at nearby Mountain Home Air Force Base. He cut off the phone service for more than an hour,

ECHO II SATELLITE

Largest Artificial Moonlet In Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A glittering new man-made star — the 13-story balloon satellite Echo 2—rocketed into the heavens Saturday.

Popping open in space some 800 miles above South Africa, the 135-foot diameter balloon became the largest artifical moonlet ever launched and was expected to be seen by more people than any other object ever made by man.

The United States and Russia have agreed to try to bounce radio signals off its reflective aluminum foil skin in the first joint experiment in communications via space between the two powers. A date for the first tests has not been set.

The huge balloon, carried aloft folded in a 30x40 inch pod in the nose of a Thor-Agena B booster at 5:59 a.m., was expected to become visible over the United States the first time early this evening when illuminated by rays from the sun below the horizon.

The U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration said a timetable of visibility in major cities would be announced today after the precise orbit is computed and compared with the earth's rotation.

Although Echo 2 is the largest satellite yet launched, it is far from the heaviest. Its 535 pounds are virtually all plastic and aluminum foil skin, except for a few pounds of small radio beacons to help scientists track the balloon on its two-hour circuits around the earth's poles.

The space agency said the balloon, visibile only in dawn and dusk conditions, would be seen first by people on the other side of the world.

Rains Threaten To Flood South

By United Press International

Torrential rains threatened to send streams out of their banks in the Southland Saturday following a night of tornadoes that killed nine persons.

The Pacific Northwest was drenched with up to four inches of rain, and snow and roaring winds brought blizzard conditions to portions of the Midwest.

A bus and a car collided head-on on a rain-slick highway near Augusta, Ga., Saturday, killing two persons and injuring at least 12 others.

Rain and thunderstorms moved northward into New England.

A Friday night tornado at Harpersville, Ala., left at least nine persons dead and several homes demolished. Other twisters struck at Frisbie, Mo.; Gorgas, Ala.; Marmaduke, Ark., and Fort Knox, Ky.

PRESIDENTIAL RACES

Solons List '64 Ticket Choices

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON (Special) — Members of Congress believe that Johnson-Shriver and Goldwater-Scranton tickets would be the strongest their respective parties could field for the 1964 Presidential election.

In a poll conducted by Congressional Quarterly, each member of Congress was asked in mid-January to report on his "current judgment of the strongest possible ticket" his party could nominate in 1964.

Democrats were virtually unanimous in picking President Lyndon B. Johnson as their party's best 1964 standard bearer. Of the 144 Democrats who responded to the poll, 143 voted for Johnson and 1 for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D Minn.).

The Republican balloting, based on 113 replies received, was closer. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R Ariz.) ran far ahead of the field, with 50 votes but failed to obtain an absolute majority. Running in second place for the GOP Presidential nod was Gov. William W. Scranton (R Pa.), 23 votes, trailed closely by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 20 votes.

Smaller numbers of Republican Presidential votes were cast for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller (R N.Y.), Gov. George W. Romney (R Mich.) and Rep. Gerald R. Ford Jr. (R Mich.).

Single GOP votes were cast for Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R Maine), Sen. Thruston B. Morton (R Ky.) and former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey (R N.Y.), the 1944 and 1948 Republican Presidential nominee.

Goldwater ran strongly in the South (7 of 10 votes) in the Midwest (24 of 29 votes) and in the West (16 of 24 votes). But in the East he garnered only 2 of the 37 votes cast. Scranton received 17 of the Eastern votes but only scattered support elsewhere. The Nixon votes were concentrated in the East and Midwest, with only 2 Western and 3 Southern votes in his favor.

The Democratic Members' choice of their strongest Vice Presidential nominee was divided. Peace Corps Director R. Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of the late President Kennedy and a close associate of President Johnson, received 45 votes, 31.3 percent of the 144 cast. But Sen. Humphrey had 42 votes, close behind Shriver.

Surprisingly, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy ran far behind in the Democratic Vice Presidential balloting with only 5 members in favor of him. Other candidates who received scattered support included Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D Minn.), United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, Gov. Edmund G. Brown (D Calif.), Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff (D Conn.) and New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner (D).

Many Democratic Congressmen declined to indicate a choice for Vice President, saying the final selection would be made by President Johnson anyway.

Shriver's support was strong in each section of the country, including the South.

Republican Members picked Scranton as their choice for the strongest Vice Presidential nominee, but the votes were widely scattered. Running closest behind Scranton were Morton, Romney and Goldwater, followed by Ford, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R Calif.), Gov. Mark Hatfield (R Ore.), former Rep. Walter H. Judd (R Minn.), Lodge, Rockefeller and Republican National Chairman William E. Miller.

Of Scranton's 21 votes for Vice President, 12 were cast by Midwesterners, many of whom had backed Goldwater for the first slot. Morton was second with 13 votes.

In similar Congressional Quarterly polls conducted before the 1960 Presidential nominating conventions, Johnson steadily built up Congressional support to 54 per cent just before the conventions. But John F. Kennedy, who won only 20 per cent of the Members' votes as his party's strongest Presidential candidate, actually won the nomination. Kennedy had been picked by 63 per cent of his Democratic Congressional colleagues, however, as the strongest nominee for Vice President.

On the Republican side, Nixon was always comfortably ahead although a surprise surge of strength gave Rockefeller 28 per cent of the Republican Congressmen's votes in June 1960.

Corrosion Short Course Slated For Shreveport

The Shreveport Section of the National Association of Corrosion Engineers will hold its Eleventh Corrosion Short Course Tuesday and Wednesday at Centenary College, Shreveport.

The official opening of the short course will be at 8:30 a.m., Tuesday. General Chairman D. A. Tefankjian will open the short course and introduce Dr. John B. Entrikin of Centenary College. The welcoming address will be given by Mayor Clyde E. Fant of Shreveport.

The first day of classes will consist of basic corrosion and control fundamentals. Included will be a soil box demonstration, films on the nature of corrosion, cathodic protection and coatings principles. The classes on the second day will be divided into two main groups: Pipeline and Distribution Corrosion Control, and Oil and Gas Well Corrosion Control.

This short course is designed to benefit anyone having corrosion problems with underground metallic structures, well equipment and tank bottoms. This includes personnel of independent distribution, pipeline and production companies as well as the major oil and gas companies. The classes will be conducted by a staff of experts in the field of corrosion control who will make available practical knowledge of the causes of corrosion and mitigation measures.

The registration fee will be $15, which includes lunch both days and a banquet to be held Tuesday evening.

DENIES BAKER DEALINGS

Senator Explains Mortgage Gotten With Help Of Agent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Church, (D) Idaho, said Saturday that Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent who has figured prominently in the Robert G. Baker case, helped him obtain a mortgage on his home and sold him insurance on the property.

Church said Baker, who was secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority before he resigned under fire on Oct. 7, referred him to Reynolds.

"In the course of the whole transaction, I asked for no special favors, and so far as I know, I got none," Church said in a statement.

"As to Mr. Baker," he added, "I have never been involved in any of his business or financial transactions in any way whatsoever."

The Senate Rules Committee is investigating whether Baker engaged in outside business dealings that conflicted with his official duties or involved other improprieties.

Earlier last week the committee made public testimony in which Reynolds said that at Baker's request he arranged a mortgage loan through which Church financed the purchase of a home in suburban Bethesda, Md.

Reynolds also testified that he sold $200,000 in insurance policies on the life of President Johnson when Johnson was Senate Democratic leader and in 1959 at Baker's request had sent Johnson, a stereo set that cost $584.75 including installation charges.

Johnson told a news conference Thursday that the record player was from Baker. He described his former protege as an old friend and said they had exchanged gifts before.

At a news conference Saturday, the President returned to the stereo incident long enough to say he had nothing to add and that it was for the Senate to determine if the case had created a major ethical problem in government.

Asked what he thought of Republican criticism of him and his relations with Baker, Johnson said "I've learned to expect Republican criticism." He said he had been on the receiving end during his 32 years in government and is "amused" by the criticism sometimes.

Johnson made no mention at Saturday's news conference — nor had he at Thursday's—of Reynolds' testimony that Johnson must have known the phonograph was from him because the invoice showed the charges as having been billed to Don Reynolds.

The Rules Committee is to resume its public hearings Tuesday with testimony from Max H. Karl, president of the Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Co. of Milwaukee.

Baker has been shown in prior testimony to have profited handsomely from buying the company's stock. Its price soared after the firm received a favorable tax ruling from the Internal Revenue Service.

L. P. McLendon, the committee's special counsel, told newsmen he is "shooting to wind up" the inquiry into Baker's affairs by the middle of next month.

This may not be possible, however. Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, the senior Republican member of the committee, recently said the investigation might extend into May or June.

Church said in his statement that when he came here in 1957, after his election to the Senate, he and his wife found a house they liked in Bethesda and he asked Baker "if he could recommend a local insurance agency through which I might obtain proper coverage on the property."

"Baker referred me to Mr. Reynolds, who put me in touch with the Perpetual Building Association, a savings and loan bank in Washington, from which I obtained my loan," Church said.

"It was a 20-year, monthly payment loan at 5 per cent interest, the then prevailing rate for a loan of this kind. The loan was fully secured by a first mortgage on the property.

"My monthly loan payment is $198. The balance on the loan as of Jan. 8, 1964, was $23,976.30 which means that the Perpetual Building Association is still the principal owner of the property.

"I bought a comprehensive house-holders insurance policy from the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. through the Reynolds agency. The premium on the policy amounts to $10 a month, out of which I presume Mr. Reynolds receives the usual salesman's commission."

Reynolds told the Rules Committee that Baker is listed as a vice president of his insurance agency and that he has paid Baker around $15,000 for helping him to secure business.

Reds Hitting More 'Copters

Editor's Note — Communist guerrillas in the South Vietnamese war are sharpening their marksmanship on U.S. helicopters. This is the story of one helicopter dubbed "Geisha Girl" by the American crew. It flew its mission Thursday and near the end was hit by a single Communist bullet and brought down. AP correspondent Malcolm W. Browne was aboard.

CA MAU, South Viet Nam (AP)—There was a splintering explosion, the engine stopped and someone yelled, "We're going in."

The H21 troop-carrying helicoper was badly hit, but no one knew at the time that all the damage had been caused by just one enemy bullet that happened to hit the worst place.

The crew chief and gunner both were at their weapons, spraying tracers through the rice fields and scrub growth below us.

The big helicopter — "Geisha Girl," the crew had named it—was from the 121st Aviation Co. It had spent the day running a particularly dangerous kind of field operation called "Eagle Flights" without picking up a single bullet hole.

"Geisha Girl" had also brought some supplies to Nam Can, a town 30 miles south of here that had been heavily attacked and damaged by the Viet Cong during the night. Seven South Vietnamese were dead, 16 wounded.

The day was almost over, and Geisha Girl was only two miles out of Ca Mau air strip, home base for the operation. Helicopters had been making the same approach to the air strip all day long without incident, and the crew was almost ready to relax when the slug hit.

"That old Viet Cong must have been mighty happy to see what his one shot did to us," Pfc. Edward Weglarz, Haddonfield, N.J., said later. Weglarz was one of the gunners.

As the gunners poured fire into the area where the helicopter was about to crash, the pilot, Capt. Joseph Campbell, Drexel Hill, Pa., threw the two overhead rotors into "auto rotation," a kind of free wheeling technique that keeps helicopters from dropping like rocks when their engines quit.

The ground came up fast. Campbell skimmed the banana-shaped craft over a high dike, and then pulled the nose up sharply to flair the ship out on soft ground. It bumped down into a bramble patch, and everything was suddenly very silent.

No one was hurt. Weglarz and the other gunner, Pfc. David M. Sands, Gassaway, W.Va. were out the doors in a few seconds, setting up a defense perimeter.

Submachine guns at the ready, the two men crouched in the brambles waiting to parry an expected attack. The pilot and copilot were moving out of their cockpit by now, weapons in hand.

Machine guns, ammunition and other items had to be moved out of the crippled H21 quickly, to avoid the possibility of Viet Cong capture.

It all went smoothly, quickly and silently. The expected enemy fire never began.

The one bullet had gone in the the rear gunner and this passenger, rippled through four vital engine control cables and an oil pressure line, bounced against some other parts, and gone out through the otherside.

But within a minute or so after the crash landing, a second H21 was on the ground, and a hasty scramble through the brush brought everyone aboard it. One minute later, everyone was lighting up cigarettes at Ca Mau air strip, and a company of South Vietnamese troops was on its way out to post security around the downed Geisha Girl.

Officer Wants To Use Stocks

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Police Chief Norman Frost would revive the stocks, a penalty not used in England since 1865, for vandals who wreck street lamps, road signs and such. "It wouldn't be a bad idea," he told an audience, "to put some of them in stocks and make a laughing stock of them." Stocks are usually seen now only in cartoons about punishment of American Pilgrim misdeeds.

This may not be possible, however. Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, the senior Republican member of the committee, recently said the investigation might extend into May or June.

Church said in his statement that when he came here in 1957, after his election to the Senate, he and his wife found a house they liked in Bethesda and he asked Baker "if he could recommend a local insurance agency through which I might obtain proper coverage on the property."

"Baker referred me to Mr. Reynolds, who put me in touch with the Perpetual Building Association, a savings and loan bank in Washington, from which I obtained my loan," Church said.

"It was a 20-year, monthly payment loan at 5 per cent interest, the then prevailing rate for a loan of this kind. The loan was fully secured by a first mortgage on the property.

"My monthly loan payment is $198. The balance on the loan as of Jan. 8, 1964, was $23,976.30 which means that the Perpetual Building Association is still the principal owner of the property.

"I bought a comprehensive house-holders insurance policy from the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. through the Reynolds agency. The premium on the policy amounts to $10 a month, out of which I presume Mr. Reynolds receives the usual salesman's commission."

Reynolds told the Rules Committee that Baker is listed as a vice president of his insurance agency and that he has paid Baker around $15,000 for helping him to secure business.

Reds Hitting More 'Copters

Editor's Note — Communist guerrillas in the South Vietnamese war are sharpening their marksmanship on U.S. helicopters. This is the story of one helicopter dubbed "Geisha Girl" by the American crew. It flew its mission Thursday and near the end was hit by a single Communist bullet and brought down. AP correspondent Malcolm W. Browne was aboard.

CA MAU, South Viet Nam (AP)—There was a splintering explosion, the engine stopped and someone yelled, "We're going in."

The H21 troop-carrying helicoper was badly hit, but no one knew at the time that all the damage had been caused by just one enemy bullet that happened to hit the worst place.

The crew chief and gunner both were at their weapons, spraying tracers through the rice fields and scrub growth below us.

The big helicopter — "Geisha Girl," the crew had named it— was from the 121st Aviation Co. It had spent the day running a particularly dangerous kind of field operation called "Eagle Flights" without picking up a single bullet hole.

"Geisha Girl" had also brought some supplies to Nam Can, a town 30 miles south of here that had been heavily attacked and damaged by the Viet Cong during the night. Seven South Vietnamese were dead, 16 wounded.

The day was almost over, and Geisha Girl was only two miles out of Ca Mau air strip, home base for the operation. Helicopters had been making the same approach to the air strip all day long without incident, and the crew was almost ready to relax when the slug hit.

"That old Viet Cong must have been mighty happy to see what his one shot did to us," Pfc. Edward Weglarz, Haddonfield, N.J., said later. Weglarz was one of the gunners.

As the gunners poured fire into the area where the helicopter was about to crash, the pilot, Capt. Joseph Campbell, Drexel Hill, Pa., threw the two overhead rotors into "auto rotation," a kind of free wheeling technique that keeps helicopters from dropping like rocks when their engines quit.

The ground came up fast. Campbell skimmed the banana-shaped craft over a high dike, and then pulled the nose up sharply to flair the ship out on soft ground. It bumped down into a bramble patch, and everything was suddenly very silent.

No one was hurt. Weglarz and the other gunner, Pfc. David M. Sands, Gassaway, W.Va. were out the doors in a few seconds, setting up a defense perimeter.

Submachine guns at the ready, the two men crouched in the brambles waiting to parry an expected attack. The pilot and copilot were moving out of their cockpit by now, weapons in hand.

Machine guns, ammunition and other items had to be moved out of the crippled H21 quickly, to avoid the possibility of Viet Cong capture.

It all went smoothly, quickly and silently. The expected enemy fire never began.

The one bullet had gone in the the rear gunner and this passenger, rippled through four vital engine control cables and an oil pressure line, bounced against some other parts, and gone out through the otherside.

But within a minute or so after the crash landing, a second H21 was on the ground, and a hasty scramble through the brush brought everyone aboard it. One minute later, everyone was lighting up cigarettes at Ca Mau air strip, and a company of South Vietnamese troops was on its way out to post security around the downed Geisha Girl.

Officer Wants To Use Stocks

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Police Chief Norman Frost would revive the stocks, a penalty not used in England since 1865, for vandals who wreck street lamps, road signs and such. "It wouldn't be a bad idea," he told an audience, "to put some of them in stocks and make a laughing stock of them." Stocks are usually seen now only in cartoons about punishment of American Pilgrim misdeeds.

Domestic Peace Corps Opposed

By SAM HANNA
Political Editor

Two officers of Optimist International spoke out Saturday against the government's Domestic Peace Corps at a two-state meeting here attended by over 100 delegates.

Dr. Hunter Rentz, an international director, of Columbia, S. C. and Charles Campbell, district governor, of Little Rock, Ark. agreed that civic clubs could do what the Domestic Peace Corps intends to do.

"We feel like we have enough voluntary man - power to fulfill the needs of administering to the community problems," Dr. Rentz said. "Some of the backward countries that do not have the manpower may need the Domestic Peace Corps, but this country certainly doesn't."

Campbell described the corps as an "encroachment by the federal government into areas that belong to civic clubs."

Dr. Rentz noted that Optimist International, at its last convention, adopted a resolution that said the Domestic Peace Corps was a "tendency on the part of government" to depart from the "functions of government created by and responsible to a free people."

"We don't need to replace our civic clubs with a group representing the Domestic Peace Corps," he explained.

Campbell, who heads the Optimist district of Arkansas and Louisiana, said he thought civic clubs were "doing a better job today," but he added, "They have a bigger job to do in the future."

He said civic clubs face a bigger job because of the population growth in urban areas.

"With growth comes problems," Campbell said.

He pointed out that the membership in Optimist International was growing, emphasizing that the civic organization had expanded into "more community service."

"Our slogan, 'Friend of the Boy,' is still being carried out, but we are also expanding into more community service," Campbell said.

Over 100 delegates from Louisiana and Arkansas are attending the two - day meeting at the Penn Hotel. The Monroe Optimist Club is serving as the host club.

Campbell pointed out that the meeting would be the last for the Arkansas - Louisiana district before the May convention when the district will be divided.

A banquet and dance highlighted the activities Saturday while a general session and a luncheon will wrap up the program today.

Police Follow Fatal Trail Of Poisoned Man

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—Police Saturday began backtracking the route a Texas man travelled into Alabama in December before he was found dead in the baggage compartment of his automobile.

State investigator B. J. Gatlin said the check for the route was started when a toxologist reported the body of Jerry Gelner, 49, "was loaded with strychnine."

Gelner's body was found in his car trunk here Dec. 17, curled up as if he were asleep.

Police said there were no marks or bruises on the blanket-covered body.

Gatlin said the reports "opens up all kinds of avenues for investigation."

He said his office was attempting to find the road Gelner used in Alabama in hopes of tracing the poison or determining if anyone was with him.

Mississippi Hails Speech By Governor

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Choruses of satisfaction sounded from various segments of Mississippi in response to the inauguration speech of Gov. Paul Johnson.

The business community was generous in praising the economic tenure of the new chief executive's speech, an Associated Press survey showed.

Telegram response received at the governor's mansion, a Johnson aide said, showed that supporters as well as critics were caught up in a draft of satisfaction for the governor's speech.

Editorial response of several Mississippi newspapers that were checked by the survey showed support to the message.

The Jackson Clarion-Ledger said the speech was "bold." The newspaper, a strong backer of Johnson during the campaign, said "both national press services seized upon Johnson's reference that prejudice, hate or ignorance, will not lead Mississippi while he sat on the governor's chair."

The Gulfport-Biloxi Daily Herald said "Gov. Johnson is to be commended for his determination and deserves the wholehearted support of the citizenry in his desire to fulfill this ambition."

The Gulf Coast newspaper referred to Johnson's stand that "hate or prejudice or ignorance will not lead Mississippi while he was in the governor's chair."

The Herald said "If Johnson achieves only this during the tenure of his office, he will have rendered Mississippi a tremendous service.'

Gov. Johnson is taking his initial steps in the right direction, may he continue to follow a progressive course in the four years ahead," the Herald said

The Northside Reporter newspaper said editorially that Gov. Johnson "outlined a program that will expand and accelerate the rate of economic progress and growth in our state."

RECORD PROFIT YEAR

AFL-CIO Urges Wage Hike Drives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The AFL-CIO urged its affiliated unions Saturday to drive for sizable wage increases this year because profits are at record peaks.

The federation also echoed the call for price reductions sounded by President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers in its annual report to Congress.

An editorial in the AFL-CIO News, official weekly publication, said that productivity in key industries has outstripped wage gains during the past two years. Chief AFL-CIO economist Nathaniel Goldfinger forecast an 11 per cent increase in profits after taxes in 1964 to bring corporation earnings to a record-high $30 billion.

Goldfinger predicted that profits would rise twice as fast as the increase in total national production for the third consecutive year.

Settlement of the national trucking contract by Teamsters President James R. Hoffa on the basis of a 45-cent-an-hour wage-fringe package in a three-year contract also is spurring AFL-CIO enthusiasm for bigger pay gains.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, is expected to seek a hefty increase from automobile producers this summer in the major bargaining scheduled in 1964.

Police To Compare Stranglers Prints

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Police said Saturday that 150 fingerprints taken at a home where Oakland's 1963 "mother of the year" and daughter were strangled will be checked against fingerprints of a suspected Boston strangler.

The Boston fingerprints were brought out Friday by the chief of Boston's homicide squad, Lt. John Donovan.

Donovan's primary interest, however, was reported to involve questioning a suspect in 11 unsolved Boston stranglings. San Francisco police said such a suspect has been located in their city but has not been arrested.

All officials emphasized the chances were about one in 100 of any connection between the Boston stranglings and those last Wednesday of an Oakland osteopath's wife, Mary Elizabeth Martin, 43, and her daughter, Carolyn, 18.

Officers pointed out that many of the Boston victims were left in suggestive, propped-up positions and that camera film foil wrapper was found, possibly meaning the sadistic slayer photographed his crimes. None of this applied to the Martin slayings.

Donovan talked briefly Friday with Oakland Police Chief Edward Toothman. But the Boston officer took up Fairmont Hotel quarters in San Francisco, tight-lipped to reporters as to his next move—or when he would make it.

San Francisco's chief of police inspectors, Cornelius Murphy, said Massachusetts authorities had telephoned a request to locate the suspect before Donovan came out.

It was just a coincidence, Murphy pointed out, that the call came the same day Mrs. Martin and her daughter were strangled. The call was made before the Oakland crime was discovered.

There was an angle to the Martin case which supported suspicion of a sex motive.

Carolyn Martin's undergarments had been ripped off. But Oakland police still have not determined whether she was raped.

Nothing was missing from the Martin home, but it previously had been burglarized.

Police suspect Mrs. Martin and her daughter were strangled by a man or men the women surprised when they came home from having their dog inocculated.

Mrs. Martin was struck over the head with a glass ash tray with such force that it shattered. Carolyn was beaten up. Both victims were tied up, hands behind them, one leg bent far back and the foot bound in a crude hogtie fashion. An electric cord was used on Mrs. Martin. Carolyn's knotted nylon stockings were used to tie her.

Both deaths were by strangulation.

Donovan was reported to have brought along two prints of the suspected Boston strangler, one a thumb, one of a single finger.

San Francisco police said a sketch was used to help locate the Boston suspect in the area.

"They have located the man but have not questioned him," Murphy said.

"I don't think he knows he's been located."

Johnson Attends Reception For Barbara Boggs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson attended the wedding reception Saturday of Miss Barbara Boggs and Paul Eugene Sigmund, an associate professor at Princeton University.

The President motored to the home of the bride's parents, Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., and Mrs. Boggs, where more than a thousand people had assembled after wedding ceremonies earlier in the day at the Shrine of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Boggs is Democratic whip of the House.

Mrs. Johnson attended the wedding ceremonies and then drove to the Boggs home for the reception. The President showed up there several hours later.

He said, "This wedding is a lot different from when Lady Bird and I were married. She didn't tell me she would marry me until we were going into the church and even then I wasn't sure she meant it.

"I was caught without a ring, so I went across the street to Sears-Roebuck and got one."

Johnson said it turned out to be a mighty beautiful ring.

"I don't want to put in a commercial," Johnson said, "but there's nothing wrong with a Sears ring."

Johnson stayed at the Boggs home about 25 minutes. Upon arrival he shook hands with many of the guests as he walked up the driveway, and also with several young girls who had gathered at the door to see him.

The Boggs live in nearby suburban Bethesda, Md. The 1,500 invited guests created a big traffic jam as they approached the home.

RFK To Give Anglo Talks

LONDON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy visited the grave of his sister in northern England Saturday, then prepared to resume talks with British officials on his Malaysia peace mission.

In talks set for Sunday, Kennedy was expected to try to convince British leaders of his belief that President Sukarno of Indonesia will live up to a cease-fire in the jungle isle of Borneo.

Kennedy will be a luncheon guest at Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's official country residence at Chequers. Aslo there will be Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler, Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft and U.S. Ambassador David Bruce.

Kennedy arrived in London Friday after reaching the cease-fire agreement with Sukarno during a whirlwind week of negotiations in Asia.

The cease-fire becomes effective in nine days. By then the foreign ministers of Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines will be ready to get together for a conference to end the Malaysian-Indonesian dispute.

The British whose troops are defending the Malaysian border are still skeptical of Sukarno's promises.

Kennedy has no intention of raising the possibility of the withdrawal of British troops. Britain contends the 6,000 troops are there in a purely defensive role on the Malaysian side of the border.

Kennedy will place before the Chequers meeting the Indonesian attitude concerning British policy in Malaysia.

Sukarno considers Malaysia a British puppet and is said to be convinced that the British want to overthrow his regime. This the British government denies.

Before its independence, Malaya, which became the foundation of Malaysia, was a British protectore. Britain still has a naval base in Singapore, one of the member states of Malaysian federation. The other states are North Borneo, now called Sabah, and Sarawak on the island of Borneo. Malaysia, formed Sept. 16, has 10 million people and reaches for 1,500 miles along the South China Sea.

The Indonesians charge that Malaysia was hastily formed four days before a U.N. team could complete a survey of the peoples' desires.

From Manila came a report Saturday quoting an informed Philippine source that Indonesia has made two suggestions for settling the Malaysia problem.

One is that a full-scale referendum be held in North Borneo and Sarawak to determine whether the people wish to remain in Malaysia. This referendum, the source said, could be held after five years.

The other suggestion is that the states be declared independent within the British Commonwealth.

Kennedy spent most of Saturday travelling by plane to visit the grave of his sister.

He was delayed in the morning fog over London Airport but after driving to the airport at a snail's pace he flew with his wife, Ethel, to Hucknall in Nottinghamshire. There a helicopter took them to Chatsworth where his sister Katherine, the Marchioness of Hartington, is buried. She was killed in a plane crash in 1948.

ORDER LIFTED

PNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI) — The official news agency said Saturday an order excluding foreign newsmen from this country has been lifted at least temporarily because of the expected meeting here next month of Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal and Malaysian Premier Abdul Rahman.

The agency said that, effective today, all newsmen regardless of nationality will be allowed to visit Cambodia. Visiting newsmen may remain in the country until a week after Rahman and Macapagal leave.

SHOWN IN A SCENE from the hit musical comedy, "The Boys from Syracuse," are Chet Sommers and Carole Woodruff. In its first national tour, the musical is coming to Monroe on Feb. 4 as a Northeast State Concerts Association presentation. The single performance will be at Neville High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. Admittance will be by membership only. Northeast State College students may obtain tickets by presenting fall semester ID cards at the hostess' desk in the College Union Building or at the Fine Arts office in Biedenharn Hall on the campus, or at the doors immediately before the performance.

Look at it this way: 8% is nearly 78% greater than 4½%. Or, figured in dollars, if your funds now earn $100 in annual interest, they could be earning $177.77 in interest at Affiliated Investment Corporation. Big difference, isn't it?

And, Affiliated's big 8% annual interest rate works just as well, percentage wise, for small investors as it does for larger accounts. Interest is computed and paid 12 times a year—on the first of each month.

Earnings aren't everything, of course. You must consider the Company you're doing business with. Affiliated, since its inception, has had a perfect record of interest payments to its investors and requests for funds have always been met immediately.

Why not open (or add to) your Affiliated Investment Corporation Investment account now? If you prefer, invest by mail; we pay postage both ways. In January, funds placed by the 31st will earn from the 1st. If you want to increase your Investment income, earn that big 8% at Affiliated. It isn't hay.

ACCUSED OF SNIPER-RIFLE SLAYING

Beckwith Trial For Murder Begins Monday At Jackson

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Byron De La Beckwith goes on trial Monday for murder in the rifle slaying of Negro leader Evers last June.

A sniper's bullet killed Evers on his carport as he returned home around midnight from a rally at the height of last summer's racial demonstrations in Jackson.

Evers was field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Sheriff Fred Pickett plans extraordinary courtroom safety measures, fearful the trial may rekindle some of the racial bitterness that ran through them after the slaying.

Officers will search everyone who enters the small court room, he said. The court room seats about 300.

Aaron Henry, state president of the NAACP, urged Negroes to turn out in large numbers to attend the trial.

Charles Evers, Medgar's brother who succeeded him as NAACP field secretary, said he planned to attend.

Another civil rights organization has discussed staging a voter registration drive while the trial is under way. Voter applicants sign up in the same building where the trial will be held.

FBI agents arrested Beckwith, 43, a fertilizer salesman from Greenwood, Miss., 11 days after the shooting. They said a fingerprint on a telescopic sight led them to Beckwith.

The FBI said the telescopic sight was attached to the rifle they believe the killer used from ambush.

At Greenwood, Beckwith's acquaintances described him as an outspoken advocate of racial segregation. He's a member of the Citizens Council and took part in passing out segregation literature.

The presiding judge and chief attorneys for both sides are natives of Mississippi.

Circuit Judge Leon Hendrick, 69, received his law degree from the University of Mississippi and began practicing in Jackson after Army service in France in World War I. He was appointed to the bench in 1954.

Beckwith's chief counsel is Hardy Lott, a former president of the Citizens Council in Beckwith's hometown of Greenwood. Lott, 55, also is city attorney at Greenwood. He has served three times as a delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

Dist. Atty. Bill Waller, 37, is a seventh-generation Mississippian. He's serving his second term.

Officials have indicated the jury venire includes Negroes.

Seventeen white men and one Negro made up the grand jury that indicted Beckwith.

Evers was returning home from a civil rights rally, and had just stepped out of his car, when the shot rang out.

The bullet tore through Evers from the back, crashed through a window and a wall in the house, bounced around the kitchen and came to rest on a counter.

Inside the house, Evers' wife and their three children dropped to the floor at the sound of the shot—something that Evers, a target of threats throughout the tense period, had told them to do.

Evers, mortally wounded, staggered toward the door. He called weakly for help as he fell, leaving a trail of blood.

Behind him a bundle of shirts bearing the legend "Jim Crow must go" lay scattered about.

"The children came out and tried to talk to their daddy," Ever's wife said later.

The couple had three children — Darrell Kenyatta, 10, named for the present prime minister of Kenya, Denise, 8, and Van Dyke, 3.

An ambulance took Evers to a hospital, where he died.

The FBI said it traced Beckwith through 15,000 Japanese telescopic rifle sights — one of which was attached to a 30.06 Enfield rifle Jackson police found in a field across from Evers' house.

The agents said three of the sights had been sold to a gun dealer at Grenada, Miss.—and one had been traded to Beckwith.

They said a fingerprint on the sight matched the fingerprints on file in Beckwith's service record.

Although a native of Colusa, Calif., Beckwith is a member of a pioneer family in Mississippi's Delta and lived most of his life in the cotton country of northwest Mississippi.

A Marine in World War II, he was wounded trying to wade ashore at Tarawa.

Bridge Digest Of Conventions Book Now Out

A revised and enlarged edition of "The Bridge Players Digest of Conventions" has recently been issued. It is thoroughly up to date and thoroughly worth reading.

Some 32 of the more widely used conventions are abstracted, with examples. In additon, there is an official A. C. B. L. classification of conventions, an IMP scale, a brief summary of the more important changes in the laws, and excellent commentary on ethics, and an explanation (by Richard L. Frey) of some of the social differences between party bridge and duplicate which may make the latter seem a bit less of a jungle to the casual player.

There is a lot of information in this purse-size book, and it gives a great deal of value for a modest asking price.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Books Now In Parish Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library are offered a number of interesting new books this week, among which there are several significant and exciting novels. Leading the list is Robert Wilder's new book "Wind from the Carolinas." This book has it's setting in the Bahama Islands and is concerned with the fortunes and adventures of wealthy Tory families from Georgia, The Carolinas and Virginia, who settled in the Bahamas after the American Revolution. It is particuarly devoted to the adventures of the Cameron Family and continues their story through several generations. We meet them during the blockade running period of the American Civil War and the rum-running period of the prohibition era. This is a long, well-written book and one which I predict will be extremely popular.

An extremely modern novel is "The Governor" by Peter S. Jennison. It is the story of conflict between two powerful men of different idealogies. It is a book which gives much information about the inside facets of power. You will want to read this and will find it exciting. Readers of the "Angelique" series by Sergeanne Golon will welcome another book in this series. The title is "Angelique in Love". In this book, we again find a brilliant picture of seventeenth century French life and although these books do not appeal to everyone, there is a devoted following who wants to read each one as it is published. A delightful novel, for those who likes to read about the more stable world of the previous generation is "Sing For Your Supper" written by Pamela Frankau. The setting is English and the family is a perfectly delightful one. This is a book which many people will enjoy reading.

In the field of factural material there are a number of unusual new books. "The Disenchanted Unionist" by Paul Sultan is a scathing indictment of the way many of the labor unions are run, by a man who left his union. "Learning and Human Abilities" by Herbert Klausmeier is a new book in the field of teacher education. A book which will be used a great deal next Christmas (it arrived too late this year) is "The Joyful Christmas Craft Book" by Kathryn Seibel. This book gives all sorts of ideas for making Christmas presents and decorations.

New books in the field of gardening are always in demand. The latest one is "Cacti and Succulents" by Walther Haage. This book contains directions for growing these plants and for using them in arrangements. An interesting discussion of American cookery is "Monstrous Depravity" written by John Gould. "Rodin" by Albert E. Elsen is a very fine biography of the artist and contains much valuble information. For the person interested in buying oriental rugs, a very fine new handy guide is available. It is "Oriental Rugs in Colour" and the author is Preben Liebetrau. A book which would be very useful to a musician travelling in italy is "Musical Iitaly Revisted" by Siegmund Levarie.

A very scholarly new book of history is "The Rise of the West" by William H. McNeill. It is an excellent history of the development of Western civilization and should be most useful to the scholar. "African Creeks I Have Been Up" by Sue Spencer is a humorous account of living in Africa, written by an adventurous Englishwoman.

There are several new biographies this week "Bossuet" by Ernest Edwin Reynolds is a biography of the important seventeenth century churchman. There are also three modern biographies which are political in tone, "James Forrestal" by Arnold A. Rogow gives much information about the period in which Mr. Forrestal served in our government. "John Foster Dulles: The Last Year" is a very fine biography written by Eleanor Lansing Dulles, while James Desmond is the author of "Nelson A. Rockefeller" a political biography.

Characters On The Stage In New Book

A WINTER'S TALE. By Nathaniel Benchley. McGraw-Hill. $4.50.

Summer theater is a well-established attraction for vacationers in New England. Benchley has given it the switch, with a comic novel about winter theater for the natives.

One nice thing about Benchley's succession of novels is that he gives you comedy that is funny, not bitter; comedy that makes use of amusing human beings instead of the neurotic sewer inhabitants cluttering so many of the ultraliterary novels of the day.

The scene is an island community in which an autocratic old spinster, Miss Warren, has organized an amateur theater in order to enliven the long winter, when the local residents practically hibernate while they await the next tourist-catching season. Hired to run this outfit is one professional from New York, Dennis Pastor, a not-quite-successful and not-quite-young actor and director who needs a job.

Because there is a lot of ham in most of us, the people of this community get thoroughly steamed up over the play. Pastor finds himself running a real menagerie, including the restless wife of a stuffy businessman, a lecherous promoter, the fey maid of Miss Warren (and her feyer sister), the shy local druggist, an eccentric drifter filled with defense mechanisms, a pathetic old carpenter and many others.

The excitement of the footlights induces remarkable changes in the highly varied lives of the people involved. Disasters, frustrations and absurd phenomena occur.

Don't underrate this Benchley. You may think his very inventive twists of plot and character are no more than amusing sleight-of-hand. You may assume that his touches of irony and pathos at the right moments are rather transparent and unsurprising. But somehow in the midst of these seemingly facile tricks he manages to give a wry, casual flavor to tragi-comic themes that go beyond mere entertainment.

Read the book for old-fashioned, enjoyable, uncomplicated humor, if you like; there's plenty of it. But it may occur to you that Benchley in his cap and bells has made more sage observations on the human condition than a lot of the touted dispensers of psychiatric garbage who fill the literary scene these days.

Actors Who'll Do Anything

THE DEVIL'S PROFESSION. By Russel O'Neil. Simon & Schuster. $5.95.

In their anxious struggles to get their names up in Broadway lights, actors and actresses often have to sacrifice their personal lives—sometimes willingly, sometimes not. These sacrifices are the major theme of O'Neil's novel about the theater.

Most of the action is keyed to the efforts of producer Irving Straus — making one last effort for a come-back — to bring a play out of the summer theater wilderness into Broadway.

His guest star for the summer version is Miriam Croydon, and Straus persuades her that with a revised script the play can reach the big time. Miriam's personal problem is that for years she has been estranged from her husband, and for religious reasons cannot get a divorce. She is very successful on the stage, but would rather have a home and children.

The second lead is played by a beautiful young actress, Liz Goodyear. She and her fiance, an ambitious young director named David Roth, enter into marriage with the hope that their professional careers will not endanger their private lives, but the odds seem to be against them.

One young actor, Buck Tone, leaves the Straus roster for an off - Broadway show and is determined to fight his way to stardom in the theater or the movies at any cost. He is a handsome, self-centered heel who gets into a sordid episode with a major theatrical agent, and has no qualms about deserting the girl he has seduced.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

Events on the February calendar are packed to a point where we'd better take a look now or miss a feature event on one of the local stages.

The Northeast State Concerts association leads off the coming month's list of presentations with the Rodgers and Hart musical "The Boys from Syracuse." This one is set for Tuesday February 4, 8:15 p.m., at Neville auditorium.

On the same series, duo-pianists Whittemore and Lowe will play a concert at the same hour and auditorium on February 11, just one Tuesday after the "Boys from Syracuse."

The Chicago Opera Ballet is booked on the same series for Thursday, February 27.

Add to these the opening of Little Theatre's musical, "Once Upon a Mattress," set as of right now for simply "late February," and we have one more radiant stage all aglow for the month.

The choral groups at Ouachita Parish high and junior high are sponsoring a performance here of the well - known Concordia College Choir of Moorehead, Minnesota. Directed by Paul Christiansen, the choir is making an international tour. The local concert is slated for 8:30 p.m. Sunday, February 9.

I-20 WEST

Nailing down the loose boards after the Mexican Ballet Folklorico, the La. Tech Concert group will go Shakespeare in February. Performances of "Henry IV" by the National Touring Company of Canada are scheduled February 17 and 18, for public membership and students, respectively, in Howard Auditorium. Both performances will begin at 8 p.m.

Pianist Duchein Cazedessus of the Tech faculty has a program ready for presentation at 3 p.m. today in the Little Theatre of Howard Auditorium. A native of Baton Rouge, Cazedessus joined the Tech faculty in 1949. His program today includes C. M. von Weber's "Rondo Brilliante," piano transcriptions of three Chorale-Preludes by J. S. Bach, and "Scherzo in C-Sharp Minor" by Chopin.

NATIONAL ARTS

Just prior to Christmas, the U. S. Senate approved the "National Arts and Cultural Development Act of 1963," which is at once revealing and expensive.

Many persons have wondered why the United States does not operate a ministry of culture as is done in many other countries. Now that the bureau is on the verge of taking shape, it's easier to see why we shouldn't try such a thing at public expense at the federal level.

Maybe that's like saying "now that we've done it, we should have known better," but many ironies in life are that way. Besides, if the Senate has passed a bad law, it can be rewritten or voted out of business in the House.

National GOP Believes Lyons Will Be Elected

BATON ROUGE (AP) — National party leaders believe Republican Charlton H. Lyons Sr., Shreveport, will be elected governor in Louisiana's March 3 general election, a GOP official said Saturday.

I. Lee Potter, director of the GOP national committee's "Operation Dixie," spoke to the Louisiana State Republican Committee here.

Potter said an outstandingly qualified candidate has given Republicans their best chance in Louisiana in this century.

"With determination and fight," Potter said, "the Republican candidate may win."

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Books Now In Parish Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library are offered a number of interesting new books this week, among which there are several significant and exciting novels. Leading the list is Robert Wilder's new book "Wind from the Carolinas." This book has it's setting in the Bahama Islands and is concerned with the fortunes and adventures of wealthy Tory families from Georgia, The Carolinas and Virginia, who settled in the Bahamas after the American Revolution. It is particularly devoted to the adventures of the Cameron Family and continues their story through several generations. We meet them during the blockade running period of the American Civil War and the rum-running period of the prohibition era. This is a long, well-written book and one which I predict will be extremely popular.

An extremely modern novel is "The Governor" by Peter S. Jennison. It is the story of conflict between two powerful men of different idealogies. It is a book which gives much information about the inside facets of power. You will want to read this and will find it exciting. Readers of the "Angelique" series by Sergeanne Golon will welcome another book in this series. The title is "Angelique in Love". In this book, we again find a brilliant picture of seventeenth century French life and although these books do not appeal to everyone, there is a devoted following who wants to read each one as it is published. A delightful novel, for those who likes to read about the more stable world of the previous generation is "Sing For Your Supper" written by Pamela Frankau. The setting is English and the family is a perfectly delightful one. This is a book which many people will enjoy reading.

In the field of factural material there are a number of unusual new books. "The Disenchanted Unionist" by Paul Sultan is a scathing indictment of the way many of the labor unions are run, by a man who left his union. "Learning and Human Abilities" by Herbert Klausmeier is a new book in the field of teacher education. A book which will be used a great deal next Christmas (it arrived too late this year) is "The Joyful Christmas Craft Book" by Kathryn Seibel. This book gives all sorts of ideas for making Christmas presents and decorations.

New books in the field of gardening are always in demand. The latest one is "Cacti and Succulents" by Walther Haage. This book contains directions for growing these plants and for using them in arrangements. An interesting discussion of American cookery is "Monstrous Depravity" written by John Gould. "Rodin" by Albert E. Elsen is a very fine biography of the artist and contains much valuble information. For the person interested in buying oriental rugs, a very fine new handy guide is available. It is "Oriental Rugs in Colour" and the author is Preben Liebetrau. A book which would be very useful to a musician travelling in italy is "Musical Iitaly Revisted" by Siegmund Levarie.

A very scholarly new book of history is "The Rise of the West" by William H. McNeill. It is an excellent history of the development of Western civilization and should be most useful to the scholar. "African Creeks I Have Been Up" by Sue Spencer is a humorous account of living in Africa, written by an adventurous Englishwoman.

There are several new biographies this week "Bossuet" by Ernest Edwin Reynolds is a biography of the important seventeenth century churchman. There are also three modern biographies which are political in tone, "James Forrestal" by Arnold A. Rogow gives much information about the period in which Mr. Forrestal served in our government. "John Foster Dulles: The Last Year" is a very fine biography written by Eleanor Lansing Dulles, while James Desmond is the author of "Nelson A. Rockefeller" a political biography.

Actors Who'll Do Anything

THE DEVIL'S PROFESSION. By Russel O'Neil. Simon & Schuster. $5.95.

In their anxious struggles to get their names up in Broadway lights, actors and actresses often have to sacrifice their personal lives—sometimes willingly, sometimes not. These sacrifices are the major theme of O'Neil's novel about the theater.

Most of the action is keyed to the efforts of producer Irving Straus — making one last effort for a comeback — to bring a play out of the summer theater wilderness into Broadway.

His guest star for the summer version is Miriam Croydon, and Straus persuades her that with a revised script the play can reach the big time. Miriam's personal problem is that for years she has been estranged from her husband, and for religious reasons cannot get a divorce. She is very successful on the stage, but would rather have a home and children.

The second lead is played by a beautiful young actress, Liz Goodyear. She and her fiance, an ambitious young director named David Roth, enter into marriage with the hope that their professional careers will not endanger their private lives, but the odds seem to be against them.

One young actor, Buck Tone, leaves the Straus roster for an off - Broadway show and is determined to fight his way to stardom in the theater or the movies at any cost. He is a handsome, self-centered heel who gets into a sordid episode with a major theatrical agent, and has no qualms about deserting the girl he has seduced.

Letter Points Up Big-Farm Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—A letter mailed to this writer recently said:

"Dear Sir: I would like to get some free advice on a 120-acre farm. How to make ends meet without working out (off the farm). Milk at $3.03, hogs $13.75 and little pigs $8.00 (all per hundred pounds) please answer."

The letter was written by a farmer near Avon, Minn. It is a poignant expression of what's going on in agriculture. For most Americans evidence of this is seen only in statistics showing sharp declines in the number of people living on farms, a sharp increase in the size of big farms and an increase in the number of rural people living in poverty.

Of course there is little worthwhile advice that anyone in Washington could give this farmer without knowing more about the character of his farm and its operations.

But the time has long gone when it is possible for the average farmer—or even the above average one in ability—to make a living on 120 acres devoted to production of milk and hogs. Month by month, thousands of farms of this size are forced out of business.

Only this week, an Agriculture Department survey showed that the number of farmers in the United States declined 100,000 during 1963. An additional decline of that number was forecast for this year.

Why can't the small crop and livestock farms make a go of it? They are unable to produce enough volume to return them an adequate profit at today's farm price levels.

The writer of the letter reported getting $3.03 a hundred pounds for milk. That price compares with $4.18, the parity price goal of federal farm programs. His price of $13.75 a hundred pounds for hogs is only 60 per cent of the same goal. Of course, if market prices were at or close to parity, this farmer probably would be able to make ends meet. Parity is a measure of prices considered fair to a farmer in relation to his costs.

But the agricultural economy could not long live with prices at such levels without establishment of rigid government controls. There have never been controls on milk and livestock.

The problem facing the Minnesota farmer is being reflected in greater efforts on the part of the Agriculture Department to help develop employment opportunities for rual people no longer needed in agriculture. Increased work along this line is envisioned under President Johnson's program attacking poverty.

To the farmer who wrote this letter, what's been said offers him no assistance. Naturally, best thing for him to do is to the best thing for him to do is contact his county agricultural agent for advice.

JUDGE DIXON

Judge To Speak At Northeast's Commencement

Judge John A. Dixon Jr. of the First Judicial District, Division B, at Shreveport, will deliver Northeast Louisiana State College's first mid-year commencement address here on Saturday, Feb. 1, announced President George T. Walker.

Exercises will be held in Brown Hall auditorium at 2 p.m.

Some 100 candidates for bachelor's degrees and nine candidates for master's degrees are scheduled to participate in the commencement ceremonies. Degrees will be conferred by Dr. Walker. Clint O. Hanna, dean of instruction, will present the honor graduates.

The Rev. James R. Edwards, pastor of Parkview Baptist Church, Monroe, will pronounce the invocation and benediction. Music will be by Florence Ziegler Allbritton, organist, and Davis Bingham, bass-baritone, both of the Northeast State music faculty.

A reception honoring the graduates and their friends will be held immediately after the commencement exercises in the College Union Building.

The commencement speaker, a native of Texas, received his public school education in Shreveport. He earned his B. A. degree at Centenary there prior to active military service during World War II. After the war he entered law school at Tulane and received his LL. B. degree there in 1947.

He entered law practice in Shreveport after graduation. He became a district judge in 1957.

MODIFIED LOYALTY OATH

'Bama Demos Nip Anti-Electors Move

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A move to block Gov. George Wallace's plan to run a slate of unpledged electors in November's presidential election with the sponsorship of the state Democratic Party failed to win approval of the state Democratic Executive Committee Saturday.

After defeating the motion, which took the form of a modified loyalty oath, pro-Wallace forces on the committee ran through a motion recommending that Alabama's delegation to the Democratic National Convention this summer support Wallace as a "favorite-son" presidential candidate.

Loyalist members of the executive committee included in a lengthy resolution dealing with qualifications and fees for candidates a motion to support the national convention's nominee for president.

Under the proposal, a loyalty oath called the "Virginia plan," the state party would have been allowed to withdraw support from the Democratic nominee with the approval of the executive committee.

The states rights bloc, which supports Wallace, was joined by several loyalist members to handily defeat the proposal on a voice vote. A requested roll call vote showed the margin to be 40-31.

An amendment to the resolution was then proposed to have Alabama's delegation to the national convention support Wallace as a favorite son. It passed by a 46-25 margin.

The favorite-son motion would permit Wallace to retain control of the Alabama delegation at the convention.

The committee meeting's morning session was highlighted by a move by the states rights bloc to force committee chairman Judge Roy Mayhall to open the committee's financial books for public inspection.

A motion sponsored by Grover Ray of Headland would have required a periodic audit of the committee's finances, with copies sent to each committee member, as well as creation of a watchdog subcommittee on finance.

The Democrats stood behind chairman Mayhall, who has steadfastly opposed publicizing the party's financial records, and voted the motion down 42-29. Mayhall has claimed that to reveal records of income and expenditures would be to "aid and abet" Alabama Republicans.

The committee opened its session by naming new members to fill four vacant seats. Named to the committee were former Gov. James Folsom of Cullman; Joe Sanders of Dothan; John W. Walker Jr., of Springville; and House Speaker Albert Brewer.

The executive committee also nominated J. F. Cameron of Greene County as the Democratic candidate to succeed the late W. L. Martin in the state House of Representatives.

Moscow Relays Echo 2 News

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow radio Saturday night reported the launching of the U. S. balloon satellite Echoe 2 but gave no indication when Soviet scientists would start sending and receiving radio signals via the new communications facility.

In reporting the successful launching, the radio noted simply that it was the first step in joint U. S.-Soviet space research efforts.

Irish Bride Stirs Up Crowd

DUBLIN (UPI)—Hundreds of Dubliners staged a wild, stampeding riot Saturday and battled police to get a look at Miss Ireland when she married the son of novelist Daphne Du Maurier.

A woman was trampled by the mob and taken to a hospital with a possible leg fracture. Several other persons were shaken up, cut and bruised in the melee. Cars were dented when spectators scrambled atop them for vantage points outside the church to see the couple and their celebrity guests.

The police formed a flying wedge to clear a path from the door of the church to the couple's waiting limousine. The short walk took 30 minutes to fight through the crowd, and the mob did not break up until the car pulled away.

LOUISIANA WILD LIFE and Fisheries agents W. J. Gillespie, Mayo York and Vance Herring (left to right) brought about 4,000 pounds of fish to the Louisiana Training Institute here Saturday. The fish, white perch and bream, were confiscated Friday night in Concordia Parish and two arrests made. Gillespie said they were caught in illegal game fish nets out of Larto Lake in Catahoula Parish for sale on the black market in Missouri. (Staff Photo by Ben Bradford)

Official Slain In Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP) — Col. Jose Arturo Valdez, head of a regional military intelligence service, and his 9-year-old son were shot and killed Saturday by three men who fled in a small truck.

Valdez had just left his daughter and two other girls at their school when the truck sped by his car and fired a machine gun burst into it. Valdez, head of military intelligence in the Puerto Barrios command, had led soldiers fighting guerrillas in northwestern Guatemala. A government communique put blame for the shooting on these rebels.

Wild Life Agents Confiscate Fish

"Golly, what a lot of fish," one youngster remarked at Louisiana Training Institute Saturday afternoon when Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries agents began unloading almost 4,000 pounds of confiscated game fish at the institute cafeteria.

W. J. Gillispie, Waterproof, who is enforcement supervisor for District Four of the State Wild Life and Fisheries Department, said he and six other agents confiscated the truckload of illegally caught fish late Friday night in Concordia Parish, making two arrests in the process.

He said they confiscated a total of about 5,500 pounds of white perch and bream that had been caught in game fish nets with illegal webbing out of Larto Lake in Catahoula Parish Friday. Around 1,500 pounds of the fish was left in Alexandria at the girls training school, the veterans hospital, the charity hospital and the Salvation Army headquarters. The rest were donated to the boys at LTI.

The agents arrested two Acme, La., men on charges of violation of the game laws. The two, identified by Concordia Sheriff Noah Cross as Sonny Hill and Bryant Wiley, were released under bonds of $500 each.

When apprehended, the two men were allegedly on their way to Missouri to sell the game fish on the black market. Gillespie said the entire load would have brought about $2,000 since "bootleg fish" sells for about 40 cents a pound. This is the second truck load of black market fish game agents have confiscated this week, but the first load only came to about 750 pounds, Gillespie said. He added that two other arrests were made with the first confiscation earlier this week.

Gillespie, along with agents from Concordia, Catahoula, Avoyelles and Tensas Parishes, have been working on the case for about a week. He listed other agents in on the investigation as T. H. Forman and Ivey Beard, both of Concordia; Ed Tassin, Avoyelles; Vance Herring, Tensas; Mayo York and A. D. Swayze, both out of Catahoula.

Police Activity Remains Quiet In Twin Cities

A 30-year-old Monroe Negro was booked by West Monroe Police early Saturday on charges of driving while intoxicated, causing a wreck and leaving the scene of an accident.

According to police, Crayton Broadnax of 3017 Cooper, Monroe, was arrested at 12:15 a.m. on Louisville after he reportedly ran into the rear of an auto on Cypress Street at approximately 10:17 p.m. Friday and left the scene.

In other police action, Earlean Jones, 36, Negro, was booked by Monroe police on charges of driving while under influence of intoxicating beverages, hit and run driving and damage to property, after being arrested at 200 South Congo at 10 p.m. Friday.

Booked on suspicion of aggravated battery was Henry Wallace Pratt, 21, Negro, of Route 1, Box 695, Monroe after he was arrested at 11:15 p.m. Friday on Renwick and Griffin in Monroe, according to city police.

Johnnie Goldsmith, 48, Negro, of 1208 N. 4th, West Monroe, was booked on charges of driving while intoxicated after his arrest at 14th and Adams by Monroe Police.

EQUIPMENT, LIBRARY BOOKS

Board Of Education Returns Requests

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The State Board of Education returned $3,244,999 in requests for spending on equipment and library books to nine state colleges Saturday and ordered revisions.

Member Leon Gary of Houma won approval of a formula for the colleges to use in making their equipment and library book requests for next fiscal year.

Gary is a close associate of John J. McKeithen, Democratic nominee for governor. McKeithen has mentioned Gary as a probable aide in the administration he will form in May unless upset in the general election.

Gary said the new formula still will give the colleges more funds than in earlier years for equipment and library books. The action had no effect on the rest of the colleges' spending requests.

The colleges had turned in their spending requests for the next fiscal year earlier. They requests of all agencies will be used in writing an administration budget to be offered the May legislature. The administration of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis lasts until May, then a new governor will take over.

The formula given college presidents for equipment is based on $1.50 worth of equipment for each student credit hour. For library books, the colleges will be allowed $37.50 for each undergraduate and $50 for each graduate student.

There was no way immediately to tell what the new figures would be. The colleges had based their earlier requests on expected need.

With the new formula, Gary said, "we're all on an equal basis."

In the current fiscal year, all the colleges were allowed a total of $1,020,400 for equipment and library books.

Some of the colleges had claimed they needed extra funds in the fiscal year starting July 1 because they had been cut short in earlier years.

But Gary said 1962-63, when $428,805 was allowed for such purchases, was "our only bad year."

The board cleared away routine business of its building committee in a two-hour session.

Several capital outlay requests from colleges and special schools were received by the board. The requests will be channeled to the administration and the legislature and given priorities.

The board held an all-day session Friday.

Negro Girl Hit By Automobile

A 10-year-old Negro girl was injured Saturday at 7:43 p. m. when struck by a car driven by a Monroe Negro, when she ran in front of his car in the 2800 block of Jackson Street.

According to police, the girl was struck by the vehicle as she attempted to cross Jackson St. near the Dixie St. intersection.

She was rushed to Charity Hospital where she was treated for minor injuries and released.

No charges have been filed.

LOUISIANA WILD LIFE and Fisheries agents W. J. Gillespie, Mayo York and Vance Herring (left to right) brought about 4,000 pounds of fish to the Louisiana Training Institute here Saturday. The fish, white perch and bream, were confiscated Friday night in Concordia Parish and two arrests made. Gillespie said they were caught in illegal game fish nets out of Larto Lake in Catahoula Parish for sale on the black market in Missouri. (Staff Photo by Ben Bradford)

Official Slain In Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP) — Col. Jose Arturo Valdez, head of a regional military intelligence service, and his 9-year-old son were shot and killed Saturday by three men who fled in a small truck.

Valdez had just left his daughter and two other girls at their school when the truck sped by his car and fired a machine gun burst into it. Valdez, head of military intelligence in the Puerto Barrios command, had led soldiers fighting guerrillas in northwestern Guatemala. A government communique put blame for the shooting on these rebels.

TWO MEN ARRESTED

Wild Life Agents Confiscate Fish

"Golly, what a lot of fish," one youngster remarked at Louisiana Training Institute Saturday afternoon when Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries agents began unloading almost 4,000 pounds of confiscated game fish at the institute cafeteria.

W. J. Gillispie, Waterproof, who is enforcement supervisor for District Four of the State Wild Life and Fisheries Department, said he and six other agents confiscated the truckload of illegally caught fish late Friday night in Concordia Parish, making two arrests in the process.

He said they confiscated a total of about 5,500 pounds of white perch and bream that had been caught in game fish nets with illegal webbing out of Larto Lake in Catahoula Parish Friday. Around 1,500 pounds of the fish was left in Alexandria at the girls training school, the veterans hospital, the charity hospital and the Salvation Army headquarters. The rest were donated to the boys at LTI.

The agents arrested two Acme, La., men on charges of violation of the game laws. The two, identified by Concordia Sheriff Noah Cross as Sonny Hill and Bryant Wiley, were released under bonds of $500 each.

When apprehended, the two men were allegedly on their way to Missouri to sell the game fish on the black market. Gillespie said the entire load would have brought about $2,000 since "bootleg fish" sells for about 40 cents a pound. This is the second truck load of black market fish game agents have confiscated this week, but the first load only came to about 750 pounds, Gillespie said. He added that two other arrests were made with the first confiscation earlier this week.

Gillespie, along with agents from Concordia, Catahoula, Avoyelles and Tensas Parishes, have been working on the case for about a week. He listed other agents in on the investigation as T. H. Forman and Ivey Beard, both of Concordia; Ed Tassin, Avoyelles; Vance Herring, Tensas; Mayo York and A. D. Swayze, both out of Catahoula.

Uganda but for their own problems.

In Nairobi, British troops guarded all key points to prevent a full-scale uprising against the governments of Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta. He called the mutinies "a grave betrayal of trust."

Elsewhere in Kenya, commandos were reorted in full control after mutinies at Kahawa, five miles outside Nairobi, and at Camp Lanet, 100 miles to the north, despite sniper fire from the bush around the latter base.

Tension remained high at the Kenyan port of Mombasa. A police unit flown there from Nairobi patrolled the streets to prevent a threatened demonstration by young African nationalists from turning into a riot against Arab and Asian shopkeepers.

Kenyatta, jailed by the British in the 1950s as a mastermind of the terrorist Mau Mau movement, requested British troops after the mutiny Friday night. Eight hundred were flown in from Britain to reinforce the British garrison in Kenya, independent only since Dec. 12.

Kenyatta said he will speed up the Africanization of Kenya's 2,000-man army so Africans can take over most top posts from the 90 British officers and 75 British noncoms within the year.

In Uganda, to the west, British troops began to take over the barracks at Jinja of the mutinous 1st Battalion of the Uganda Rifles.

Later, most of the British forces were withdrawn, after the Africans were relieved of their firearms. A small British unit remained behind in the camp.

Small Phone Firm Produces Big War

forcing SAC to employ its backup facilities.

For a man who once wrote columns on Americanism for an Idaho weekly newspaper it was a drastic step.

"Our only objective was to collect a bill," he said. "I think above everybody else the government should pay their bills."

Striegel's troubles actually began in 1961 when SAC awarded him a $768,000 contract to build a phone system to the missile complexes and then provide service for $4,800 a month.

Because his company was a small one, the Air Force agreed to pay "aid in construction" costs of $585,000 to install the special service if Striegel would put up $1853,000. Striegel was to have ownership of the system.

He borrowed money, mortgaging his company "to the hilt" and, sub-contracting the work, did the job in the summer of 1961. He turned on the juice in September of that year.

The Air Force began paying its monthly bills but started to question how he spent his construction money. It began holding back on payments of the construction funds, asking questions and more questions.

"I haven't got a dime out of the Air Force without having to pull it out of them," he said. "Everywhere I turned there seemed to be red tape."

The government, he said, even told him the trucks he bought to maintain the system should be turned over to the government.

"What did they expect me to do?" he asked. "Use a horse and buggy?"

Through efforts of his attorney, Jack Murphy, Striegel managed to get the government to cough up all but $102,000. Then Murphy turned on the pressure again and Uncle Sam forked over another $61,000. And then the construction payments stopped.

The Air Force questioned whether Striegel or the government owned the special phone system to the missile complexes. Talks dragged on but no decisions were forthcoming. Striegel threatened to cut off service. The Air Force suggested he reconsider.

Last Tuesday, Striegel said he had had enough. He stepped into an unguarded mahole in the desert two blocks from his Grand View office and pulled the plug on the phone service.

The missile base tuned in the backup system and notified SAC. SAC notified the Pentagon. The Pentagon notified the Justice Department. Eight-five minutes later, his point made, Striegel turned on the juice again.

Then, the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, the regulatory agency to whom Striegel is responsible, called him on the carpet and told him to file a full written report on the incident by next Tuesday. The U.S. attorney for Idaho got orders from Washington to be on "standby" for possible federal action.

Striegel, concerned but unbowed, is holding his ground while preparing a report to the PUC.

Lists Events, U.S. Policies To Newsmen

soon as we finish the tax bill in the Senate. When we take it up, we expect to stay on it until they act upon it."

—HEALTH CARE FOR THE ELDERLY: "We have hopes of getting medicare out (of the House Ways and Means Committee). They have finished hearings and I am going to talk to the chairman (Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.) of the committee at the appropriate time and see what the problems are there, and I will express my hopes."

—FOREIGN AID: "We made our estimates realistic. We asked for $3.4 billion although they just gave us $3 billion, and we are going to try to justify it. But that will be up to Congress to determine in their wisdom."

He said he has not yet received a report from the special committee he named to recommend a thorough overhaul of the aid program but added he hopes to have the report soon.

—BUDGET: "We are following through on the budget. The Budget Bureau is going to check each commission, department and agency for the elimination of any possible waste or unnecessary expenditures.

"There will be a reduced estimate go to the Congress before too long. It will be minor in dollars but it will show the atmosphere and the general feeling."

Johnson was drinking coffee when White House reporters were ushered into his office. The news conference, his second in three days, lasted about 35 to 40 minutes with approximately half the time taken up by the President's opening statement.

Johnson told newsmen he would hold another conference next week but set no date.

Asked whether it would be at the White House or the State Department, the President replied: "I don't know where we will have it. I think it is good enough to say I am going to have one."

President John F. Kennedy held his news conferences in a big State Department auditorium. They usually were broadcast live on television and radio and attended by several hundred newsmen.

In his two months as president Johnson's Washington news conference all have been short-notice affairs held in his office and attended mainly by reporters assigned regularly to the White House.

At his Thursday session, Johnson voluntarily acknowledged that he had received a stereo set which figured in testimony released earlier in the week by the Senate Rules Committee which is inquiring into the affairs of Baker. Baker resigned under fire last Oct. 7 and the senators are seeking to determine whether he or any other Senate employes benefited improperly through their positions.

Don B. Reynolds, a Washington insurance man, testified that in 1959 he gave Johnson, then Senate majority leader, a stereo which cost $584.75, including installation. Reynolds said he made the gift after Baker helped him write insurance policies totaling $200,000 on Johnson's life.

Johnson told newsmen the instrument was a gift from Baker, an old friend and associate, and that the Johnson and Baker families had exchanged gifts before. He added that Baker had no business pending with him and, so far as he knew, expected nothing in return.

The President declined to go into any further detail on the matter of the stereo Saturday. He said "that is a matter the Senate is working on" when asked whether Baker's dealings raise "any serious questions of ethics in government."

Then he was asked whether he would comment on Republican criticisms, which have included sharp words from Goldwater and from GOP National Chairman William E. Miller.

Johnson replied: "No. I have learned to expect Republican criticism, and I have endured it for about 32 years. I get amused by it once in a while, but I don't want to change it because I think that is kind of a hallmark of their party. You get accustomed to expecting it. I am a little amused when you talk about the stereo."

Goldwater's charges that U.S. intercontinental missiles are not dependable were denounced promptly by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. The Arizona conservative followed through with a request for a full Senate investigation and that request now is being considered by the Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss.

Asked whether he thinks such an inquiry would serve any useful purpose, Johnson answered: "That is a matter entirely for the Senate. I think the senators who are responsible for investigations in that field, such as Sen. (Richard B.) Russell (Georgia Democrat and chairman of the Armed Services Committee) and Sen. Stennis, are men of good judgment, and if there is anything that they have not investigated, I would be surprised, because they are pretty knowledgeable in it. It is a matter for them to decide."

Sheriff Legal Contest Over

FRANKLIN, La. (AP) —The legal fight over Democratic nomination as sheriff of St. Mary Parish ended Saturday with Chester C. Baudoin the winner.

A lawyer for Everette A. Fouquier, who had contested the outcome of the close Democratic primary election, said no appeal would be filed in a court decision dismissing charges of election irregularities.

Baudoin is unopposed in the March general election. He won the runoff over Fouquier by 57 votes out of 14,699 ballots cast.

Comedian, Buyer Planning To Wed

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Red Buttons and Alicia Pratt Pagan, a buyer, took out a marriage license Saturday and said they plan to be married here Monday.

Buttons, 44, who won an Academy Award in 1957 for his supporting role in "Sayonara," and his wife of 12 years, Helayne, were divorced last January. They had no children.

Miss Pagan's previous marriage ended in divorce in 1953. She is 36.

ASTHMA & SMOG
Air poisoned by smog, gas, dust and pollen aggravates recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. At the first sign of difficult breathing, wheezing, coughing and mucus congestion from such cause, start taking MENDACO to combat allergy, loosen and help remove choking phlegm, and thus promote freer breathing and more restful sleep. Most druggists keep and recommend MENDACO.

soon as we finish the tax bill in the Senate. When we take it up, we expect to stay on it until they act upon it."

—HEALTH CARE FOR THE ELDERLY: "We have hopes of getting medicare out (of the House Ways and Means Committee). They have finished hearings and I am going to talk to the chairman (Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.) of the committee at the appropriate time and see what the problems are there, and I will express my hopes."

—FOREIGN AID: "We made our estimates realistic. We asked for $3.4 billion although they just gave us $3 billion, and we are going to try to justify it. But that will be up to Congress to determine in their wisdom."

He said he has not yet received a report from the special committee he named to recommend a thorough overhaul of the aid program but added he hopes to have the report soon.

—BUDGET: "We are following through on the budget. The Budget Bureau is going to check each commission, department and agency for the elimination of any possible waste or unnecessary expenditures.

"There will be a reduced estimate go to the Congress before too long. It will be minor in dollars but it will show the atmosphere and the general feeling."

Johnson was drinking coffee when White House reporters were ushered into his office. The news conference, his second in three days, lasted about 35 to 40 minutes with approximately half the time taken up by the President's opening statement.

Johnson told newsmen he would hold another conference next week but set no date.

Asked whether it would be at the White House or the State Department, the President replied: "I don't know where we will have it. I think it is good enough to say I am going to have one."

President John F. Kennedy held his news conferences in a big State Department auditorium. They usually were broadcast live on television and radio and attended by several hundred newsmen.

In his two months as president Johnson's Washington news conference all have been short-notice affairs held in his office and attended mainly by reporters assigned regularly to the White House.

At his Thursday session, Johnson voluntarily acknowledged that he had received a stereo set which figured in testimony released earlier in the week by the Senate Rules Committee which is inquiring into the affairs of Baker. Baker resigned under fire last Oct. 7 and the senators are seeking to determine whether he or any other Senate employes benefited improperly through their positions.

Don B. Reynolds, a Washington insurance man, testified that in 1959 he gave Johnson, then Senate majority leader, a stereo which cost $584.75, including installation. Reynolds said he made the gift after Baker helped him write insurance policies totaling $200,000 on Johnson's life.

Johnson told newsmen the instrument was a gift from Baker, an old friend and associate, and that the Johnson and Baker families had exchanged gifts before. He added that Baker had no business pending with him and, so far as he knew, expected nothing in return.

The President declined to go into any further detail on the matter of the stereo Saturday. He said "that is a matter the Senate is working on" when asked whether Baker's dealings raise "any serious questions of ethics in government."

Then he was asked whether he would comment on Republican criticisms, which have included sharp words from Goldwater and from GOP National Chairman William E. Miller.

Johnson replied: "No. I have learned to expect Republican criticism, and I have endured it for about 32 years. I get amused by it once in a while, but I don't want to change it because I think that is kind of a hallmark of their party. You get accustomed to expecting it. I am a little amused when you talk about the stereo."

Goldwater's charges that U.S. intercontinental missiles are not dependable were denounced promptly by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. The Arizona conservative followed through with a request for a full Senate investigation and that request now is being considered by the Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss.

Asked whether he thinks such an inquiry would serve any useful purpose, Johnson answered: "That is a matter entirely for the Senate. I think the senators who are responsible for investigations in that field, such as Sen. (Richard B.) Russell (Georgia Democrat and chairman of the Armed Services Committee) and Sen. Stennis, are men of good judgment, and if there is anything that they have not investigated, I would be surprised, because they are pretty knowledgeable in it. It is a matter for them to decide."

Sheriff Legal Contest Over

FRANKLIN, La. (AP) —The legal fight over Democratic nomination as sheriff of St. Mary Parish ended Saturday with Chester C. Baudoin the winner.

A lawyer for Everette A. Fouquier, who had contested the outcome of the close Democratic primary election, said no appeal would be filed in a court decision dismissing charges of election irregularities.

Baudoin is unopposed in the March general election. He won the runoff over Fouquier by 57 votes out of 14,699 ballots cast.

Comedian, Buyer Planning To Wed

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Red Buttons and Alicia Pratt Pagan, a buyer, took out a marriage license Saturday and said they plan to be married here Monday.

Buttons, 44, who won an Academy Award in 1957 for his supporting role in "Sayonara," and his wife of 12 years, Helayne, were divorced last January. They had no children.

Miss Pagan's previous marriage ended in divorce in 1953. She is 36.

ASTHMA & SMOG

Air poisoned by smog, gas, dust and pollen aggravates recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. At the first sign of difficult breathing, wheezing, coughing and mucus congestion from such cause, start taking MENDACO to combat allergy, loosen and help remove choking phlegm, and thus promote freer breathing and more restful sleep. Most druggists keep and recommend MENDACO.

Dedication Set At New Hospital

FERRIDAY (Special) — The new Concordia Parish Hospital will be dedicated here today with John J. McKeithen, Democratic nominee for governor, as principal speaker.

James D. Putman, administrator, said dedication of the $1-million structure is scheduled for 2 p.m. and will be followed by an open house during which the public is invited to go through the new medical facility.

The Ferriday High School band, directed by Robert F. Lincoln, wll play before and after the ceremonies. The invocation will be delivered by the Rev. Jerry Means, pastor of the Sevier Memorial Methodist Chuch, and the benediction will be given by the Rev. C. E. Rickens, pastor of the First Presbyterian Chuch.

O. R. Rhodes of Monterey, chairman of the hospital board of directors, will preside at the program. As chairman of the board of trustees, he will present the other trustees and members of the Concordia Parish Police Jury.

The address of welcome will be delivered by S. L. Winston Jr., president of the police jury. Mrs. Joseph W. Pasternack Sr., president of the Ferriday Garden Club, will cut the ribbon opening the hospital.

The hospital will open for patients Wednesday.

The hospital is located on the Ferriday - Clayton highway, about one-half mile from Ferriday. It was financed in part with federal funds and constructed on 10 acres of land donated to the parish by the family of the late A. B. Learnerd of Natchez, Miss.

The building houses 42 private and four semi-private beds, and with a staff of over 40 persons, the hospital will have a payroll of approximately $9,500 per month.

ISOLATION INCUBATORS shown are part of the equipment of the new $1-million Concordia Parish Hospital which will be dedicated at 2 p.m. today at Ferriday. The hospital opens for patients Wednesday.

Underwriters Sales Caravan Slated Here

Francis G. Bray, a nationally prominent insurance agent, will present the 1964 Sales Caravan of the Louisiana Association of Life Underwriters here Wednesday, Jan. 29.

The Sales Caravan Seminar will be held at the Paragon Club at 1:30 p. m. John Allen, local chairman of the Caravan said, "Bray has 35 years experience in the insurance field, possesses an enviable sales record and holds a law degree from Washington University."

"Perhaps his greatest contribution to the Life Insurance Industry is his service as a trustee of the National Association of Life Underwriters. He is serving with distinction as chairman of NALU's Committee on Federal Law and Legislation."

His topics for the Sales Caravan will include "The Carriage Trade", "Bread and Butter", and "Magnificent Obsession".

The Sales Caravan is an annual event sponsored by LALU and is this year being held in four Louisiana Cities. Shreveport, Monroe, Lake Charles and Baton Rouge.

William O. Walker of Lafayette is state chairman for the event.

PROBE FIRES

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UPI) — Police Saturday were investigating fires which destroyed $400,000 worth of sugar cane on eight estates this week. They said they suspected the fires were set deliberately.

NORTHEAST SPRING TERM

Afternoon, Evening Students To Enroll

Late afternoon, evening and special Saturday morning classes to be offered for the spring semester at Northeast Louisiana State College have been announced by Dr. Clint Hanna, dean of instruction.

Registration for these classes will be held from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 4. Students registering at Northeast for the first time will start in the Office of the Registrar, 117 Stubbs Hall. All other students will start registration with their academic deans, where IBM registration packets will be available.

Individual IBM registration packets will be made up for all students who were registered in the college during the 1963 fall semester. Those students who did not attend during that time, but who plan to register this spring, should notify the Registrar's office of their intention so that packets may be made up for them, Dean Hanna said.

Graduate students who were enrolled during the 1963 fall semester will report first to the office of the Dean of Instruction, 110 Stubbs Hall. All other graduate students will report first to the Registrar's office.

Students are urged to register at the indicated time, said Dr. Hanna. Classes will meet as scheduled, beginning Saturday, Feb. 8.

Following is the list of courses being offered, course numbers, course titles, names of instructors, time and meeting place. All courses are for 3 semester hours of credit, except Mathematics 67 (5 credit hours) Art 73 (2 credit hours) and Health and Physical Education 70, (one credit hour).

Proposed Plan For Judges Finds Few Advocates

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The system of letting voters elect judges found few backers at the Louisiana Conference of Judicial Selection and Tenure Saturday.

All speakers at the two-day session praised a system in which a legal commission names three persons for the governor to choose from in appointing a judge.

Under the appointive system, a judge would go before the voters at intervals, without competition, on the sole question of whether he should be returned to office.

Now is the time to support

McKeithen To Use Woman

BATON ROUGE (AP) —John J. McKeithen, Democratic nominee for governor, and his advisers are planning to use a woman skilled in finance, state government and politics to represent him in state budget preparations.

McKeithen informants said Saturday the current plan is to draft Mary Evelyn Parker for the tough, immediate task.

The 45-year-old Democratic choice for governor, who returns to Louisiana in the next few days from a western vacation, must concentrate on his March 3 general election campaign.

Charlton H. Lyons Sr., the Republican nominee, is stepping up the intensity of his drive. And States Righter Thomas Williams is beginning to make his voice heard.

Since Reconstruction, however, the Democratic nominee has been the general election winner. But McKeithen still must face the political threat and act.

Despite this, one of the really major problems facing a new governor who takes office in May—just when the new legislature convenes—is the state operating budget.

The new governor has not be elected yet. But to avoid trouble in the future, he must start moving now to get acquainted with government problems he must solve in the 1964 legislature.

In his recent news conferences, McKeithen showed he was not sold on the Legislative Budget Committee approach in preparing a new state budget.

Sen. W. J. Cleveland, Crowley, committee chairman, postponed immediate committee sessions pending any new work from McKeithen.

It is Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' responsibility to submit a balanced budget to the legislature to cover state operations for the new fiscal year which begins July 1.

Since next fiscal year will be the first year of the new governor's regime, the next governor has a vocal interest in budget preparations.

Davis' fiscal and budget officers are quietly going ahead in budget preparations, as always. Davis has pledged cooperation with the Democratic nominee.

Apparently the plan in the McKeithen camp is to assign Mrs. Parker to sit in on the state budget preparations as a McKeithen adviser and liaison agent.

State fiscal officers report state spending requests already are $100 million above the current level.

Mrs. Parker, wife of a Baton Rouge insurance executive, perhaps is as well known in Louisiana government and politics as any member of her sex.

Until her resignation to help McKeithen in his campaign, Mrs. Parker had served as public welfare commissioner under the late Gov. Earl K. Long and Gov. Davis.

WITH WHAT?

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP) — Jerry Bergstrand, 19, of Rawlins, escaped serious injury recently when his car collided head-on with a washing machine.

Investigating officers said vandals had taken the old washing machine from a nearby signboard and placed it on the highway near Rawlins.

Member-owners of Louisiana's Electric Cooperatives are the largest single group of stockholders in the State. The members elect outstanding citizens to represent them on the Boards of Directors. Local ownership and management is assured by Louisiana laws—not federal.

Electric Co-ops are building a brighter future all over rural Louisiana. They have raised the electric service level from a miserable 1.7% to 99% area coverage. Just think what this alone means in terms of new jobs, new business, industry, progress—both town and country.

Dedication Set At New Hospital

FERRIDAY (Special) — The new Concordia Parish Hospital will be dedicated here today with John J. McKeithen, Democratic nominee for governor, as principal speaker.

James D. Putman, administrator, said dedication of the $1-million structure is scheduled for 2 p.m. and will be followed by an open house during which the public is invited to go through the new medical facility.

The Ferriday High School band, directed by Robert F. Lincoln, wll play before and after the ceremonies. The invocation will be delivered by the Rev. Jerry Means, pastor of the Sevier Memorial Methodist Chuch, and the benediction will be given by the Rev. C. E. Rickens, pastor of the First Presbyterian Chuch.

O. R. Rhodes of Monterey, chairman of the hospital board of directors, will preside at the program. As chairman of the board of trustees, he will present the other trustees and members of the Concordia Parish Police Jury.

The address of welcome will be delivered by S. L. Winston Jr., president of the police jury. Mrs. Joseph W. Pasternack Sr., president of the Ferriday Garden Club, will cut the ribbon opening the hospital.

The hospital will open for patients Wednesday.

The hospital is located on the Ferriday - Clayton highway, about one-half mile from Ferriday. It was financed in part with federal funds and constructed on 10 acres of land donated to the parish by the family of the late A. B. Learnerd of Natchez, Miss.

The building houses 42 private and four semi-private beds, and with a staff of over 40 persons, the hospital will have a payroll of approximately $9,500 per month.

ISOLATION INCUBATORS shown are part of the equipment of the new $1-million Concordia Parish Hospital which will be dedicated at 2 p.m. today at Ferriday. The hospital opens for patients Wednesday.

DOES GETTING UP NIGHTS MAKE YOU FEEL OLD

After 35, common Kidney or Bladder Irritations often occur and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent passages both day and night. Secondarily, you may lose sleep and suffer from Headaches, Backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYSTEX at druggists. Feel better fast. ADV.

Underwriters Sales Caravan Slated Here

Francis G. Bray, a nationally prominent insurance agent, will present the 1964 Sales Caravan of the Louisiana Association of Life Underwriters here Wednesday, Jan. 29.

The Sales Caravan Seminar will be held at the Paragon Club at 1:30 p. m. John Allen, local chairman of the Caravan said, "Bray has 35 years experience in the insurance field, possesses an enviable sales record and holds a law degree from Washington University."

"Perhaps his greatest contribution to the Life Insurance Industry is his service as a trustee of the National Association of Life Underwriters. He is serving with distinction as chairman of NALU's Committee on Federal Law and Legislation."

His topics for the Sales Caravan will include "The Carriage Trade", "Bread and Butter", and "Magnificent Obsession".

The Sales Caravan is an annual event sponsored by LALU and is this year being held in four Louisiana Cities, Shreveport, Monroe, Lake Charles and Baton Rouge.

William O. Walker of Lafayette is state chairman for the event.

PROBE FIRES

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UPI) — Police Saturday were investigating fires which destroyed $400,000 worth of sugar cane on eight estates this week. They said they suspected the fires were set deliberately.

NORTHEAST SPRING TERM

Afternoon, Evening Students To Enroll

Late afternoon, evening and special Saturday morning classes to be offered for the spring semester at Northeast Louisiana State College have been announced by Dr. Clint Hanna, dean of instruction.

Registration for these classes will be held from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 4. Students registering at Northeast for the first time will start in the Office of the Registrar, 117 Stubbs Hall. All other students will start registration with their academic deans, where IBM registration packets will be available.

Individual IBM registration packets will be made up for all students who were registered in the college during the 1963 fall semester. Those students who did not attend during that time, but who plan to register this spring, should notify the Registrar's office of their intention so that packets may be made up for them, Dean Hanna said.

Graduate students who were enrolled during the 1963 fall semester will report first to the office of the Dean of Instruction, 110 Stubbs Hall. All other graduate students will report first to the Registrar's office.

Students are urged to register at the indicated time, said Dr. Hanna. Classes will meet as scheduled, beginning Saturday, Feb. 8.

Following is the list of courses being offered, course numbers, course titles, names of instructors, time and meeting place. All courses are for 3 semester hours of credit, except Mathematics 67 (5 credit hours) Art 73 (2 credit hours) and Health and Physical Education 70, (one credit hour).

Proposed Plan For Judges Finds Few Advocates

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The system of letting voters elect judges found few backers at the Louisiana Conference of Judicial Selection and Tenure Saturday.

All speakers at the two-day session praised a system in which a legal commission names three persons for the governor to choose from in appointing a judge.

Under the appointive system, a judge would go before the voters at intervals, without competition, on the sole question of whether he should be returned to office.

McKeithen To Use Woman

BATON ROUGE (AP) —John J. McKeithen, Democratic nominee for governor, and his advisers are planning to use a woman skilled in finance, state government and politics to represent him in state budget preparations.

McKeithen informants said Saturday the current plan is to draft Mary Evelyn Parker for the tough, immediate task.

The 45-year-old Democratic choice for governor, who returns to Louisiana in the next few days from a western vacation, must concentrate on his March 3 general election campaign.

Charlton H. Lyons Sr., the Republican nominee, is stepping up the intensity of his drive. And States Righter Thomas Williams is beginning to make his voice heard.

Since Reconstruction, however, the Democratic nominee has been the general election winner. But McKeithen still must face the political threat and act.

Despite this, one of the really major problems facing a new governor who takes office in May—just when the new legislature convenes—is the state operating budget.

The new governor has not be elected yet. But to avoid trouble in the future, he must start moving now to get acquainted with government problems he must solve in the 1964 legislature.

In his recent news conferences, McKeithen showed he was not sold on the Legislative Budget Committee approach in preparing a new state budget.

Sen. W. J. Cleveland, Crowley, committee chairman, postponed immediate committee sessions pending any new work from McKeithen.

It is Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' responsibility to submit a balanced budget to the legislature to cover state operations for the new fiscal year which begins July 1.

Since next fiscal year will be the first year of the new governor's regime, the next governor has a vocal interest in budget preparations.

Davis' fiscal and budget officers are quietly going ahead in budget preparations, as always. Davis has pledged cooperation with the Democratic nominee.

Apparently the plan in the McKeithen camp is to assign Mrs. Parker to sit in on the state budget preparations as a McKeithen adviser and liaison agent.

State fiscal officers report state spending requests already are $100 million above the current level.

Mrs. Parker, wife of a Baton Rouge insurance executive, perhaps is as well known in Louisiana government and politics as any member of her sex.

Until her resignation to help McKeithen in his campaign, Mrs. Parker had served as public welfare commissioner under the late Gov. Earl K. Long and Gov. Davis.

WITH WHAT?

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP) — Jerry Bergstrand, 19, of Rawlins, escaped serious injury recently when his car collided head-on with a washing machine.

Investigating officers said vandals had taken the old washing machine from a nearby signboard and placed it on the highway near Rawlins.

Baptists Plan Music School Next Month

Area Baptist churches will participate in a school of music planned February 3-7 at First Baptist Church in Monroe.

Dr. William Hooper, professor of voice and choral arranging at the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, will be guest clinician for the school which will conduct classes each night at 7.

COURSES

Courses in voice, music theory and choral directing will be offered. In addition to Dr. Hooper, faculty members include W. J. Denton, minister of music for West Monroe First Baptist Church; Harold Taylor, minister of music for Central Baptist Church of Monroe; David Whipple, minister of music for Lakeshore Baptist Church of Monroe; Walter G. Mangham, Jr., minister of music for Monroe First Baptist Church; Mrs. Florence Z. Allbritton, organist; and Ann Eubanks, pianist.

The school will be concluded Friday night, February 7 with the presentation of Felix Mendelssohn's cantata, "Hear My Prayer," by a 100-voice choir.

H. C. (BUZZ) ABBOTT

Monroe Pastor Representative At Board Meet

Rev. T. Earl Ogg, pastor of College Place Baptist Church, Monroe, is scheduled to represent Louisiana in Nashville, Monday and Tuesday at the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention's semi-annual session.

Representatives from 26 states will take part in deliberations of the 58 - member board. The board consists of business men, pastors and other professional religious leaders. They are elected by messengers at the Southern Baptist Convention.

Operating under powers delegated by the Southern Baptist Convention, the members determine major objectives and policies, adopt budgets and elect administrative and executive personnel of the Sunday School Board.

Dr. J. Robert Smith, pastor of First Baptist Church, Statesboro, Ga., is president of the Board.

Physician, Wife Speakers Today In West Monroe

A Shreveport physician and his wife, who have helped in medical missionary work, will speak at 5 p.m. worship service today at the First Methodist Church of West Monroe.

Dr. and Mrs. Keith Mason will also speak at the Mission Study, immediately following the service.

Last summer they, accompanied by their three children, spent two weeks in Honduras, on a small island called Bay Island of Utila, where they gave practical medical instructions to the missionary.

Dr. Mason also made a trip to Africa in 1959 and spent two months at a Methodist Hospital in Ganta, Liberia; Wenbo-Nyama, and at Tanda in the Belgian Congo, and Nyadiri in Southern Rhodesia. He is a son-in-law of Bishop Dana Dawson, with whom he has traveled in the Holy Lands.

World Prayer Day Observance Arranged Here

United Church Women of the Twin Cities met recently in the home of Mrs. E. N. Jackson co-chairman of the Christian World Mission Committee, to make plans for observance of World Day of Prayer, February 14 at 9:30 a.m. in the First Methodist Church, Monroe, and at 7:30 p.m. at Covenant Presbyterian Church, Monroe.

Services for the children will be held at Highland Presbyterian Church, West Monroe, and in Monroe at St. Paul's Methodist, St. Albans, and Memorial Methodist, and Louisiana Training Institute.

The theme will be "Let Us Pray." Representatives of 17 churches and the Salvation Army were present at the meeting.

RONNIE STEPHENS has joined the staff of Trinity Baptist Church, 214 Reagan St., West Monroe, as music director, after having served in that capacity at Grace Temple Baptist Church, Waco, Texas, and Edgewood Baptist Church, West Monroe. He is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, attended Baylor University, Waco, Texas, and at present is attending Northeast State College. He is married to the former Miss Lila Fite of West Monroe. They will reside at 106 Debra Lane in West Monroe.

Abbott Sets College Place Talks Today

A Shreveport layman, H. C. (Buzz) Abbott, will be the speaker in special Men's Day Services at the College Place Baptist Church today. He is an active layman of the Broadmoor Baptist Church of Shreveport and served for two terms as president of the Louisiana Baptist Convention, the only layman to hold this position in a quarter of a century.

Abbott has just returned from speaking to the California Evangelistic Conference in Long Beach. He also spoke in San Francisco.

The activities for Men's Day include the recognization of men in all phases of the work, men leading in the activities of the day and a male choir will bring the special music at the Sunday evening services.

The services at College Place will include Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. worship hour at 11 a.m. when Abbott will speak first, Training Union at 6 p.m., worship hour at 7:10 p.m. when the male choir will sing and Abbott again will speak. The Rev. T. Earl Ogg, is pastor.

Building Key To Program Of New Light

New Light Baptist Church on Prairie Road, Monroe, is expanding its program to make full use of the new $100,000 building facilities recently completed, it was announced by the Rev. Paul McComb, pastor.

In the expansion program the old church building was completely remodeled and enlarged and another educational building was constructed.

"The new facilities have room for a fully graded Sunday School, but since the church has enjoyed such great growth, the congregation voted to build another building to take care of the overflow the church now has," said the pastor. "Work on this new building program is expected to get started soon."

INCREASES

He said the church has more than doubled its missions and giving and the budget has more than tripled in the past year.

The church has employed a music director, Mrs. Harry L. Porter, who was before her marriage Miss Myra McComb. She was in the Ouachita Parish High School choir and received a number of honors. She is now a second semester junior at Northeast State College, and plans to teach music after graduation. Mrs. Porter has organized two choirs for the church, the most recent being a youth choir, which was started January 19 with the following charter members:

David Young, Van McQuiston, Joe Neal Wood, Gerald Moody, Merrell Moody, David McCaskill, Larry Boyette, Micky Moody, Braxton Humphries, Ronald Humphries, Jerrell Moody, Barbara McQuiston, Linda McQuiston, Beth Humphries, Jimmy Moody, Noel Johnson, Joyce Young, Barbara Johnson, and Donna Beavers. Both choirs will perform every week.

ORDINATION

February 9 at 7 p.m. has been set as the time for the following men to be ordained in the church as deacons:

William R. Adcock, M. R. (Pat) Young, E. W. Folden, and B. R. Beavers.

The church has adopted a rotation system for the diaconate and these additions will bring the number of active deacons to 10.

The pastor, Rev. McComb, will celebrate his first anniversary with the church Sunday, February 2.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER DEATH?

In a few score years, all who read these lines will have vanished from the earth.

Every day, almost a hundred thousand human beings finish their earthly span and pass off into the vast beyond. Our turn will come we all know, but when, where and how we cannot be sure.

No merely human being ever has been able to look into eternity and tell us what it is like. No scientific knowledge or instruments can pierce the curtain that divides this world from that into which all of us must eventually journey.

All we know about God's eternal plans for us... all we know about what lies beyond the grave... comes from the God Who made us and to the extent He has seen fit to reveal it to us.

But we can face eternity without fear. For we have a definite answer to the mystery of death. With the facts God has put at our disposal through the inspired books of the Old and the New Testaments, the Catholic Church always has given, and gives today, a definite answer to the important questions raised by the fact of death.

Man's life in this world, the Church tells us, is a preparation for the world to come... a testing-time which ends with our death. What happens after that depends on whether death finds us loyal to God, or opposed to Him and the way He expects us to live. "... it is appointed unto men once to die and after this the judgment" (Heb. 9:27).

Christ gave us (Matt. 25:31-46) a description of God's judgment which leaves no room for doubt that our worthiness of everlasting reward will be judged solely according to the way we have lived our lives on this earth.

Death does not bring merely a long, unconscious slumber, but rather a quick awakening to the irrevocable judgment of our Creator. Nor does it bring us a second chance to prove ourselves or to amend our erring ways. In our own hands rests the opportunity... and upon our own heads the responsibility... to determine if death shall be the threshold to everlasting life among the blessed, or among the lost.

Men blessed by youth and good health often feel that death for them is far away—something to be worried about only in the twilight years. Some scoff at the suggestion that an everlasting hell could be permitted by a merciful God. Others seem to think that God will treat them kindly if they live reasonably moral lives, even though they pay Him no special honor which is His due.

If you would like more information on Heaven, Hell, Purgatory, the end of the world and the resurrection and judgment of all men... we shall be happy to send you free an interesting pamphlet. And nobody will call on you. Write today for your copy of Pamphlet No. KC-14.

Baptists Plan Music School Next Month

Area Baptist churches will participate in a school of music planned February 3-7 at First Baptist Church in Monroe.

Dr. William Hooper, professor of voice and choral arranging at the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, will be guest clinician for the school which will conduct classes each night at 7.

COURSES

Courses in voice, music theory and choral directing will be offered. In addition to Dr. Hooper, faculty members include W. J. Denton, minister of music for West Monroe First Baptist Church; Harold Taylor, minister of music for Central Baptist Church of Monroe; David Whipple, minister of music for Lakeshore Baptist Church of Monroe; Walter G. Mangham, Jr., minister of music for Monroe First Baptist Church; Mrs. Florence Z. Allbritton, organist; and Ann Eubanks, pianist.

The school will be concluded Friday night, February 7 with the presentation of Felix Mendelssohn's cantata, "Hear My Prayer," by a 100-voice choir.

H. C. (BUZZ) ABBOTT

Monroe Pastor Representative At Board Meet

Rev. T. Earl Ogg, pastor of College Place Baptist Church, Monroe, is scheduled to represent Louisiana in Nashville, Monday and Tuesday at the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention's semi-annual session.

Representatives from 26 states will take part in deliberations of the 58 - member board. The board consists of business men, pastors and other professional religious leaders. They are elected by messengers at the Southern Baptist Convention.

Operating under powers delegated by the Southern Baptist Convention, the members determine major objectives and policies, adopt budgets and elect administrative and executive personnel of the Sunday School Board.

Dr. J. Robert Smith, pastor of First Baptist Church, Statesboro, Ga., is president of the Board.

Physician, Wife Speakers Today In West Monroe

A Shreveport physician and his wife, who have helped in medical missionary work, will speak at 5 p.m. worship service today at the First Methodist Church of West Monroe.

Dr. and Mrs. Keith Mason will also speak at the Mission Study, immediately following the service.

Last summer they, accompanied by their three children, spent two weeks in Honduras, on a small island called Bay Island of Utila, where they gave practical medical instructions to the missionary.

Dr. Mason also made a trip to Africa in 1959 and spent two months at a Methodist Hospital in Ganta, Liberia; Wenbo-Nyama, and at Tanda in the Belgian Congo, and Nyadiri in Southern Rhodesia. He is a son-in-law of Bishop Dana Dawson, with whom he has traveled in the Holy Lands.

World Prayer Day Observance Arranged Here

United Church Women of the Twin Cities met recently in the home of Mrs. E. N. Jackson co-chairman of the Christian World Mission Committee, to make plans for observance of World Day of Prayer, February 14 at 9:30 a.m. in the First Methodist Church, Monroe, and at 7:30 p.m. at Covenant Presbyterian Church, Monroe.

Services for the children will be held at Highland Presbyterian Church, West Monroe, and in Monroe at St. Paul's Methodist, St. Albans, and Memorial Methodist, and Louisiana Training Institute.

The theme will be "Let Us Pray." Representatives of 17 churches and the Salvation Army were present at the meeting.

RONNIE STEPHENS has joined the staff of Trinity Baptist Church, 214 Reagan St., West Monroe, as music director, after having served in that capacity at Grace Temple Baptist Church, Waco, Texas, and Edgewood Baptist Church, West Monroe. He is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, attended Baylor University, Waco, Texas, and at present is attending Northeast State College. He is married to the former Miss Lila Fite of West Monroe. They will reside at 106 Debra Lane in West Monroe.

Abbott Sets College Place Talks Today

A Shreveport layman, H. C. (Buzz) Abbott, will be the speaker in special Men's Day Services at the College Place Baptist Church today. He is an active layman of the Broadmoor Baptist Church of Shreveport and served for two terms as president of the Louisiana Baptist Convention, the only layman to hold this position in a quarter of a century.

Abbott has just returned from speaking to the California Evangelistic Conference in Long Beach. He also spoke in San Francisco.

The activities for Men's Day include the recognization of men in all phases of the work, men leading in the activities of the day and a male choir will bring the special music at the Sunday evening services.

The services at College Place will include Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. worship hour at 11 a.m. when Abbott will speak first, Training Union at 6 p.m., worship hour at 7:10 p.m. when the male choir will sing and Abbott again will speak. The Rev. T. Earl Ogg, is pastor.

Building Key To Program Of New Light

New Light Baptist Church on Prairie Road, Monroe, is expanding its program to make full use of the new $100,000 building facilities recently completed, it was announced by the Rev. Paul McComb, pastor.

In the expansion program the old church building was completely remodeled and enlarged and another educational building was constructed.

"The new facilities have room for a fully graded Sunday School, but since the church has enjoyed such great growth, the congregation voted to build another building to take care of the overflow the church now has," said the pastor, "Work on this new building program is expected to get started soon."

INCREASES

He said the church has more than doubled its missions and giving and the budget has more than tripled in the past year.

The church has employed a music director, Mrs. Harry L. Porter, who was before her marriage Miss Myra McComb. She was in the Ouachita Parish High School choir and received a number of honors. She is now a second semester junior at Northeast State College, and plans to teach music after graduation. Mrs. Porter has organized two choirs for the church, the most recent being a youth choir, which was started January 19 with the following charter members:

David Young, Van McQuiston, Joe Neal Wood, Gerald Moody, Merrell Moody, David McCaskill, Larry Boyette, Micky Moody, Braxton Humphries, Ronald Humphries, Jerrell Moody, Barbara McQuiston, Linda McQuiston, Beth Humphries, Jimmy Moody, Noel Johnson, Joyce Young, Barbara Johnson, and Donna Beavers. Both choirs will perform every week.

ORDINATION

February 9 at 7 p.m. has been set as the time for the following men to be ordained in the church as deacons:

William R. Adcock, M. R. (Pat) Young, E. W. Folden, and B. R. Beavers.

The church has adopted a rotation system for the diaconate and these additions will bring the number of active deacons to 10.

The pastor, Rev. McComb, will celebrate his first anniversary with the church Sunday, February 2.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER DEATH?

In a few score years, all who read these lines will have vanished from the earth.

Every day, almost a hundred thousand human beings finish their earthly span and pass off into the vast beyond. Our turn will come we all know, but when, where and how we cannot be sure.

No merely human being ever has been able to look into eternity and tell us what it is like. No scientific knowledge or instruments can pierce the curtain that divides this world from that into which all of us must eventually journey.

All we know about God's eternal plans for us . . . all we know about what lies beyond the grave . . . comes from the God Who made us and to the extent He has seen fit to reveal it to us.

But we can face eternity without fear. For we have a definite answer to the mystery of death. With the facts God has put at our disposal through the inspired books of the Old and the New Testaments, the Catholic Church always has given, and gives today, a definite answer to the important questions raised by the fact of death.

Man's life in this world, the Church tells us, is a preparation for the world to come . . . a testing-time which ends with our death. What happens after that depends on whether death finds us loyal to God, or opposed to Him and the way He expects us to live. ". . . it is appointed unto men once to die and after this the judgment" (Heb. 9:27).

Christ gave us (Matt. 25:31-46) a description of God's judgment which leaves no room for doubt that our worthiness of everlasting reward will be judged solely according to the way we have lived our lives on this earth.

Death does not bring merely a long, unconscious slumber, but rather a quick awakening to the irrevocable judgment of our Creator. Nor does it bring us a second chance to prove ourselves or to amend our erring ways. In our own hands rests the opportunity . . . and upon our own heads the responsibility . . . to determine if death shall be the threshold to everlasting life among the blessed, or among the lost.

Men blessed by youth and good health often feel that death for them is far away—something to be worried about only in the twilight years. Some scoff at the suggestion that an everlasting hell could be permitted by a merciful God. Others seem to think that God will treat them kindly if they live reasonably moral lives, even though they pay Him no special honor which is His due.

If you would like more information on Heaven, Hell, Purgatory, the end of the world and the resurrection and judgment of all men . . . we shall be happy to send you free an interesting pamphlet. And nobody will call on you. Write today for your copy of Pamphlet No. KC-14.

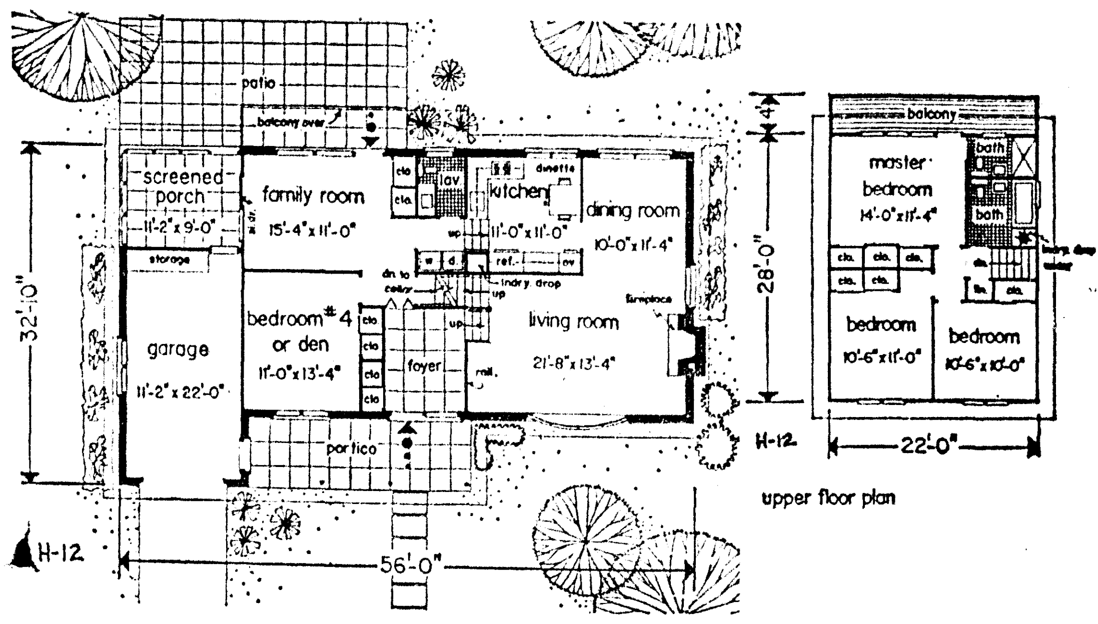
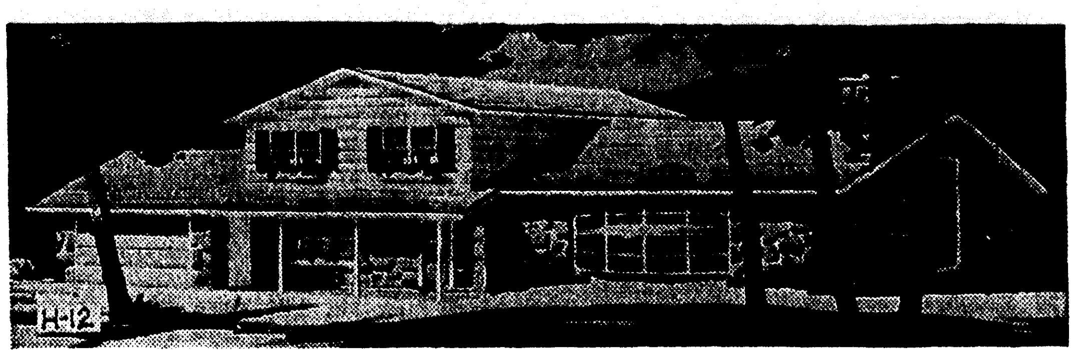
THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Modified Split-Level Has Rustic, Two-Story Appeal



FLOOR PLANS: The basic area (lower floors) is 1,154 square feet of living area and the upper floor 616 square feet. The house contains a 587-square-foot cellar. Over-all dimensions are 56' by 32' 10" and the architect recommends a 70' by 85' plot.



CRISP AND RUSTIC: A covered portico, bow window and interesting roofline give this eight-room modified split level home a warm and welcoming appeal. The house contains three (or four) bedrooms. 2½ baths. It was designed by architect Samuel Paul.

A seemingly slight but extremely significant modification of split level building technique gives this economical home a low and handsome silhouette while retaining to a large degree an advantage more commonly found in two-story designs.

The advantage is twofold: ease of movement throughout the daytime activity areas; and clear separation of the sleeping area.

Unlike the usual split-level pattern, only four steps divide the lower levels—and the most used portion of the housekeeping area is all on one floor. That means far less stair climbing.

The house, designed by architect Samuel Paul as H-12 in the House of the Week series, contains eight nice size rooms in a modest basic area of only 1,154 square feet and over-all dimensions of 56' by 32' 10". It would fit comfortable on a 75' by 85' plot.

An important feature of the house is its balance. It seems to contain just the right amount and disposition of all the elements necessary for comfortable contemporary living.

Included are four bedrooms (or three bedrooms and a den), two full baths, an additional lavatory, a kitchen with dinette space, attached garage, screened porch, and a private balcony off the master bedroom.

The exterior is crisp and streamlined with a rustic contemporary flavor. Because of the roof design it appears larger than it really is.

The main entrance is sheltered by a wide portico roof and is located at the ground level, a full story below the bedrooms. This also gives the home a distinctive two-story appearance.

A large foyer with double coat closets flows indoors from the portico and funnels traffic neatly to all areas of the house. The living room is four steps above the foyer, and an attractive iron railing separates the two.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

A glamorous cathedral ceiling stretches across both the living room and adjoining dining room. The two rooms also are well ventilated from three directions — the handsome bow window in front, the large window in the rear of the dining room, and the window on the side wall. An inviting stone fireplace, visible from the foyer, is the focal point of the formal area.

A second staircase links the kitchen and family room, joining the two in an integrated but clearly separated informal area.

The kitchen has ample space for a dinette. Architect Paul suggests that a built-in settee under the double window might be an interesting arrangement — giving the housewife a place to relax as she makes out the grocery list.

A downstairs lavatory is well placed near the kitchen, convenient to the backyard as well as the entire lower level. An alcove across from the lavatory is a convenient location for the laundry equipment — and note the handy laundry drop. Toss the soiled clothes in the bottomless "hamper" in the main bath upstairs, and they wind up within arms reach of the washer.

The family room has outdoor entrances on two sides. Adjoining the rear entrance is a double closet, placed in just the right spot. Sliding doors lead to the screened porch, extending the function of the family room as an all-weather play area.

The extra room downstairs is large, has plenty of closet space and is convenient to the lavatory — which means it could serve as a bedroom if necessary.

All three main bedrooms are nicely arranged upstairs, along with two full baths. The luxurious balcony adjoining the master bedroom is a fitting bonus for the homemakers.

A fully study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-12.

U.N. Atlanta Visit Greeted By Pickets

ATLANTA (UPI)—A visit to this Deep South city by a United Nations subcommission on racial problems touched off a demonstration Saturday by 500 singing and chanting integrationists who carried signs declaring "Atlanta is a fraud."

The signs rferred to the relatively "moderate" image which Atlanta has acquired in the eyes of the world on the race issue.

Clapping in unison and shouting, "freedom, freedom, freedom," the group marched two abreast into the downtown section and congregated at a restaurant that has been the target of many racial protests.

The demonstrations pourned into the restaurant, Leb's, by the dozens despite efforts by two waitresses to hold the door.

Several Negro policemen stood guard at the scene.

A crowd of whites, mostly shoppers, gathered, but the group was orderly.

Across the street from the restaurant about a half dozen brightly robed but unmasked Ku Klux Klansmen picketed a newly desegregated hotel. The two groups ignored each other.

The march by the integrationists into the downtown area occurred after the United Nations group had finished lunch and resumed its tour of the city.

During the luncheon about 200 hymn-singing students, mostly Negroes, turned up to demonstrate for elimination of all racial barriers in the city.

Morris Abram, former Atlata attorney and escort for the United Nations group, was delighted at the sight of the large group of pickets.

"This is wonderful," Abram said. "This is exactly what we wanted you to see—the good and bad."

Dr. Boris Ivanov of the Soviet Union said through an interpreter that the demonstration seemed peaceful. He said he had seen similar demonstrations in New York.

An Italian member of the 14-nation group, Dr. Francesco Cadotorti, said:

"This singing is wonderful. I've seen racial demonstrations before, but not with music like this."

The subcommission an 18-member group studying the prevention of discrimination and protection of minorities, is on a weekend visit to Atlanta.

The demonstrators paraded when the subcommission lunched at Atlanta University Center, a six-school compled near the center of the city. They carried signs which read: "Atlanta needs U. N. help," "Atlanta a bag of segregation," "protect our minorities."

The demonstrators, who appeared to be led by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), a militant civil rights group, also passed out handbills bearing a full face photograph of Ku Klux Klansman.

The handbill read: "The face of Atlanta, help change it. Join with Dick Gregory Saturday Jan. 25, Atlanta University campus mass rally."

Cheaper Autos Plan Denied By Walter Heller

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Heller, chairman of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, says the administration has not called for a reduction in automobile prices.

Commenting on reports published last week, he told the Senate-House Economic committee that "those headlines jumped to certain conclusions."

Heller took this position when he testified before the committee Thursday on the President's economic message to Congress.

Last Monday he was questioned by newsmen about a statement in the council's report to President Johnson that industries with an unusually high rate of productivity could afford to pass along some of the financial benefits to consumers.

When asked if this meant the automobile industry he said, "The automobile industry could well be one of those."

U.S., Allies Comparing Western Troops Against Number Of Red Forces

EDITOR'S NOTE—Even in this nuclear age, one of the biggest guessing games involves how many troops potential adversaries may have in readiness for action. The figures involving U.S.-allied troops are taking on new interest because of the Khrushchev announcement that the Soviet Union is reducing its defense expenditures in 1964. This survey of how the two sides seem to line up is based on information gathered by Associated Press correspondents in Washington and Europe.

By JOHN BAUSMAN

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —Ever since the cold war started, military strategists on opposite sides of the Iron Curtain have been trying to estimate the strength of their opponents.

In 1949, when the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was formed, the Soviet Union was reported to have an army of 175 divisions, excluding troops from its satellites. This report prodded the Western Allies into building up NATO's defenses.

When Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was in command at NATO in 1951 he said reliable intelligence reports placed the Soviet forces at four million men, ready to march.

How do the forces shape up today?

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara estimated last Nov. 18 that in 1955 the Soviet armed forces totaled 5.75 million. He said they have since been trimmed to 3.3 million with 2 million of them ground troops. Other members of the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact could swell the ground force to about 3 million. The total Communist force in Europe was put at 4.5 million.

This compared with NATO's total manpower of 5 million men. NATO's ground force is put at 3.2 million, of which 2.2 million are deployed in strategic areas of Europe.

The British Institute for Strategic Studies, a nongovernment but authoritative body, reported recently the total service manpower for the Western alliance was 7.92 million compared with 7.52 million for the Communist bloc, including Red China.

European military sources interviewed by The Associated Press generally agree with McNamara's figures. Official figures are usually unavailable because of security reasons.

The European sources estimate the Soviet army at between 2 million and 2.25 million, organized in about 150 divisions plus nondivisional support troops. Half of the divisions are believed at full strength and battle-ready, a quarter near their full quota and the remainder at cadre strength, ready to be fielded 30 days after mobilization. By these estimates, satellite armies increase the total Communist force to about 3.25 million—a 250,000 increase over McNamara's estimate.

NATO's force in Western Europe was figured at 1.4 million, which could be quickly increased to more than 3 million with reinforcements rushed in from Italy, Greece, Turkey and the United States. The United States demonstrated last fall that it could fly a full division of about 15,000 men to Europe from Texas in less than three days.

Soviet divisions generally average 9,000-10,000 men. NATO divisions are 12,000-15,000 men, with U.S. infantry and armored divisions numbering 15,900 at full strength.

There is some uncertainty among the sources as to how the Communist troops are deployed. Some Soviet troops were reported shifted recently to the Soviet-Chinese border region, largely at the expense of reserve forces in the central U.S.S.R.

But the sources believe that 25 to 26 Soviet divisions are in Europe, mostly in East Germany with a few divisions in Poland and Hungary. These all are believed to be at full strength.

Another 75 to 90 divisions—about half of them below full strength—are believed to be in European U.S.S.R., west of the Urals, available for immediate front-line duty. The remainder of the Communist force is likely to be scattered around the Soviet Union and the Far East.

In time of emergency, the sources believe, the Soviet Union can raise 60-65 divisions among its East European satellites. But it is questionable whether the satellite forces are combat-ready.

NATO's frontline defense includes 24 divisions in West Germany, which could be reinforced by two divisions from France. Farther back from the Iron Curtain are seven Italian divisions and eight Greek divisions.

A key factor in judging armies is the comparative firepower.

The American divisions are regarded as the strongest. The West German army, which began building from scratch in 1955, is rated as below par. The three British divisions in Germany are each short one brigade.

Experts find no reason to underrate Soviet firepower and equipment. They figure the 25 Soviet divisions in Europe and probably 30-40 divisions in European U.S.S.R. are man-to-man on a par in conventional equipment and firepower with the West.

Many Western observers believe that conventionally armed NATO forces can repel any Soviet land attack. McNamara apparently disagrees. He has said that although NATO ground forces are better equipped in central and western Europe "none of this is to say that NATO strength on the ground is adequate" to turn back without nuclear weapons a surprise non-nuclear Communist attack.

But, the defense secretary adds: "Aggression on this scale would mean a war about the future of Europe, of the United States, and the U.S.S.R. In the face of threats of that magnitude, our nuclear superiority remains highly relevant to deterrence. The probability that the Soviet leaders would choose to invoke that (nuclear) exchange seems to me very low indeed."

The quantity and location of U.S. nuclear warheads in Europe are one of NATO's closest guarded secrets.

But McNamara has said that U.S. warheads in Europe have "more than 10,000 times the force of the nuclear weapons used to end the second world war"—or about 400 million tons of TNT. The bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in the final days of the war each had yields of 20,000 tons of TNT.

Reports indicate the Russians have put less stress than the United States on tactical, low-yield missiles. But the Reds are known to have them.

In most European capitals, the balance between Western and Communist forces is viewed with more encouragement today than in the dark days in the early 1950s when the NATO allies were pep-talking each other into meeting the Soviet threat of perhaps 175 divisions. The Soviet Union has reorganized and trimmed its army and estimates of the Communist strength have been substantially lowered. But this does not fully explain how earlier estimates of Soviet strength could be dropped to 150 divisions with only part of the Soviet force at full strength.

A NATO spokesman in Paris believes the Soviet strength may have been overrated by inaccurate intelligence reports.

U.S., Allies Comparing Western Troops Against Number Of Red Forces

EDITOR'S NOTE—Even in this nuclear age, one of the biggest guessing games involves how many troops potential adversaries may have in readiness for action. The figures involving U.S.-allied troops are taking on new interest because of the Khrushchev announcement that the Soviet Union is reducing its defense expenditures in 1964. This survey of how the two sides seem to line up is based on information gathered by Associated Press correspondents in Washington and Europe.

Jy JOHN BAUSMAN

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Ever since the cold war started, military strategists on opposite sides of the Iron Curtain have been trying to estimate the strength of their opponents.

In 1949, when the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was formed, the Soviet Union was reported to have an army of 175 divisions, excluding troops from its satellites. This report prodded the Western Allies into building up NATO's defenses.

When Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was in command at NATO in 1951 he said reliable intelligence reports placed the Soviet forces at four million men, ready to march.

How do the forces shape up today?

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara estimated last Nov. 18 that in 1955 the Soviet armed forces totaled 5.75 million. He said they have since been trimmed to 3.3 million with 2 million of them ground troops. Other members of the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact could swell the ground force to about 3 million. The total Communist force in Europe was put at 4.5 million.

This compared with NATO's total manpower of 5 million men. NATO's ground force is put at 3.2 million, of which 2.2 million are deployed in strategic areas of Europe.

The British Institute for Strategic Studies, a nongovernment but authoritative body, reported recently the total service manpower for the Western alliance was 7.92 million compared with 7.52 million for the Communist bloc, including Red China.

HOME TRAVELING ECONOMIST

A traveling home economist has an interesting career, dispensing ideas for preparing tasty, nutritious food, giving demonstrations and providing delectable proof of the merits of the recipes for students to sample. The following story gives an insight into the busy schedule of a practitioner of this art.

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Pamela Luttrell is a 'travelling saleslady." She drives an average of 500 miles a week in a sporty convertible and urges coeds at colleges in a four-state area to "use self-rising flour and cornmeal."

She is also a home economist, college graduate and had planned to become a school teacher before the Self Rising Institute of Chicago entered the scene.

AVERAGE WORKDAY

A svelte, blue-eyed strawberry blonde, she destroys the image of the home economist as "a little old lady who's short and fat and wears glasses."

HIGHWAYS IN four states are Pamela Luttrell's 'route to work.' She drives an average of 500 miles per week, gives baking demonstrations at colleges during the school year, and calls on home economists in business and education. Summer work is concentrated on television and radio. (Staff Photo by Ben L. Bradford Jr.)

Her title is "Regional Home Economist."

An average workday goes like this:

"I shop for groceries in the morning, first thing. Then when I get to the college, I have to round up lots of strong, handsome fellows to carry in my big trunks. It takes about 20 minutes to unload.

"Next comes the actual food preparation, getting ready, setting up the demonstration. It takes three hours to set up for the actual two - hour demonstration."

During the "demo" she prepares five dishes "a little bit more than a whole meal", lectures on nutrition and points up the ways in which self rising flour and corn meal can be used from first to last course. No brand names are used.

And answers questions, like one put by a coed during a recent demonstration at Northeast Louisiana State College: "What does travelling around do to your social life?"

"Oh, I have lots of fun," she replied, continuing smoothly with the demonstration, "Spread the batter out evenly."

CLASS ATE RESULTS

During her appearance here, Miss Luttrell baked a shrimp dish — skillet corn bread gumbo — and four other recipes, basic nut bread, caramel-nut cake, onion twists, and cherry gems. The class ate up the results.

"It takes an hour, with help, to clean up after a demo."

Her day had begun at 5:30 a.m. She was in a local supermarket at 7 a.m. "Sometimes you have to beg to get into a grocery store at 7 in the morning, because they usually don't open until 8 or 9 — but there's always someone there early and they'll let me in."

Everything is packed back into her car by 2 p.m.

She had arrived in Monroe the previous night, and was slated in Ruston the next day for a demo at Louisiana Tech — so at 3:30 that afternoon, she was driving west.

"We carry everything we need for a two-hour demonstration, from cake testers to an electric mixer, linen table clothes, serving dishes and even a flower arrangement for the table.

"I have to limit my wardrobe — I have one place to sit, and that's my driver's seat."

At Easter, she's going home to Murfreesboro, Tenn., to add something new to the constantly increasing load in the car — her white Pekingese dog. The dog, "Sun Yat Sen," will get to see every college town in the Louisiana-Mississippi-Arkansas-Tennessee loop.

THE BEGINNING

How did a girl who had led a relatively sheltered life — "I even went to college in my hometown" — get into a travelling job?

"My home ec instructor at Middle Tennessee State College handed me this long 30-page resume of the job, and said, 'Here, this looks like you.' I read it through, applied, and was very much surprised when they wanted to fly me to Chicago for an interview."

Ten weeks training followed before she actually took to the road as one of three such field staff members.

Since her graduation last February, she has put 20,300 miles on her car—"We travel about 25,000 in a year's time."

"I've been lucky driving. I had a flat tire once, on the interstate just a few miles from Hattiesburg — so I just drove on in.

"I can fix a flat tire — I didn't that day, must have been dressed to the hilt. I keep my car in very good condition because my daddy calls me and makes sure I do, so no mishaps can happen."

VACATION AT HOME

Miss Luttrell spent her three weeks Christmas vacation at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Luttrell.

"They're glad for the experience I'm getting, through travelling, but naturally they do worry. We keep in touch every week by phone.

"Young women travelling alone are susceptible to some dangers. When I check into a motel, the managers are very nice, watch over me, and place me close to the office.

"I never expected to have a travelling profession. I saw Carolyn Adams, the girl before me, give a demonstration at our college and I thought, 'That poor girl, travelling around by herself.'

"And here I am. And love it."

"The work can be glamorous — or it can be dull — according to the mood you're in. I like people and I never meet a stranger, so therefore I like my job."

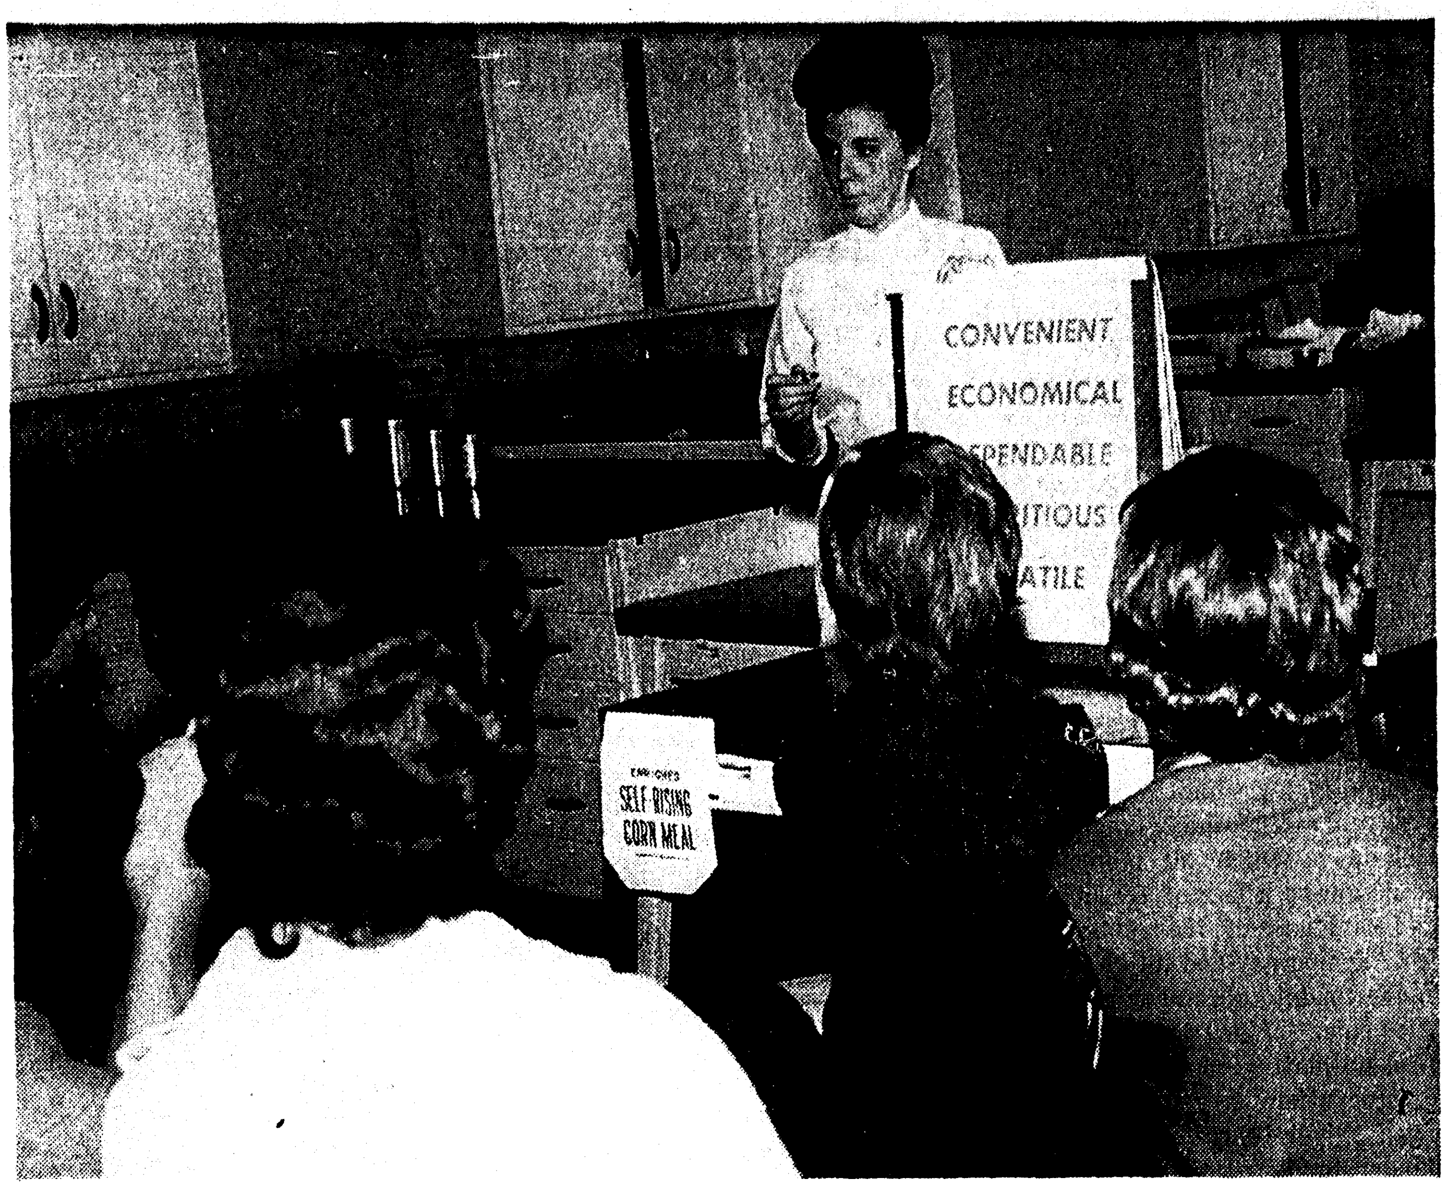
What is it like, constantly preparing food for demonstrations, but never having a chance to cook for herself?

"Restaurant food gets mighty old, but I have friends in all the states I visit, so I get nutritious home-cooked meals sometimes. I like gourmet food — but after a demonstration, I've cooked enough, I'm a little tired, and I'm ready to have someone else prepare it for me.

FAVORITE DISH

"When I'm home, I ask friends over and cook gourmet specialties. My favorite dish is Italian spaghetti."

A typical week saw her in Alcorn, Miss., for a demonstration on Friday, then on to New Orleans to attend the Mardi Gras ball of the Caliphs of Cairo. She spent the weekend in the Crescent City, arrived in Monroe Sunday night for the demonstration at Northeast Monday, gave another at Louisiana Tech in Ruston Tuesday, did reports, paper work and wrote letters Wednesday, gave a demo at Grambling Thursday and attended the performance of the Chad Mitchell trio at Tech Thursday night.



NORTHEAST LOUISIANA State College home economics class hears features of self-rising corn meal and flour from travelling home economist Pamela Luttrell. "I love working with young girls — at the college age, they're eager to learn," she comments. "But sometimes it turns out they're more interested in my job than in the food I prepare." (Staff Photo by John Fogleman)

"IT TAKES three hours to set up for an actual two-hour demonstration," says the home economist, as she prepares to serve five dishes hot from the oven. Ready to "test" the results are Jackie Scanlon, of San Antonio, Tex., at left next to Miss Luttrell, and from center, Jimmie Graham, Crowville, Diane Thomason, Mangham, Susan Pipes, Collinston, Kathryn Etier, Mangham, and Nan Cheek, West Monroe, all home economics students. (Staff Photo by John Fogleman)

The school year means college demos, and conventions. "For instance, I'll be going to the Louisiana Home Economics Association Convention in New Orleans in mid-March. At that time I'll be in Little Rock, so I'll have to fly down for it."

COMMUNICATIONS CIRCUIT

After a two-weeks summer vacation, she will go on the television - radio route, with side calls at newspapers and magazine offices.

"Usually, the Self Rising regional home economists last about two years. Then they either get married or are ready to settle down in one city," she explains.

"I'll probably stay with this work for another year, then go back to school to get my master's degree. I'm considering Oklahoma University.

CAREER MINDED

"I'm strictly interested in a career right now, and anything I can do to better myself professionally, I'm going to do. This day and time, you have to stay educated to stay in the running.

"Afterwards, it's either teach in college, or stay in the business world, with some national concern, probably."

Will she want to travel?

"That depends on the job. I want the best job I can get for the experience I have. I would miss travelling — it's my life. I go all the time. It's nothing for me to get up and drive 200 miles to one town, then get up the next day and drive 50 miles.

"When I went home and stayed for three weeks, I missed it. I was ready to get up and go."

Travelling and her work have gained her membership in several professional organizations, including the American Home Economics Association, Tennessee Home Economics Association, National Home Economists in Business, American Women in Radio and Television, and the Tennessee Education Association. She also has her teaching certificate.

"The thing I like best about working with college girls is that they're so interested in professions. Sometimes people tend to limit home economics — but there are so many things to do.

"WE CARRY everything that we need with us," says Miss Luttrell, as she takes onion twists out of the oven. "Everything" includes a good supply of spatulas, wooden spoons, can openers, cake testers, various sizes of pots and pans, muffin cups, electric mixer, serving dishes, linen table cloths and a flower arrangement. (Staff Photo by John Fogleman)

"Radio and television need home economists. Large companies need journalism home economists to help promote their products. Chemical companies hire us.

"In other words, if you are a home economist, you can get into almost any job you want.

"And also, you are prepared for marriage, so you're killing two birds with one stone. Most home economists make good wives and homemakers."

Police State In U.S.

On the shoulders of stalwart men of the south falls the now-staggering task of trying to save democracy for the United States, instead of letting it be deluged and submerged by an avalanche of federal control, described as the "greatest grasp for executive power conceived in the 20th century."

The so-called civil rights fight is not merely a battle to make men equal by law, when nature and environment have failed to make them equal. Instead, it is an effort by those in high political authority to make the racial question a path down which all men must travel toward a loss of freedom of the individual, of free enterprise and of democracy and into the land of government supremacy and despotic rule. How men of good sense, no matter what their views on integration may be, can fail to see this is extremely difficult to understand. Some do understand but they, themselves, are looking for more political power and think that is the way to get it.

Asserting that these stalwart southern defenders of democracy will be hard to overcome, a noted Washington analyst said: "The battle flag of the anti-civil rights leaders, limp on its staff during the period of presidential mourning, is flying again in a breeze which will keep it whipping for many months to come.

Convinced that they have enough senate votes to prevent any limitation of debate, the outnumbered southern house members who deny the revised bill has been watered down and assert that "it will totally regiment our economy" are preparing for a showdown vote within the next six weeks, but after that the senate will undertake the slowdown task, with the optimistic declaring the bill at least will be extensively revised.

Woe to this country if it is not, for the radical proponents of socialism and integration want to empower the government to condemn and seize every 10th home in good white neighborhoods, so that Negroes can be forcibly interspersed with whites in every segment of life, and to regiment and control every move made by business and industry, including agriculture.

Chief spokesman out of congress for the anti-integration forces, who might well be called "freedom fighters," is John C. Satterfield, a Mississippian who is past president of the American Bar Association and secretary-treasurer of the Coordinating Committee for Fundamental American Freedoms.

It is evident from the committee's breakdown of the bill's provisions that the case against the current measure is not just a general defense of states' rights. The summary makes the point that the bill vests almost unlimited authority in the president and his appointees to do whatever they desire, with racial equality as a pre-text.

Starting with agriculture, the analysis finds that the farmer may be excluded from every direct and indirect "benefit" if he exercises his own discretion to hire workers in any type of job, using his experience with various races and types, rather than following the directions of the federal inspector. This would make farming federally supervised, with the farmer allowed to use little of his own judgment in producing his crops. It would be equal to the police state in dictator countries.

Government snoopers would be breathing down the necks of the farmers at every turn. Ten existing federal agricultural agencies would police the farmers under the bill, under the direction of the attorney general and the commission on civil rights. Although Attorney General Robert Kennedy has had his wings trimmed in many matters, President Johnson might turn him loose on the farmers and, if he were to, their plight would be sorry indeed. Further, the so-called commission on civil rights is made up largely of integration pushers and we can be sure it would order disproportionately large employment of Negroes, in case enough could be found who are still willing to do manual labor. Even if they were not willing to do that kind of work, we can be sure the farmers would be ordered to put a certain proportion of them on the pay rolls.

In its present form, the bill would control the right of homeowners to freely build, occupy, rent, lease and sell their homes.

"Federal personnel, not the homeowner or his wife," the report said, would make the decisions as to the personnel building the home, the renting of a single room or several rooms, as well as the rental, leasing or sale of the home whenever race, color or national origin was concerned. Federal personnel would also direct the actions of realtors, developers, attorneys and the lending institutions."

These are travesties against individual freedom and personal liberty which no democratic country can condone. If such legislation should be enacted, we can say that the United States of America is no longer a democracy.

Labor union members who support the civil rights bill should take note that they are virtually applying a sharp razor to their own throats. To obtain "racial balance" in hiring, white workers with seniority could be passed over by orders of a federal inspector and, if the roster did not contain names of enough Negroes, the agent would be required to go on the street to hunt up Negroes to take the places of working white men with greater seniority. In the south this might mean 50 per cent or more of the white men would lose their jobs.

Banks and bankers would be policed through all supervisory agencies. Negro bank clerks and officers would largely replace white persons now working. If racial discrimination should be charged against a banker or bank, which could be done any time a Negro felt in the mood, whether in regard to personnel or loans, the bank's federal deposit insurance coverage would be cancelled, as well as the right to handle G.I., FHA and other government insured money. Failure to comply would mean a bank would face bankruptcy. This also would apply to savings and loan associations.

The bill is an outright effort to convert the United States of America into a police state.

Cannot Find Answer

History reveals that nations, like people and all other creatures, become old and debilitated and that many of them die, or cease to exist. This may be in the external scheme of things, since it constantly brings on the new and the young.

Some thoughts along this line and a suggestion of what might help are given by the National Baptist Union-Review, in Nashville, Tenn. It said: "We cannot find in the record of prehistoric, ancient or modern history, not even among man's' best laws, the answer for security of life, property and liberty. Kingdoms and empires wane and fall. Civilizations appear with great promise and then, apparently automatically, disappear. . . . It is here believed that man's attempt to interpret life in terms of material things divorces him from the creative energies of his own life that would make him secure."

These things are worth pondering over in our quiet moments.

An Icelandic saga relates how Leif Ericson, in about 1000, discovered a strange new land he called Wineland, or Vinland. Leif's Vinland has been variously located at many different places along the coast from Chesapeake Bay to Hudson Bay. Most scientists have placed it in Cape Cod and Rhode Island, where wild grapes grow.

Tired Of Losing

Ruston, La.

To the Editor:

Please publish the following letter:

Senator Barry Goldwater
U. S. Senate Building
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

I, like thousands of people in our Nation, am tired of my country losing every round in the so called "cold war". In the last two months, we have had small and undeveloped Nations such as Cambodia, Zanzibar and now Panama kick our diplomats out, but it is noted that the state department said the Panamanian request "specifically exempted foreign aid and Peace Corps personnel from having to leave", which no doubt made our state department officials very happy and grateful. It made me mad.

When are we Americans going to wake up and do some kicking out ourselves? We need first to clean up and kick out some of the longtime career people in the state department who have had a hand in every major defeat of our country, either through stupidity or treason, from China to Panama, which would include Korea, Laos, Vietnam, Indonesia and last but not least Cuba. We seem to aid our enemies and hurt our friends. As Madam Nhu is reported to have said, "With friends like the United States, who needs enemies?" We forced the Dutch to give up Indonesia; we forced Britain and France to give up the Suez Canal; we forced Batista out of Cuba and befriended Castro; we are trying to force Portugal out of Africa; we forced Laos into a coalition with the Communists; we forced the over-throw of the government of Vietnam; and it goes on and on and on. I can not recall one lasting victory since the end of World War Two. Again I repeat, I'M TIRED OF LOSING!

If you will wage your campaign on the promise to get our nation back into the hands of people who think of their country first and the world second, I am sure you will find support for yourself and your policies throughout the country.

Nation In Crisis

Cleveland, Ohio

To the Editor:

We are at a crisis in our nations history, when the federal government is asked to extend financial assistance for urban renewal in downtown business districts, when this results in the taking of one man's private property and turning it over to another man, not for a public purpose such as a public building or a park or a public highway, but for a private undertaking involving only private profit.

Just before our country was to go through the throes of the American Revolution, a group of men, among them Samuel Adams and John Adams of Massachusetts, were preparing a Declaration of Rights to present to the British Government. Discussion started with the recognition of the Law of Nature, that man is born to liberty, and that the right of personal liberty is coexistent with man and is man's divine inheritance; and that no parliament or king could wrest it from him. The deputies declared — That they are entitled to life, liberty and property and they have never ceded to any sovereign power a right to dispose of either without consent.

Liberty and property, in men's minds, were necessary to one another. A man has the right to his land and the fruits of his toil and to his savings great and small. Rich and poor alike possess this right and government exists to safeguard it.

A man's right to his property is as sacred as his soul. No power can take it from him without his agreement and consent and give it to The East India Tea Company or to another private individual, say a developer in a business district, whose only interest is private profit. Men were ready to die for this assault on their freedom. Let us not unwittingly destroy this sacred heritage.

Clear Thinking Needed

Kelly, La.

To the Editor:

Our political situation today, more than ever before, calls for clear thinking on the part of all well-meaning people in our state and nation.

The ideals and privileges that true citizens treasure as God-given rights are up for grabs by the politicians.

A tradition exists in our state that has lulled many people into the practice of voting persons into office because of their party, name, association with a certain family or sugar-coated promises which are really detrimental to the very essence of freedom.

When a candidate offers to the people a choice between the Jeffersonian philosophy (the freedom lovers) and the other choices, which is usually a race to see who can out-promise and vilify the most, he finds a hard row to hoe. This is true mainly because most people vote Democrat because their grandfather and father would never vote against a Democrat. Yet they cuss and discuss the situations that are caused by the very ones they help elect time after time, both state and nationwide.

And the situation continues to come at a high cost to our privileges and morals. It's high time that the remedy be applied to cure this lethargy. And rest assured that the eyes of Texas and 48 other states are upon you.

Prefers Insomnia To Over-Sleeping

MANY READERS will recall that I sent out an S.O.S. to them some months ago on a cure for insomnia. You will be happy to know that I have had a deluge of mail on the subject. And as I promised, some day I will put it all together and try to come up with some solution that will help so many of you get a good night's sleep. Meanwhile, to those who haven't written me about their experiences with sleeplessness, I still extend the invitation to express their views in the name of science, and with the hope of overcoming obnoxious insomnia.

However, there are other sleep problems: being too sleepy rather than not sleepy enough:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Really my heart doesn't bleed a particle (or should I say a drop) for people who can't sleep. I would trade places with them anytime. You see, I can't stay awake! And don't you dare say I am lucky, as some idiots do.

How would these sleepless characters like it if they couldn't read a newspaper without falling asleep? (I read our Woman's Section first, otherwise I would never get to your column.) How would a woman like it if she started to doze off while trying to carry on a conversation with her husband's boss? Or falling asleep in church, not only during the sermon, but during the parts when you stand up?

SLEEPS IN CHURCH

More than once I have found myself swaying between the pews, gripping hard on the pew in front of me to keep from crashing into it, biting my lip, pinching myself, talking to myself, trying desperately to stay awake.

And can you enjoy a movie or play? I can't. I sleep through half of it. I doze off at basketball games, too, with the crowd screaming and stomping, etc.

I can drink coffee by the gallon, wash my face with cold water, get up and walk around, etc., etc., and nothing does any good.

And I love life! I'm not a dreary, dull soul. I get excited about things and I like to go places and do things. (Of course I always doze off in cars and trains.)

I hate it, this business of being half asleep all the time. I feel as if I am sleeping my life away. And people who have trouble sleeping complain!

For your information, I am taking two grains of thyroid a day. Also occasionally I take a Desoxyn tablet to help keep me awake. All this medication on doctor's orders, of course.

That's my story. After reading your S.O.S. on insomnia I just had to write. So please, during your investigations on sleep, see if you can do something about us poor sleepyheads!—Mrs. A.

APPROVES TREATMENT

Comment: Interesting, Mrs. A. Perhaps it will make some insomniacs feel better, knowing that there is a condition causing too much sleep.

Has your doctor given your complaint a name? Although you have hypothyroidism, you may also be suffering from what we call narcolepsy.

Thyroid often helps. So does Desoxyn. Sometimes we also try (or alternate with) Ritalin, Benzedrine, Dexedrine and similar medicines.

Perhaps you need larger doses than you have been getting, to keep you awake. Ask your doctor about that.

Meanwhile, let's hope that you don't get so well that you will soon be complaining of insomnia. That would be a switch, wouldn't it?

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "How to Manage Arthritis," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

I POINTED OUT in a recent column the many similarities between the assumption of statehood by the Congo and Kenya. The record of violence and bloodshed compiled in the former Belgian colony when United Nations troops cut short Katanga's ambitions for self-determination has been splashed on news pages around the world and needs no recounting here.

In Kenya, however, the explosive charge which again could shatter African peace has not been detonated, although the fuse has been ignited by Somali demands for independence.

Thus, the situation in that section of Kenya which borders on Somalia and which is populated by Somali tribesmen is, in many respects, similar to that which existed in Katanga.

There is, however, one important difference — a difference which should establish for all time the principles, or lack thereof, upon which the United Nations operates.

THE DIFFERENCE is that the Katangese and their leader, Moise Tshombe, who now is in exile, were and are strongly anti-Communist. The Somalis, as well as the neighboring nation of Somalia, are pro-Communist and are receiving ample weaponry from the Soviets to enforce their will.

What makes the crisis particularly sticky for the United Nations and all those who consider the world organization above reproach is the basic question of self-determination, around which the entire U. N. structure ostensibly was built. Unfortunately, however, this principle has never been applied by the United Nations to those peoples who need it most — the formerly free nations now held in bondage by the Communist bloc — but only against the West.

All the African "emerging nations" which were colonies of our European allies have been plunged willy-nilly into what the United Nations considers self-government. In some cases, the United Nations tacitly approved the transfer of colonies from our western allies to pro-Red dictators and "neutralist" nations which have consistently voted against us in the United Nations.

THE ENDING OF Dutch "colonial" rule over West New Guinea and transfer of that territory, against the will of its natives, to Indonesia's Sukarno and the rape of Goa and the Portugese enclaves by India are examples.

On the other hand, no serious protest has come from the world body about the continued enslavement of Hungary, Poland, East Germany or any of the other truly "captive nations."

In the Congo, the biggest roadblock to a Red takeover — first through Patrice Lumumba and then Antoine Gizenga — was the strongly pro-western Tshombe and his Katangans. That Tshombe and the Katangans wanted nothing more nor less than self-determination, the right supposedly guaranteed to all by the U. N. charter, was embarrassing indeed to those who supported the war against them.

WITH KHRUSHCHEV demanding the elimination of Tshombe and Katangan independence, some quick rationalization was required. The United Nations — and our own ambassador to that body, Adlai Stevenson — launched a campaign against Katangan "secession," this being a far better term to oppose than "self-determination."

But now the glove is on the other hand. The Somalis are pro instead of anti-Communist, and their drive to gain independence from Kenya undoubtedly will have the support of the Communists and the so-called Afro-Asian bloc in the United Nations. It is a pretty good bet that the world organization will refer to the Somali ambition as "self-determination" rather than "secession."

And it also is a fair guess that no blue-helmeted troops will be flown into Kenya aboard U. S. planes to put down the Somali independence movement and "restore unity."

The next few weeks should unfold this exciting drama before the world, and all of us will be able to judge, firsthand, just what it is that the United Nations represents.

How do you stand, sir?

Republicans Face Uneasy Situation

SOME OF THE Republican leaders who thought six months ago their party had a real chance to win the presidency in 1964 now are saying in private that they may have difficulty holding the party together this year. As to winning the presidency, they now rate that an outside possibility.

Under the circumstances, speculation along that line at the moment has switched to the urgency of the battle to hold G.O.P. strength in Congress and in governorships. Control of State legislatures usually turns on local issues.

The accession of President Lyndon Johnson muddled the Republican outlook, it is now being realized, in complicating the nomination of a Republican presidential candidate by increasing the number of aspirants without improving the outlook for party success.

At the same time the change may have weakened the prospect for extensive Republican gains in Congress, though this is of course uncertain. At most, it did not improve the party's chance to carry the House of Representatives, though the Republican headquarters still are convinced they have a chance to gain in the Senate, since terms of only nine Republican Senators expire in 1965, and all of them have at least an even chance for reelection.

AT THE MOMENT there is no leading candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, so the candidates for the most part are shooting at each other, which politicians call a "divisive tactic," to be frowned upon. In 1960, Vice President Richard Nixon had no opposition after Governor Nelson M. Rockefeller withdrew as a candidate, and thereafter waltzed to the nomination, with Harold M. Stassen as his only heckler. At that time most polls showed Nixon a likely presidential victor.

Now Stassen has put himself in the picture again, and Nixon is standing in the wings, obviously waiting a call to the stage which may never come.

Because of the division among other candidates, Republican delegations from the 11 Southern States can put Senator Goldwater in the lead at the San Francisco convention, thought his chance for the nomination seems to have shrunk. But if Goldwater isn't named on an early ballot party leaders fear the convention will degenerate into a dog fight, the like of which no Republican presidential convention has seen in this century. Predictions of a long wearisome battle, with a compromise nominee, contain no encouragement for victory. They are just a prelude for a long wearisome and one sided campaign.

THIS DOES NOT keep some of the more level headed Republicans in Congress from wishing that the party had a middle of the road dark horse candidate of some appeal, just in case the civil rights battle, coupled with a slow down of economic conditions, should render President Johnson more vulnerable than he is now.

The Johnson expectancy is based on his continued good health and the Republican difficulty in settling on a candidate. That is due in large measure to the odd political conduct of Richard M. Nixon since the last election in which he lost the presidency to John F. Kennedy by only 110,000 popular votes. Only 12 years before Thomas E. Dewey who had been heavily defeated by President Roosevelt in 1944, came within an ace of winning the presidency in 1948. But he had played the game according to Republican rules and the party had no hesitancy in naming him for a second time.

The sole Republican seeming to answer the quiet prayer at the moment is Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania, who will be 47 years old on July 19, just about the day the Republican convention meets in San Francisco.

SCRANTON IS THE least known nationally of all Republican candidates, sincerely does not want the nomination but would not be true to family tradition if he did not accept it if offered as a draft. His mother, Mrs. Worthington Scranton, was for some years vice chairman of the Republican National Committee and such a well known party figure that she was called "Mrs. Republican" by convention followers. The city of Scranton, in which he lives, was founded by his family.

Out of the mix of better known names — Nixon, Rockefeller, Romney, Stassen, Henry Cabot Lodge — only Goldwater still stands about where he did before November 22. He has no national organization and not many State leaders but as a candidate, there has been no change in his status. He is still the great individualist, to his enemies as well as his friends.

Our political situation today, more than ever before, calls for clear thinking on the part of all well-meaning people in our state and nation.

The ideals and privileges that true citizens treasure as God-given rights are up for grabs by the politicians.

A tradition exists in our state that has lulled many people into the practice of voting persons into office because of their party, name, association with a certain family or sugar - coated promises which are really detrimental to the very essence of freedom.

When a candidate offers to the people a choice between the Jeffersonian philosophy (the freedom lovers) and the other choices, which is usually a race to see who can out - promise and vilify the most, he finds a hard row to hoe. This is true mainly because most people vote Democrat because their grandfather and father would never vote against a Democrat. Yet they cuss and discuss the situations that are caused by the very ones they help elect time after time, both state and nationwide.

And the situation continues to come at a high cost to our privileges and morals. It's high time that the remedy be applied to cure this lethargy. And rest assured that the eyes of Texas and 48 other states are upon you.

Prefers Insomnia To Over-Sleeping

MANY READERS will recall that I sent out an S.O.S. to them some months ago on a cure for insomnia. You will be happy to know that I have had a deluge of mail on the subject. And as I promised, some day I will put it all together and try to come up with some solution that will help so many of you get a good night's sleep. Meanwhile, to those who haven't written me about their experiences with sleeplessness, I still extend the invitation to express their views in the name of science, and with the hope of overcoming obnoxious insomnia.

However, there are other sleep problems: being too sleepy rather than not sleepy enough:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Really my heart doesn't bleed a particle (or should I say a drop) for people who can't sleep. I would trade places with them anytime. You see, I can't stay awake! And don't you dare say I am lucky, as some idiots do.

How would these sleepless characters like it if they couldn't read a newspaper without falling asleep? (I read our Woman's Section first, otherwise I would never get to your column.) How would a woman like it if she started to doze off while trying to carry on a conversation with her husband's boss? Or falling asleep in church, not only during the sermon, but during the parts when you stand up?

SLEEPS IN CHURCH

More than once I have found myself swaying between the pews, gripping hard on the pew in front of me to keep from crashing into it, biting my lip, pinching myself, talking to myself, trying desperately to stay awake.

And can you enjoy a movie or play? I can't. I sleep through half of it. I doze off at basketball games, too, with the crowd screaming and stomping, etc.

I can drink coffee by the gallon, wash my face with cold water, get up and walk around, etc., etc., and nothing does any good.

And I love life! I'm not a dreary, dull soul. I get excited about things and I like to go places and do things. (Of course I always doze off in cars and trains.)

I hate it, this business of being half asleep all the time. I feel as if I am sleeping my life away. And people who have trouble sleeping complain!

For your information, I am taking two grains of thyroid a day. Also occasionally I take a Desoxyn tablet to help keep me awake. All this medication on doctor's orders, of course.

That's my story. After reading your S.O.S. on insomnia I just had to write. So please, during your investigations on sleep, see if you can do something about us poor sleepyheads!—Mrs. A.

APPROVES TREATMENT

Comment: Interesting, Mrs. A. Perhaps it will make some insomniacs feel better, knowing that there is a condition causing too much sleep.

Has your doctor given your complaint a name? Although you have hypothyroidism, you may also be suffering from what we call narcolepsy.

Thyroid often helps. So does Desoxyn. Sometimes we also try (or alternate with) Ritalin, Benzedrine, Dexedrine and similar medicines.

Perhaps you need larger doses than you have been getting, to keep you awake. Ask your doctor about that.

Meanwhile, let's hope that you don't get so well that you will soon be complaining of insomnia. That would be a switch, wouldn't it?

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "How to Manage Arthritis," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER
U. S. Senator From Arizona

I POINTED OUT in a recent column the many similarities between the assumption of statehood by the Congo and Kenya. The record of violence and bloodshed compiled in the former Belgian colony when United Nations troops cut short Katanga's ambitions for self-determination has been splashed on news pages around the world and needs no recounting here.

In Kenya, however, the explosive charge which again could shatter African peace has not been detonated, although the fuse has been ignited by Somali demands for independence.

Thus, the situation in that section of Kenya which borders on Somalia and which is populated by Somali tribesmen is, in many respects, similar to that which existed in Katanga.

There is, however, one important difference — a difference which should establish for all time the principles, or lack thereof, upon which the United Nations operates.

THE DIFFERENCE is that the Katangese and their leader, Moise Tshombe, who now is in exile, were and are strongly anti-Communist. The Somalis, as well as the neighboring nation of Somalia, are pro-Communist and are receiving ample weaponry from the Soviets to enforce their will.

What makes the crisis particularly sticky for the United Nations and all those who consider the world organization above reproach is the basic question of self - determination, around which the entire U. N. structure ostensibly was built. Unfortunately, however, this principle has never been applied by the United Nations to those peoples who need it most — the formerly free nations now held in bondage by the Communist bloc — but only against the West.

All the African "emerging nations" which were colonies of our European allies have been plunged willy-nilly into what the United Nations considers self-government. In some cases, the United Nations tacitly approved the transfer of colonies from our western allies to pro-Red dictators and "neutralist" nations which have consistently voted against us in the United Nations.

THE ENDING OF Dutch "colonial" rule over West New Guinea and transfer of that territory, against the will of its natives, to Indonesia's Sukarno and the rape of Goa and the Portugese enclaves by India are examples.

On the other hand, no serious protest has come from the world body about the continued enslavement of Hungary, Poland, East Germany or any of the other truly "captive nations."

In the Congo, the biggest roadblock to a Red takeover — first through Patrice Lumumba and then Antoine Gizenga — was the strongly pro-western Tshombe and his Katangans. That Tshombe and the Katangans wanted nothing more nor less than self-determination, the right supposedly guaranteed to all by the U. N. charter, was embarrassing indeed to those who supported the war against them.

WITH KHRUSHCHEV demanding the elimination of Tshombe and Katangan independence, some quick rationalization was required. The United Nations — and our own ambassador to that body, Adlai Stevenson — launched a campaign against Katangan "secession," this being a far better term to oppose than "self-determination."

But now the glove is on the other hand. The Somalis are pro instead of anti-Communist, and their drive to gain independence from Kenya undoubtedly will have the support of the Communists and the so-called Afro-Asian bloc in the United Nations. It is a pretty good bet that the world organization will refer to the Somali ambition as "self - determination" rather than "secession."

And it also is a fair guess that no blue - helmeted troops will be flown into Kenya aboard U. S. planes to put down the Somali independence movement and "restore unity."

The next few weeks should unfold this exciting drama before the world, and all of us will be able to judge, firsthand, just what it is that the United Nations represents.

How do you stand, sir?

Republicans Face Uneasy Situation

SOME OF THE Republican leaders who thought six months ago their party had a real chance to win the presidency in 1964 now are saying in private that they may have difficulty holding the party together this year. As to winning the presidency, they now rate that an outside possibility.

Under the circumstances, speculation along that line at the moment has switched to the urgency of the battle to hold G.O.P. strength in Congress and in governorships. Control of State legislatures usually turns on local issues.

The accession of President Lyndon Johnson muddled the Republican outlook, it is now being realized, in complicating the nomination of a Republican presidential candidate by increasing the number of aspirants without improving the outlook for party success.

At the same time the change may have weakened the prospect for extensive Republican gains in Congress, though this is of course uncertain. At most, it did not improve the party's chance to carry the House of Representatives, though the Republican headquarters still are convinced they have a chance to gain in the Senate, since terms of only nine Republican Senators expire in 1965, and all of them have at least an even chance for reelection.

AT THE MOMENT there is no leading candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, so the candidates for the most part are shooting at each other, which politicians call a "divisive tactic," to be frowned upon. In 1960, Vice President Richard Nixon had no opposition after Governor Nelson M. Rockefeller withdrew as a candidate, and thereafter waltzed to the nomination, with Harold M. Stassen as his only heckler. At that time most polls showed Nixon a likely presidential victor.

Now Stassen has put himself in the picture again, and Nixon is standing in the wings, obviously waiting a call to the stage which may never come.

Because of the division among other candidates, Republican delegations from the 11 Southern States can put Senator Goldwater in the lead at the San Francisco convention, thought his chance for the nomination seems to have shrunk. But if Goldwater isn't named on an early ballot party leaders fear the convention will degenerate into a dog fight, the like of which no Republican presidential convention has seen in this century. Predictions of a long wearisome battle, with a compromise nominee, contain no encouragement for victory. They are just a prelude for a long wearisome and one sided campaign.

THIS DOES NOT keep some of the more level headed Republicans in Congress from wishing that the party had a middle of the road dark horse candidate of some appeal, just in case the civil rights battle, coupled with a slow down of economic conditions, should render President Johnson more vulnerable than he is now.

The Johnson expectancy is based on his continued good health and the Republican difficulty in settling on a candidate. That is due in large measure to the odd political conduct of Richard M. Nixon since the last election in which he lost the presidency to John F. Kennedy by only 110,000 popular votes. Only 12 years before Thomas E. Dewey who had been heavily defeated by President Roosevelt in 1944, came within an ace of winning the presidency in 1948. But he had played the game according to Republican rules and the party had no hesitancy in naming him for a second time.

The sole Republican seeming to answer the quiet prayer at the moment is Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania, who will be 47 years old on July 19, just about the day the Republican convention meets in San Francisco.

SCRANTON IS THE least known nationally of all Republican candidates, sincerely does not want the nomination but would not be true to family tradition if he did not accept it if offered as a draft. His mother, Mrs. Worthington Scranton, was for some years vice chairman of the Republican National Committee and such a well known party figure that she was called "Mrs. Republican" by convention followers. The city of Scranton, in which he lives, was founded by his family.

Out of the mix of better-known names — Nixon, Rockefeller, Romney, Stassen, Henry Cabot Lodge — only Goldwater still stands about where he did before November 22. He has no national organization and not many State leaders but as a candidate, there has been no change in his status. He is still the great individualist, to his enemies as well as his friends.

The Week In Focus

Here And There

The Panama situation has more or less boiled down to a battle of words, double talk and what have you. Despite this, however, there is no doubt but what a major problem still exists. President Lyndon Johnson more or less offered an olive branch the past week when he said the U.S. is willing to "seek solution to all problems dividing this country and Panama. He urged Panama to agree to meet for discussions on the present crisic without demanding preconditions for the meeting. In the minds of those who really understand the situation, it is doubtful if Panama really wants full control of the canal. Mainly what Panama wants is a larger share of the profits. The reason — Panama knows that if it abrogates its treaty with the U.S. it will be quick prey to powerful Colombia. The U.S. aided Panama in gaining its independence from Colombia and the Colombian military has been waiting every since to grab it back . . .

RUSK

THE HOUSE Foreign Affairs Committee has begun a study of a project financed by the Agency for International Development to build a 380-megawatt nuclear power plant in India. What upsets the Congressmen is that General Electric, which is putting up the plant, is planning one much more powerful for half the cost in New Jersey. Secretary of State Dean Rusk has been told about the study in a closed-door hearing. Cost of the Indian plant at Tarapur is $114 million, of which aid is advancing $80 million. The GE plant proposed for this country is a 600-megawatt operation to cost $68 million Industry sources say the transportation costs shouldn't run more than $1 million . . .

THE INTIMATE CONNECTION between mind and matter in medicine, which is getting more and more attention from doctors, has been given some careful testing in Britain. The latest issue of the Royal Society of Medicine reports on the experiments of two doctors at Oxford's Radcliffe Infirmary on 48 patients undergoing surgery. When the patients began to feel their first post-operative pains, 26 were given shots of morphine, while 22 were given a placebo consisting of a common salt solution. One-third of those given the salt shots got relief from their pain. The researchers also found that Doctors themselves can play an important part in making a placebo work. If, for instance, a doctor believes in a new drug, it can have almost miraculous effect . . .

REAL ECONOMY. Recently President Johnson, in his famous economy move, set a limit of 10 Limousines for the officials of the Defense Department. Actually at the time he set the number, the number of Limousines assigned to the Pentagon was only 10 anyway. . .

WEST GERMAN highway safety officials are experimenting with luminous driving surfaces to improve night driving visibility. The surface contains aluminum particles mixed with the paving asphalt . . .

FINNISH medical authorities have come up with a good theory. They believe there is a close relationship between the spread of flu and the distribution of first class mail. The connection was first suspected when a recent outbreaks of flu quickly ended during a two-week postal strike. The Finnish minister of health reasons that sick persons write letters which then carry the flu germs to healthy friends . . . So if you have the flu don't write to your friends — write your enemies. . .

THE INTERNAL Revenue Service has just ruled that under some circumstances transportation expenses paid in attending Alcoholics Anonymous meetings are tax deductible. IRS says that such expenses qualify when a person becomes a member of AA upon competent medical advice that membership is necessary for the treatment of a disease involving excessive use of alcohol . . .

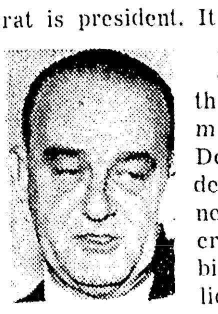
NOTE TO MERCHANTS. A researcher for a retail chain, looking into ways to stop bad check passing, asked a Michigan prison convict sentenced on the charge how he thought check cashers could best protect themselves. The convict's answer: If you are obligated to cash a check for a stranger you are not sure of, ask him to roll his thumb over an ink pad and leave the print on the check. If the check is bad, nine times out of ten he will balk and walk out .. . .

The Johnson Budget

President Johnson — like his predecessors — has to juggle the usual and the unexpected, which is all right except when the unexpected hits him, as it did Johnson.But even the usual can look brand new, unless you have a lively memory. For instance, when a president trots his budget message into the congressional stadium.

Then it's like an Army-Navy football game—cheers and jeers. That happened the past week when Johnson sent his budget to Congress—a budget that on the surface calls for $9 .9 billion which he says is a giant step toward the elimination of red ink spending.

Most Democrats found the budget delightful, Republicans looked for holes in the budgetary line. It's like when a Democrat is president. It's like when a Republican is president.



JOHNSON

Basic here is what the budget was: Spending—$97.9 billion, $900 million less than was requested in fiscal 1964 and $500 million less than actually appropriated. Deficit — $4.9 billion, $5.1 billion below deficit estimated for fiscal year ending next June 30. Revenues—Estimated to increase in fiscal 1965 to $93 billion, up $4.6 billion over 1964. Debt—Anticipated $10 billion deficit in present fiscal year will cause $312 billion national debt on June 30 when debt limit automatically is cut from 315 billion to permanent ceiling of $285 billion.

In the message, Johnson urged earliest possible enactment of the tax cut, $1.1 billion for an all out attack on problem of proverty, defense spending 1.1 billion from present fiscal year total of $51.2 billion. He also asked spending estimated at $1.6 billion, up $300 million over 1964, on federal aid to education. This would include aid to private and parochial schools, which in the past has brought on a tremendous fight as a large majority believe the aid to church schools constitutes a violation of the separation of church and state. The late President Kennedy termed such aid as unconstitutional. He was a Roman Catholic. Johnson is a protestant.

Republicans have voiced barbed words of doubt about the budget's practicality. Said House GOP leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana: "A fast buck budget that must have been put together with mirrors." And House GOP whip, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois saw it as "nothing more than a deceptive political document, long on optimism and short on realism."

In fact, many Republicans and some Democrats have said that spending will go up rather than down under Johnson's so-called frugality budget.

One example was cited by Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen. He termed the budget one of "gimmicks." For example, he said, it is proposed to keep Rural Electrification Administration receipts in a revolving fund to meet its expenditures. "These don't show up as an item of expenditures and the plan would deny Congress a look at what REA is spending," he added.

At any rate the budget and congressional work on it is expected to provide a lot of headlines.

Washington Briefly

SECRETARY of State Dean Rusk has urged this country's allies to stop trading with Cuba. He said such trade could frustrate efforts to reduce the Communist threat from Cuba. Rusk charged that Cuba continues to export "active terrorism" into Latin America and that the recent disturbances in Panama were "immediacly exploited by terrorists trained in Cuba." . . .

AN AMENDMENT has been written into the Constitution banning the poll tax as a condition for voting in elections for federal office. The South Dakota Senate ratified the 24th Amendment by a vote of 34 to 0. The House had approved it last week. Thus that state became the 38th one to approve the amendment. Ratification by three-fourths of the 50 states was required. The amendment does not affect Louisiana, in that poll tax is not required in any election . . .

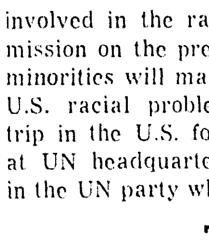
MEANWHILE, the Senate Finance Committee has completed action on a massive $11.5 billion tax cut bill that would slash tax rates for just about every U.S. taxpayer and corporation. It would be the biggest reduction in history if it is approved by Congress. Leaders claimed chances were good for Congressional approval by March 1. The bill is expected to be called up for action in the Senate next week.. . .

PRESIDENT Johnson has called for Congressional approval of both the civil rights bill and the tax cut proposal by Lincoln's birthday. It appears doubtful that it will get it by that time, but most congressional leaders now concede that the President will get just about what he wants on both issues.

THE SENATE also the past week made history by voting to require that Senators confine their speeches to the pending subject for three hours each day when an important bill is being discussed. The rule change limits the traditional practice of allowing any senator to talk on any subject at any time regardless of the pending business. The change has no effect on present rules requiring a two-thirds vote to cut off debate and leaves senators free to speak on any subject after the three-hour period of germaneness is ended each day. Opposition to the rule change was led by Sens. Everett M. Dirksen, GOP minority leader, and Richard B. Russell of Georgia . . .

OFFICIALS SAY Panama's break with the U.S. may cost that country much — but perhaps not all — of its $21 million U.S. aid program. Aid operations in the country have been suspended for all practical purposes because of the withdrawal of U.S. personnel into the Canal Zone .. . .

PRESIDENT Johnson has called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev to broaden his proposals for a worldwide nonaggression pact to outlaw indirect as well as direct aggression and provide greater security for West Berlin. Both Khrushchev and Johnson have been exchanging numerous letters on the subject of world peace . . .



PEARSONS

CANADA'S Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, who has talked with both President Johnson and French President Charles de Gaulle, conceded there are many U.S. French differences but says they are not unbridgeable. At a press conference after his final meeting with Johnson in Washington the past week, Pearson denied a report he wanted to act as a friendly broker between the two . . .

A RELIABLE radar system for detecting tornadoes is now possible, an Air Force radar research scientist says, and until such a system is set up "we must all share the guilt for the injured and dead." The views of David Atlas, a member of the staff of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center in Bedford, Mass., are expressed in the current Bulletin of ths American Meteorological Society . . .

MEANWHILE, Sen. John Tower, Republican of Texas, believes the GOP can still carry most of the South against President Johnson if they nominate a "strikingly different" candidate for the White House. He said it was time to dispel what he called false notions which have developed about the South since Johnson, a Texan, became president. But he said the GOP still has a magnificent potential in the south."

NOW IT APPEARS we will let the United Nations become involved in the racial situation in the U. S. A UN subcommission on the prevention of discrimination and protection of minorities will make a four-day visit to Atlanta, Ga., to study U.S. racial problems first hand. It will be the first field trip in the U.S. for the commission which has met annually at UN headquarters for 16 years. Several Negroes will be in the UN party which will be in Atlanta over the weekend. . .

The Baker Case

Senate investigators delving into the financial maneuverings of Robert G. Baker the past week turned up a number of interesting facts — one that could become a presidential campaign issue.

Among other things they turned up what one of them called a phony $100,000 bank deposit designed to deceive a federal government agency. The Senate Rules Committee developed testimony that Baker, 35, former Senate page boy, filed financial statements picturing his net worth as zooming from $11,025 in 1954 to $2,166,996 in 1963. Through maneuvering and the borrowing of $100,000 from a Silver Springs, Md., bank, Baker and his associates then were able to use the deposit slip to help them obtain a 20-year $54,400 disaster loan from the Small Business Administration to which they were not entitled.

In another phase of the investigation, it showed that Don B. Reynolds, an associate of Baker, gave President Johnson a stereo set and purchased advertising time on a Texas television station while selling $200,000 insurance on Johnson's life.

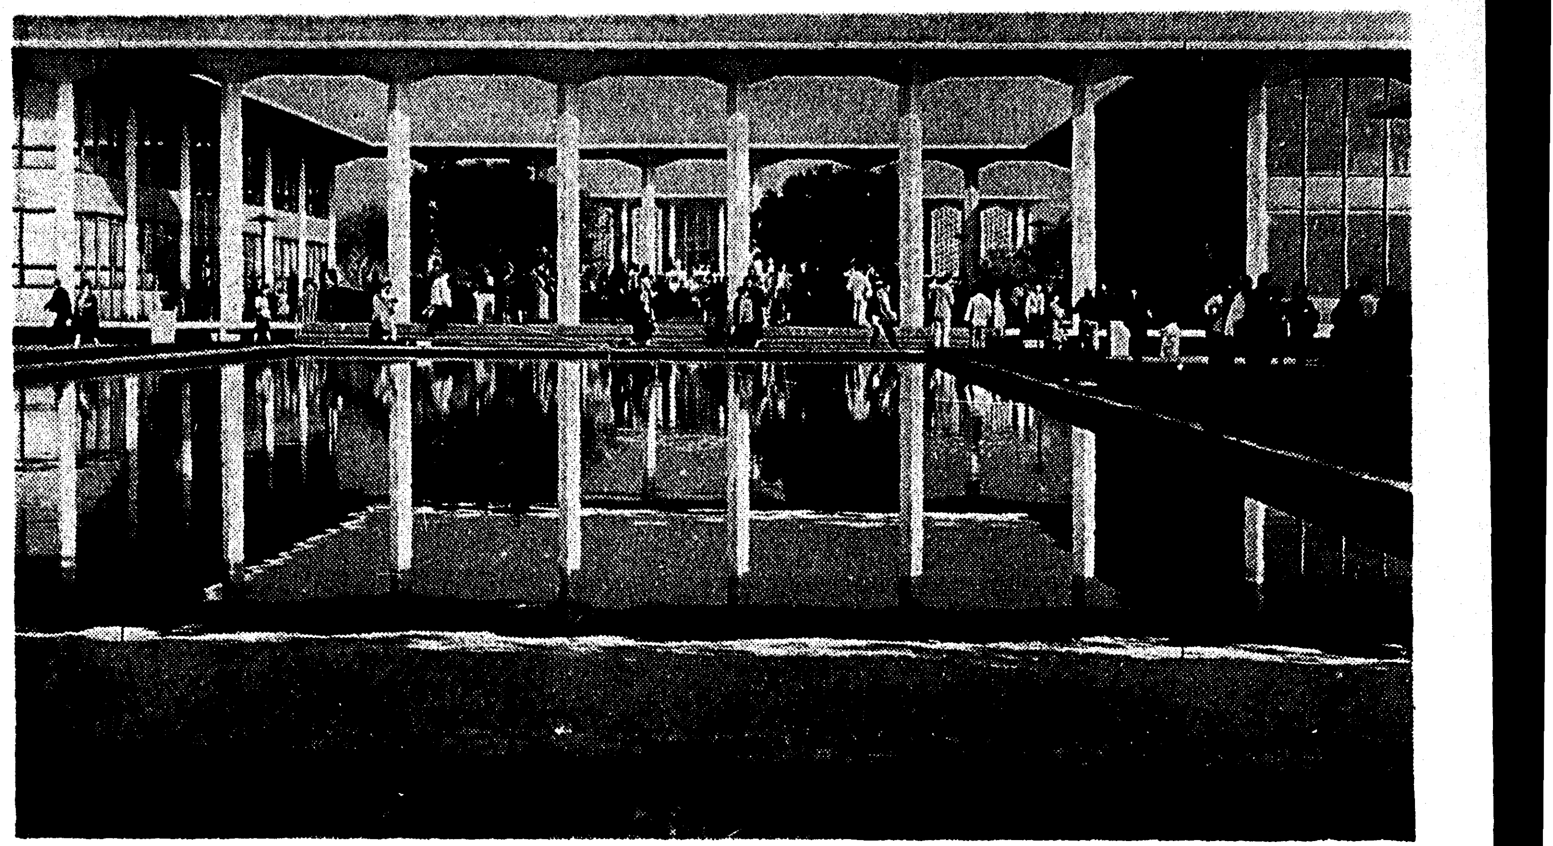
Reynolds said he had the stereo set installed in Johnson's home — that was before he became president — at the suggestion of Baker.

Later Johnson said he thought the stereo set was a gift from an associate and friend and thought nothing about it. He said the Johnsons and Bakers had exchanged gifts before and that in offering the phonograph, Baker "expected nothing in return."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says Johnson's explanation should end the matter. However Republicans sensing an election year issue, are pressing this and other facts of the inquiry.

Meanwhile, in the House Rep. H. R. Gross has called for a separate House investigation, adding this "scandal has so many ramifications that it would appear the House should set up a special committee to examine some of the tangents of the Baker probe."

Baker was a protege of Johnson when the President was the Senate Democratic leader. He resigned his $19,600-a-year post under fire last Oct. 7.



THE FAST-GROWING College of San Mateo is one of 71 junior colleges which are bringing California close to its goal of free higher education for everyone. It has 5,441 day students, another 10,000 in the evening, and a new $15-million campus. On Education

A Special Report

EDITOR'S NOTE—To land a job today an applicant needs at least a high school diploma and, more often than not, a higher degree. Here is a special report on one attempt to provide the training required through free education for all.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—The junior college, long-scorned stepchild of education—unloved, unwanted and ridiculed—has come into its own in California.

Like Cinderella, it has been transformed into the belle of the ball. Like Cinderella, it has a future both dazzling and awesome.

Two-year junior or community colleges are skyrocketing in enrollment and prestige all across the country, but nowhere more than in California. Here, the goal of free higher education for all is nearing reality.

This year there is a tuition-free public junior college within commuting distance of 80 per cent of the state's high school graduates. More than 352,000 degree-seeking students are attending these 71 institutions.

Students

Nationwide, there are about one million students enrolled in 425 public and 278 private junior colleges.

Many of California's JC students will be content with only one or two years of general or vocational education, and those working toward a degree won't necessarily get it. But at least 25 per cent, and probably more, will go on to four-year colleges and universities.

Because they are locally controlled and financed, there may be no such thing as a typical California junior college. The College of San Mateo, however, may serve as an illustration of how they have grown in size and importance.

The college—then called San Mateo Junior College—opened in the fall of 1922 with a student body of 30. Today it has 5,441 day students, and another 10,000 in the evening college.

The college's first classes were held in the hallways and spare classrooms of an old high school building. Last Sept. 30, the college moved into its own $15-million campus high atop a hill with a magnificent view of San Francisco Bay.

The 1922-23 budget was $4,821. The 1962-63 budget was $5,059,000—75 per cent from local taxes, 25 per cent from the state.

Most remarkable of all, in all these years the San Mateo Junior College district has never asked for a tax increase. The one bond issue submitted to the voters, for $5.9 million, was approved by a 3-1 margin.

By operating economically, saving its money, and investing wisely, the district had nearly $10 million in reserves when it came time to build its new campus.

Even before the move into the present College Heights campus, there were definite plans to open one branch campus by 1965, another by 1967. Possible sites for a third branch are under active consideration.

To pay for this further expansion, the voters will be asked to approve a $12.8-million bond issue next March 24.

And what are the taxpayers getting for their money?

—A community resource which opens the door of higher education to every resident of the district, regardless of age, race, color, creed, financial circumstances or educational background.

—A second-chance opportunity for the "late bloomers" and "early goofers" who didn't know when it counted that they would want or need more education.

—A training school for those who want to update old skills or learn new ones, and—importantly—for local industries which needs especially trained manpower.

—Community cultural center with plays, concerts and lectures, and soon to have a 70,000 book library, a UHF television station, and an FM radio station.

No Tuition

The students pay no tuition.

If they live within the junior college district—and 90 per cent of them do—their annual educational expenses for books, fees and activities can be kept to about $75. The San Mateo district even provides free transportation for those living any great distance from the campus.

If the students live outside the district, their local high school or junior college district pays their tuition. This varies, but averages about $590 per year. These students do, of course, have the added expense of room and board.

Sometimes districts swap students who want or need specific courses. A San Mateo student might go to San Francisco for a course in management, while a San Francisco student comes here to study microwave technology.

Even out-of-state students have paid no tuition, although that long-time practice will be ended this year.

Those who attend the evening college pay a registration fee of $2 for each three-hour course in which they register.

The savings multiply.

"Ours is a working body," says Jeannette Ruffin of the office. "Two out of three of our day students hold down some kind of an outside job.

"By going to a tuition-free institution, living at home, and working part time, they are able to save up for the greater expense of going away to a four-year college or university to finish their education."

About 8,000 of the 10,000 students in the evening college are adults taking college level courses. Most of these classes meet one night a week for three hours.

"There is no way of determining how many of these 8,000 are going on to a two-year or four-year degree," Mrs. Ruffin said in an interview, "but most of them say they are.

"Some may work steadily for a degree, others may spread the work out over many years."

Of the 5,441 now in the day school, Mrs. Ruffin said, roughly half are planning to transfer to four-year institutions. Of the balance, about two-thirds are taking strictly vocation-technological courses.

These figures pretty well jibe with the state-wide statistics. However, as one state official pointed out, accurate figures are hard to pin down.

About a third of those who go to our junior colleges could have gone originally to the more selective state colleges or university," said Emil O. Toews, chief of the State Bureau of Education.

"These students can and do transfer at the end of one, two, three or four semesters.

"Others may stay out of school for a year or so after they finish junior college and before going on to higher institutions."

One thing seems certain; the junior college graduates hold their own after they transfer.

"On the seven campuses of the state university, an average of 50 per cent of the junior class started in junior college," Toews said. "Some of these institutions report that as many as 97 per cent of the JC transfers stay on for graduation—a truly remarkable figure.

There are three links in the chain of public higher education in California—the huge state university, with seven campuses in operation and two more in preparation; the 15 state colleges, with two more under construction, and the 71 junior colleges.

The university now admits only the top 12½ per cent of applying freshmen. These admission standards are likely to become even more stringent, as the university moves toward becoming essentially a graduate school.

The state colleges also are selective, and likely to become more so.

This leaves the public junior college as the easiest, most convenient, and least expensive entryway to higher education in the state.

State figures indicate that this academic year, 83 per cent of all part-time and full-time students in grades 13 and 14 in public institutions of higher education in California are enrolled in the public JC's.

In just two years, this enrollment has jumped from 266,399 to 352,390. This is more than double the combined junior college enrollments in the next three leading states, New York, Florida and Texas.

Here And There

The Panama situation has more or less boiled down to a battle of words, double talk and what have you. Despite this, however, there is no doubt but what a major problem still exists. President Lyndon Johnson more or less offered an olive branch the past week when he said the U.S. is willing to "seek solution to all problems dividing this country and Panama. He urged Panama to agree to meet for discussions on the present crisic without demanding preconditions for the meeting. In the minds of those who really understand the situation, it is doubtful if Panama really wants full control of the canal. Mainly what Panama wants is a larger share of the profits. The reason — Panama knows that if it abrogates its treaty with the U.S. it will be quick prey to powerful Colombia. The U.S. aided Panama in gaining its independence from Colombia and the Colombian military has been waiting every since to grab it back . . .

THE HOUSE Foreign Affairs Committee has begun a study of a project financed by the Agency for International Development to build a 380-megawatt nuclear power plant in India. What upsets the Congressmen is that General Electric, which is putting up the plant, is planning one much more powerful for half the cost in New Jersey. Secretary of State Dean Rusk has been told about the study in a closed-door hearing. Cost of the Indian plant at Tarapur is $114 million, of which aid is advancing $80 million. The GE plant proposed for this country is a 600-megawatt operation to cost $68 million Industry sources say the transportation costs shouldn't run more than $1 million . . .

THE INTIMATE CONNECTION between mind and matter in medicine, which is getting more and more attention from doctors, has been given some careful testing in Britain. The latest issue of the Royal Society of Medicine reports on the experiments of two doctors at Oxford's Radcliffe Infirmary on 48 patients undergoing surgery. When the patients began to feel their first post-operative pains, 26 were given shots of morphine, while 22 were given a placebo consisting of a common salt solution. One-third of those given the salt shots got relief from their pain. The researchers also found that Doctors themselves can play an important part in making a placebo work. If, for instance, a doctor believes in a new drug, it can have almost miraculous effect . . .

REAL ECONOMY. Recently President Johnson, in his famous economy move, set a limit of 10 Limousines for the officials of the Defense Department. Actually at the time he set the number, the number of Limousines assigned to the Pentagon was only 10 anyway. . .

WEST GERMAN highway safety officials are experimenting with luminous driving surfaces to improve night driving visibility. The surface contains aluminum particles mixed with the paving asphalt . . .

FINNISH medical authorities have come up with a good theory. They believe there is a close relationship between the spread of flu and the distribution of first class mail. The connection was first suspected when a recent outbreaks of flu quickly ended during a two-week postal strike. The Finnish minister of health reasons that sick persons write letters which then carry the flu germs to healthy friends . . . So if you have the flu don't write to your friends — write your enemies. . .

THE INTERNAL Revenue Service has just ruled that under some circumstances transportation expenses paid in attending Alcoholics Anonymous meetings are tax deductible. IRS says that such expenses qualify when a person becomes a member of AA upon competent medical advice that membership is necessary for the treatment of a disease involving excessive use of alcohol . . .

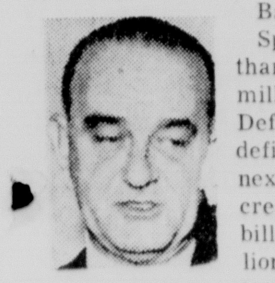
NOTE TO MERCHANTS. A researcher for a retail chain, looking into ways to stop bad check passing, asked a Michigan prison convict sentenced on the charge how he thought check cashers could best protect themselves. The convict's answer: If you are obligated to cash a check for a stranger you are not sure of, ask him to roll his thumb over an ink pad and leave the print on the check. If the check is bad, nine times out of ten he will balk and walk out .. . .

The Johnson Budget

President Johnson — like his predecessors — has to juggle the usual and the unexpected, which is all right except when the unexpected hits him, as it did Johnson.But even the usual can look brand new, unless you have a lively memory. For instance, when a president trots his budget message into the congressional stadium.

Then it's like an Army-Navy football game—cheers and jeers. That happened the past week when Johnson sent his budget to Congress—a budget that on the surface calls for $97.9 billion which he says is a giant step toward the elimination of red ink spending.

Most Democrats found the budget delightful, Republicans looked for holes in the budgetary line. It's like when a Democrat is president. It's like when a Republican is president.



JOHNSON

Basic here is what the budget was: Spending—$97.9 billion, $900 million less than was requested in fiscal 1964 and $500 million less than actually appropriated. Deficit — $4.9 billion, $5.1 billion below deficit estimated for fiscal year ending next June 30. Revenues—Estimated to increase in fiscal 1965 to $93 billion, up $4.6 billion over 1964. Debt—Anticipated $10 billion deficit in present fiscal year will cause $312 billion national debt on June 30 when debt limit automatically is cut from 315 billion to permanent ceiling of $285 billion.

In the message, Johnson urged earliest possible enactment of the tax cut, $1.1 billion for an all out attack on problem of proverty, defense spending 1.1 billion from present fiscal year total of $51.2 billion. He also asked spending estimated at $1.6 billion, up $300 million over 1964, on federal aid to education. This would include aid to private and parochial schools, which in the past has brought on a tremendous fight as a large majority believe the aid to church schools constitutes a violation of the separation of church and state. The late President Kennedy termed such aid as unconstitutional. He was a Roman Catholic. Johnson is a protestant.

Republicans have voiced barbed words of doubt about the budget's practicality. Said House GOP leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana: "A fast buck budget that must have been put together with mirrors." And House GOP whip, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois saw it as "nothing more than a deceptive political document, long on optimism and short on realism."

In fact, many Republicans and some Democrats have said that spending will go up rather than down under Johnson's so-called frugality budget.

One example was cited by Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen. He termed the budget one of "gimmicks." For example, he said, it is proposed to keep Rural Electrification Administration receipts in a revolving fund to meet its expenditures. "These don't show up as an item of expenditures and the plan would deny Congress a look at what REA is spending," he added.

At any rate the budget and congressional work on it is expected to provide a lot of headlines.

Washington Briefly

SECRETARY of State Dean Rusk has urged this country's allies to stop trading with Cuba. He said such trade could frustrate efforts to reduce the Communist threat from Cuba. Rusk charged that Cuba continues to export "active terrorism" into Latin America and that the recent disturbances in Panama were "immediaely exploited by terrorists trained in Cuba." . . .

AN AMENDMENT has been written into the Constitution banning the poll tax as a condition for voting in elections for federal office. The South Dakota Senate ratified the 24th Amendment by a vote of 34 to 0. The House had approved it last week. Thus that state became the 38th one to approve the amendment. Ratification by three-fourths of the 50 states was required. The amendment does not affect Louisiana, in that poll tax is not required in any election . . .

MEANWHILE, the Senate Finance Committee has completed action on a massive $11.5 billion tax cut bill that would slash tax rates for just about every U.S. taxpayer and corporation. It would be the biggest reduction in history if it is approved by Congress. Leaders claimed chances were good for Congressional approval by March 1. The bill is expected to be called up for action in the Senate next week.. . .

PRESIDENT Johnson has called for Congressional approval of both the civil rights bill and the tax cut proposal by Lincoln's birthday. It appears doubtful that it will get it by that time, but most congressional leaders now concede that the President will get just about what he wants on both issues.

THE SENATE also the past week made history by voting to require that Senators confine their speeches to the pending subject for three hours each day when an important bill is being discussed. The rule change limits the traditional practice of allowing any senator to talk on any subject at any time regardless of the pending business. The change has no effect on present rules requiring a two-thirds vote to cut off debate and leaves senators free to speak on any subject after the three-hour period of germaneness is ended each day. Opposition to the rule change was led by Sens. Everett M. Dirksen, GOP minority leader, and Richard B. Russell of Georgia . . .

OFFICIALS SAY Panama's break with the U.S. may cost that country much — but perhaps not all — of its $21 million U.S. aid program. Aid operations in the country have been suspended for all practical purposes because of the withdrawal of U.S. personnel into the Canal Zone .. . .

PRESIDENT Johnson has called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev to broaden his proposals for a worldwide nonaggression pact to outlaw indirect as well as direct aggression and provide greater security for West Berlin. Both Khrushchev and Johnson have been exchanging numerous letters on the subject of world peace . . .

CANADA'S Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, who has talked with both President Johnson and French President Charles de Gaulle, conceded there are many U.S. French differences but says they are not unbridgeable. At a press conference after his final meeting with Johnson in Washington the past week, Pearson denied a report he wanted to act as a friendly broker between the two . . .

A RELIABLE radar system for detecting tornadoes is now possible, an Air Force radar research scientist says, and until such a system is set up "we must all share the guilt for the injured and dead." The views of David Atlas, a member of the staff of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center in Bedford, Mass., are expressed in the current Bulletin of ths American Meteorological Society . . .

MEANWHILE, Sen. John Tower, Republican of Texas, believes the GOP can still carry most of the South against President Johnson if they nominate a "strikingly different" candidate for the White House. He said it was time to dispel what he called false notions which have developed about the South since Johnson, a Texan, became president. But he said the GOP still has a magnificent potential in the south."

NOW IT APPEARS we will let the United Nations become involved in the racial situation in the U. S. A UN subcommission on the prevention of discrimination and protection of minorities will make a four-day visit to Atlanta, Ga., to study U.S. racial problems first hand. It will be the first field trip in the U.S. for the commission which has met annually at UN headquarters for 16 years. Several Negroes will be in the UN party which will be in Atlanta over the weekend. . .

The Baker Case

Senate investigators delving into the financial maneuverings of Robert G. Baker the past week turned up a number of interesting facts — one that could become a presidential campaign issue.

Among other things they turned up what one of them called a phony $100,000 bank deposit designed to deceive a federal government agency. The Senate Rules Committee developed testimony that Baker, 35, former Senate page boy, filed financial statements picturing his net worth as zooming from $11,025 in 1954 to $2,166,996 in 1963. Through maneuvering and the borrowing of $100,000 from a Silver Springs, Md., bank, Baker and his associates then were able to use the deposit slip to help them obtain a 20-year $54,400 disaster loan from the Small Business Administration to which they were not entitled.

In another phase of the investigation, it showed that Don B. Reynolds, an associate of Baker, gave President Johnson a stereo set and purchased advertising time on a Texas television station while selling $200,000 insurance on Johnson's life.

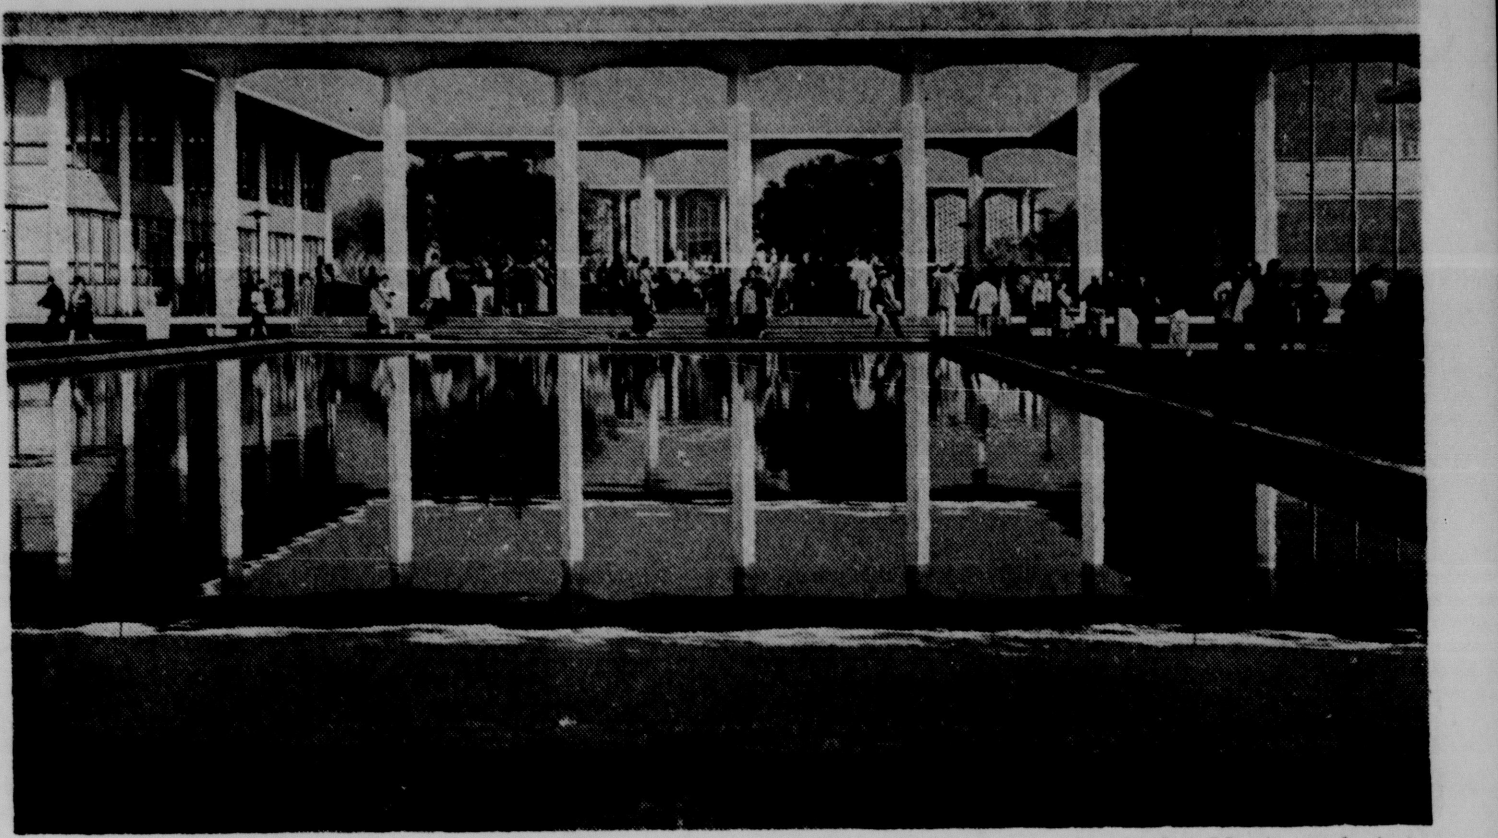
Reynolds said he had the stereo set installed in Johnson's home — that was before he became president — at the suggestion of Baker.

Later Johnson said he thought the stereo set was a gift from an associate and friend and thought nothing about it. He said the Johnsons and Bakers had exchanged gifts before and that in offering the phonograph, Baker "expected nothing in return."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says Johnson's explanation should end the matter. However Republicans sensing an election year issue, are pressing this and other facts of the inquiry.

Meanwhile, in the House Rep. H. R. Gross has called for a separate House investigation, adding this "scandal has so many ramifications that it would appear the House should set up a special committee to examine some of the tangents of the Baker probe."

Baker was a protege of Johnson when the President was the Senate Democratic leader. He resigned his $19,600-a-year post under fire last Oct. 7.



THE FAST-GROWING College of San Mateo is one of 71 junior colleges which are bringing California close to its goal of free higher education for everyone. It has 5,441 day students, another 10,000 in the evening, and a new $15-million campus. On Education

A Special Report

EDITOR'S NOTE—To land a job today an applicant needs at least a high school diploma and, more often than not, a higher degree. Here is a special report on one attempt to provide the training required through free education for all.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—The junior college, long-scorned stepchild of education—unloved, unwanted and ridiculed—has come into its own in California.

Like Cinderella, it has been transformed into the belle of the ball. Like Cinderella, it has a future both dazzling and awesome.

Two-year junior or community colleges are skyrocketing in enrollment and prestige all across the country, but nowhere more than in California. Here, the goal of free higher education for all is nearing reality.

This year there is a tuition-free public junior college within commuting distance of 80 per cent of the state's high school graduates. More than 352,000 degree-seeking students are attending these 71 institutions.

Students

Nationwide, there are about one million students enrolled in 425 public and 278 private junior colleges.

Many of California's JC students will be content with only one or two years of general or vocational education, and those working toward a degree won't necessarily get it. But at least 25 per cent, and probably more, will go on to four-year colleges and universities.

Because they are locally controlled and financed, there may be no such thing as a typical California junior college. The College of San Mateo, however, may serve as an illustration of how they have grown in size and importance.

The college—then called San Mateo Junior College—opened in the fall of 1922 with a student body of 30. Today it has 5,441 day students, and another 10,000 in the evening college.

The college's first classes were held in the hallways and spare classrooms of an old high school building. Last Sept. 30, the college moved into its own $15-million campus high atop a hill with a magnificent view of San Francisco Bay.

The 1922-23 budget was $4,821. The 1962-63 budget was $5,059,000—75 per cent from local taxes, 25 per cent from the state.

Most remarkable of all, in all these years the San Mateo Junior College district has never asked for a tax increase. The one bond issue submitted to the voters, for $5.9 million, was approved by a 3-1 margin.

By operating economically, saving its money, and investing wisely, the district had nearly $10 million in reserves when it came time to build its new campus.

Even before the move into the present College Heights campus, there were definite plans to open one branch campus by 1965, another by 1967. Possible sites for a third branch are under active consideration.

To pay for this further expansion, the voters will be asked to approve a $12.8-million bond issue next March 24.

And what are the taxpayers getting for their money?

—A community resource which opens the door of higher education to every resident of the district, regardless of age, race, color, creed, financial circumstances or educational background.

—A second-chance opportunity for the "late bloomers" and "early goofers" who didn't know when it counted that they would want or need more education.

—A training school for those who want to update old skills or learn new ones, and—importantly—for local industries which needs especially trained manpower.

—Community cultural center with plays, concerts and lectures, and soon to have a 70,000 book library, a UHF television station, and an FM radio station.

No Tuition

The students pay no tuition.

If they live within the junior college district—and 90 per cent of them do—their annual educational expenses for books, fees and activities can be kept to about $75. The San Mateo district even provides free transportation for those living any great distance from the campus.

If the students live outside the district, their local high school or junior college district pays their tuition. This varies, but averages about $590 per year. These students do, of course, have the added expense of room and board.

Sometimes districts swap students who want or need specific courses. A San Mateo student might go to San Francisco for a course in management, while a San Francisco student comes here to study microwave technology.

Even out-of-state students have paid no tuition, although that long-time practice will be ended this year.

Those who attend the evening college pay a registration fee of $2 for each three-hour course in which they register.

The savings multiply.

"Ours is a working body," says Jeannette Ruffin of the office. "Two out of three of our day students hold down some kind of an outside job.

"By going to a tuition-free institution, living at home, and working part time, they are able to save up for the greater expense of going away to a four-year college or university to finish their education."

About 8,000 of the 10,000 students in the evening college are adults taking college level courses. Most of these classes meet one night a week for three hours.

"There is no way of determining how many of these 8,000 are going on to a two-year or four-year degree," Mrs. Ruffin said in an interview, "but most of them say they are.

"Some may work steadily for a degree, others may spread the work out over many years."

Of the 5,441 now in the day school, Mrs. Ruffin said, roughly half are planning to transfer to four-year institutions. Of the balance, about two-thirds are taking strictly vocation-technological courses.

These figures pretty well jibe with the state-wide statistics. However, as one state official pointed out, accurate figures are hard to pin down.

About a third of those who go to our junior colleges could have gone originally to the more selective state colleges or university," said Emil O. Toews, chief of the State Bureau of Education.

"These students can and do transfer at the end of one, two, three or four semesters.

"Others may stay out of school for a year or so after they finish junior college and before going on to higher institutions."

One thing seems certain; the junior college graduates hold their own after they transfer.

"On the seven campuses of the state university, an average of 50 per cent of the junior class started in junior college," Toews said. "Some of these institutions report that as many as 97 per cent of the JC transfers stay on for graduation—a truly remarkable figure.

There are three links in the chain of public higher education in California—the huge state university, with seven campuses in operation and two more in preparation; the 15 state colleges, with two more under construction, and the 71 junior colleges.

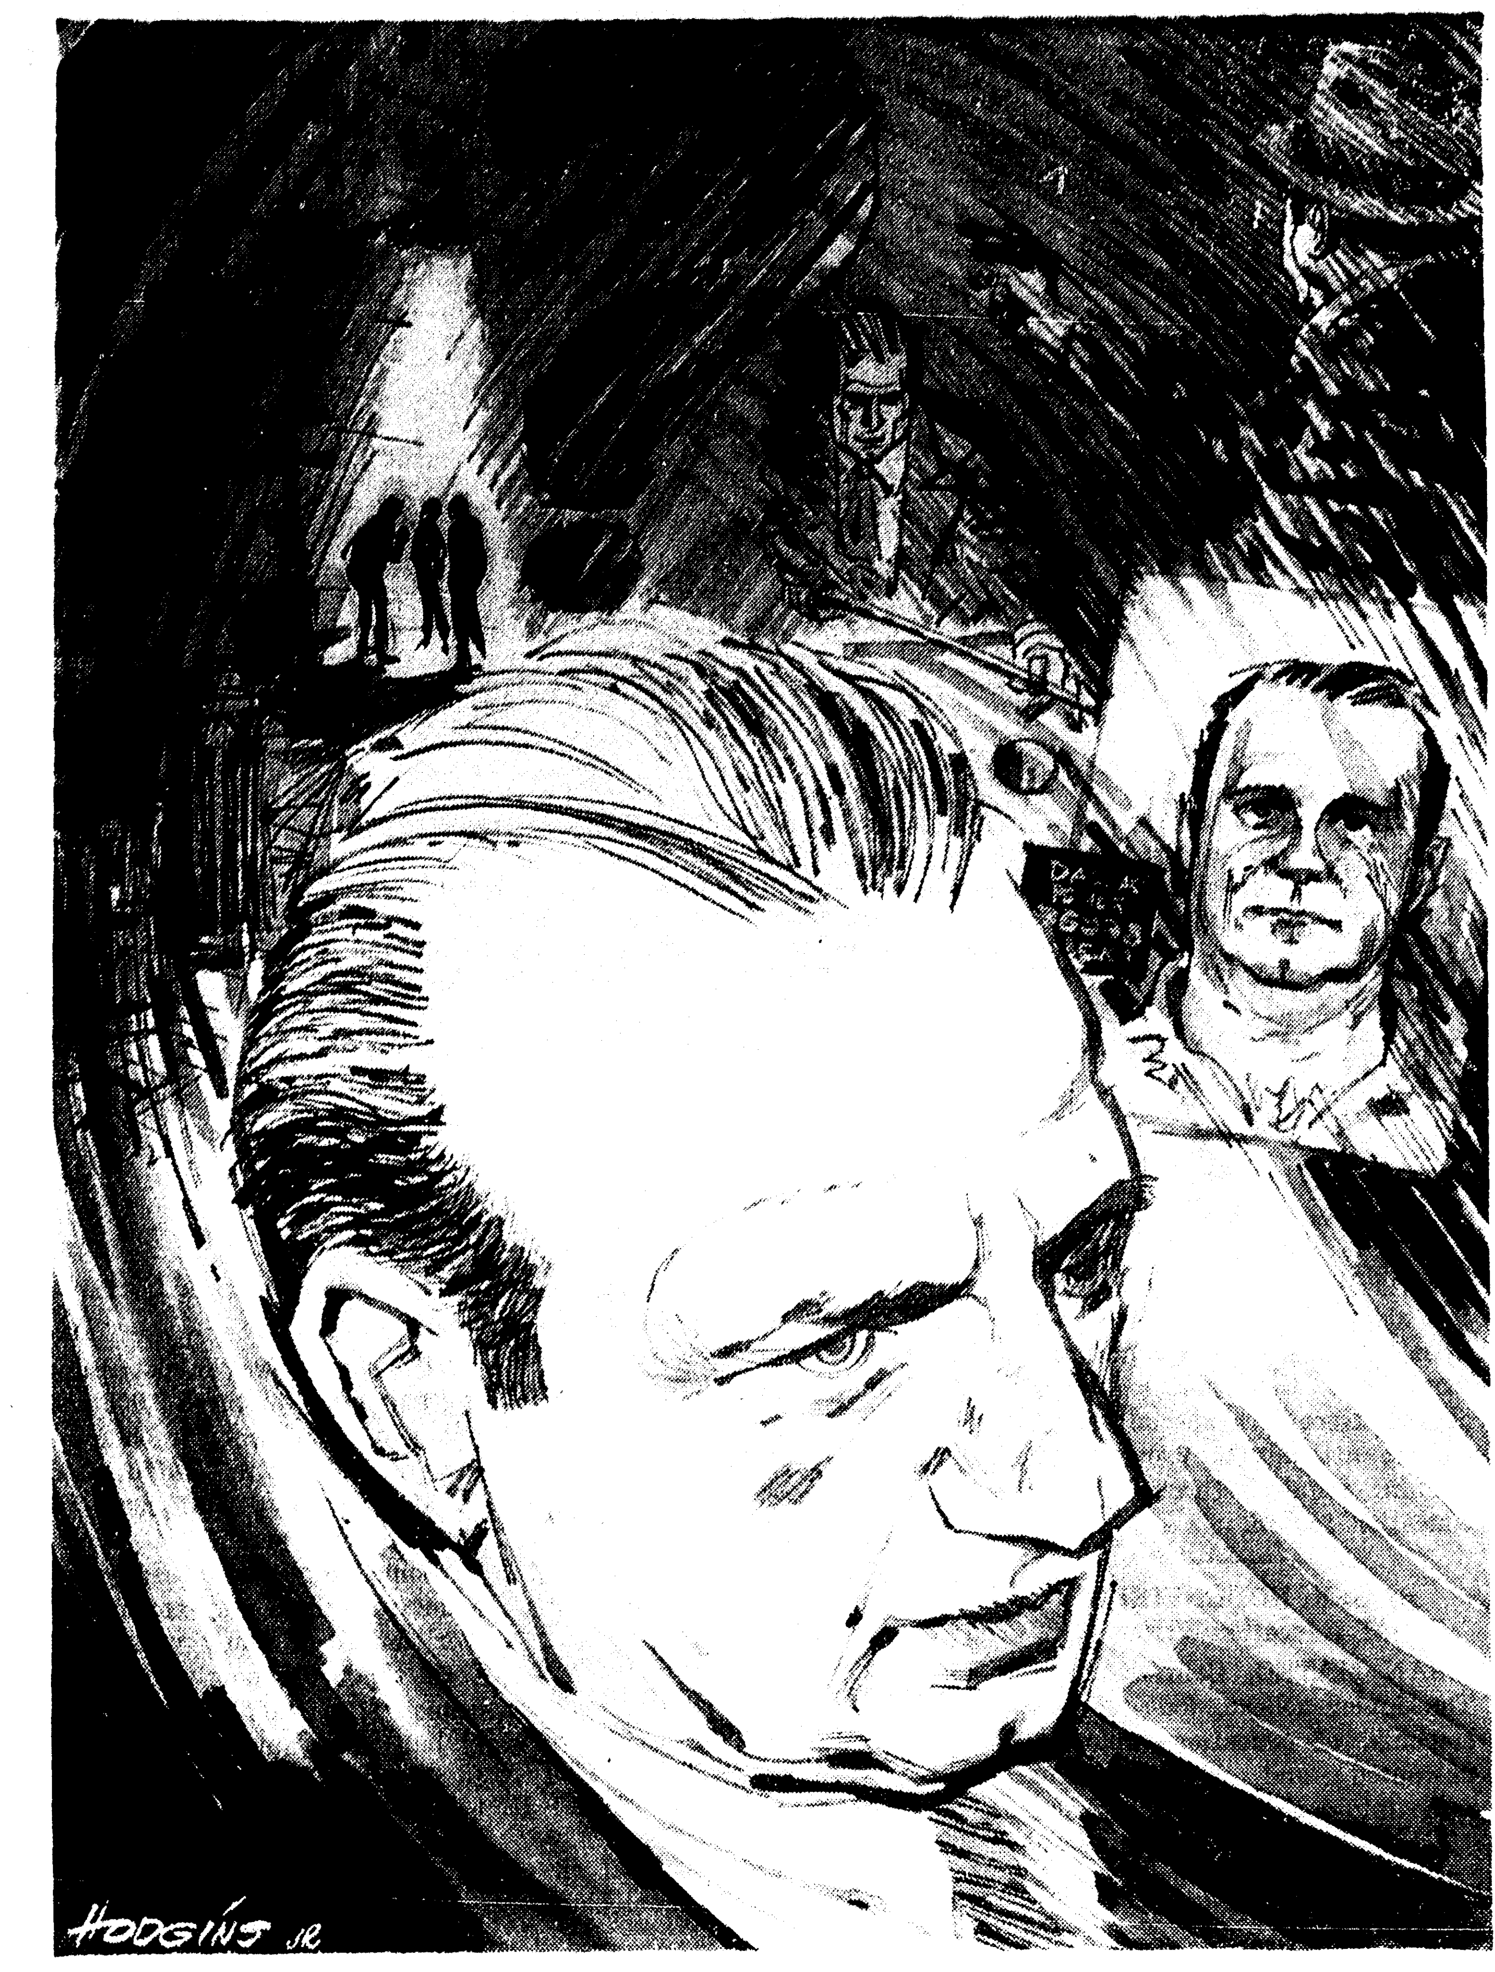
The university now admits only the top 12½ per cent of applying freshmen. These admission standards are likely to become even more stringent, as the university moves toward becoming essentially a graduate school.

The state colleges also are selective, and likely to become more so.

This leaves the public junior college as the easiest, most convenient, and least expensive entryway to higher education in the state.

State figures indicate that this academic year, 83 per cent of all part-time and full-time students in grades 13 and 14 in public institutions of higher education in California are enrolled in the public JC's.

In just two years, this enrollment has jumped from 266,399 to 352,390. This is more than double the combined junior college enrollments in the next three leading states, New York, Florida and Texas.



Ruby's Background

By BERNARD GAVZER

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby killed more than a man. He killed a secret.

The bullet he fired Sunday, Nov. 24, 1963, while millions watched on television, destroyed Lee Harvey Oswald and gave history an unanswerable riddle:

Why was President John F. Kennedy assassinated?

A mountain of evidence—circumstantial though it is—points to Oswald as the killer. But before Oswald could begin to provide answers to the riddle, Ruby pushed his way into the picture and killed Oswald.

Why?

Answer

There have been quick answers: he was insane with grief and killed impulsively to avenge the president. He killed to get publicity for himself and the strip joint he operated. He was part of a super-plot.

Ruby's behavior in jail indicates he may be troubled by the question, too.

He apparently gives little thought to his fate.

"He talks, oh my, how he talks," says one of Ruby's visitors, "but not once have I heard him ask, 'What will happen to me.' He does ask, 'Do people approve of me?'

"Just this week, he spoke with me nearly two hours, and over and over he talked about that Sunday morning. It was like hearing a man talking about something that didn't happen to him, as though he was trying to figure out to whom it did happen. He goes over every single detail, over and over, as though he is trying to learn something or find something."

One of his most frequent visitors is his sister, Eva Grant. Her visits are welcome, but decades of brother-sister bickering do not vanish easily. Something about a recent visit caused Mrs. Grant to recall that when they lived in San Francisco in the early 1930s, Ruby got so angry with her one night he fled their apartment complaining, "If this was my wife, I'd divorce her, but how can you divorce a sister?"

He doesn't herald her visits with the pride and satisfaction that he displays for some people, such as the rabbi of a substantial conservative synagogue in Dallas.

"Ah, see, you guys," he called out to jailers during a visit by Dr. Hillel Silverman of Congregation Shearith Israel, "I've got a classy visitor now."

Among others stamped classy by Ruby are the noted psychiatrist, Dr. Manfred Guttmacher of the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins; Dr. Roy Schafer, a psychologist from Yale University; Melvin Belli, the handsome and articulate lawyer from San Francisco. Belli heads Ruby's defense; Schafer has given Ruby a battery of tests, and Guttmacher has examined him psychiatrically.

Keeps Trim

Prison routine hasn't cooled Ruby's passion for keeping trim. With close to 185 pounds on his 5-foot-9 frame, he is stocky. But exercise keeps him solid. His thinning hair worries him.

He still swings between emotional extremes. Old Dallas acquantiances say "Ruby is the kind of guy who reads a newspaper and lives it. He reads about a kid getting polio or a dog getting run over, and he cries. The same way in a movie. If the good guy gets double-crossed, Ruby acts like it happens to him."

Most of all he worries about what people think of him.

"When he reads letters from people who tell him he did right, or otherwise compliment him," says one of his visitors, "his spirits go way up. He says he has had no mail from anyone criticizing him. Maybe they only give him the complimentary mail. I don't know."

"Class" is an important word to Ruby.

Source Says

A source close to the prosecution says:

"Ruby is a class-conscious nobody who saw an opportunity to do something that would put him in the public eye and even make him a hero. He wasn't insane. He was rational. But he figured wrong. He's not a hero; he's a heel. Because of fouling up history."

The defense seems to agree too. Indications are it will try to show that Ruby's preoccupation with class not only was irrational but at certain times bordered on insanity.

Ruby was the sixth of nine children born to Joseph Rubenstein, a carpenter from Sokolow, Poland, and his wife, Fannie. He was born March 25, 1911, in a flat on Johnson Street, now Peoria Street, in an area of Chicago known as the Maxwell Street ghetto.

They called the youngster Jake.

In the Smith Elementary School yard, young Jake learned the toughening games of buck-buck and run-sheep-run and kick-the-can. He also learned to fight the Italians who came down from Taylor Street in Little Sicily.

His sister, Eva, remembers him as a kid who moved lazily. She called him "Sparkplug," after a plug-horse in a popular comic strip. He also was called Jack.

The ghetto kids were shunted onto the street and stayed there until it got too dark or too cold. But one place the Rubenstein children always found a warm welcome was the Holy Family school.

"We played a lot in the basement at Holy Family," recalls Earl Ruby, now 48 and proprietor of a cleaning and dyeing business in Detroit. "The nuns were wonderful to us. They gave us milk and cookies in the afternoon."

The Rubensteins kept moving from flat to flat with their eight children. One daughter, Jeanette, died in 1909 at the age of two from injuries suffered when she was scalded in the kitchen.

By the time Jake entered the Shepard school, he apparently was a hellion. "Sparkplug" became Sparky, a name that has remained with him, specially among his Chicago friends.

"Sparky was a real scrapper, even when he was 10," says brother Earl. "He was always getting into fights and winning 'em. I think that's the main reason pa liked him so much. He was the old man's favorite."

The boys — Hyman, now 61 and salesman of florist supplies in Chicago; Sam, now 50 and operator of an automatic laundry servicing business in Dallas; Earl and Jack—all had to attend religious school after regular school hours.

"It was worse than anything," Earl recalls. "I don't know how many times Sparky took a hit on the head. We used to get such a hit with the ruler."

But Earl and another sister, Marian, called Mary by her brothers, agree there was a lot good that could be said for the old days.

"Listen, everybody was the same, everybody spoke the same language," Earl says. "When we lived on the West Side, away from Maxwell Street it was a place with compensations. There were wonderful places to eat. I think it was near the Gold Theater there was Fluky's where they had nickel hot dogs with everything on them—everything."

The family was having troubles that the younger kids couldn't understand. Joseph and Fannie separated in 1923. Sparky, Earl, Sam and baby sister Eileen were placed in foster homes.

Ruby reached confirmation age, 13, while in a foster home. But he never had a bar mitzvah, the traditionally vital event in Jewish life.

Being 13 also meant a boy got his first long pants, and he could go into Davey Miller's, a popular poolroom hangout on Roosevelt Road.

The elder Rubensteins reconciled in 1925 and moved into a new flat on the West Side. Sparky and the others had their first Thanksgiving turkey in this flat, sister Marian says, "and ma also learned how to make chop suey with kosher food because we told her how delicious it was."

Big Event

The big event in Jewish social life was the Sunday softball game. Sparky was good at it.

"He was a — of a ball player," says brother Earl. "Sparky wasn't just good, he had that extra something. He was a scrapper, a go-go guy."

A scrapper was admired, so it was no surprise that Sparky's first hero should be Barney Ross, later world welterweight and lightweight champion.

"When I was in the amateurs, Sparky was with me. He'd come around to carry my bags and go in free at the club fights," says Ross. "He was with me the night I won the Golden Gloves in '29. I've been his friend ever since."

Sparky had little knack for schooling. He dropped out of Roosevelt High School after six months. He was then 16.

The depression brought political zealots of all hues into the ghetto, but if the Rubensteins paid any attention it escaped notice.

"The only thing political I remember," says Earl, "was wrestling at the Democratic party meetings for a couple of bucks.

"We were too busy hustling for every cent we could. We'd do everything. Scalp tickets at Wrigley Field and at Comiskey Park and at Soldier Field. At the football games we'd ask people if we could watch their cars. The idea was that if they didn't tell you okay, they could expect the air out of their tires."

The guys who used to hang out at Davey Miller's still remember the 1927 Dempsey-Tunney fight mostly for the guys who got in free. Sparky was one.

"We snuck in all right," says Benny Barrish, now a liquor salesman in San Francisco. "But that story about Sparky having a metal plate in his head because a cop clobbered him with a night stick is bunk. A cop did throw a stick. But he didn't hit anyone."

In 1933, Sparky went west, along with Benny Barrish and a few others from the neighborhood.

"I was fighting as a featherweight," says Barrish," and working my way west by fighting. But when we got to Frisco, we all went into the canvassing business, what they call 'conning the doors.' "

Sister Eva also joined the subscription sellers. The newspapers paid the sales company from 75 to 90 cents for each one-month subscription. A salesman could make $15 a day, and a real hustler could even pick up $30.

"Sparky was —— good at it," says Benny Barrish. "He conned the doors for the Examiner and would tell people all kinds of stories, like if he sold 10 subscriptions the sales crew would win a radio to give to the blind, or with one more subscription he could get a scholarship."

Eva Grant, married and divorced, set up a home for her young son, brother Sparky, friend Benny and another young man from Chicago on Jones Street, in the San Francisco tenderloin.

"That place we lived in," she remembers, "every night guys would come looking for Opal, Violet, Denise, Maurren. I never even heard such names."

Easy women were all right, but Ruby, it is said, sought something else in a woman. He found it in a girl bearing the name of a revered theater family.

"She was a very high class, refined girl," Ruby told one of his visitors recently. "But her mother couldn't see me. She broke it up."

Ruby left San Francisco in 1937 to join an old friend, Leon R. Cooke, in a plan to organize junkyard workers in Chicago.

About the same time his mother was committed to Elgin State Hospital at the request of Hyman, the oldest child. Drs. John J. Madden and Francis A. Bulak concluded that "her disease is senile deterioration, paranoid state." She was paroled once, readmitted and finally discharged as improved in 1938.

Impressed

With Cooke, Ruby impressed some people as being a caricature of a movie bodyguard.

"Sparky would just stand there with Cooke," recalls an attorney who had an office near Cooke's law office on Chicago's Randolph Street. "He'd stand there, saying nothing, nicely dressed, holding his hands in front of him like some goof."

Cooke was killed in December 1939 and according to an attorney who was very close to the situation, "It didn't seem like there was any room for Sparky any more. One thing I'm sure of though is that he never was on the payroll of the Waste Material Handlers Union."

The union was expelled from the AFL-CIO during a corruption purge in 1957.

Ruby worked around Chicago "concessioning sporting events and concerts and things like that," as he puts it. Others translate this to mean he sold souvenirs, programs, etc., until he was drafted.

He received training as an Army Air Corps mechanic at Republic Aviation Corp.'s factory-training course at Farmingdale, N.Y. He emerged with a rating of "very satisfactory."

He saw service at five camps —Keesler Field, Miss., Seymour Johnson Field, S.C. (where he qualified as a sharpshooter with a carbine), Bluehenthal Field, N.C., Chatham Field, Ga., and Drew Field, Fla. Mustered out in 1946, he went to Dallas a year later at the suggestion of Eva Grant, who had moved there earlier.

They opened a night club called the Silver Spur on South Ervay Street. It subsequently was succeeded by a place called the Club Vegas. Backed in part by a friend, he opened the Carousel, a brassy strip-tease joint in downtown Dallas.

Ruby, who changed his name legally from Jake Rubenstein to Jack Leon Ruby in 1948, soon had a reputation in Dallas as a guy who wanted class.

"He wanted to be liked, and he was," says Joe Cavagnaero, a hotel executive. "He'd do anything for you if he liked you. He could be in the hole to someone but he'd still loan you money if you needed it."

His idea of the ultimate in class was a man who would dedicate his life to something, despite its heartaches and aggravation.

Once Mysterious U2 Becoming A Workhorse Of Space Research

By RALPH DIGHTON

Associated Press Science Writer

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The once-mysterious U2, a winged Mata Hari originally built to vault cameras across the Iron Curtain, is fast becoming a drab workhorse of near-space research.

Function

Their "sky spy" function now largely taken over by Samos and Discoverer satellites, U2 pilots now spend many of their long, monotonous hours in the air on vital but unglamorous missions like these:

1. Laying eggs. From altitudes in excess of 60,000 feet, U2s drop 300-pound capsules which simulate the film-containing nose cones kicked away from reconnaissance satellites. Discoverer and Samos capsules are recovered over the Pacific. U2 capsules are dropped over land, and cargo planes from this desert base practice snagging them as they parachute to earth.

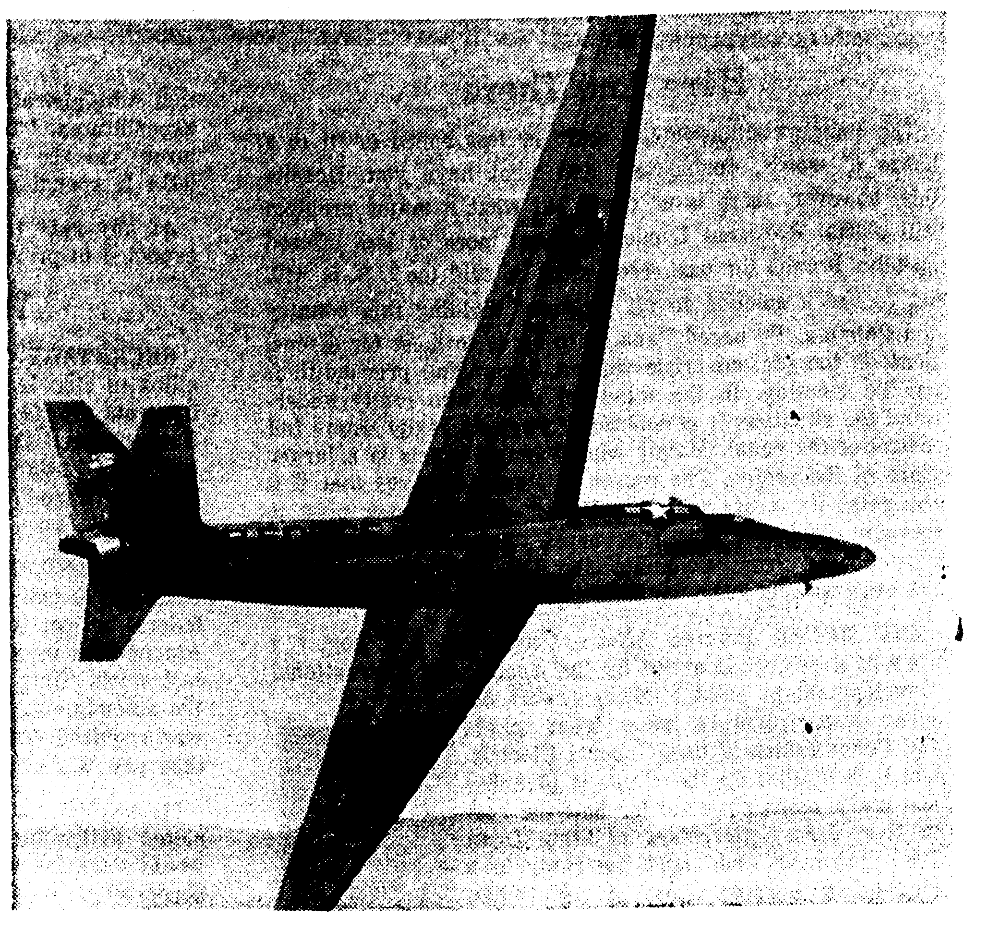
2. Missile tracking. For the past three years U2s equipped with infrared (heat) measuring devices—they look like small pickle barrels mounted behind the pilot's cockpit—have monitored missile launches from Cape Kennedy, Fla., and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. This study is aimed at improving Midas satellites' ability to detect missile launchings and warn U.S. defense forces.

3. Double-checking the X15. On many of its high-speed flights, the U.S. space agency rocket plane carries an Air Force camera package. Pictures taken from the X15 are distorted by air friction heat which sometimes builds up to 1200 degrees Fahrenheit on the X15's skin. These are compared with undistorted photos of the same area taken at much lower speeds and altitudes from a U2.

4. Hunting storms. With its unique ability to loiter for hours at heights reportedly up to 17 miles, the U2 not only can photograph hurricanes from vantage points unattainable by ground-based weathermen, it can watch them develop over long periods—up to eight hours at a time. U2 photographs, sharper and closer, frequently are used to pin-point potential storms detected by the Tiros weather satellite.

Research

5. High altitude research. U2 pilots don't always know the purpose of the black boxes carried on their planes, but it's a good guess some of them are instruments being developed for super U2s which could police nuclear test ban agreements.



THEIR "SKY SPY" role largely ended, two U2s fly out of Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., on a scientific research chore. Satellites now do the spying functions, while the once mysterious high-flying U2 carries out unglamorous high altitude research of various sorts. It's monotnous work and there's no danger of being shot down, but the plane, with its long glider like wings, still is tricky to fly. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Under the heading of high-altitude research also falls a project, calling for 500 hours of flying, to investigate a turbulence found at heights where there is supposed to be little air. U2s are measuring this turbulence to assist in the design of proposed supersonic transports which will cruise at altitudes above 60,000 feet. Flights in this study have taken U2s from Alaska to the equator.

For the past three years—ever since the destruction of a U2 over the Soviet Union, May 1, 1960 brought an official promise they would not be used again to spy on Soviet territory —U2s have been channeled into an increasing research-and-development role.

Some still are used for military purposes: photographic reconnaissance over Cuba, Red China and other areas.

The growth of the U2 as a scientific tool is indicated, however, by the establishment of a unit here at Edwards AFB, headed by Lt. Col. Harry Andonian, which is strictly for research. The unit has numbered as many as seven planes, currently has five.

Andonian says the three U2s normally based here and two others detached to Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., fly 25 to 30 missions a month, each lasting four to eight hours.

Andonian has a maintenance crew of 20, plus four navigators and three pilots. He is looking for more.

Volunteers qualified to fly in U2s are hard to find. The pilots must be graduates of a test pilot school and like the navigators, who really don't do much navigating but usually concentrate on running research instruments, they must be emotionally stable enough to endure long hours in the air and long trips away from home.

Learning to fly the U2 is hard enough. Its glider-like wings, so long they have to be supported by tip-wheels which drop away at take-off, carry much of the plane's fuel. This means the pilot must constantly be alert to pump fuel from one wing to the other in flight to maintain balance.

The really tricky part about flying the U2, however, is landing it.

"The big wings mean she can't land until she stalls," Andonian says. "The pilot has to make her stall just above the ground, and trained ground crews have to be on hand to grab the wing tips or she's likely to fall over.

"A new pilot coming into the unit has to make at least 50 practice landings before we feel he's properly checked out. We all make at least 10 landings a month just to keep in training."

The U2's 80-foot wingspread means another hazard for its occupants. Designed primarily to soar, the U2 can't land quickly, even in an emergency. Astronaut-like pressure suits have been developed to keep pilot and navigator alive should the cabin pressure fail.

To stay aloft for long periods, a U2 pilot has to choke his engine down to the leanest possible fuel mixture and a special vernier valve has been installed in the cockpit to enable him to do so.

This has created another hazard for U2 pilots: flame-out. If the mixture gets too lean, the fire in the jet engine goes out, and it is hard to re-start at altitudes where there is little oxygen in the air. This reportedly is what happened to U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers and brought him down within range of Soviet antiaircraft fire.

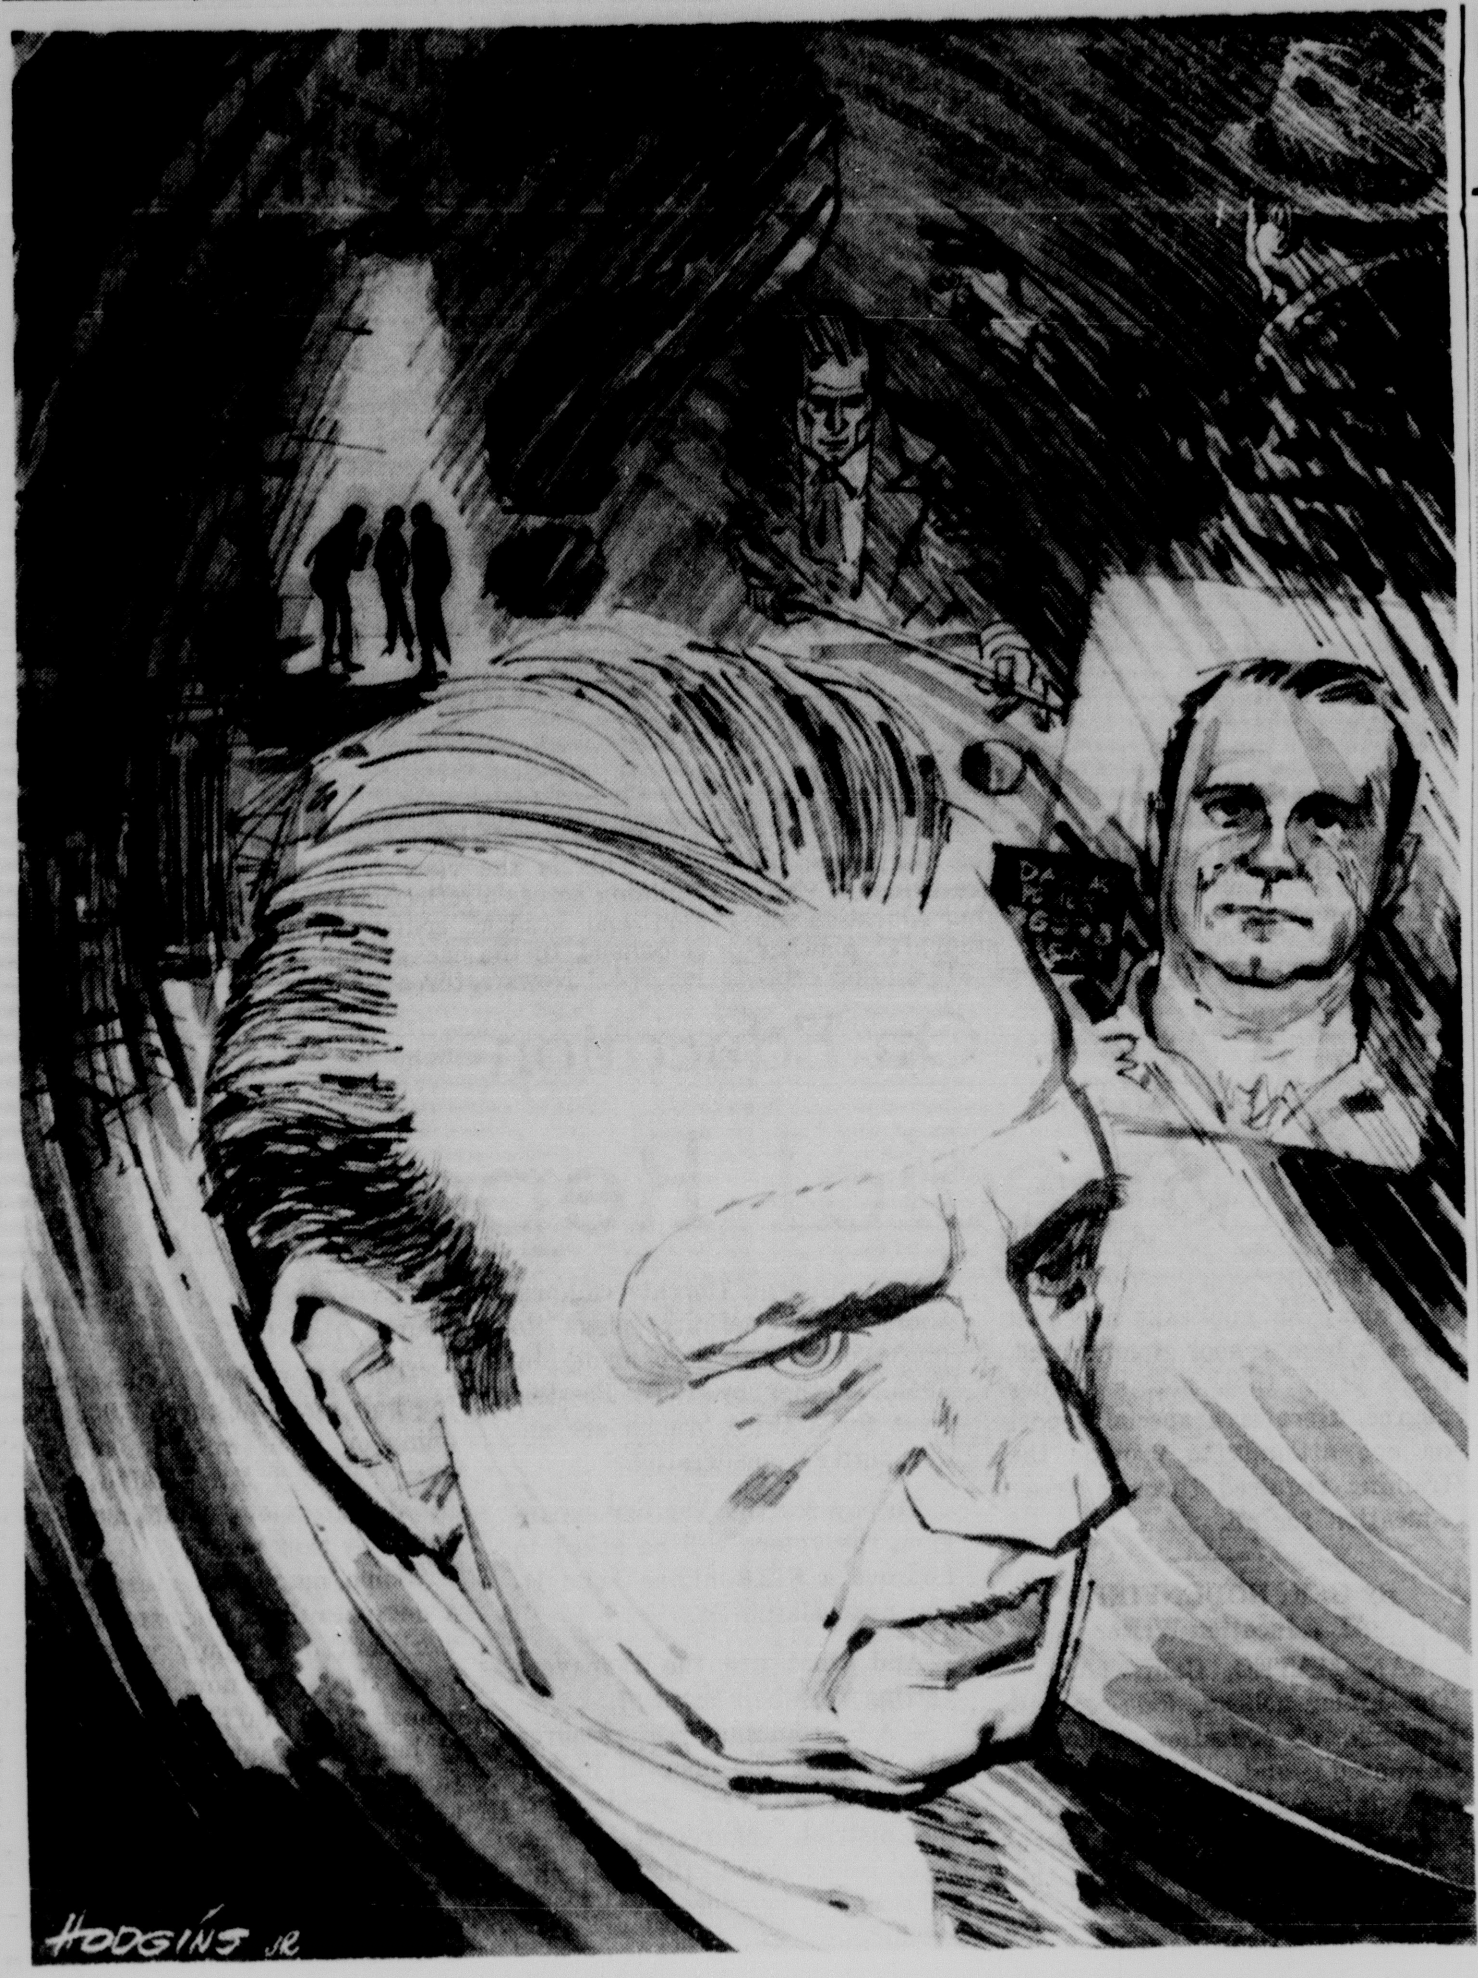
Even if there aren't any antiaircraft batteries around, the U2 pilot is still in danger after a flame-out.

The temperature outside is 90 to 100 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, and the only heat he has for warming his cabin and defrosting his windshield comes from the engine.

What do U2 pilots do when this happens?

"Our suits are fairly well insulated," says Andonian, "so our immediate problem is to get rid of the ice that forms on the inside of the windshield. We claw it off with our hands."

Flame-out has been suspected in each of the five U2 losses reported to date in the Soviet, Red China and Cuban areas.



Ruby's Background

By BERNARD GAVZER

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby killed more than a man. He killed a secret.

The bullet he fired Sunday, Nov. 24, 1963, while millions watched on television, destroyed Lee Harvey Oswald and gave history an unanswerable riddle:

Why was President John F. Kennedy assassinated?

A mountain of evidence—circumstantial though it is—points to Oswald as the killer. But before Oswald could begin to provide answers to the riddle, Ruby pushed his way into the picture and killed Oswald.

Why?

Answer

There have been quick answers: he was insane with grief and killed impulsively to avenge the president. He killed to get publicity for himself and the strip joint he operated. He was part of a super-plot.

Ruby's behavior in jail indicates he may be troubled by the question, too.

He apparently gives little thought to his fate.

"He talks, oh my, how he talks," says one of Ruby's visitors, "but not once have I heard him ask, 'What will happen to me.' He does ask, 'Do people approve of me?'

"Just this week, he spoke with me nearly two hours, and over and over he talked about that Sunday morning. It was like hearing a man talking about something that didn't happen to him, as though he was trying to figure out to whom it did happen. He goes over every single detail, over and over, as though he is trying to learn something or find something."

One of his most frequent visitors is his sister, Eva Grant. Her visits are welcome, but decades of brother-sister bickering do not vanish easily. Something about a recent visit caused Mrs. Grant to recall that when they lived in San Francisco in the early 1930s, Ruby got so angry with her one night he fled their apartment complaining, "If this was my wife, I'd divorce her, but how can you divorce a sister?"

He doesn't herald her visits with the pride and satisfaction that he displays for some people, such as the rabbi of a substantial conservative synagogue in Dallas.

"Ah, see, you guys," he called out to jailers during a visit by Dr. Hillel Silverman of Congregation Shearith Israel, "I've got a classy visitor now."

Among others stamped classy by Ruby are the noted psychiatrist, Dr. Manfred Guttmacher of the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins; Dr. Roy Schafer, a psychologist from Yale University; Melvin Belli, the handsome and articulate lawyer from San Francisco. Belli heads Ruby's defense; Schafer has given Ruby a battery of tests, and Guttmacher has examined him psychiatrically.

Keeps Trim

Prison routine hasn't cooled Ruby's passion for keeping trim. With close to 185 pounds on his 5-foot-9 frame, he is stocky. But exercise keeps him solid. His thinning hair worries him.

He still swings between emotional extremes. Old Dallas acquantiances say "Ruby is the kind of guy who reads a newspaper and lives it. He reads about a kid getting polio or a dog getting run over, and he cries. The same way in a movie. If the good guy gets double-crossed, Ruby acts like it happens to him."

Most of all he worries about what people think of him.

"When he reads letters from people who tell him he did right, or otherwise compliment him," says one of his visitors, "his spirits go way up. He says he has had no mail from anyone criticizing him. Maybe they only give him the complimentary mail. I don't know."

"Class" is an important word to Ruby.

Source Says

A source close to the prosecution says:

"Ruby is a class-conscious nobody who saw an opportunity to do something that would put him in the public eye and even make him a hero. He wasn't insane. He was rational. But he figured wrong. He's not a hero; he's a heel. Because of fouling up history."

The defense seems to agree too. Indications are it will try to show that Ruby's preoccupation with class not only was irrational but at certain times bordered on insanity.

Ruby was the sixth of nine children born to Joseph Rubenstein, a carpenter from Sokolow, Poland, and his wife, Fannie. He was born March 25, 1911, in a flat on Johnson Street, now Peoria Street, in an area of Chicago known as the Maxwell Street ghetto.

They called the youngster Jake.

In the Smith Elementary School yard, young Jake learned the toughening games of buck-buck and run-sheep-run and kick-the-can. He also learned to fight the Italians who came down from Taylor Street in Little Sicily.

His sister, Eva, remembers him as a kid who moved lazily. She called him "Sparkplug," after a plug-horse in a popular comic strip. He also was called Jack.

The ghetto kids were shunted onto the street and stayed there until it got too dark or too cold. But one place the Rubenstein children always found a warm welcome was the Holy Family school.

"We played a lot in the basement at Holy Family," recalls Earl Ruby, now 48 and proprietor of a cleaning and dyeing business in Detroit. "The nuns were wonderful to us. They gave us milk and cookies in the afternoon."

The Rubensteins kept moving from flat to flat with their eight children. One daughter, Jeanette, died in 1909 at the age of two from injuries suffered when she was scalded in the kitchen.

By the time Jake entered the Shepard school, he apparently was a hellion. "Sparkplug" became Sparky, a name that has remained with him, specially among his Chicago friends.

"Sparky was a real scrapper, even when he was 10," says brother Earl. "He was always getting into fights and winning 'em. I think that's the main reason pa liked him so much. He was the old man's favorite."

The boys — Hyman, now 61 and salesman of florist supplies in Chicago; Sam, now 50 and operator of an automatic laundry servicing business in Dallas; Earl and Jack—all had to attend religious school after regular school hours.

"It was worse than anything," Earl recalls. "I don't know how many times Sparky took a hit on the head. We used to get such a hit with the ruler."

But Earl and another sister, Marian, called Mary by her brothers, agree there was a lot good that could be said for the old days.

"Listen, everybody was the same, everybody spoke the same language," Earl says. "When we lived on the West Side, away from Maxwell Street it was a place with compensations. There were wonderful places to eat. I think it was near the Gold Theater there was Fluky's where they had nickel hot dogs with everything on them—everything."

The family was having troubles that the younger kids couldn't understand. Joseph and Fannie separated in 1923. Sparky, Earl, Sam and baby sister Eileen were placed in foster homes.

Ruby reached confirmation age, 13, while in a foster home. But he never had a bar mitzvah, the traditionally vital event in Jewish life.

Being 13 also meant a boy got his first long pants, and he could go into Davey Miller's, a popular poolroom hangout on Roosevelt Road.

The elder Rubensteins reconciled in 1925 and moved into a new flat on the West Side. Sparky and the others had their first Thanksgiving turkey in this flat, sister Marian says, "and ma also learned how to make chop suey with kosher food because we told her how delicious it was."

Big Event

The big event in Jewish social life was the Sunday softball game. Sparky was good at it.

"He was a — of a ball player," says brother Earl. "Sparky wasn't just good, he had that extra something. He was a scrapper, a go-go guy."

A scrapper was admired, so it was no surprise that Sparky's first hero should be Barney Ross, later world welterweight and lightweight champion.

"When I was in the amateurs, Sparky was with me. He'd come around to carry my bags and go in free at the club fights," says Ross. "He was with me the night I won the Golden Gloves in '29. I've been his friend ever since."

Sparky had little knack for schooling. He dropped out of Roosevelt High School after six months. He was then 16.

The depression brought political zealots of all hues into the ghetto, but if the Rubensteins paid any attention it escaped notice.

"The only thing political I remember," says Earl, "was wrestling at the Democratic party meetings for a couple of bucks.

"We were too busy hustling for every cent we could. We'd do everything. Scalp tickets at Wrigley Field and at Comiskey Park and at Soldier Field. At the football games we'd ask people if we could watch their cars. The idea was that if they didn't tell you okay, they could expect the air out of their tires."

The guys who used to hang out at Davey Miller's still remember the 1927 Dempsey-Tunney fight mostly for the guys who got in free. Sparky was one.

"We snuck in all right," says Benny Barrish, now a liquor salesman in San Francisco. "But that story about Sparky having a metal plate in his head because a cop clobbered him with a night stick is bunk. A cop did throw a stick. But he didn't hit anyone."

In 1933, Sparky went west, along with Benny Barrish and a few others from the neighborhood.

"I was fighting as a featherweight," says Barrish," and working my way west by fighting. But when we got to Frisco, we all went into the canvassing business, what they call 'conning the doors.' "

Sister Eva also joined the subscription sellers. The newspapers paid the sales company from 75 to 90 cents for each one-month subscription. A salesman could make $15 a day, and a real hustler could even pick up $30.

"Sparky was —— good at it," says Benny Barrish. "He conned the doors for the Examiner and would tell people all kinds of stories, like if he sold 10 subscriptions the sales crew would win a radio to give to the blind, or with one more subscription he could get a scholarship."

Eva Grant, married and divorced, set up a home for her young son, brother Sparky, friend Benny and another young man from Chicago on Jones Street, in the San Francisco tenderloin.

"That place we lived in," she remembers, "every night guys would come looking for Opal, Violet, Denise, Maurren. I never even heard such names."

Easy women were all right, but Ruby, it is said, sought something else in a woman. He found it in a girl bearing the name of a revered theater family.

"She was a very high class, refined girl," Ruby told one of his visitors recently. "But her mother couldn't see me. She broke it up."

Ruby left San Francisco in 1937 to join an old friend, Leon R. Cooke, in a plan to organize junkyard workers in Chicago.

About the same time his mother was committed to Elgin State Hospital at the request of Hyman, the oldest child. Drs. John J. Madden and Francis A. Bulak concluded that "her disease is senile deterioration, paranoid state." She was paroled once, readmitted and finally discharged as improved in 1938.

Impressed

With Cooke, Ruby impressed some people as being a caricature of a movie bodyguard.

"Sparky would just stand there with Cooke," recalls an attorney who had an office near Cooke's law office on Chicago's Randolph Street. "He'd stand there, saying nothing, nicely dressed, holding his hands in front of him like some goof."

Cooke was killed in December 1939 and according to an attorney who was very close to the situation, "It didn't seem like there was any room for Sparky any more. One thing I'm sure of though is that he never was on the payroll of the Waste Material Handlers Union."

The union was expelled from the AFL-CIO during a corruption purge in 1957.

Ruby worked around Chicago "concessioning sporting events and concerts and things like that," as he puts it. Others translate this to mean he sold souvenirs, programs, etc., until he was drafted.

He received training as an Army Air Corps mechanic at Republic Aviation Corp.'s factory-training course at Farmingdale, N.Y. He emerged with a rating of "very satisfactory."

He saw service at five camps —Keesler Field, Miss., Seymour Johnson Field, S.C. (where he qualified as a sharpshooter with a carbine), Bluehenthal Field, N.C., Chatham Field, Ga., and Drew Field, Fla. Mustered out in 1946, he went to Dallas a year later at the suggestion of Eva Grant, who had moved there earlier.

They opened a night club called the Silver Spur on South Ervay Street. It subsequently was succeeded by a place called the Club Vegas. Backed in part by a friend, he opened the Carousel, a brassy strip-tease joint in downtown Dallas.

Don January Wrestles Lead Away From Arnie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Lanky Don January fired a steady 1-under-par 70 in Saturday's third round of the $50,000 Lucky International golf tournament to capture the lead from Arnold Palmer with a score of 204 for 54 holes.

Second round leader Palmer faltered while young Ray Floyd surged, each finishing one stroke behind January. Palmer had one double bogey and four bogeys but a stretch drive brought him down to 1-over-par 72 and his 205.

The 21-year-old Floyd missed a chance to tie for the lead when he missed a four-foot putt at Harding Park's 18th hole for a 69. Moments earlier, January had birdied the same hole from the same distance in his bid for the $7,500 top prize.

Five golfers deadlocked two strokes back at 206 including 120-pound Puerto Rican belter Juan Chi Chi Rodriguez, who had the best round of the tournament at 65.

Deadlocked with him were Gene Littler with a 67 Saturday, Jack Rule Jr., 69; Dave Ragan, 70, and Mason Rudolph, 71. Virtually unknown Al Yancey from Los Angeles moved in alone at 207 with a 66.

January, 34, from Plainview, Tex., but now playing out of Walnut, Calif., shot par golf through 11 holes. He three-putted No. 12 for a bogey, knocked in a four-foot birdie putt at 13, three-putted 14 and tapped in an 18-inch birdie putt at the 16th.

He finished up with his four-footer at the 18th, to go under par for the first time on this overcast, chilly day.

Floyd, on the other hand, didn't miss a green until the 18th. The 200-pound barrel-chested youngster, who won the St. Petersburg Open in 1963, dropped two birdie putts of 12 feet and one from 25.

Palmer carded three straight bogeys on the front nine after shooting a birdie on the first hole. His "army" of nearly 10,000 people was unruly despite a special warning before play began.

The man who won a record $128,230 last year carded his double bogey at the 10th hole. He pulled his tee shot under trees, and was forced to punch out short when he couldn't get a clear swing, because of low-lying branches.

His third shot still was short. He chipped up, then three-putted.

The field was cut to the low 63 pros and it took a 54-hole score of 217 or better to stay in.

Cut were such pros as Doug Ford, with 73-219, Phil Rodgers, 72-218, and Rex Bater, 71-218. Already out was Jack Burke Jr., who won last year.

January always has played well over the 6,722-yard municipal layout. Never worse than eighth in the Lucky, he was runner-up a year ago. Saturday provided a near repeat of history, since January held the third-round lead in 1963 by one stroke over Burke and Canadian George Knudson.

Tied behind Yancey at 208 came 49-year-old Jim Ferrier with a 66 Saturday, Tommy Jacobs at 70 and Canadian Al Balding at 69.

Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus fired a 66 Saturday but was well back at 212.

Rain was predicted for Saturday night, which would again make for soggy going in the final.

The first three days have been almost rainless, but a five-day storm preceding the tournament left the course heavy.

Leading the amateur contingent was young Guy Bill from Oakland, Calif., with a 76 and 220.

BUD WILKINSON

Political Question To Be Settled This Week

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Bud Wilkinson is expected to decide within a week whether to let his flirtation with politics develop into a fullfledged romance.

Wilkinson has been standing near the political ring for several weeks with his hat in his hand and his arm cocked.

But the 47-year-old former University of Oklahoma football coach, who's considering entering the U.S. Senate race, has delayed making an announcement until making sure the field is clear.

He is expected to run as a Republican if he decides to make the plunge. He is a registered Democrat, so a change of party affiliation probably will precede a formal announcement.

Only five more days remain during which he could change his registration.

However, one source said Saturday that Wilkinson may declare his intentions Sunday afternoon. Other sources say the announcement will come Wednesday.

Wilkinson resigned as Oklahoma football coach Jan. 11 after a successful 17-season tenure, saying he needed more time to decide about his future and that the delay would hurt the football team if he remained as coach.

He retained the athletic directorship, but a week later, charging "political maneuvering" on the part of some regents in delaying the naming of a coaching successor ,he stepped down from that post, too.

Gomer Jones, long-time Wilkinson assistant, was named coach last Sunday.

Newspaper editors attending the Oklahoma Press Association meeting in Oklahoma City were polled Friday about the upcoming Senate race and predicted Wilkinson could win the Republican nomination if he wants it.

But they also predicted Sen. J. Howard Edmondson would defeat him in the general election.

Wilkinson still holds a professorship at Oklahoma. He also has remained as special consultant to the President's Council on Physical Fitness, a non-paying post to which he was appointed in 1961 by the late John F. Kennedy.

AT SANTA ANITA

Fall Proves Fatal To Premier Filly

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Gun Bow won the $132,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes Saturday by 12 lengths but the Santa Anita feature brought tragedy — and death — to Lamb Chop, America's premier filly in 1963.

She stumbled, fell and broke an ankle and the stable said Lamb Chop was destroyed soon after.

Jockey Manuel Yeaza, who rode Lamb Chop to many of her stakes triumphs last year, was unhurt. But emotionaly upset, he withdrew from the last race of the day.

Gun Bow ridden by Bill Shoemaker was the betting favorite with the crowd of about 52,000. Lamb Chop, the lone filly in the race, was the second choice.

Gun Bow, a stakes winner here last week, equalled the track record of 1:59 4-5 set by the great Round Table in the 1¼-mile race in 1958. Shoemaker was the Table's rider that day.

Rocky Link was second in a photo-finish decision over Win-em-All, with Big Raff fourth.

The winner paid $6, $4.60 and $3.60. Rocky Link, with Don Pierce up, returned $25.60 and $13. Win-em-All, an entry with Sy Gem, paid $5.

The victory was worth $87,000 to Gun Bow's Gedney Farms.

Jockey Johnny Longden hustled Nevada Battler into a quick lead, with Sky Gem and Win-em-All in close pursuit as the pack went past the grandstand the first time.

Lamb Chop was third from last at this stage. Gun Bow was rated around fourth, and moving in the second spot as they rounded the clubhouse turn.

Shoemaker kept Gun Bow within range of the front pace and then took over with a rush at about the half-time point.

A massive groan arose when the crowd saw the filly, the pride of the William Haggin Perry Stable, go down.

The winner of nine stakes in 1963, Lamb Chop kept lunging forward even when it was apparent she was headed downward.

Then she gamely manged to get to her feet as Yeaza tried to settle her down before the van arrived.

This was only the second race at Santa Anita for Lamb Chop since the meeting began Dec. 26. She finished a strong second to Gun Bow in an overnight race Jan. 15, but Lamb Chop won two stakes here in the 1963 meeting.

Kiroli's Sextet, Lakeshore Boys Win Meet Titles

The Kiroli girls and Lake Shore boys copped championships in the finals of the Kiroli sixth grade invitational cage meet held Saturday.

Kiroli's girls beat Woodlawn, 12-10, as Blazier hit eight points. Bannette, who was the girls division most valuable player, hit eight for Woodlawn.

Lake Shore's boys nipped Kiroli, 29-26, as Sisson hit 12 points. Gates popped in 15 for Kiroli and was picked the most valuable player in the boys division.

In consolation games, Sterlington won over Good Shepard, 11-9, in a girls match as Hall got four points. LaSuzzo hit five for the losers.

Milsaps' boys won over Highland, 29-22, on Simms 12 points. Ketchell had 10 for Highland.

The girls all-tourney team included: Licht of Good Shepard; Oxford, Blazier and Wallis from Kiroli, Redding of Sterlington and Clement of Woodlawn.

For the boys it was Hough of Swartz; Holstead from Milsaps; Ketchell, Highland; Sisson, Lake Shore and Gentry of Kiroli.

LaSalle, Weston Enterprise Take Tourney Titles

ENTERPRISE (Special) — LaSalle's junior boys, Enterprise's girls and the boys from Weston copped division championships in the finals of the Enterprise Invitational basketball tourney held Saturday.

LaSalle downed Caldwell, 46-39, as Steve Long got 19 points. Davis had 12 for Caldwell. Caldwell had reached the finals by beating Harrisonburg earlier in the day, 57-54.

Enterprise used the 22 point production of Marlene Cassels to beat Harrisonburg, 38-22, in the girls finals. Sherry Bartmess fired in 17 for the losers. In semi - final girls play Saturday, Enterprise advanced by beating Monterey, 55-46.

Rickey Peel bombed in 25 points to carry Weston by Harrisonburg, 62-47, in the boys finals. David Mitchell got 16 in a losing cause.

In two of the best games in the tournamont, Weston reached the finals by topping Monterey, 74-73, and Harrisonburg advanced by knocking off Block, 60-58.

Finley Considering Two Offers In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Athletics owner Charles O. Finely, in the face of an American League threat to kick him out of baseball, took under advisement Saturday two city proposals for a new lease on Municipal Stadium.

The city made its offers after rejecting Finley's opening proposal for a two-year lease.

City officials and Finley negotiated for two hours Saturday in the first session since Finley tried unsuccessfully to move the Athletics to Louisville, Ky. The league blocked his move last week and ordered him either to sign a lease with this city by Feb. 1 or face expulsion from the legaue and loss of his franchise.

"I believe you are trying to take advantage of me because of the pressure the league has put on me for the time being," said Finley, who has threatened to file a law suit against the league for refusing to let him move.

In agreeing to take under advisement the two proposals, however, he told Mayor Ilus W. Davis the city could deal hereafter with the famed attorney he has retained to handle his case against the league, Louis Nizer of New York.

"And I am sure if my counsel sees fit to communicate with you, he will," Finley added.

Finley, at the beginning of the session, told the city officials he definitely would not sign a four-year lease as the city has insisted.

"I am afraid that if I sign anything longer than a two-year lease I might go bankrupt," he explained. "I could possibly bail myself out in two years, but not in four years."

The city's first proposal to him Saturday was for a four-year lease but provided rent-free use of the stadium for the final two years of the agreement.

The second proposal by the city also called for a four-year lease but provided rent-free use of the stadium for the final two years of the agreement.

The second proposal by the city also called for a four-year year lease but contained two options of four years each with rent based on a sliding attendance scale.

Gents' Desperate Rally Nips Bulldogs, 58-52

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech used a semi-stall and full court press against Centenary College here Saturday night, but a string of free throws in the final two minutes enabled the Gents to edge the Bulldogs 58-52.

Tech had a big edge in rebounding against the much taller Gents, but couldn't stop 6-7 sophomore Tom Kerwin who collected 23 points. Barrie Haynie had 13 and Stan McAfoos had 12.

Joe Abendroth and Jerry Hood led the Techmen with 14 apiece. Abendroth got 11 rebounds, Joey Barron nine and Hood eight for the Bulldogs who had a 45-25 edge in that department.

Tech played a slow down game most of the way and held a 26-24 lead at halftime.

Neither team led by more than four points until the Gents pulled away in the final minute and a half on a string of seven free throws.

The score was tied 10 times and the Gents never had the lead after the early going until the last minute and a half.

Tech outscored the Gents from the field by two baskets, but Centenary hit 28 of 38 free throws while Tech got only 22 chances and hit 16.

With the score knotted 49-49 at the 1:29 mark, Centenary took advantage of a series of one and one foul situations with Haynie hitting four, Larry Shoemaker and Don Henry one apiece. Kerwin tipped in the one Henry missed for Centenary's only field goal in the final five and one half minutes of play.

Abendroth nearly got Tech back in the game with the Bulldogs behind 55-49 with a three point play on a driving layup.

The Canies were without starting forward Ray Penny who is out with a pulled muscle.

Tech's next action will be against Southern Mississippi Jan. 31st in Hattiesburg.

The defeat was Tech's sixth loss against seven wins and it upped the Gents to 8-5 for the campaign.

THE ALABAMA 'BEAR'

Papers Indicate Bryant Retiring

ATLANTA (UPI) — Two Southern newspapers reported Saturday that Alabama Football Coach Paul Bear Bryant was about ready to retire.

One said the colorful, 50-year-old Bryant would call it quits after the 1965 season. The other said his decision might be announced "possibly after the 1964 season."

Both reports said Bryant twice during the 1963 season submitted his resignation-once before the Alabama game with Tennessee and again before the traditional game with Aburn. He was persuaded to stay another season after losing to Auburn for the first time in five years.

The reports were published in the Atlanta Journal and the Jacksonville, Fla. Journal.

Jacksonville Sports Editor Jack Hairston quoted a source as saying Bryant's wife and his doctor had been urging the former Maryland, Kentucky and Texas A&M coach to retire.

Sports writer Tom McCollister of the Atlanta Journal said "specualtion on Bryant's impending resignation was that poor health was the contributing factor."

Bryant was reported enroute from Atlanta to Tuscaloosa, Ala., following the annual Southeastern Conference meeting and could not be reached for comment.

Bryant returned to Alabama, his alma mater, in 1958 to start a major rebuilding program. His 1961 squad won 10 straight games, including six shutouts, and the national championship.

SPECTRE REMAINS

Moore Sorry Jackets Quit

ATLANTA (AP) —The Southeastern Conference's annual meeting has finished, but the spectre of Georgia Tech's withdrawal remains.

Commissioner Bernie Moore said he felt both Tech and the SEC will live to regret the action.

"I am sorry indeed that Georgia Tech has resigned," Moore said. "Both the conference and Tech, in my opinion, have been damaged. On two occasions I tried personally to have the 140 rule removed, but there was nothing anyone could do when the majority favored it."

The 140 rule is Tech's reason for withdrawal. It stipulates that an SEC school cannot have any more than 140 athletes on scholarship at any one time.

Coach Bobby Dodd and President Edwin Harrison said Tech could not live with the rule because of fewer dropouts and the fact that the school offers only a technological education.

Tech now joins the big time independents such as Army, Navy, Notre Dame and Miami, Fla.

Harrison never gave the other SEC presidents a chance to vote on the 140 rule. He announced Tech's withdrawal before the presidents' meeting began Friday, saying he did not want to leave the impression that Tech disapproved of any conference activity.

Harrison and Dodd believed the advantages of being an independent outweighed the disadvantages. Tech now has the opportunity of scheduling intersectional games and also will not have to share its slice of bowl earnings with the SEC and the remaining 11 schools.

Harrison said Tech anticipates no problems in scheduling.

"We hope to continue to play our traditional rivals, Tennessee, Auburn and Georgia," he said.

Most of the other SEC schools expressed regret at Tech's action did not affect Vanderbilt.

There had been rumors that Vanderbilt was also considering withdrawal from the SEC, but Dr. Heard said Vandy had no plans of this kind.

Moore said the SEC will operate with 11 teams until next year's meeting, precluding the possibility that Florida State or Memphis State might be admitted this year.

Wally Butts, former Georgia coach and athletic director, also expressed the opinion that Tech and the SEC will be hurt by the withdrawal.

"Something will be gone from the Georgia-Georgia Tech series now," Butts said. "And though I suppose the series will always go on, I can sure say that Georgia needs Georgia Tech. The way the athletic departments appears to be spending these days, they couldn't do without that game."

Oak Grove Five Captures Lake Providence Title

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Oak Grove's undefeated boys stayed that way Saturday night, defeating Pioneer 60-49 for the championship of the Lake Providence Invitational basketball tournament after Forest's girls had turned the trick to beat Lake Providence's sextet 67-54 in their title match.

Oak Grove, ranked among the top ten north Louisiana cage powers, got a 20 point performance from Mike Gammill to record its win. Butch Jones led Pioneer with 17 points.

The expected battle between Lake Providence's all - stater Johnnie Green and Forest's outstanding scorer Marilyn Vining came off as though planned. Green popped in 44 for the losers while Vining poured in for Forest.

Oak Grove's girls won the sportsmanship trophy in their division and the Kilbourne club received it in the boys bracket.

Ouachita, Lee Capture Crown

Ouachita's boys and Lee's girls won the Our Lady of Fatima junior high cage tournament concluded Saturday.

Ouachita topped Lee, 37-35, for its title while Lee downed Woodlawn, 30-19 for the girls championship.

In the consolation games, Swartz won the girls crown from St. Paschals, 30-26, and the Woodlawn boys beat Fatima 30-15.

Sportsmanship trophies were awarded to the Okaloosa boys and the Fatima girls.

The girls all-tournament team included: Sandy Zollinger and Nell Martine of Lee; Belinda Roper of Swartz; Evelyn Baugh of Pinecrest; and Linda Wade and Geneva Guess of Woodlawn.

The boys all - star club included: Teddy Sutton and Jimmy Laudenheimer of Lee; Terry Horton and Billy Kemp from Ouachita and Jerry Salsbury of Woodlawn.

Mangham Girls, Ogden Boys Win At Holly Ridge

HOLLY RIDGE (Special)—Mangham's girls and Ogden's boys walked off with championships in the finals of the Holly Ridge Invitational cage meet here Saturday night.

Mangham beat Epps 37-20 with Ronda Jones paving the way on 21 points. Carolyn Butts led Epps with eight.

Ogden topped Start, 66-53, as Joe Hatton whipped in 30 points. Jerry Smith got 18 for the losers.

Ogden placed two men on the all-tournament team. They were Hatton and Ralph Chevier. Also included were Bo Miller of Holly Ridge, Joe DeVille from Mangham and Bo Whitten of Start.

Finley Considering Two Offers In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Athletics owner Charles O. Finely, in the face of an American League threat to kick him out of baseball, took under advisement Saturday two city proposals for a new lease on Municipal Stadium.

The city made its offers after rejecting Finley's opening proposal for a two-year lease.

City officials and Finley negotiated for two hours Saturday in the first session since Finley tried unsuccessfully to move the Athletics to Louisville, Ky. The league blocked his move last week and ordered him either to sign a lease with this city by Feb. 1 or face expulsion from the legaue and loss of his franchise.

"I believe you are trying to take advantage of me because of the pressure the league has put on me for the time being," said Finley, who has threatened to file a law suit against the league for refusing to let him move.

In agreeing to take under advisement the two proposals, however, he told Mayor Ilus W. Davis the city could deal hereafter with the famed attorney he has retained to handle his case against the league, Louis Nizer of New York.

"And I am sure if my counsel sees fit to communicate with you, he will," Finley added.

Finley, at the beginning of the session, told the city officials he definitely would not sign a four-year lease as the city has insisted.

"I am afraid that if I sign anything longer than a two-year lease I might go bankrupt," he explained. "I could possibly bail myself out in two years, but not in four years."

The city's first proposal to him Saturday was for a four-year lease but provided rent-free use of the stadium for the final two years of the agreement.

The second proposal by the city also called for a four-year lease but provided rent-free use of the stadium for the final two years of the agreement.

The second proposal by the city also called for a four-year year lease but contained two options of four years each with rent based on a sliding attendance scale.

Gents' Desperate Rally Nips Bulldogs, 58-52

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech used a semi-stall and full court press against Centenary College here Saturday night, but a string of free throws in the final two minutes enabled the Gents to edge the Bulldogs 58-52.

Tech had a big edge in rebounding against the much taller Gents, but couldn't stop 6-7 sophomore Tom Kerwin who collected 23 points. Barrie Haynie had 13 and Stan McAfoos had 12.

Joe Abendroth and Jerry Hood led the Techmen with 14 apiece. Abendroth got 11 rebounds, Joey Barron nine and Hood eight for the Bulldogs who had a 45-25 edge in that department.

Tech played a slow down game most of the way and held a 26-24 lead at halftime.

Neither team led by more than four points until the Gents pulled away in the final minute and a half on a string of seven free throws.

The score was tied 10 times and the Gents never had the lead after the early going until the last minute and a half.

Tech outscored the Gents from the field by two baskets, but Centenary hit 28 of 38 free throws while Tech got only 22 chances and hit 16.

With the score knotted 49-49 at the 1:29 mark, Centenary took advantage of a series of one and one foul situations with Haynie hitting four, Larry Shoemaker and Don Henry one apiece. Kerwin tipped in the one Henry missed for Centenary's only field goal in the final five and one half minutes of play.

Abendroth nearly got Tech back in the game with the Bulldogs behind 55-49 with a three point play on a driving layup.

The Canies were without starting forward Ray Penny who is out with a pulled muscle.

Tech's next action will be against Southern Mississippi Jan. 31st in Hattiesburg.

The defeat was Tech's sixth loss against seven wins and it upped the Gents to 8-5 for the campaign.

LANKY DON JANUARY of Plainview, Tex., (left) gestures as his ball misses the cup on a four-foot birdie putt on the fourth hole at San Francisco's Harding Park Saturday. Ray Floyd (right) had the same trouble on the ninth hole when his 10-foot putt slipped by the cup on a birdie try. January fired a one-under par 70 to take the third round lead in the Lucky International golf tournament. Floyd's two-under par 69 was good enough for a second place tie with Arnold Palmer. Don January Wrestles Lead Away From Arnie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Lanky Don January fired a steady 1-under-par 70 in Saturday's third round of the $50,000 Lucky International golf tournament to capture the lead from Arnold Palmer with a score of 204 for 54 holes.

Second round leader Palmer faltered while young Ray Floyd surged, each finishing one stroke behind January. Palmer had one double bogey and four bogeys but a stretch drive brought him down to 1-over-par 72 and his 205.

The 21-year-old Floyd missed a chance to tie for the lead when he missed a four-foot putt at Harding Park's 18th hole for a 69. Moments earlier, January had birdied the same hole from the same distance in his bid for the $7,500 top prize.

Five golfers deadlocked two strokes back at 206 including 120-pound Puerto Rican belter Juan Chi Chi Rodriguez, who had the best round of the tournament at 65.

Deadlocked with him were Gene Littler with a 67 Saturday, Jack Rule Jr., 69; Dave Ragan, 70, and Mason Rudolph, 71. Virtually unknown Al Yancey from Los Angeles moved in alone at 207 with a 66.

January, 34, from Plainview, Tex., but now playing out of Walnut, Calif., shot par golf through 11 holes. He three-putted No. 12 for a bogey, knocked in a four-foot birdie putt at 13, three-putted 14 and tapped in an 18-inch birdie putt at the 16th.

He finished up with his four-footer at the 18th, to go under par for the first time on this overcast, chilly day.

Floyd, on the other hand, didn't miss a green until the 18th. The 200-pound barrel-chested youngster, who won the St. Petersburg Open in 1963, dropped two birdie putts of 12 feet and one from 25.

Palmer carded three straight bogeys on the front nine after shooting a birdie on the first hole. His "army" of nearly 10,000 people was unruly despite a special warning before play began.

The man who won a record $128,230 last year carded his double bogey at the 10th hole. He pulled his tee shot under trees, and was forced to punch out short when he couldn't get a clear swing, because of low-lying branches.

His third shot still was short. He chipped up, then three-putted.

The field was cut to the low 63 pros and it took a 54-hole score of 217 or better to stay in.

Cut were such pros as Doug Ford, with 73-219, Phil Rodgers, 72-218, and Rex Bater, 71-218. Already out was Jack Burke Jr., who won last year.

January always has played well over the 6,722-yard municipal layout. Never worse than eighth in the Lucky, he was runner-up a year ago. Saturday provided a near repeat of history, since January held the third-round lead in 1963 by one stroke over Burke and Canadian George Knudson.

Tied behind Yancey at 208 came 49-year-old Jim Ferrier with a 66 Saturday, Tommy Jacobs at 70 and Canadian Al Balding at 69.

Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus fired a 66 Saturday but was well back at 212.

Rain was predicted for Saturday night, which would again make for soggy going in the final.

The first three days have been almost rainless, but a five-day storm preceding the tournament left the course heavy.

Leading the amateur contingent was young Guy Bill from Oakland, Calif., with a 76 and 220.

BUD WILKINSON

Political Question To Be Settled This Week

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Bud Wilkinson is expected to decide within a week whether to let his flirtation with politics develop into a fullfledged romance.

Wilkinson has been standing near the political ring for several weeks with his hat in his hand and his arm cocked.

But the 47-year-old former University of Oklahoma football coach, who's considering entering the U.S. Senate race, has delayed making an announcement until making sure the field is clear.

He is expected to run as a Republican if he decides to make the plunge. He is a registered Democrat, so a change of party affiliation probably will precede a formal announcement.

Only five more days remain during which he could change his registration.

However, one source said Saturday that Wilkinson may declare his intentions Sunday afternoon. Other sources say the announcement will come Wednesday.

Wilkinson resigned as Oklahoma football coach Jan. 11 after a successful 17-season tenure, saying he needed more time to decide about his future and that the delay would hurt the football team if he remained as coach.

He retained the athletic directorship, but a week later, charging "political maneuvering" on the part of some regents in delaying the naming of a coaching successor ,he stepped down from that post, too.

Gomer Jones, long-time Wilkinson assistant, was named coach last Sunday.

Newspaper editors attending the Oklahoma Press Association meeting in Oklahoma City were polled Friday about the upcoming Senate race and predicted Wilkinson could win the Republican nomination if he wants it.

But they also predicted Sen. J. Howard Edmondson would defeat him in the general election.

Wilkinson still holds a professorship at Oklahoma. He also has remained as special consultant to the President's Council on Physical Fitness, a nonpaying post to which he was appointed in 1961 by the late John F. Kennedy.

AT SANTA ANITA

Fall Proves Fatal To Premier Filly

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Gun Bow won the $132,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes Saturday by 12 lengths but the Santa Anita feature brought tragedy — and death — to Lamb Chop, America's premier filly in 1963.

She stumbled, fell and broke an ankle and the stable said Lamb Chop was destroyed soon after.

Jockey Manuel Ycaza, who rode Lamb Chop to many of her stakes triumphs last year, was unhurt. But emotionaly upset, he withdrew from the last race of the day.

Gun Bow ridden by Bill Shoemaker was the betting favorite with the crowd of about 52,000. Lamb Chop, the lone filly in the race, was the second choice.

Gun Bow, a stakes winner here last week, equalled the track record of 1:59 4-5 set by the great Round Table in the 1¼-mile race in 1958. Shoemaker was the Table's rider that day.

Rocky Link was second in a photo-finish decision over Win-em-All, with Big Raff fourth.

The winner paid $6, $4.60 and $3.60. Rocky Link, with Don Pierce up, returned $25.60 and $13. Win-em-All, an entry with Sy Gem, paid $5.

The victory was worth $87,000 to Gun Bow's Gedney Farms.

Jockey Johnny Longden hustled Nevada Battler into a quick lead, with Sky Gem and Win-em-All in close pursuit as the pack went past the grandstand the first time.

Lamb Chop was third from last at this stage. Gun Bow was rated around fourth, and moving in the second spot as they rounded the clubhouse turn.

Shoemaker kept Gun Bow within range of the front pace and then took over with a rush at about the half-time point.

A massive groan arose when the crowd saw the filly, the pride of the William Haggin Perry Stable, go down.

The winner of nine stakes in 1963, Lamb Chop kept lunging forward even when it was apparent she was headed downward.

Then she gamely manged to get to her feet as Ycaza tried to settle her down before the van arrived.

This was only the second race at Santa Anita for Lamb Chop since the meeting began Dec. 26. She finished a strong second to Gun Bow in an overnight race Jan. 15, but Lamb Chop won two stakes here in the 1963 meeting.

Kiroli's Sextet, Lakeshore Boys Win Meet Titles

The Kiroli girls and Lake Shore boys copped championships in the finals of the Kiroli sixth grade invitational cage meet held Saturday.

Kiroli's girls beat Woodlawn, 12-10, as Blazier hit eight points. Bannette, who was the girls division most valuable player, hit eight for Woodlawn.

Lake Shore's boys nipped Kiroli, 29-26, as Sisson hit 12 points. Gates popped in 15 for Kiroli and was picked the most valuable player in the boys division.

In consolation games, Sterlington won over Good Shepard, 11-9, in a girls match as Hall got four points. LaSuzzo hit five for the losers.

Milsaps' boys won over Highland, 29-22, on Simms 12 points. Ketchell had 10 for Highland.

The girls all-tourney team included: Licht of Good Shepard; Oxford, Blazier and Wallis from Kiroli, Redding of Sterlington and Clement of Woodlawn.

For the boys it was Hough of Swartz; Holstead from Milsaps; Ketchell, Highland; Sisson, Lake Shore and Gentry of Kiroli.

LaSalle, Weston Enterprise Take Tourney Titles

ENTERPRISE (Special) — LaSalle's junior boys, Enterprise's girls and the boys from Weston copped division championships in the finals of the Enterprise Invitational basketball tourney held Saturday.

LaSalle downed Caldwell, 46-39, as Steve Long got 19 points. Davis had 12 for Caldwell. Caldwell had reached the finals by beating Harrisonburg earlier in the day, 57-54.

Enterprise used the 22 point production of Marlene Cassels to beat Harrisonburg, 38-22, in the girls finals. Sherry Bartmess fired in 17 for the losers. In semi - final girls play Saturday, Enterprise advanced by beating Monterey, 55-46.

Rickey Peel bombed in 25 points to carry Weston by Harrisonburg, 62-47, in the boys finals. David Mitchell got 16 in a losing cause.

In two of the best games in the tournament, Weston reached the finals by topping Monterey, 74-73, and Harrisonburg advanced by knocking off Block, 60-58.

THE ALABAMA 'BEAR'

Papers Indicate Bryant Retiring

ATLANTA (UPI) — Two Southern newspapers reported Saturday that Alabama Football Coach Paul Bear Bryant was about ready to retire.

One said the colorful, 50-year-old Bryant would call it quits after the 1965 season. The other said his decision might be announced "possibly after the 1964 season."

Both reports said Bryant twice during the 1963 season submitted his resignation-once before the Alabama game with Tennessee and again before the traditional game with Aburn. He was persuaded to stay another season after losing to Auburn for the first time in five years.

The reports were published in the Atlanta Journal and the Jacksonville, Fla. Journal.

Jacksonville Sports Editor Jack Hairston quoted a source as saying Bryant's wife and his doctor had been urging the former Maryland, Kentucky and Texas A&M coach to retire.

Sports writer Tom McCollister of the Atlanta Journal said "specualtion on Bryant's impending resignation was that poor health was the contributing factor."

Bryant was reported enroute from Atlanta to Tuscaloosa, Ala., following the annual Southeastern Conference meeting and could not be reached for comment.

Bryant returned to Alabama, his alma mater, in 1958 to start a major rebuilding program. His 1961 squad won 10 straight games, including six shutouts, and the national championship.

SPECTRE REMAINS

Moore Sorry Jackets Quit

ATLANTA (AP) —The Southeastern Conference's annual meeting has finished, but the spectre of Georgia Tech's withdrawal remains.

Commissioner Bernie Moore said he felt both Tech and the SEC will live to regret the action.

"I am sorry indeed that Georgia Tech has resigned," Moore said. "Both the conference and Tech, in my opinion, have been damaged. On two occasions I tried personally to have the 140 rule removed, but there was nothing anyone could do when the majority favored it."

The 140 rule is Tech's reason for withdrawal. It stipulates that an SEC school cannot have any more than 140 athletes on scholarship at any one time.

Coach Bobby Dodd and President Edwin Harrison said Tech could not live with the rule because of fewer dropouts and the fact that the school offers only a technological education.

Tech now joins the big time independents such as Army, Navy, Notre Dame and Miami, Fla.

Harrison never gave the other SEC presidents a chance to vote on the 140 rule. He announced Tech's withdrawal before the presidents' meeting began Friday, saying he did not want to leave the impression that Tech disapproved of any conference activity.

Harrison and Dodd believed the advantages of being an independent outweighed the disadvantages. Tech now has the opportunity of scheduling intersectional games and also will not have to share its slice of bowl earnings with the SEC and the remaining 11 schools.

Harrison said Tech anticipates no problems in scheduling.

"We hope to continue to play our traditional rivals, Tennessee, Auburn and Georgia," he said.

Most of the other SEC schools expressed regret at Tech's action did not affect Vanderbilt.

There had been rumors that Vanderbilt was also considering withdrawal from the SEC, but Dr. Heard said Vandy had no plans of this kind.

Moore said the SEC will operate with 11 teams until next year's meeting, precluding the possibility that Florida State or Memphis State might be admitted this year.

Wally Butts, former Georgia coach and athletic director, also expressed the opinion that Tech and the SEC will be hurt by the withdrawal.

"Something will be gone from the Georgia-Georgia Tech series now," Butts said. "And though I suppose the series will always go on, I can sure say that Georgia needs Georgia Tech. The way the athletic departments appears to be spending these days, they couldn't do without that game."

Oak Grove Five Captures Lake Providence Title

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Oak Grove's undefeated boys stayed that way Saturday night, defeating Pioneer 60-49 for the championship of the Lake Providence Invitational basketball tournament after Forest's girls had turned the trick to beat Lake Providence's sextet 67-54 in their title match.

Oak Grove, ranked among the top ten north Louisiana cage powers, got a 20 point performance from Mike Gammill to record its win. Butch Jones led Pioneer with 17 points.

The expected battle between Lake Providence's all - stater Johnnie Green and Forest's outstanding scorer Marilyn Vining came off as though planned. Green popped in 44 for the losers while Vining poured in for Forest.

Oak Grove's girls won the sportsmanship trophy in their division and the Kilbourne club received it in the boys bracket.

Ouachita, Lee Capture Crown

Ouachita's boys and Lee's girls won the Our Lady of Fatima junior high cage tournament concluded Saturday.

Ouachita topped Lee, 37-35, for its title while Lee downed Woodlawn, 30-19 for the girls championship.

In the consolation games, Swartz won the girls crown from St. Paschals, 30-26, and the Woodlawn boys beat Fatima 30-15.

Sportsmanship trophies were awarded to the Okaloosa boys and the Fatima girls.

The girls all-tournament team included: Sandy Zollinger and Nell Martine of Lee; Belinda Roper of Swartz; Evelyn Baugh of Pinecrest; and Linda Wade and Geneva Guess of Woodlawn.

The boys all - star club included: Teddy Sutton and Jimmy Laudenheimer of Lee; Terry Horton and Billy Kemp from Ouachita and Jerry Salsbury of Woodlawn.

Mangham Girls, Ogden Boys Win At Holly Ridge

HOLLY RIDGE (Special)—Mangham's girls and Ogden's boys walked off with championships in the finals of the Holly Ridge Invitational cage meet here Saturday night.

Mangham beat Epps 37-20 with Ronda Jones paving the way on 21 points. Carolyn Butts led Epps with eight.

Ogden topped Start, 66-53, as Joe Hatton whipped in 30 points. Jerry Smith got 18 for the losers.

Ogden placed two men on the all-tournament team. They were Hatton and Ralph Chevier. Also included were Bo Miller of Holly Ridge, Joe DeVille from Mangham and Bo Whitten of Start.

SECOND WINTER OLYMPICS VICTIM

19-Year-Old Skier Crashes To Death

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — A young Australian skier veered off the ice-slick Olympic downhill course and crashed against a tree to his death Saturday — the second training fatality of the 1964 Winter Olympic Games.

A skier from little Liechtenstein cracked up on the same course, suffered a brain concussion and a broken arm.

A pall fell over this Olympic city, where the ice and snow classic is scheduled to start Wednesday. Leading ski experts, shocked by the death and several injuries on the downhill run, immediately demanded safety measures.

Victim of the latest fatal accident was Ross Milne, a 19-year-old tobacco farmer from Myrtleford, Victoria, a little town not far from Melbourne.

Sweeping down the two-mile track at better than 60 miles an hour, Milne apparently hit a bump fell forward and shot off the course into a clump of trees.

He was picked up, unconscious, and flown by helicopter to the city, where he was declared dead on arrival.

Three days ago, Kazimiere, Kay-Skrzypeski, 50-year-old senior member of Britain's toboggan squad, died of injuries received when his sled careened off the plunging toboggan chute at Mount Patscherkofel. Officials immediately ordered lips erected at the dangerous curves.

This has been the most disastrous of all Winter Games, throwing both officials and competitors into an alarmed and shocked state of mind with the actual competition just days away.

The other bad accident Saturday on the treacherous Mount Patscherkofel skiing course involved Edmund Schaedler of Liechtenstein.

In contrast to Milne's mishap, which occurred at what is regarded as a less challenging part of the downhill course, Schaedler's spill came at one of the most critical spots, an area called the Ochenschlag Midway.

The 21-year-old Liechtenstein mechanic, according to eye-witnesses, careened off the course at such speed that he tore down the heavy ropes lining either side. He shot through the air for 20 yards before landing against a clump of trees. He was flown to a hospital by helicopter and treated for concussion and a broken arm.

A second Liechtenstein skier, Wolfgang Ender, also took a bad spill, but his injuries were described as not serious.

Injuries also have been numerous at Seefeld, where the ski jumpers are in training, and on the bobsled and toboggan chutes.

John Handly, a 40-year-old U. S. bobsled brakeman from Malone, N.Y., suffered three broken fingers Friday when two sleds crushed his hand during a truck ride back to the Olympic Village. He will miss the Games.

The death of Milne, one of Australia's top skiers, provoked immediate demands that less experienced skiers be barred from the dangerous downhill races.

"It's murder — we can't go on like this," said the French coach, Honore Bonnet. "The International Ski Federation must change the rules and keep second class skiers away from downhill contests."

Kentucky Tacks 79-62 Loss On Yellow Jackets

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky exacted stern revenge Saturday against its jinx basketball rival, Georgia Tech, pinning a 79 - 62 defeat on the Engineers after trailing 39-37 at the half.

The loss was the first in four Southeastern Conference games for the Engineers, who entered the contest leading the conference.

The victory was especially sweet for the nation's fourth-ranked power as this will be the last time Kentucky plays Tech in the SEC and the Engineers have made a practice of beating Kentucky in recent encounters. The Rambling Wrecks deflated Kentucky 76-67 in an earlier match at Atlanta this season, giving them four straight wins over the Wildcats and six conquests in their last nine meetings.

Georgia Tech announced Friday that it is withdrawing from the conference in June to become an independent.

For the second straight game, Kentucky used a 1-3-1 zone defense to good effect.

All-America candidate Cotton Nash scored 22 points to pace Kentucky's scoring. But it was Ted Deeken, with 16 points in the second half, who kindled Kentucky's zone for unguarded layups. The Cats' harassing zone limited guard R.D. Craddock to 9 points after he tallied 25 against Kentucky in their first game this season.

Kentucky now stands 4-2 in the conference and 13-2 against all competition. Tech's overall record is 10-5.

Boxing In 'Good Old Days' Loaded With Tricks For The Unsuspecting

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Were Jack Dempsey's hands "loaded" with plaster of paris when he knocked out Jess Willard and won the heavyweight championship?

Fight fans will thrash that one out for some time to come, but this much is certain—there was all sorts of trickery in those loosely supervised days and there were easier methods than plaster of paris.

The most popular was lead foil, says Willie Gilzenberg, who has seen them all during 45 years as manager, matchmaker and promoter. Other tricks of the trade included a steel plate, coins, zig-zag taping, pepper, resin and liniment.

Gilzenberg described the usage of lead foil, which he called "the gimmick of gimmicks."

"You'd take sheets of lead foil and cut them into hand-size pieces, or you'd take the foil from cigarette packs. You'd sigzag several layers of guaze—that is, fold it across the back of the hand instead of winding it around the hand — and then put in several layers of the foil.

"The foil was very popular because there was no trouble taking the bandages off. The foil would come right off with the tape. Plaster was a little too obvious because sometimes you had to chisel the tape off.

"With the plaster, it was more of a job getting the bandages off than putting them on. When the match was over, a fighter would by-pass the dressing room and go straight to his hotel, where the bandages would be taken off."

The bandages often contained odd substances, such as coins.

The steel plate was another favorite, although it was not used too widely because it had to be specially manufactured to fit perfectly.

"The steel plate covered the back of the hand and the knuckles," Gilzenberg said. "First, you put on a piece of sponge, then gauze, then the plate. The plate came into use after black bicycle tape was banned.

"Again, it was a matter of getting the watcher's attention averted. Then you put white tape over the plate. When you hit a guy with that, you'd knock him out. But you had to be able to throw punch and hit your opponent. All the tricks in the world were no good if you couldn't fight."

Pepper, resin and liniment were put on a fighter's gloves, to get into an opponent's eyes, making them smart so much he couldn't see.

Often a manager would knot his man's gloves on the underside of the wirst so the knots could be rubbed against the opponent's face in the clinches. Now, gloves must be knotted on the back of the wrist.

"The reason they got away with all this stuff, of course, is that there were no rules and no commissions," Gilzenberg said. "If a manager had arranged for his fighter to take a dive he'd wait until the gloves were put on and then stuff cotton up his fighter's nose so he couldn't breathe. With the gloves on, the fighter couldn't get the cotton out of his nostrils.

"Before the present - day rules about bandages and tape, they used to use sticky black bicycle tape. Then they'd throw talcum over the tape to take the stickiness out. Tricky managers and trainers would substitute plaster of paris.

"The idea was to get some mositure down over the plaster, like sweat running down a man's arms and into his gloves. In a very short time the plaster would harden. It wouldn't hurt your hands because you had tape and gauze and sometimes sponge underneath. All you had to do was hit the other guy and you'd bust him to pieces. That's why the faces of old-time fighters are more busted up than the current ones."

Southern Miss. Races By Lions

HAMMOND, La. (AP)—Southern Mississipi pulled away late in the first half for an 83-70 victory over Southeastern Louisiana Saturday night.

USM led 38-33 at intermission. SLC never threatened in the second half.

SLC's John Fred Gourrier and Donald Wilson, each with 21 points, tied for scoring honors. Gary Hannan paced USM with 19.

USM now is 9-5 for the season while SLC is 1-11.

McNeese Claims Easy Win, 65-46

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — McNeese led all the way in notching a 65-46 victory over East Texas Baptist Saturday night.

Led by Clyde Briley who had 22 points for the night, McNeese worked up a 32-22 halftime advantage. Vernon Smith was high for the Texans with 14.

McNeese now is 8-11 for the season while the visitors are 5-14.

Grambling Falls To Arkansas 5 In Overtime Tilt

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — James Mack Allen pumped in 56 points, including nine in overtime, to lead Arkansas AM&N College to an upset 129-124 basketball victory over Grambling College Saturday night.

Grambling, the nation's top-ranked small college team, had entered the game unbeaten and with 16 straight victories.

Grambling led 56-54 at halftime. Harold Blevins, who put in 27 for AM&N, hit a bucket at the buzzer to tie the score 112-112 and bring on the overtime.

Grambling went into the overtime without two key men—Willis Reed, a 6-foot-10 star who put in 36 points before fouling out with 1:34 left in the game, and Wilbert Frazier, who hit 22 before fouling out with 55 seconds to go. Blevins fouled out with 1:57 left in the overtime, but Allen's shooting already had put the Golden Lions out of reach.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pitcher Pedro Ramos and rookie outfielder Tommie Agee are the latest Cleveland Indians to agree to terms for 1964, the club said Saturday.

Finals Are Set In Florida Meet

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Floridians Nancy Roth of Hollywood and Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach advanced to the finals of the Doherty Golf Tournament Saturday with easy semifinal victories.

Miss Roth defeated Alice Dye of Indianapolis for the second straight year 3 and 2. Miss Preuss handed Cookie Ann Berger of Eggertsville, N.Y. a 4 and 3 setback.

Miss Roth and Miss Preuss will meet for the title over 36 holes today.

Defending champion Miss Roth was one over par for the 16 holes needed for her victory.

Wisner, Baskin Claim Triumphs In District Meet

GILBERT (Special) — Wisner edged Gilbert's boys, 64-61, and Baskin beat Gilbert's girls, 41-39, to take division championships in the finals of the 5-B Northern half cage tournament.

Wisner got a 29-point showing from Terry Moran in its title victory while Johnny Carroll and Marty Harris kept Gilbert in contention all the way with 20 points each.

Betsy Reagan led Baskin's winning girls with 23 points while Juanita Parker paced the losers with 20 tallies.

In semi-finals Saturday, Wisner advanced by beating Baskin's boys 69-51 and Baskin's girls won their way into the finals by trounching Baskin, 63-32.

Pearson Back

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Albie Pearson, the diminutive outfielder who batted more than twice his weight last season, has signed his contract with the Los Angeles Angels.

Pearson, 140 pounds and a shade under 5-foot-5½, hit .304 in 1963.

He will be the Angels' highest-paid player at about $33,000, a sizeable increase over last year.

Pennel Heads Soaring Astronauts In Boston

BOSTON (AP) — John Pennel and John Uelses will lead the fiber glass astronauts in a mass lift-off aimed at the national indoor pole vault record Feb. 1.

The occasion is the 75th Boston Athletic Association games and the emphasis will be on space. Pennel, the world's only 17-foot vaulter, along with Uelses, defending champion John Belitza, Dave Tork, Rolando Cruz and Gerald Pratt all have done 16 feet or better.

The target is the national indoor record of 16-3½ set by Brian Sternberg. Pennel, 1963 Sullivan Award winner as amateur athlete of the year, recently topped the mark with a 16-4¼ effort at Los Angeles.

John Thomas, who has accomplished the seven-foot high jump 104 times in four years and is undefeated in this meet, will be challenged by 7-0 men Gene Johnson of the University of California and Paul Stuber of Oregon.

The 1,000-yard run field offers the 1-2-3 finishers in last summer's national AAU half-mile thriller. They are defender Bill Crothers from Toronto, unbeaten in two years in the 880 and 1,000, NCAA half-mile king Norm Hoffman from Oregon State and Jim Dupree.

If Hayes Jones wins the Millrose race as expected Thursday night before the BAA, he will have a chance to tie Harrison Dillard's record of 51 consecutive indoor hurdles victories.

For sheer speed the meet offers Bob Hayes of Florida A&M in his Eastern board debut. Three times in a two-week span, Hayes was clocked in 9.1 for the 100 yard dash—one was accepted—and he's been beaten only twice in 40 major sprints.

Hayes is in the 50-yard dash with defender Jerry Ashworth of the BAA and AAU indoor champion Sam Perry of Fordham.

The famed Texas Southern mile relay team, will hook up with Maryland State's national AAU champions and shoot for the Boston Garden record of 3:16.9 set by Villanova in 1960. Texas Southern anchor man Ray Saddler also will contest the 600-yard run with the likes of Roger Kerr of Iowa and Jay Luck.

Bob Schul, who ran the second fastest indoor three-mile ever Jan. 11, drops down to the mile where he'll meet NCAA champion Morgan Groth of Oregon State and Jim Irons of Toronto.

Tom O'Riordan returns from Ireland to defend the two-mile title he won in an upset two years ago. John Macy, 33-year-old displaced person from Poland now an undergraduate at the University of Houston, and John Kopil of the New York AC also are entered.

A special 440-yard event will be held so that Wendell Mottley of Yale and Trinidad can try for the indoor record. He bettered the 500-yard indoor record with a 55.5 at the Boston K. of C. games recently.

CASEY EARLY STARTER

Spring Training Just About Here

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball spring training is just around the corner, with Casey Stengel due to open the New York Mets' rookie camp Feb. 7 at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Actually a contingent of Los Angeles Dodgers already has opened training at home on an informal basis, pending a shift to the normal base at Vero Beach, Fla., Feb. 29.

In addition to the Mets, the Milwaukee Braves also will beat the gun with an early camp Feb. 20 at West Palm Beach, Fla., where Bobby Bragan can start the job of trying to pull the Braves out of the second division.

Charlie Dressen will get his first look at the new crop of Detroit rookies Feb. 15 at Tigertown in Lakeland, Fla.

Yogi Berra will make his debut as manager on Feb. 17 at Hollywood, Fla., when the New York Yankees' rookie camp opens.

The first regular camp to open will be the Los Angeles Angels; whose batterymen will report Feb. 17 at Palm Springs, Calif. The others will be scattered from Feb. 23 to March 5, when the Cincinnati Reds will turn out in force at Tampa, Fla. In most cases the battermen will report about a week before the others.

Fifteen of the 20 clubs will train in Florida this year with Boston, Cleveland, San Francisco and the Chicago Cubs in Arizona and the Angels in California.

There will be two dates for the start of exhibition games. The Arizona crew opens Saturday March 7 and the Florida teams start games March 14. Due to the fact that the regular season will open late, April 13 and April 14, most of the clubs will remain at their spring bases until just before opening day. The season does not close until Oct. 4.

Hinton In Fold

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outfielder Chuck Hinton signed his 1964 contract with the Washington Senators Saturday.

He received approximately the same salary as in 1963, about $20,000 despite a disappointing showing last season.

"The average inactive American man when he reaches age 26 has a middle-age body."

This shocking statement comes from an authority on physical fitness—after studying more than 50,000 individuals. Why this early physical decline? Lack of activity—not enough vigorous daily exercise. Today, our children risk all the hazards of easy living. Right now, in fact, one third of them are unable to pass simple physical achievement tests. That's why it's so important for all youngsters to participate in vigorous exercise for at least 15 minutes during each school day. SECOND WINTER OLYMPICS VICTIM

19-Year-Old Skier Crashes To Death

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — A young Australian skier veered off the ice-slick Olympic downhill course and crashed against a tree to his death Saturday — the second training fatality of the 1964 Winter Olympic Games.

A skier from little Liechtenstein cracked up on the same course, suffered a brain concussion and a broken arm.

A pall fell over this Olympic city, where the ice and snow classic is scheduled to start Wednesday. Leading ski experts, shocked by the death and several injuries on the downhill run, immediately demanded safety measures.

Victim of the latest fatal accident was Ross Milne, a 19-year-old tobacco farmer from Myrtleford, Victoria, a little town not far from Melbourne.

Sweeping down the two-mile track at better than 60 miles an hour, Milne apparently hit a bump fell forward and shot off the course into a clump of trees.

He was picked up, unconscious, and flown by helicopter to the city, where he was declared dead on arrival.

Three days ago, Kazimiere, Kay-Skrzypeski, 50-year-old senior member of Britain's toboggan squad, died of injuries received when his sled careened off the plunging toboggan chute at Mount Patscherkofel. Officials immediately ordered lips erected at the dangerous curves.

This has been the most disastrous of all Winter Games, throwing both officials and competitors into an alarmed and shocked state of mind with the actual competition just days away.

The other bad accident Saturday on the treacherous Mount Patscherkofel skiing course involved Edmund Schaedler of Liechtenstein.

In contrast to Milne's mishap, which occurred at what is regarded as a less challenging part of the downhill course, Schaedler's spill came at one of the most critical spots, an area called the Ochenschlag Midway.

The 21-year-old Liechtenstein mechanic, according to eye-witnesses, careened off the course at such speed that he tore down the heavy ropes lining either side. He shot through the air for 20 yards before landing against a clump of trees. He was flown to a hospital by helicopter and treated for concussion and a broken arm.

A second Liechtenstein skier, Wolfgang Ender, also took a bad spill, but his injuries were described as not serious.

Injuries also have been numerous at Seefeld, where the ski jumpers are in training, and on the bobsled and toboggan chutes.

John Handly, a 40-year-old U. S. bobsled brakeman from Malone, N.Y., suffered three broken fingers Friday when two sleds crushed his hand during a truck ride back to the Olympic Village. He will miss the Games.

The death of Milne, one of Australia's top skiers, provoked immediate demands that less experienced skiers be barred from the dangerous downhill races.

"It's murder — we can't go on like this," said the French coach, Honore Bonnet. "The International Ski Federation must change the rules and keep second class skiers away from downhill contests."

McNeese Claims Easy Win, 65-46

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — McNeese led all the way in notching a 65-46 victory over East Texas Baptist Saturday night.

Led by Clyde Briley who had 22 points for the night, McNeese worked up a 32-22 halftime advantage. Vernon Smith was high for the Texans with 14.

McNeese now is 8-11 for the season while the visitors are 5-14.

Grambling Falls To Arkansas 5 In Overtime Tilt

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — James Mack Allen pumped in 56 points, including nine in overtime, to lead Arkansas AM&N College to an upset 129-124 basketball victory over Grambling College Saturday night.

Grambling, the nation's top-ranked small college team, had entered the game unbeaten and with 16 straight victories.

Grambling led 56-54 at halftime. Harold Blevins, who put in 27 for AM&N, hit a bucket at the buzzer to tie the score 112-112 and bring on the overtime.

Grambling went into the overtime without two key men—Willis Reed, a 6-foot-10 star who put in 36 points before fouling out with 1:34 left in the game, and Wilbert Frazier, who hit 22 before fouling out with 55 seconds to go. Blevins fouled out with 1:57 left in the overtime, but Allen's shooting already had put the Golden Lions out of reach.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pitcher Pedro Ramos and rookie outfielder Tommie Agee are the latest Cleveland Indians to agree to terms for 1964, the club said Saturday.

Finals Are Set In Florida Meet

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Floridians Nancy Roth of Hollywood and Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach advanced to the finals of the Doherty Golf Tournament Saturday with easy semifinal victories.

Miss Roth defeated Alice Dye of Indianapolis for the second straight year 3 and 2. Miss Preuss handed Cookie Ann Berger of Eggertsville, N.Y. a 4 and 3 setback.

Miss Roth and Miss Preuss will meet for the title over 36 holes today.

Defending champion Miss Roth was one over par for the 16 holes needed for her victory.

Wisner, Baskin Claim Triumphs In District Meet

GILBERT (Special) — Wisner edged Gilbert's boys, 64-61, and Baskin beat Gilbert's girls, 41-39, to take division championships in the finals of the 5-B Northern half cage tournament.

Wisner got a 29-point showing from Terry Moran in its title victory while Johnny Carroll and Marty Harris kept Gilbert in contention all the way with 20 points each.

Betsy Reagan led Baskin's winning girls with 23 points while Juanita Parker paced the losers with 20 tallies.

In semi-finals Saturday, Wisner advanced by beating Baskin's boys 69-51 and Baskin's girls won their way into the finals by trounching Baskin, 63-32.

Pearson Back

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Albie Pearson, the diminutive outfielder who batted more than twice his weight last season, has signed his contract with the Los Angeles Angels.

Pearson, 140 pounds and a shade under 5-foot-5½, hit .304 in 1963.

He will be the Angels' highest-paid player at about $33,000, a sizeable increase over last year.

CASEY EARLY STARTER

Spring Training Just About Here

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball spring training is just around the corner, with Casey Stengel due to open the New York Mets' rookie camp Feb. 7 at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Actually a contingent of Los Angeles Dodgers already has opened training at home on an informal basis, pending a shift to the normal base at Vero Beach, Fla., Feb. 29.

In addition to the Mets, the Milwaukee Braves also will beat the gun with an early camp Feb. 20 at West Palm Beach, Fla., where Bobby Bragan can start the job of trying to pull the Braves out of the second division.

Charlie Dressen will get his first look at the new crop of Detroit rookies Feb. 15 at Tigertown in Lakeland, Fla.

Yogi Berra will make his debut as manager on Feb. 17 at Hollywood, Fla., when the New York Yankees' rookie camp opens.

The first regular camp to open will be the Los Angeles Angels; whose batterymen will report Feb. 17 at Palm Springs, Calif. The others will be scattered from Feb. 23 to March 5, when the Cincinnati Reds will turn out in force at Tampa, Fla. In most cases the battermen will report about a week before the others.

Fifteen of the 20 clubs will train in Florida this year with Boston, Cleveland, San Francisco and the Chicago Cubs in Arizona and the Angels in California.

There will be two dates for the start of exhibition games. The Arizona crew opens Saturday March 7 and the Florida teams start games March 14. Due to the fact that the regular season will open late, April 13 and April 14, most of the clubs will remain at their spring bases until just before opening day. The season does not close until Oct. 4.

Hinton In Fold

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outfielder Chuck Hinton signed his 1964 contract with the Washington Senators Saturday.

He received approximately the same salary as in 1963, about $20,000 despite a disappointing showing last season.

"The average inactive American man when he reaches age 26 has a middle-age body."

This shocking statement comes from an authority on physical fitness—after studying more than 50,000 individuals. Why this early physical decline? Lack of activity—not enough vigorous daily exercise. Today, our children risk all the hazards of easy living. Right now, in fact, one third of them are unable to pass simple physical achievement tests. That's why it's so important for all youngsters to participate in vigorous exercise for at least 15 minutes during each school day. To learn about a basic fitness program that any school can carry out, send for the free leaflet put out by the President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

Varied Views On Whitetails

With Sam Hanna

Any Deer Season

Ask any 10 deer hunters a question about deer and chances are you'll get 10 different views. In Louisiana the whitetail creates more controversy than any other animal or bird afield.

That's why game management is a tough proposition when it comes to deer.

Louisiana has more deer today than it's ever had. Hunters are bagging more deer; they're killing deer in areas that didn't even have deer just a few years ago. So what's the problem?

Well, the problem is getting the public and the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission together on a game management program that will benefit the sportsmen.

In recent years the deer population in the Delta parishes, which have had the biggest concentration of deer for many years, has increased to a high peak, then declined.

There are many good observers of the deer population who contend that the Delta does not have the deer that it once had. Personally, we don't see as many deer there as we used to.

Some of the observers blame the decline on the any-deer season. There is a general feeling, especially among the older hunters, that the shooting of any deer will eventually lead to the destruction of the herd.

But on the other hand, the biologists—a dreadful crew in some camps — advocate the any deer season as being the only successful system of deer management. They warn that when a range gets all the deer that it can handle the deer herd itself is hurt.

These are the conflicting views that you hear today.

While Louisiana's total deer kill for 1963-64 is expected to exceed the estimated kill of 18,000 in 1962-63, there is a feeling that the any deer season has hurt the deer population in the Delta.

It might be well to point out here that 844 deer were killed during the 1962-63 any deer season on the Chicago Mills Game Management Area while 1360 were killed during the any deer season of 1963-64. This is an increase, not a decrease.

This trend, however, cannot be traced to other sections of the Delta where land is being cleared, where woods are being cut down. The decline of wooded areas probably has more to do with the deer population than the any deer season.

The biologists believe that the deer herd in the Delta has not been hurt by the any deer season. They contend that a good population of deer still exists in the Delta.

Because of the cold, dry winter, the biologists point out that fewer deer are being seen in the Delta because the green fields are in worse shape. They also note that the Delta had a good mast crop and for that reason deer don't need to come into the open.

While the Delta still has its deer problem, the deer scene is shifting to the hills. For example, Caldwell Parish is building up a good population of deer in the hills. Ouachita is too.

Parishes that didn't have deer a few years ago are getting deer now. That means that in time the problem that faces the Delta today will face the hill country in the future.

Chances are there will be a feeling against any deer seasons when the time comes for the biologists to recommend the killing of does in the hills. And the time will come.

That's the problem — getting the public and the biologists together.

Commission personnel freely admit that they do not have a fool-proof method of keeping tabs on the deer population, because such a method just doesn't exist.

Louisiana, however, does need a better system of checking its deer kill, whether it be by check station or report cards. Both would depend on the support of the public.

But here exists a problem. A lot of hunters just won't give the state an accurate count of the deer they kill. They wouldn't go by a check station if it was there.

Some of the very people who criticize the biologists for the any deer season will kill as many deer as they can. So we say that the biologists are doing the best job possible and will do better when they get better cooperation from the public.

After all, Louisiana's deer population is bigger today than it's ever been.

Proposed Gun Laws

Those of us who want to continue owning firearms without having "Big Brother" look over our shoulder had better wake up or the Congress will pass a law against our right to bear arms.

Two bills, as best as we can determine, have been introduced in Washington calling for the registration of firearms. Since most of the wildlife groups have failed to send out information on the details of the bills, we don't know, at the moment, all of the ramifications of the bills sponsored by Sen. Thomas Dodd of Connecticut and Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

However, Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe has mailed us copies of the bills and as soon as they arrive we will pass that information on to the readers.

Passman told us on the phone Friday that the bills just about prohibit citizens from owning a firearm unless of course the gun is registered with a government agency.

Bills of this nature have been introduced before without success and we remember once when a similar bill was sponsored in the Louisiana Legislature without success.

But, since President Kennedy's death, a new wave of anti-gun feelings hit the country, and perhaps Congress is in a more acceptable mood for the anti-gun legislation.

At any rate, the bills are being discussed in hearings on the congressional level. Now is the time for the citizens to raise their voice.

Passman says he's against the bills. But what about our other delegates? Write them a letter.

The Louisiana Wildlife Federation might concern itself with the matter also.

Mid-Winter Survey

The U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service hasn't released it yet, but the government's annual mid-winter waterfowl survey has been completed in Louisiana.

And, according to our sources, the count is higher than it was supposed to have been. That is to say that the survey reflected a figure higher than the federal people wanted.

According to insiders, the survey will show that Louisiana had well in excess of 5-million ducks at the end of the season. That's more than last year.

You'll recall that the federal agencies advocate strict restrictions on the duck hunting season based on their surveys of waterfowl at the nesting grounds and in the flyways.

Some of these people just don't want us to shoot ducks.

As one state biologist put it, the federal government has too many "dickie-birds" working. A "dickie-bird" would rather look than shoot.

Meantime, the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission continues to survey the waterfowl in the state and will continue to do so through March.

In Arkansas, according to the Game and Fish Commission, about one-half of the mallard ducks in that state were on Lost Island reservoir, located about six miles northeast of Stuttgart, during the mid-winter survey.

Lost Island had an estimated 567,000 mallards. The total in the state was estimated at 1,156,300. And this was the highest mallard count in Arkansas since 1959 when it was 1,285,000. Last year it was 996,000.

Does this mean that the federal government will permit a longer season next winter with a bigger bag limit? No sir. It all depends on the 14-state flyway inventory, including Louisiana where the survey will show more ducks than last year.

So, from the standpoint of Louisiana and Arkansas, the duck picture is brighter.

Little Man's Corner

The weather has been abnormal, but the little men made news afield.

Wylie Roach of West Monroe says he killed a rattler with 13 rattles and a button — the day after Christmas. Wylie said the snake was crawling over the snow and ice.

Wylie Roach also got two bucks for the season.

From Baskin, Archie Brownell, veteran deer hunter, is taking life easy now that the deer season has closed. He got his limit during the season in Madison Parish.

On the bird hunting scene, Fred (Bubba) Nielsen of Winnsboro has been killing quail. But the bird hunting is rough.

Bailey Grant and M. E. Kidd of Ouachita Parish have been killing a few partridges and Gordon Jiles of Ruston has had a good season, although lately it's been slow.

At Lake Providence, Bill Shirey and his 12-year-old son Mike bagged 15 one day this past week in about an hour and a half.

On the fishing scene, Old River in the Lake Providence area has been good for white perch. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cooper of Lake Providence got 40 and M. H. Borden of Delhi got 70. H. G. Ragus of Delhi landed a nice string.

From Oak Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Williams also landed a good string of white perch in Old River. Gassoway is good for white perch too.

At Lake St. John, Mr. and Mrs. John Hall of West Monroe got the limit of bream on worms. Mrs. Sam Moss and Mrs. Louise Lee also got the limit of white perch.

SET NEXT WEEKEND

All North Louisiana Boys Invited To Optimist Clinic

Youngsters from all over north Louisiana are being invited to the second annual Optimist Club Boys Baseball Clinic in Monroe next weekend.

Bobby Bruce, chairman of the Optimist event, says that more than 1,000 boys are expected for the clinic at Legion Stadium next Saturday and Sunday.

"We want to emphasize that boys from throughout north Louisiana are invited to the clinic, not just boys from Monroe," Bruce said. "It doesn't cost a cent. We just ask that boys bring their own gloves."

Bruce also said that coaches of school and summer boys teams were invited to attend the clinic. He said coaches and managers would be allowed on the field to observe and participate in the instruction.

Twenty-eight players, former players and scouts will serve as instructors at the clinic. Some of the instructors are Wayne Causey, Kansas City shortstop; Gene Freese, Pirate third baseman; Jack Reed, Yankee outfielder; Mel Parnell, former Red Sox pitching great; Ed Head, who pitched a no-hitter for the old Brooklyn Dodgers; Billy Muffett, Richmond pitcher-coach who hurled with the Yankees, Red Soc, Giants and Cardinals; Matt Batts, ex-Red Sox catcher; Dalton Jones, Red Sox bonus baby; and Connie Ryan, ex-Braves second baseman.

The first clinic session will be held from 10 a.m. to 12:30 Saturday, Feb. 1, with one group of instructors working with boys aged 8 to 13 and another group working with boys 14 and over. The second and final session will be held Sunday afternoon from 1:30 to 3:30 for all age groups.

In the event of bad weather, the clinic will be held in Benoit Recreation Center.

Clinic instruction will cover batting, pitching, catching, base running and infield and outfield play. Boys will be divided by position for instruction.

Last year, despite bad weather, more than 500 boys attended the first Optimist Clinic, held at Benoit. Clinic officials are hoping that, with good weather, attendance this year will double.

Bruce emphasized that the clinic will be held, rain or shine, and said the Benoit parking lot and gym provide excellent areas for instruction in the event of rain.

He urged coaches and mangers from Monroe and outlying towns to load their car with boys and come to the clinic.

Calhoun Takes Northern Title

SIMSBORO (Special) — Calhoun captured the northern half championship of district 3-B Friday night with a 68-63 victory over Simsboro.

Calhoun finished with a 7-1 mark and now will take on the second place winner of the southern half during the first week in February. Simsboro had a 6-2 record.

James Futrell hit 33 to lead Calhoun while Gary Wininger added 11. Jerry Traylor got 20 for Simsboro while teammates Mike Duddy and Jimmy Naper added 13 each.

Calhoun is now 19-8 for the year.

NATIONAL GOLF CHANGES

New Format In Store For Amateur Picture

NEW YORK (AP)—The format of the National Amateur Golf Championship was changed Saturday to follow an on - the - scene qualifying and match play pattern last used in 1946.

The new plan will be effective in the 1964 tournament to be held Sept. 14-19 at the Canterbury Golf Club in Cleveland.

This is the format:

Thirty-six holes of stroke play qualifying at the scene, 18 holes per day, reducing the field from 150 to 64 players.

Four rounds of match play of 18 holes, plus 36 holes semifinal and final matches, packaged into four days.

The change, going back to a plan used 18 years ago, was announced at the annual meeting of the U.S. Golf Association by Joe Dey, executive director.

Dey said the purpose was to permit all layers in the original field to play at least two days. Under the existing format, an entirely match play event with a field of 200, 72 players were eliminated on the first day.

Dey announced that the exemption list also was reduced, limited henceforth to the defending champion. All past U.S. and British champions previously had been exempted.

There was one exception made. In those years in which the Walker Cup matches are played in the United States —every four years—members of the U.S. and British teams will receive automatic entry.

In other action, the USGA:

1, Awarded the Bob Jones Trophy for outstanding sportsmanship to Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, U. S. amateur champion in 1949 and 1958 and seven-time member of the U.S. Walker Cup team.

2, Raised the prize money for the U.S. Open, scheduled June 18-20 at the Congressional Club in Washington, D.C., to $90,000 with $17,000 first prize.

3, Raised the purse for the U. S. Women's Open, scheduled at San Diego, $1,000 to a total of $10,000.

Pollution Affects On Fish Subject Of Wildlife Talk

A talk on the affects of pollution on fish will be featured at the Ouachita Wildlife Unit's regular monthly meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Benoit Recreation Center.

Prof. Neil H. Douglas of Northeast State College will make the address, according to J. B. Thoman, club president.

Thoman explained that the meeting, normally held at the Virginia Hotel, would be moved to the Benoit Recreation Center at 1700 Oaklawn Drive on the southside of Monroe.

Besides the pollution talk, the program will include the installation of new officers.

Thoman said he would call for discussion on the proposed supervision of the firing range at Selman Field. The club will discuss the possibility of taking on the supervision of the range as a project.

On other matters, the club will discuss resolutions to be presented to the Louisiana Wildlife Federation at its annual convention, March 21 - 22, at Shreveport.

Thoman said all persons interested in hunting and fishing are invited to attend the meeting.

Bradds Hits 47 To Set Record, Spark Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gary Bradds set a St. John Arena record Saturday with 47 points as Ohio State turned back Purdue 98-87 in a Big Ten basketball game.

Bradds connected on his first seven shots and wound up with 27 points in a fast first-half offensive display that knocked Purdue out of the contest.

Bradds eclipsed his own home court record of 45 points, set a year ago against Brigham Young. He fired at a 67 per cent clip, hitting 20 field goals in 30 attempts. The 20 field goals also set an Ohio State record.

The Buckeyes boosted their league mark to 3-1, while the Boilermakers suffered their third setback in four outings.

Ohio State jumped out front 5-0 and never trailed. Purdue moved to within three points at 22-19 midway in the first half, but the Buckeyes outscored the visitors 11 to 2 to take a 33-21 lead and pushed it to 47-33 at intermission.

Varied Views On Whitetails

With Sam Hanna

Any Deer Season

Ask any 10 deer hunters a question about deer and chances are you'll get 10 different views. In Louisiana the whitetail creates more controversy than any other animal or bird afield.

That's why game management is a tough proposition when it comes to deer.

Louisiana has more deer today than it's ever had. Hunters are bagging more deer; they're killing deer in areas that didn't even have deer just a few years ago.

So what's the problem?

Well, the problem is getting the public and the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission together on a game management program that will benefit the sportsmen.

In recent years the deer population in the Delta parishes, which have had the biggest concentration of deer for many years, has increased to a high peak, then declined.

There are many good observers of the deer population who contend that the Delta does not have the deer that it once had. Personally, we don't see as many deer there as we used to.

Some of the observers blame the decline on the any-deer season. There is a general feeling, especially among the older hunters, that the shooting of any deer will eventually lead to the destruction of the herd.

But on the other hand, the biologists—a dreadful crew in some camps — advocate the any deer season as being the only successful system of deer management. They warn that when a range gets all the deer that it can handle the deer herd itself is hurt.

These are the conflicting views that you hear today.

While Louisiana's total deer kill for 1963-64 is expected to exceed the estimated kill of 18,000 in 1962-63, there is a feeling that the any deer season has hurt the deer population in the Delta.

It might be well to point out here that 844 deer were killed during the 1962-63 any deer season on the Chicago Mills Game Management Area while 1360 were killed during the any deer season of 1963-64. This is an increase, not a decrease.

This trend, however, cannot be traced to other sections of the Delta where land is being cleared, where woods are being cut down. The decline of wooded areas probably has more to do with the deer population than the any deer season.

The biologists believe that the deer herd in the Delta has not been hurt by the any deer season. They contend that a good population of deer still exists in the Delta.

Because of the cold, dry winter, the biologists point out that fewer deer are being seen in the Delta because the green fields are in worse shape. They also note that the Delta had a good mast crop and for that reason deer don't need to come into the open.

While the Delta still has its deer problem, the deer scene is shifting to the hills. For example, Caldwell Parish is building up a good population of deer in the hills. Ouachita is too.

Parishes that didn't have deer a few years ago are getting deer now. That means that in time the problem that faces the Delta today will face the hill country in the future.

Chances are there will be a feeling against any deer seasons when the time comes for the biologists to recommend the killing of does in the hills. And the time will come.

That's the problem — getting the public and the biologists together.

Commission personnel freely admit that they do not have a fool-proof method of keeping tabs on the deer population, because such a method just doesn't exist.

Louisiana, however, does need a better system of checking its deer kill, whether it be by check station or report cards. Both would depend on the support of the public.

But here exists a problem. A lot of hunters just won't give the state an accurate count of the deer they kill. They wouldn't go by a check station if it was there.

Some of the very people who criticize the biologists for the any deer season will kill as many deer as they can. So we say that the biologists are doing the best job possible and will do better when they get better cooperation from the public.

After all, Louisiana's deer population is bigger today than it's ever been.

Proposed Gun Laws

Those of us who want to continue owning firearms without having "Big Brother" look over our shoulder had better wake up or the Congress will pass a law against our right to bear arms.

Two bills, as best as we can determine, have been introduced in Washington calling for the registration of firearms. Since most of the wildlife groups have failed to send out information on the details of the bills, we don't know, at the moment, all of the ramifications of the bills sponsored by Sen. Thomas Dodd of Connecticut and Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

However, Congressman Otto E. Passman of Monroe has mailed us copies of the bills and as soon as they arrive we will pass that information on to the readers.

Passman told us on the phone Friday that the bills just about prohibit citizens from owning a firearm unless of course the gun is registered with a government agency.

Bills of this nature have been introduced before without success and we remember once when a similar bill was sponsored in the Louisiana Legislature without success.

But, since President Kennedy's death, a new wave of anti-gun feelings hit the country, and perhaps Congress is in a more acceptable mood for the anti-gun legislation.

At any rate, the bills are being discussed in hearings on the congressional level. Now is the time for the citizens to raise their voice.

Passman says he's against the bills. But what about our other delegates? Write them a letter.

The Louisiana Wildlife Federation might concern itself with the matter also.

Mid-Winter Survey

The U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service hasn't released it yet, but the government's annual mid-winter waterfowl survey has been completed in Louisiana.

And, according to our sources, the count is higher than it was supposed to have been. That is to say that the survey reflected a figure higher than the federal people wanted.

According to insiders, the survey will show that Louisiana had well in excess of 5-million ducks at the end of the season. That's more than last year.

You'll recall that the federal agencies advocate strict restrictions on the duck hunting season based on their surveys of waterfowl at the nesting grounds and in the flyways.

Some of these people just don't want us to shoot ducks.

As one state biologist put it, the federal government has too many "dickie-birds" working. A "dickie-bird" would rather look than shoot.

Meantime, the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission continues to survey the waterfowl in the state and will continue to do so through March.

In Arkansas, according to the Game and Fish Commission, about one-half of the mallard ducks in that state were on Lost Island reservoir, located about six miles northeast of Stuttgart, during the mid-winter survey.

Lost Island had an estimated 567,000 mallards. The total in the state was estimated at 1,156,300. And this was the highest mallard count in Arkansas since 1959 when it was 1,285,000. Last year it was 996,000.

Does this mean that the federal government will permit a longer season next winter with a bigger bag limit? No sir. It all depends on the 14-state flyway inventory, including Louisiana where the survey will show more ducks than last year.

So, from the standpoint of Louisiana and Arkansas, the duck picture is brighter.

Little Man's Corner

The weather has been abnormal, but the little men made news afield.

Wylie Roach of West Monroe says he killed a rattler with 13 rattles and a button — the day after Christmas. Wylie said the snake was crawling over the snow and ice.

Wylie Roach also got two bucks for the season.

From Baskin, Archie Brownell, veteran deer hunter, is taking life easy now that the deer season has closed. He got his limit during the season in Madison Parish.

On the bird hunting scene, Fred (Bubba) Nielsen of Winnsboro has been killing quail. But the bird hunting is rough.

Bailey Grant and M. E. Kidd of Ouachita Parish have been killing a few partridges and Gordon Jiles of Ruston has had a good season, although lately it's been slow.

At Lake Providence, Bill Shirey and his 12-year-old son Mike bagged 15 one day this past week in about an hour and a half.

On the fishing scene, Old River in the Lake Providence area has been good for white perch. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cooper of Lake Providence got 40 and M. H. Borden of Delhi got 70. H. G. Ragus of Delhi landed a nice string.

From Oak Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Williams also landed a good string of white perch in Old River. Gassoway is good for white perch too.

At Lake St. John, Mr. and Mrs. John Hall of West Monroe got the limit of bream on worms. Mrs. Sam Moss and Mrs. Louise Lee also got the limit of white perch.

JOCKEY RON TURCOTTE pilots Rayslad (right) through the mud at Bowie Saturday on the way to victory in the first race. Strung out behind are Find Later, The Rock and Magna. Rayslad did the six furlongs in 1:15 4/5, returning $9. Admiral Sing was the place horse and Challamar third. (AP Wirephoto)

SET NEXT WEEKEND

All North Louisiana Boys Invited To Optimist Clinic

Youngsters from all over north Louisiana are being invited to the second annual Optimist Club Boys Baseball Clinic in Monroe next weekend.

Bobby Bruce, chairman of the Optimist event, says that more than 1,000 boys are expected for the clinic at Legion Stadium next Saturday and Sunday.

"We want to emphasize that boys from throughout north Louisiana are invited to the clinic, not just boys from Monroe," Bruce said. "It doesn't cost a cent. We just ask that boys bring their own gloves."

Bruce also said that coaches of school and summer boys teams were invited to attend the clinic. He said coaches and managers would be allowed on the field to observe and participate in the instruction.

Twenty-eight players, former players and scouts will serve as instructors at the clinic. Some of the instructors are Wayne Causey, Kansas City shortstop; Gene Freese, Pirate third baseman; Jack Reed, Yankee outfielder; Mel Parnell, former Red Sox pitching great; Ed Head, who pitched a no-hitter for the old Brooklyn Dodgers; Billy Muffett, Richmond pitcher-coach who hurled with the Yankees, Red Soc, Giants and Cardinals; Matt Batts, ex-Red Sox catcher; Dalton Jones, Red Sox bonus baby; and Connie Ryan, ex-Braves second baseman.

The first clinic session will be held from 10 a.m. to 12:30 Saturday, Feb. 1, with one group of instructors working with boys aged 8 to 13 and another group working with boys 14 and over. The second and final session will be held Sunday afternoon from 1:30 to 3:30 for all age groups.

In the event of bad weather, the clinic will be held in Benoit Recreation Center.

Clinic instruction will cover batting, pitching, catching, base running and infield and outfield play. Boys will be divided by position for instruction.

Last year, despite bad weather, more than 500 boys attended the first Optimist Clinic, held at Benoit. Clinic officials are hoping that, with good weather, attendance this year will double.

Bruce emphasized that the clinic will be held, rain or shine, and said the Benoit parking lot and gym provide excellent areas for instruction in the event of rain.

He urged coaches and mangers from Monroe and outlying towns to load their car with boys and come to the clinic.

Calhoun Takes Northern Title

SIMSBORO (Special) — Calhoun captured the northern half championship of district 3-B Friday night with a 68-63 victory over Simsboro.

Calhoun finished with a 7-1 mark and now will take on the second place winner of the southern half during the first week in February. Simsboro had a 6-2 record.

James Futrell hit 33 to lead Calhoun while Gary Wininger added 11. Jerry Traylor got 20 for Simsboro while teammates Mike Duddy and Jimmy Naper added 13 each.

Calhoun is now 19-8 for the year.

NATIONAL GOLF CHANGES

New Format In Store For Amateur Picture

NEW YORK (AP)—The format of the National Amateur Golf Championship was changed Saturday to follow an on - the - scene qualifying and match play pattern last used in 1946.

The new plan will be effective in the 1964 tournament to be held Sept. 14-19 at the Canterbury Golf Club in Cleveland.

This is the format:

Thirty-six holes of stroke play qualifying at the scene, 18 holes per day, reducing the field from 150 to 64 players.

Four rounds of match play of 18 holes, plus 36 holes semifinal and final matches, packaged into four days.

The change, going back to a plan used 18 years ago, was announced at the annual meeting of the U.S. Golf Association by Joe Dey, executive director.

Dey said the purpose was to permit all layers in the original field to play at least two days. Under the existing format, an entirely match play event with a field of 200, 72 players were eliminated on the first day.

Dey announced that the exemption list also was reduced, limited henceforth to the defending champion. All past U.S. and British champions previously had been exempted.

There was one exception made. In those years in which the Walker Cup matches are played in the United States —every four years—members of the U.S. and British teams will receive automatic entry.

In other action, the USGA:

1, Awarded the Bob Jones Trophy for outstanding sportsmanship to Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, U. S. amateur champion in 1949 and 1958 and seven-time member of the U.S. Walker Cup team.

2, Raised the prize money for the U.S. Open, scheduled June 18-20 at the Congressional Club in Washington, D.C., to $90,000 with $17,000 first prize.

3, Raised the purse for the U. S. Women's Open, scheduled at San Diego, $1,000 to a total of $10,000.

4, hCanged the format of the Curtis Cup women's team matches with Britain so that there will be eighteen matches —three morning foursomes and 15 afternoon singles—on each of two days. The next series is scheduled at Porthcawl, South Wales, Sept. 11-12.

5, Announced plans for the first women's world amateur team tournament at St. Germaine Golf Club near Paris Oct. 1-4. Each country will be limited to three players, with the two best scores counting each day over 72 holes of stroke play.

6, Announced that the 1967 U. S. Open championship would be staged at Baltusrol, in Springfield, N. J., June 15-17. At that tournament members of the U. S. and British Ryder Cup teams will be exempt.

7, E.ected Clarence W. (Gus) Benedict of White Plains, N.Y., as the new USGA president, succeeding John Winters of Tulsa, Okla. Vice-presidents selected were William Ward Foshay of New York and Hord Hardin of St. Louis. Philip Strubing of Philadelphia was named secretary - treasurer and Robert Howse of Wichita was elected treasurer.

It was announced that semifinalists in the USGA Public Links and Junior Amateur Championships will be invited to play in sectional qualifying of the National Amateur.

BILLION DOLLAR BUSINESS

Paris To Launch Spring Style Show

PARIS (AP)—Paris haute couture lifts its fashion curtain Monday on pace-setting spring styles.

This biannual series of fashion openings represents a billion dollar business for France and sparks fashion industries the world over. The fashion marathon lasts ten days, setting new trends in color, fabrics, styles, makeup and accessories.

The spotlight is on three stars about to shine in the fashion firmament. None is a newcomer. Each is endowed with a talent and individual personality.

A star of the first magnitude is Antonio Canovas del Castillo, who is opening his own house and lining it all in "invisible space blue."

Jules-Francois Crabay, now at Lanvin's, is all set to show his most elegant collection in a lavish mood.

Third star is wonder-boy Gerard Pipart. Some are already comparing him to Jacques Fath. He is brimming over with enthusiasm in this opportunity to prove he can make the grade in haute couture as well as the wholesale market where he had a big name. Robert Ricci has given him a free hand with fabrics and delicate soft embroideries, resulting in a de luxe high-priced collection.

The 1964 look, according to everyone in the designing business, is to be relaxed and "decontracted" for daytime, with all glamour and sophistication left for evening.

600 Will Hear Handley Speak At Ruston Fete

Nearly 600 persons are expected Thursday at the annual banquet of the Ruston Chamber of Commerce.

Featured speaker will be former Indiana governor Harold W. Handley, well-known spokesman for conservatism and state sovereignty.

His remarks will share the program with installation of 1964 officers, according to Chamber Manager Lundy Cavender.

The banquet is set for 7 p.m. in the Louisiana Tech dining hall. Howard H. Smith, Chamber president, will preside.

A native of La Porte, Ind., Handley served a four-year term as governor, leaving the office in January, 1961.

Handley's other positions in Indiana public service included terms in the state senate and the lieutenant governorship, and service as commissioner of commerce and industry and commissioner of agriculture.

Johnson To Give Review On 'Penny-Pinching' Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson, determined to get a "dollar's worth of value out of a dollar spent," said Saturday a penny-pinching Budget Bureau review staff soon will be coming up with another reduction in his new budget.

"It will be minor in dollars, but it will show the atmosphere and general feeling" of his campaign to cut government expenses, he told a spur-of-the-minute news conference in his office.

Sipping coffee as he answered questions, the President said a Budget Bureau staff has been set up to "check each commission, department and agency for the elimination of any possible waste or any unnecessary expenditures" of the government.

"We said to the leaders of Congress beforehand that we are not going to put anything in here just for padding and cushioning," he said. "We are

BILLION DOLLAR BUSINESS

Paris To Launch Spring Style Show

PARIS (AP)—Paris haute couture lifts its fashion curtain Monday on pace-setting spring styles.

This biannual series of fashion openings represents a billion dollar business for France and sparks fashion industries the world over. The fashion marathon lasts ten days, setting new trends in color, fabrics, styles, makeup and accessories.

The spotlight is on three stars about to shine in the fashion firmament. None is a newcomer. Each is endowed with a talent and individual personality.

A star of the first magnitude is Antonio Canovas del Castillo, who is opening his own house and lining it all in "invisible space blue."

Jules-Francois Crahay, now at Lanvin's, is all set to show his most elegant collection in a lavish mood.

Third star is wonder-boy Gerard Pipart. Some are already comparing him to Jacques Fath. He is brimming over with enthusiasm in this opportunity to prove he can make the grade in haute couture as well as the wholesale market where he had a big name. Robert Ricci has given him a free hand with fabrics and delicate soft embroideries, resulting in a de luxe high-priced collection.

The 1964 look, according to everyone in the designing business, is to be relaxed and "de contracted" for daytime, with all glamour and sophistication left for evening.

600 Will Hear Handley Speak At Ruston Fete

Nearly 600 persons are expected Thursday at the annual banquet of the Ruston Chamber of Commerce.

Featured speaker will be former Indiana governor Harold W. Handley, well-known spokesman for conservatism and state sovereignty.

His remarks will share the program with installation of 1964 officers, according to Chamber Manager Lundy Cavender.

The banquet is set for 7 p.m. in the Louisiana Tech dining hall. Howard H. Smith, Chamber president, will preside.

A native of La Porte, Ind., Handley served a four-year term as governor, leaving the office in January, 1961.

Handley's other positions in Indiana public service included terms in the state senate and the lieutenant governorship, and service as commissioner of commerce and industry and commissioner of agriculture.

VOTERS OF WARD 5

Thanks for the vote of confidence in the 2nd primary. I'm sure you voted for me because you know, or heard someone say I would be a POLICE JUROR that would be QUALIFIED, FAIR, DEPENDABLE.

YOUR CONTINUED VOTE AND SUPPORT IN THE GENERAL ELECTION MARCH 3RD WILL BE APPRECIATED.

Johnson To Give Review On 'Penny-Pinching' Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson, determined to get a "dollar's worth of value out of a dollar spent," said Saturday a penny-pinching Budget Bureau review staff soon will be coming up with another reduction in his new budget.

"It will be minor in dollars, but it will show the atmosphere and general feeling" of his campaign to cut government expenses, he told a spur-of-the-minute news conference in his office.

Sipping coffee as he answered questions, the President said a Budget Bureau staff has been set up to "check each commission, department and agency for the elimination of any possible waste or any unnecessary expenditures" of the government.

"We said to the leaders of Congress beforehand that we are not going to put anything in here just for padding and cushioning," he said. "We are

MISS CAMILLA FAY HARMON

Announcement Tea Honors Camilla Harmon, To Wed Robert C. Baxter

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Camilla Fay Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leon Harmon of Monroe, to Robert Cole Baxter of Orange, Texas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baxter, Monticello, Arkansas, was revealed at an announcement tea held Saturday, January 25 in the home of Mrs. Frank Francis, 200 Clark Street, Monroe.

The wedding will be solemnized March 7 at 3:30 p.m. in Lakeshore Baptist Church, Monroe, with Rev. Vester Headrick officiating. The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Miss Eleanor Harmon as her maid of honor and Mr. Baxter will serve his son as best man.

Hostesses with Mrs. Francis for the announcement party were Mrs. Daniel Dupree, Mrs. Joe Barry Mullins, Mrs. Jack Harrington, Mrs. Harry Graham and Mrs. Wilford Smith.

Receiving with honoree and her mother were Mrs. Francis, Mrs. Earl Baxter, mother of the future bridegroom, Mrs. Sam Cole, his grandmother and Miss Eleanor Harmon, sister of the bride-to-be. For her party Miss Harmon wore a long - sleeved blue crepe dress styled with blouson bodice and pleated skirt, with which she wore shoes of matching blue linen. Her mother, Mrs. Harmon, selected a green silk sheath with black accessories.

A pink and white floral arrangement beside a miniature bride and groom was placed on the coffee table in the living room. A round table, covered with a fringe-bordered white cloth, held the bride's book and a three-branched silver candelabra holding white tapers and pink carnations. Miss Pat Turner and Miss Carole Taliaferro alternated at the book in which guests registered.

The serving table placed in front of a brick wall of the combination dining-family room, was overlaid with a white drawn work linen cloth. A five-branched candelabra supporting yellow tapers and an arrangement of yellow pompons, tulle and yellow satin ribbon in a hogarth line, was placed at one end of the table. Tea and coffee were served from a silver service opposite and silver trays held party confections. Mrs. Roderick Hickman and Mrs. William Slay presided at the table.

Mrs. Francis wore a gown of pink lace while Mrs. Dupree chose a white two-piece sleeveless dress with garnet accessories. Mrs. Mullins was wearing a black wool ensemble and Mrs. Harrington's costume was of soft blue wool. A winter white brocade with gold thread was worn by Mrs. Graham with gold accessories and Mrs. Smith was attired in an aqua silk shantung sheath.

Approximately 200 guests called between the hours of 3 until 5 p.m.

Miss Harmon is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Wood, Water Valley, Mississippi and the late Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Harmon, Oxford, Miss. A graduate of Neville high school, she is scheduled to graduate in February, 1964 from Northeast Louisiana State College with a B.A. degree in mathematics education. She is a member of Phi Mu social sorority, Sigma Tau Delta English fraternity, Senior Board Member, Mu Alpha Theta mathematics fraternity and is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Mr. Baxter, who is the grandson of Mrs. Sam Cole and the late Mr. Cole, is a graduate of Monticello high school, Monticello, Ark., and was graduated cum laude from Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn., with a B.S. degree in mechanical engineering. A member of Sigma Nu social fraternity and Tau Beta Pi honorary engineering fraternity, he served two years in the U.S. Army and holds the rank of first lieutenant in the U.S. Army Reserve. He is presently employed as an engineer by Du Pont Sabine River Works in Orange, Texas where the couple will live after their marriage.

Marie Smith To Wed Dr. John T. Thornton

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Oscar Smith of Clayton, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Opal Marie to Dr. John T. Thornton of Franklinton. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reese Parrot Thornton, formerly of Epps, who now reside in Franklinton.

The bride - elect is a graduate of Ferriday high school and Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe. She received her B. A. degree in Social Studies Education and is now employed as librarian at Franklinton high school.

Dr. Thornton was graduated from Epps high school and from Michigan State University where he received his degree in Veterinary Medicine.

The wedding will be solemnized February 15 in the First Baptist Church of Franklinton at 4 p.m. with Dr. W. E. Robbins officiating.

Miss Smith has chosen her sister, Miss Beatrice Smith of Monroe, to serve as her maid of honor. Layton Carr will attend the bridegroom as best man. After a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast the couple will establish a home in Franklinton.

END DRIPS

You can solve the problem of wet floors and rugs when you water a hanging pot plant by slipping a plastic icebox dish cover (the kind that looks like a shower cap) over the bottom of the clay pot. Any excess water that runs through the drainage hole will be caught in the cap and can be emptied after the drainage drip ceases.

Trip To Mexico Follows Smith-Lindsey Nuptials

In a double ring ceremony Saturday morning, January 25 at the Bernice Methodist Church, Miss Suzonne Lindsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ernest Lindsey Jr., of Bernice and Ruston, became the bride of Lt. j.g. Thomas Joseph Smith, son of Mrs. Thomas Joseph Smith Sr., of Chicago Heights, Illinois, and the late Mr. Smith.

Rev. Douglas McLean performed the ceremony at 10 a.m. before the chancel which was graced with a mass sunburst arrangement of happiness roses, stock and chrysanthemums in shades of pink to burgandy which formed a base for the lighted cross above. At either side were palm standards topped by single pink cathedral candles. A background of palms completed the setting for the exchange of vows.

Mrs. Floyd Walsworth presented a program of wedding music and accompanied the soloist Mrs. George Grafton.

Escorted to the altar by her brother-in-law, Carl Scott Simms of San Antonio, Texas, the bride was wearing a gown of white peau de soie, featuring a floor length dome skirt and wrist length fitted sleeves. The tightly fitted bodice was styled with decollete circlet neckline. Her bouffant veil of French illusion fell shoulder length from a lace and pearl encrusted coif. She carried a prayer book, topped with a white rose and velvet ribbon.

Mrs. Carl Scott Simms, sister of the bride, and matron of honor wore a gown of turquoise peau de soie, fashioned with wedding ring neckline, elbow sleeves and bell shaped skirt. A bow accented the waist at center front. Her pillbox hat was of matching peau de soie with a nose veil and she wore wrist length gloves and carried a long stem happiness rose.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jesse D. McDonald of Monroe and Mrs. Gerald Haynes Teasley of Texarkana, Ark., who were dressed identically to the honor attendant. Also attired in matching dresses were the flower girls, Miss Karen Baron and Kathy Baron of Park Forest, Illinois. They carried baskets of red rose petals.

Henry M. Baron Jr. of Park Forest, Ill., attended Mr. Smith as best man. Groomsmen included Edward Clissold of San Diego, Calif., and George Purvis, of Dallas, Texas. Ring bearer was Scott Myrick Simms.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Lindsey wore a gown of teal blue silk fashioned on blouson lines, with matching shoes, bag and hat and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Smith, mother of the groom, was wearing a beige silk sheath with Alencon lace yoke and sleeves, tiny hat of flowers and matching accessories. Her corsage was also of pink roses. Mrs. George Ernest Lindsey Sr., grandmother of the bride, wore a dress of blue-gray silk shantung with hat of blue flowers and a corsage of roses.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lindsey. Miss Annette Cain of San Francisco, Calif., presided at the guest book.

Arrangements of happiness roses, pink stock and chrysanthemums were used throughout the home. A silver candelabra holding an arrangement of roses and tapers centered the reception table. The tiered wedding cake adorned in the bridal motif of roses and stephanotis centered a round table in the center of the dining room. Alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. George Purvis Jr., and Miss Louise Kuehn, both of Dallas, Tex. At the coffee service were Mrs. Henry M. Baron Jr., of Park Forest, sister of the groom; Mrs. William H. Brown of Baton Rouge, and Miss Barbara Lee of Lafayette. The wedding cake was served by Mrs. Jimmy Terrill of Shreveport and Mrs. Kennedy Abington of Lake Village, Ark.

Assisting with the reception courtesies were Mrs. Ruth Green, Kilgore, Tex., Mrs. George Grafton, Mrs. Buford Cagle, Miss Doris Gaston, Mrs. Donald Lindsey, Mrs. J. Y. Green, Miss Donna Lindsey and Miss Barbara Lindsey, all of Bernice; Mrs. Arthur J. Emerson and Miss Donna Loman, Monroe; Mrs. Robert Lee Albritton of Farmerville, Misses Molly Dee and Ainslee McDonald, Monroe; Claire Lindsey, Bernice, Karen and Kathy Baron circulated among the guests presenting tiny bags of rice in turquoise and white tulle, tied with satin ribbons and lilies of the valley.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Mexico City, Taxco and Acapulco, the bride was wearing a blue linton suit with hat to match and brown alligator accessories. Upon their return they will be at home at 393 Fairmount Ave., Oakland, Calif.

Mrs. Smith graduated from Louisiana State University where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. A graduate of Dennison University of Ohio, Mr. Smith was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Out-of-town guests in addition to members of the wedding party were Terry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Svoboda, Chicago Heights, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. William Myrick and William Myrick Jr., Baton Rouge; Miss Tressie Cook, Lafayette; George Myer of Dallas and Bob Buatt of San Francisco, Calif.

Vows Unite Local Couple Saturday

Of interest to their many friends is the marriage of Gail Stewart Fortenberry and Grady Levins Thompson, both of this city, which was solemnized Saturday, January 25.

Rev. Ben R. Oliphint performed the double ring ceremony in the St. Paul's Methodist Church on Lexington Avenue, at 10 a.m.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

He is presently employed as an engineer by Du Pont Sabine River Works in Orange, Texas where the couple will live after their marriage.

Marie Smith To Wed Dr. John T. Thornton

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Oscar Smith of Clayton, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Opal Marie to Dr. John T. Thornton of Franklinton. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reese Parrot Thornton, formerly of Epps, who now reside in Franklinton.

The bride - elect is a graduate of Ferriday high school and Northeast Louisiana State College, Monroe. She received her B. A. degree in Social Studies Education and is now employed as librarian at Franklinton high school.

Dr. Thornton was graduated from Epps high school and from Michigan State University where he received his degree in Veterinary Medicine.

The wedding will be solemnized February 15 in the First Baptist Church of Franklinton at 4 p.m. with Dr. W. E. Robbins officiating.

Miss Smith has chosen her sister, Miss Beatrice Smith of Monroe, to serve as her maid of honor. Layton Carr will attend the bridegroom as best man. After a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast the couple will establish a home in Franklinton.

END DRIPS

You can solve the problem of wet floors and rugs when you water a hanging pot plant by slipping a plastic icebox dish cover (the kind that looks like a shower cap) over the bottom of the clay pot. Any excess water that runs through the drainage hole will be caught in the cap and can be emptied after the drainage drip ceases.

Trip To Mexico Follows Smith-Lindsey Nuptials

In a double ring ceremony Saturday morning, January 25 at the Bernice Methodist Church, Miss Suzonne Lindsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ernest Lindsey Jr., of Bernice and Ruston, became the bride of Lt. j.g. Thomas Joseph Smith, son of Mrs. Thomas Joseph Smith Sr., of Chicago Heights, Illinois, and the late Mr. Smith.

Rev. Douglas McLean performed the ceremony at 10 a.m. before the chancel which was graced with a mass sunburst arrangement of happiness roses, stock and chrysanthemums in shades of pink to burgandy which formed a base for the lighted cross above. At either side were palm standards topped by single pink cathedral candles. A background of palms completed the setting for the exchange of vows.

Mrs. Floyd Walsworth presented a program of wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. George Grafton.

Escorted to the altar by her brother-in-law, Carl Scott Simms of San Antonio, Texas, the bride was wearing a gown of white peau de soie, featuring a floor length dome skirt and wrist length fitted sleeves. The tightly fitted bodice was styled with decollete circlet neckline. Her bouffant veil of French illusion fell shoulder length from a lace and pearl encrusted coif. She carried a prayer book, topped with a white rose and velvet ribbon.

Mrs. Carl Scott Simms, sister of the bride, and matron of honor, wore a gown of turquoise peau de soie, fashioned with wedding ring neckline, elbow sleeves and bell shaped skirt. A bow accented the waist at center front. Her pillbox hat was of matching peau de soie with a nose veil and she wore wrist length gloves and carried a long stem happiness rose.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jesse D. McDonald of Monroe and Mrs. Gerald Haynes Teasley of Texarkana, Ark., who were dressed identically to the honor attendant. Also attired in matching dresses were the flower girls, Miss Karen Baron and Kathy Baron of Park Forest, Illinois. They carried baskets of red rose petals.

Henry M. Baron Jr. of Park Forest, Ill., attended Mr. Smith as best man. Groomsmen included Edward Clissold of San Diego, Calif., and George Purvis, of Dallas, Texas. Ring bearer was Scott Myrick Simms.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Lindsey wore a gown of teal blue silk fashioned on blouson lines, with matching shoes, bag and hat and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Smith, mother of the groom, was wearing a beige silk sheath with Alencon lace yoke and sleeves, tiny hat of flowers and matching accessories. Her corsage was also of pink roses. Mrs. George Ernest Lindsey Sr., grandmother of the bride, wore a dress of blue-gray silk shantung with hat of blue flowers and a corsage of roses.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lindsey. Miss Annette Cain of San Francisco, Calif., presided at the guest book.

Arrangements of happiness roses, pink stock and chrysanthemums were used throughout the home. A silver candelabra holding an arrangement of roses and tapers centered the reception table. The tiered wedding cake adorned in the bridal motif of roses and stephanotis centered a round table in the center of the dining room. Alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. George Purvis Jr., and Miss Louise Kuehn, both of Dallas, Tex. At the coffee service were Mrs. Henry M. Baron Jr., of Park Forest, sister of the groom; Mrs. William H. Brown of Baton Rouge, and Miss Barbara Lee of Lafayette. The wedding cake was served by Mrs. Jimmy Terrill of Shreveport and Mrs. Kennedy Abington of Lake Village, Ark.

Assisting with the reception courtesies were Mrs. Ruth Green, Kilgore, Tex., Mrs. George Grafton, Mrs. Buford Cagle, Miss Doris Gaston, Mrs. Donald Lindsey, Mrs. J. Y. Green, Miss Donna Lindsey and Miss Barbara Lindsey, all of Bernice; Mrs. Arthur J. Emerson and Miss Donna Lomax, Monroe; Mrs. Robert Lee Albritton of Farmerville. Misses Molly, Dee and Ainslee McDonald, Monroe; Claire Lindsey, Bernice, Karen and Kathy Baron circulated among the guests presenting tiny bags of rice in turquoise and white tulle, tied with satin ribbons and lilies of the valley.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Mexico City, Taxco and Acapulco, the bride was wearing a blue linton suit with hat to match and brown alligator accessories. Upon their return they will be at home at 393 Fairmount Ave., Oakland, Calif.

Mrs. Smith graduated from Louisiana State University where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. A graduate of Dennison University of Ohio, Mr. Smith was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Out-of-town guests in addition to members of the wedding party were Terry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Svoboda, Chicago Heights, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. William Myrick and William Myrick Jr., Baton Rouge; Miss Tressie Cook, Lafayette; George Myer of Dallas and Bob Buatt of San Francisco, Calif.

Vows Unite Local Couple Saturday

Of interest to their many friends is the marriage of Gail Stewart Fortenberry and Grady Levins Thompson, both of this city, which was solemnized Saturday, January 25.

Rev. Ben R. Oliphint performed the double ring ceremony in the St. Paul's Methodist Church on Lexington Avenue, at 10 a.m.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Well, in autumn we have Indian Summer; in Spring, we have Blackberry Winter. And this week we've had June in January. Pleasant temperatures inspired your reporter to come out of snowbound hibernation and visit two new homes.

To the left is the living room, with its pale blue walls and deeper blue carpet. Draw draperies of palest blue silk cover the window, before which stand a pair of blue chairs at each side of a round marble table. On the long wall is the white sofa, with throw pillows in varying shades of blue. The dining area at the opposite end of the long room is furnished with a fruitwood table surrounded with caneback chairs, and a gold framed mirror above the buffet.

Terrazzo flooring, which begins in the entrance, continues into the family room at the back of the house, and on around into the kitchen with its breakfast area. Brown provincial print covers a pair of wing chairs facing the open fireplace. At each side of the hearth are long glass windows covered with draw draperies in a loosely woven linen. Maple panelling in this room continues into the kitchen for paneling and cabinets. Matching drapery material and wallpaper, both in a Pennsylvania Dutch print in blue and green, are used in kitchen and family dining area.

To the right from the entrance, blue carpeting is used in hall and all three bedrooms. In the first guest room, walls are painted white, and draperies are white silk printed with blue-flowering branches. Blue spreads cover the twin beds, with their blue-upholstered headboards.

Sill-length draperies of dacron printed in a lace design hang at the windows of the second bedroom . . . In the spacious master bedroom are two double beds, covered with matching blue spreads. Walls are blue and short draperies are white with embroidered blue banding.

Another charming house, completed this winter, is that designed by ZOE WILLETT, for a corner lot at Loop Road and Gouville Drive. This home features a distinctive facade of white brick with redwood trim. The wood, extending from the house almost to the street, forms a covered approach to the entrance.

One enters a small, all-white hall with floors of Terrazzo and walls covered with white rice paper embossed with gold. At the left as one enters, the front hall is a fixed panel of glass floor to ceiling, with draw draperies of white, loosely woven linen. Furniture in the entrance hall consists of a black marble console with mirror above.

Living and dining room form one open area stretching the width of the house. Above, the ceiling vaults to the roof. To the left from the entrance is the living room. The facing wall is made of glass, with panels opening onto a screened porch. The end wall is solid white brick, broken only by the open fireplace with its raised hearth. Gold carpet defines the seating area, which utilizes white and gold furniture around a fruitwood coffee table. Other walls are of walnut paneling, with storage space and cabinets concealed therein. In the dining room, fruitwood is used for table and handsome buffet. Chairs upholstered in orange and gold brocade pick up the color of the gold and white chandelier. Visible through the end wall of glass is a small, elegantly - lit garden.

Zoe's bedroom, behind the living room, features white walls with an orange floral pattern highlighting one wall. Carpet is orange, in a shaggy weave. Orange throw pillows are tossed on the white - covered bed. Draperies, two layers hung on separate traverse rods, are of a material resembling old-fashioned drawn linen. Zoe's closets are marvels: one for hanging; one all shelves and one, a walk-in lined with cedar, for out of season storage.

Pecan paneling is used for kitchen walls and cabinets, and for louvered doors which open to form a pass-through into the dining room. Counters are covered with white ceramic tile and flooring is corlon. The stove is built into an island which divides the kitchen into working and family dining areas. In the latter, an antique kitchen safe is used as buffet.

Another wing of the house forming one angle of an "L", has its own entrance on Gouville Drive. In this section are a family sitting room, bedrooms and bath for Zoe's mother, FLORENCE COOKSEY, and brother FRED. The family room is panelled in pecan and floored with corlon. Draw draperies and a large round hooked rug pick up Zoe's favorite colors of browns, white, and gold. This room, the kitchen, and Zoe's bedroom, all open onto the terrace which is enclosed by the two wings of the house.

GRETCHEN GUELZOW of Monroe was maid of honor at the wedding in Dallas last night of KAYDA ZAVITZ of Lansing, Michigan, and ROBERT CUSHMAN JR., of Durham, North Carolina and Bristol, Maine. The couple, classmates of Gretchen's at Southern Methodist University, were wed in SMU's Perkins chapel. Officiating minister was the groom's father, BISHOP ROBERT CUSHMAN, dean of Duke University's Theology school.

Several parties this week honored CHARLOTTE SHOUDY, here from New Jersey as guest of her children, the CHARLES SHOUDYS, on Loop road. On Tuesday, IRIS BROOKS was hostess at a bridge luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club. Games began at ten in the main ballroom. At noon, hot tomato juice was served at the bridge tables before guests were invited to the table in the dining room. Here white pompon chrysanthemums with leatherleaf fern in a crystal and silver container formed the centerpiece.

The menu served to nine guests included broiled trout with the hushpuppies, stuffed baked potato, green salad, and lemon tarts for dessert. Games were continued after lunch, with the honoree winning high as well as guest prize. Consolation went to GENNY COLLET.

Also honoring Charlotte was a bridge luncheon given by BETH McGOUGH at her home Friday. Guests were seated at bridge tables for the meal, which included molded egg and chicken salad; broccoli casserole; peaches with cottage cheese; and fruit cocktail cake for dessert. Prizes in the games went to WINKIE ASHCRAFT, high; and HAZEL JOHNSON, low.

Another visitor who was entertained this week was JEAN SLATTERY, who left Wednesday after a visit with her sister, LETA OLIVER. Jean was named guest of honor when JEAN McCALL was hostess for luncheon at her home.

Bayou DeSiard country club was scene of a luncheon honoring Jean Tuesday when VETTYE BERNHARDT and LOU WILLEY entertained. Seven guests were seated at a table centered with a silver bowl filled with red and white camellias. The menu included ham with sweet potatoes in orange cups; spinach souffle; fresh fruit salad; and a choice of desserts from the cart.

On her sixteenth birthday yesterday, JANNA ROREX was surprised with a luncheon on the porch at Bayou DeSiard country club. Centering the table was the birthday cake, encircled with ivy. Twenty girls attended, including Janna's friend ANN HIGGINBOTHAM of Hamburg, Arkansas.

Another birthday, her eleventh, was celebrated last Saturday by JAN BAGWELL. Her party, on the porch at Bayou DeSiard country club, was highlighted by hamburger luncheon. Winners in games were KAY HASTINGS and LARRY LOU BUICK, Bingo; and CINDY ELLETT, guessing game. Eighteen girls attended the party.

Today's poem, entitled "Legacy", is by Maude Parker:

This is my legacy—
Not property real and tangible Nor stocks and bonds which could be sold—
But these few words, garnered from years
Numbering half a hundred.
I do hereby bequeath, give, pass title unto
This extract of experience
To my beloved daughters,
Share and share alike:
Nothing that lives, stands still.
Grow it must, or shrink;
There is no alternative.
Only inanimate things are static, fixed.
So stretch your mind,
Give it a daily task beyond its present strength;
And store it each day with treasure:
Poetry to say under your breath,
Knowledge newly acquired.
Judge yourself more strictly
Than you judge your neighbors,
Yet weigh no human on a scales
Designed for saints;
Be almost as forgiving to yourself
As you would be to strangers;
It were arrogance to ask perfection
Uniquely from yourself.
Give without stint—
I need not tell you this—
But to each yourself also to accept
What others give. Not heedlessly,
Nor with false pride.
Rather, in recognition
Of another's overflowing heart.
And stretch your soul
Beyond the confines of forgiveness, understanding.
Know this: Inscribe it as a truth:
The irreparable loss is to the betrayer
Never to the betrayed;
The one who deals the mortal blow
Receives the mortal wound.

It Pays To Know About Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Money talks, nearly every woman knows that. Yet few in the business would bother to learn the language.

If they did, says Bernice Jennings, president of an employment agency here, women could talk themselves into any number of important organizations, and soar onward and upward from there.

Miss Jennings is currently counselling with high school placement advisors and high school graduates looking for clerical job opportunities.

Future graduates may indeed find that understanding finance is as necessary for secretarial workers as knowing how to spell, she tells them.

"More and more businessmen looking for office assistance are begging for girls who possess a financial sophistication of what business is really all about."

How do they learn?

Formal training courses in business economics is the ideal way to obtain the knowledge. But Miss Jennings urges young people to teach themselves, if additional schooling is impossible, simply by reading the financial pages and business magazines.

Sue Bond Becomes Bride Of Rev. Ronald Sconyers

White cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra entwined with greenery, and twin baskets of white gladioli formed a setting in Edgewood Baptist Church, West Monroe, for the wedding Saturday, January 25 of Miss Marian Sue Bond, West Monroe and Rev. Ronald Marvin Sconyers, Louisiana College, Pineville.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James C. Bond, 511 Drago, West Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Sconyers, Miami, Florida.

Rev. Ira Peak, student at Baylor University, Waco, Texas, performed the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Cloe Teir, Cottingham Hall, Louisiana College, organist, and Jimmy Bond, brother of the bride, minister of music at Woodworth Baptist Church, and also a student at Louisiana College, who sang.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a full length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The fitted bodice with long tapered sleeves, featured a Queen Anne's neckline, traced with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. The scalloped lace overskirt was caught in panier drapes by rosettes of lace, over multi-layered tulle. Her fingertip veil of illusion cascaded from a bridal crown of rhinestones and her only jewelry was a strand of tiny white pearls. She carried a bouquet, comprised of a yellow throated white orchid and fleur d'amour atop a white Bible.

Miss Sherry Bond, sister of the bride, who served as maid of honor, wore a gown of royal blue velveteen, styled with belled skirt, elbow length sleeves and boat neckline. A cummerbund encircling the waist was caught up in back with a bustle of matching silk organza. She wore a small velveteen pillbox with circular silk organza veil, matching shoes, short white gloves and carried a nosegay of blue chrysanthemums. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendant, were Misses Kathy Sconyers, sister of the groom, Linda Chase, Sue Thigpen, Nell Thigpen, Charlotte Daniel and Sharon Harrelson.

Flower girl, Jeanie Marie Holmes, cousin of the bride, wore a blue velveteen dress and headpiece with black patent shoes, short white gloves and a small nosegay of blue chrysanthemums. Candles were lighted by Misses Ricky and Vicky Funderburk, who wore identical blue velveteen frocks with high necklines, and short sleeves, black patent slippers, and wrist corsages of blue chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man for his cousin was Henry Godbee. Ushers were Bobby Boyet, Larry Parks, Jerry Fletcher, Don Hill, Bob Brian and Jimmy Bond. Steve Silmon acted as ring bearer.

Mrs. Bond, mother of the bride, wore a sheath of turquoise brocade peau de soie, with matching jacket and pillbox of peau de soie. She wore shoes and bag to match, with long white gloves and a corsage of white carnations. The grooms mother, Mrs. Sconyers, selected a two piece brocade ensemble of teal blue, a matching velveteen hat, patent accessories and white gloves. Her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Monroe Holmes, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a black ensemble with complementary accessories and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Ora Dell Cole, wore an avocado green suit with green velvet hat. Both had white carnation corsages.

Following the exchange of vows a reception was held in the church social room, where baskets of white gladioli formed a background for the receiving line. Covered with a white damask cloth the bride's table held a centerpiece of blue pompons in a low silver container, flanked by white candles in silver holders. Miss Linda Kay Davis and Miss Brenda Taliaferro served the tiered wedding cake and alternating at the crystal bowl of cranberry punch placed at the opposite end of the table were Miss Susan Broomfield and Miss Sharon Reitzammer. Tea girls were Miss Marion Ashley, Mrs. Eugene Aaron and Miss Jane Godbee. Miss Jan Clack registered guests in the bride's book, placed on a table, graced with a memory candle. All assistants were presented corsages of white carnations.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip to Miami, Fla., the bride changed into a cranberry wool suit with short matching coat, collared in black fur. A black velvet pillbox, and black kid accessories completed her costume and she wore the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Pineville.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe high school and attended Louisiana College at Pineville and B. M. I. in Monroe. She was a member of Louisiana College Homecoming court, a member of the Cadmian Society, freshman representative to Student Congress, member of the Booster club and a Calendar Girl for the college year book, Pineknot. Mr. Sconyers graduated from Southwest high school in Miami and will graduate in June from Louisiana College in Pineville, where he is president of the Baptist Student Union, member of Cadmian Society, past president of the junior class and is listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He is presently pastor of Bethany Baptist Church in Oakdale.

Mary Jane Young, Fiance Set March Wedding Date

Announcement is made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Mary Jane Young, daughter of Mrs. Christine Terror Young, 1608 North Fourth and Howard S. Young, also of Monroe to Raydell Wilson Thorn. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson Thorn, Milhaven Road, Monroe.

The wedding is planned for March 27 to be solemnized at 6 p.m. in Covenant Presbyterian Church. Rev. Wayne W. Gray will perform the ceremony.

Mrs. William H. Young, of Hampton, Virginia, sister-in-law of the bride-elect, has been chosen to serve as matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. Glen Ray Harrelson, Mrs. James W. Harper, Miss Dixie Williams and Miss Billie Sue Dixon, all of Monroe. Chosen as flower girl is Miss Terri McKnight, Monroe, and ring bearer will be Johnny Albright, West Monroe.

Gerald S. Thorn will attend his brother as best man. Those named to serve as groomsmen-ushers are Gary Futch, Monroe, William H. Young, Hampton, Virginia, brother of the bride-elect; Edward A. Naff and Jerry Holdiness, both of Monroe.

Miss Young is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Prickett of Winnsboro and the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Young of Cleveland, Ohio. She was graduated from Neville high school where she was a member of Delta Beta Sigma and is presently a senior at Northeast Louisiana State College and a member of Phi Mu sorority.

Mr. Thorn was graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and is also a senior at Northeast. He is the grandson of Mrs. J. B. Hudson and the late Mr. Hudson and of Mrs. L. L. Thorn and the late Mr. Thorn, all of Monroe.

Following their marriage the couple will reside in Monroe, where both will continue studies at Northeast.

MISS SUZONNE WASHER

February 29 Wedding Planned By Couple

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Washer, White's Ferry Road, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Suzonne to Airman Third Class R. Neil Young. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Young, 109 Mauldin Drive.

The wedding is planned as an event of Saturday, February 29 in Fair Park Baptist Church. Rev. Filer J. Seal, pastor of Highland Baptist Church, will perform the ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Washer was graduated from West Monroe high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hunter of Springhill.

Also a graduate of West Monroe high school, Mr. Young attended Northeast and is now with the U. S. Air Force, stationed at Waco, Texas, where the couple will reside following their marriage.

'Pioneer' Colors Again Popular For Decorating

Are you painting your house this year, either inside or out? Or are you redecorating?

If you are, chances are that the colors you choose will stem from the orginal color schemes that our Pilgrim forebears used to brighten the drabness of the harsh new land they found so wild and savage!

Perennially pleasing to the American taste have been six colors: a clear orange-red, a muted mossy green, a deep dark blue, a charcoal-black, a rich clear dark red, and a bright lemony yellow.

All have a subtle, earthy quality, and this is understandable, for the original colors took their dyes and pigments from the bounty of the earth itself.

The dyes for their handwoven fabrics were made from whatever could be used by ingenious and determined people — from leaves, from the skins of onions, from shrubs and plants and vegetables.

And the pigments that were used to color-paint were all of mineral origin, either dug laboriously out of the earth — or the earth itself, if it were reddish or ochre.

Later on, as the colonies grew and prospered, imported colorings were available, such as cochineal, madder — for the famed and beloved turkey red — and indigo for blues, to add a little more variety.

To our present day decorators and painters, this would seem a very limited color range.

But out of this sparsity has come a richness that very effectively dramatizes man's constant search for beauty and his willingness to work to attain it.

Today, when you choose your paints, you choose from literally thousands of hues, tints and shades. You choose from rich, deep, vibrant colors.

You choose from easy to use water-based paints in flat or glossy finishes, you choose from new Latex and synthetic bases, from standard and refined bases according to your needs.

Can't find the exact color you demand? Chances are, your paint store can mix it for you, in any of the kinds of paint you need — and they can also mix your own personal color in any finish you want, for color-matching trims and accents for indoors or out.

Your paints won't fade, today, as did those early primitive colorings. Your paints contain new pigments never before available to guarantee longlasting beauty and protection for your home.

Sterlington Church Site Of Thompson-Blake Vows

Baskets of white stock and pompons decorated the altar of St. Andrews Methodist Church, Sterlington for the wedding Saturday, January 25 of Miss Nancy Blake and William Ralph Thompson both of Baton Rouge. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Blake, Sterlington and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey Thompson Jr., of Rayville.

Rev. George Duerson performed the double ring ceremony at 5:30 p.m. following an organ prelude by Miss Elaine Allen.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a short gown of white chiffon, topped by a brief lace jacket, styled with round neckline, three quarter sleeves and back button enclosure. Her shoulder length veil of tulle was attached to a bandeau of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid.

Miss June Pickel, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor and only attendant. Her orchid frock was styled with v-neckline, and bell shaped skirt. She wore matching headdress and shoes and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Thompson attended his son as best man and ushers were Tommy Cooper, Rayville; Dr. Jacob Storey, cousin of the groom of Tallulah; and Johnny Blake, St. Louis, Mo., brother of the bride. Candlelighters were James Heard Pickel and Joe Pickel, cousins of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Blake chose a beige crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of small bronze chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue suit with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. An arrangement of pink and white carnations flanked by pink candles in crystal holders, centered the bride's table, which was overlaid with a cutwork cloth.

For a short wedding trip the bride changed into a biege suit styled with deep V rolled collar and a dickey of gold and olive green silk. The couple will establish a home at 1051 McClung, Apt. D-14 in Baton Rouge.

Mrs. Thompson was graduated from Neville high school and from Northeast Louisiana State College and is a member of Phi Mu social sorority. Mr. Thompson graduated from Rayville high school, attended University of the South where he became a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and received his B.A. degree in English from Northeast Louisiana State College. He will receive a degree in Library Science at Louisiana State University graduate school January 28 and will be enrolled January 30 in graduate school at LSU in the English department. Mrs. Thompson will continue teaching at Gonzales.

DINING ALCOVE

William Phalmann, F. A. I. D. created a dining alcove for the New York Decoration and Design show that blends with the absolute minimum of space. To follow suit, take a U-shaped alcove, build banquettes of plywood and add sumptuous tufted foam rubber back and seat cushioning upholstered in a fabric to blend with your best table linens. Add a roomy dining table that fills the alcove and use scenic wallpaper murals to give a feeling of space.

Garden Forum Discussed At Welcome Garden Club

Frank Spivey was guest speaker for the January meeting of the Welcome Garden club held Monday afternoon at Julia Wossman Recreation Center. During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. J. W. Golson, letters of appreciation were read from the Convalescent homes which were decorated for Christmas by club members.

Mrs. John Tolar discussed the Home Gardening Forum of Ouachita Parish, which will be held February 20 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:40 p.m. Speakers will be W. A. Meadows, Neil G. Odenwald, D. S. Hall, all horticulturists from Baton Rouge; E. A. Canceenne, entomologist and Dr. John Wright from Louisiana Tech.

Mrs. M. W. Montgomery read a letter of resignation from Miss Fannie Oxford, secretary. She also asked members to support the Camellia show sponsored by Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club on February 22 and 23 at the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company on DeSiard St.

A book was given to the Garden Center in memory of Mrs. Marie Frazier and Dr. J. W. Golson by Mrs. Golson, entitled "All About Miniature Plants and Gardens" by Bernice Brelmayer and Evergreens for Every State by Kathrine M. Cloud.

Mr. Spivey was introduced by Mrs. Montgomery. He showed specimen plants and flowers from his greenhouse, giving valuable information on the culture, spraying and fertilizing of Camellias. He named the Bernice Broddy, a light pink camellia and the Winfred Womack camellia as examples of the plants which could withstand cold weather best. In talking of disbudding he said the pink perfection was better if not disbudded, and stated he preferred to buy camellias in containers rather than in burlap balls. Mr. Spivey advised the use of cotton seed meal in small quantity for fertilizer in the Spring.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by the hostesses, Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. T. H. Spurlock, Mrs. J. N. Vernon, Mrs. Charles Byrd and Mrs. S. W. Raby. Members present were Mrs. R. W. Bandy, Mrs. Frank Pettit, Mrs. J. W. Golson, Mrs. S. W. Raby, Mrs. Charles Byrd, Mrs. John A. Vernon, Mrs. Mable Ford, Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. J. L. Warren, Mrs. Bert Gambrell, Miss Fannie Oxford, Mrs. Ed Hislop Jr., Mrs. Miller Christie, Mrs. Fred L. Stricklin, Mrs. T. H. Spurlock Sr., Mrs. D. F. Dennis, Mrs. G. W. Welch, Mrs. J. L. Whipkey, Mrs. Robert C. Cowden, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Mrs. E. L. Page, Mrs. J. C. Anders, Mrs. John Tolar, Mrs. C. C. Lucky, Mrs. Floyd Matthewes, and Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein.

GOOD CITIZENS PINS are presented by Mrs. J. Metris Bell Sr. to Miss Trudie Swink, center, West Monroe high school and Miss Violet Little, Calhoun high school, from Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, sponsors of the contest. They were selected from their respective schools for outstanding qualities of leadership, dependability, service and patriotism.

Chief Tusquahoma DAR Honors Good Citizens

Delegates for the 1964 State Conference and the 73rd Continental Congress were elected and recipients of the two Good Citizens pins were honored by Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution at a meeting Saturday, January 18 at Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Mrs. H. H. Winters III, hostess chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Jack Willis, Mrs. J. L. Harper, Mrs. M. C. Williams, Mrs. Earl Cox and Mrs. Roy Brooks.

Mrs. J. Metris Bell Sr. in the absence of Mrs. Archie L. Dickerson, chairman of the Good Citizen committee, presented Good Citizens pins to Miss Trudie Swink of West Monroe high school and Miss Violet Little of Calhoun high school. Mrs. Douglas A. Swink, mother of Miss Swink and Mrs. Ralph Camp, sister of Miss Little, were also introduced by Mrs. Bell. Mrs. Herman H. McGuire, regent, who presided over the meeting, welcomed guests and members.

After the ritual, the vice-regent, Mrs. Joseph B. Landreaux, read the President General's message from the national magazine.

Mrs. W. G. Haynes Jr., co-chairman for National Defense gave a talk on the subject of Education taken from the National Defender. As corresponding secretary, Mrs. Haynes, read the announcements of State DAR candidates for vice president general of the National Society, and letters regarding the dedication of the Don Juan Filhiol marker.

The chapter voted to donate $7.50 to Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution, to be used on one of their many projects. Also voted to extend the Good Citizen Program and American History Medal award program to include the Columbia High School, Columbia, La. Mrs. H. H. Winters III, will work as co-chairman on both projects.

Mrs. F. J. Ortis, secreatry, called for annual reports of the various chapter officers and chairmen. All reports will be sent to the state chairmen by February 1 in compliance with the Honor Roll requirements.

Mrs. Lester Corley, chairman for Americanism & DAR Manual, announced a display at the West Monroe Library and the D.A.R. Manuals were on hand for any Alien interested in picking them up. Mrs. Kate Stewart, treasurer, announced the new national Handbook, just off the press, had been received and members were urged to get one and destroy all old books.

Mrs. J. B. Landreaux was elected as delegate to the State Conference in Alexandria, March 3, 4, and 5. Elected as alternates for the regent and delegate are Miss Katie McGee, Miss Beulah Lanius, Mrs. J. M. Bell, and Mrs. Robert E. Harrell. Mrs. Bell, was elected delegate to the Continental Congress in Washington D. C., and alternates for the regent, Mrs. R. E. Harrell, and Mrs. D. C. Golson. Alternates for the delegates are Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, and Mrs. Lester Corley. The regent Mrs. McGuire, is expected to attend both the State Conference and the Continental Congress.

It was recommended for the corresponding secretary to write Mrs. John P. Godfrey, state historian, on her article published in the January issue of the National magazine, entitled "Sixty-Nine Years in Louisiana DAR", which included a history of the naming of every Chapter in the state of Louisiana and year organized.

The February 8 meeting will be the Annual George Washington luncheon at the Paragon Club in Monroe. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Miller or Mrs. Roy E. Lee. Plans for observance of American History Month in February were announced by Mrs. O. N. Reynolds and Mrs. James L. McGuire.

The social hour preceeding the meeting was held in the ball room, where the regent's table held an arrangement of pink roses in an antique silver tureen, with similar arrangements on the two U shaped tables. Members present were: Mrs. J. M. Bell Sr., Mrs. Herman M. McGuire, Mrs. F. J. Ortis, Mrs. W. G. Haynes Jr., Mrs. J. C. Stewart, Mrs. E. W. Stinson Jr., Mrs. J. O. Miller, Miss Mary Louise Ellis, Miss Lenee Lacey, Mrs. J. C. Steele Jr., Mrs. Louis I. Craig, Mrs. Edward Koserog, Mrs. Donald Cannon, Miss Katie McGee, Mrs. H. Clifton Mize, Mrs. H. C. Ervin, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Mrs. Carter Cozine, Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, Mrs. Lester Corley, Mrs. Ruth Hundley, Mrs. Mattie Stewart, Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt, Mrs. J. Frank Jones, Mrs. Travis A. Brown, Mrs. Robert E. Harrell, Mrs. James L. McGuire and the guests, Miss Trudie Swink, Miss Violet Little, Mrs. Douglas A. Swink, Mrs. Ralph Camp and the hostesses.

Lady's Swimsuits Soon To Be Without Tops

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Lady's swimsuits will be without tops within the next five years, Sportswear designers predict. But at the new spring collection previews here, high fashion dresses already are a mere breath away from the same breezy goal.

Emboldened by the success of Christian Dior designer Marc Bohan's bare-bosomed models in Paris last July, American designers are stopping short of next-to-nothing to provide their own rich couture clients with the same public exposure.

The models of designers Luis Estevez, Teal Traina, Ceil Chapman, Larry Aldrich and David Kidd, unveiled the beauty of natural femininity in scooped, ovalled, squared, heart-shaped, and center-slashed necklines that stay as far away from the neck as possible.

Additional well-known couturiers due to introduce their spring collections soon also are reportedly in favor of unconcealed cleavage.

The audience consensus so far is that the fashion climate will be right for decolletage.

Photos of chic French and American manikins oozing with physical charm, widely publicized in fashion magazines and newspapers, have done their part in conditioning the public to appreciate the nude look.

"The current, chest-baring trend," explained an amateur psychologist on a crowded elevator after one of the spring shows, "is modern woman's subconscious reaction to the recent plethora of literature probing her psyche. Whatever is said about her, she is proving she is every inch all-woman."

But two-time fashion critics award winner Bill Blass believes the trend is a natural swing of the fashion pendulum away from the muffled-up style of the past year, which had women wrapped up like mummies.

Other spring trends are: low-mixtures of wool with linen, a mismatch of prints and sleeveless coats and jackets.

But in view of the new low necklines no one is likely to notice.

Golden Look Replaces Night-Club Pallor Of '63

By MARLA TURNER

PARIS — (WNS) — Making a debut for the woman-in-the-know is the bright new golden look.

"The 1964 look is a revolution," declared Monsieur Effatan, gray - haired high stylist who is frequented by many of France's top comediennes.

"Such a revolution happens but seldom. The pendulum has swung completely away from the Oriental influence, away from the slanting eyes, bouffant hairdos and pale faces of the Japanese geisha girls.

"Half a world away is has swung to the golden, vibrant beauty of fashionable young skiers just off the sunny slopes."

The golder color and the allure of 1964 are totally different from the night - club pallor of '63. The healthy new look is entirely in harmony with this winter's high boots, turtle-necked sweaters and glowing dress colors.

However, there is nothing casual or sporty about this new look. For those who find it difficult to get out for a brisk walk in the sun and snow, here are some hints given by Monsieur Effatan to accomplish it.

You will need a good mirror; new lipsticks, powder, foundation cream and eye make-up, and rouge to highlight the cheek bones.

OUT are the pale faces, the pale heavy lips, the dark smudgy eyes, the platinum hairdos. IN are small bright clear lips, golden complexion tints, glowing cheeks and horizontal instead of slanting eyes.

To get down specifics, since you may want to practice up a bit:

1. If you use a make-up base, choose one with slightly golden overtones.

2. Using a light rouge--liquid is good — draw it across the cheek bones and apply lightly on the temples, making sure that is is well blended in.

3. Then pat on a slighly golden-toned powder, using a little darker tone if you are brunette.

4. Now for the eyes. Using a chestnut-colored pencil draw a thin line from the inside of the eye, along the upper lid to about a quarter of an inch beyond the outside of the eyes.

5. Eyebrows. These, too, should appear to be in as straight a line as possible. No upward curving brows. It may be necessary to reshape the eyebrows, especially near the nose.

6. Eyelids. Again the color accent should be a light gold instead of the old greens and blues. The light golden tones make the face look younger, the eyes brighter.

7. Eyelashes. Instead of brown or black try using violet or chestnut for a brighter, warmer look. Brunettes can wear the violet mascara during the day. Blondes can use the violet in the evenings but they will find a reddish brown gives a warmer look in daylight.

8. Finally, for the lips, find a lipstick that is clear and bright. Blondes can use a lipstick with a hint of mauve in it. For brunettes it can have just a hint of orange. But in neither case should the color be orange or mauve, or the pale colors of last summer.

Make up the mouth to look small, clearly outlined and natural.

And now, counsels Monsieur Effatan, if you have followed these simple directions, your husband will marvel at your new sparkle and look of well being. If you're single — well, Leap Year may change that, too.

Golden Look Replaces Night-Club Pallor Of '63

By MARLA TURNER

PARIS — (WNS) — Making a debut for the woman-in-the-know is the bright new golden look.

"The 1964 look is a revolution," declared Monsieur Effatan, gray - haired high stylist who is frequented by many of France's top comediennes.

"Such a revolution happens but seldom. The pendulum has swung completely away from the Oriental influence, away from the slanting eyes, bouffant hairdos and pale faces of the Japanese geisha girls.

"Half a world away is has swung to the golden, vibrant beauty of fashionable young skiers just off the sunny slopes."

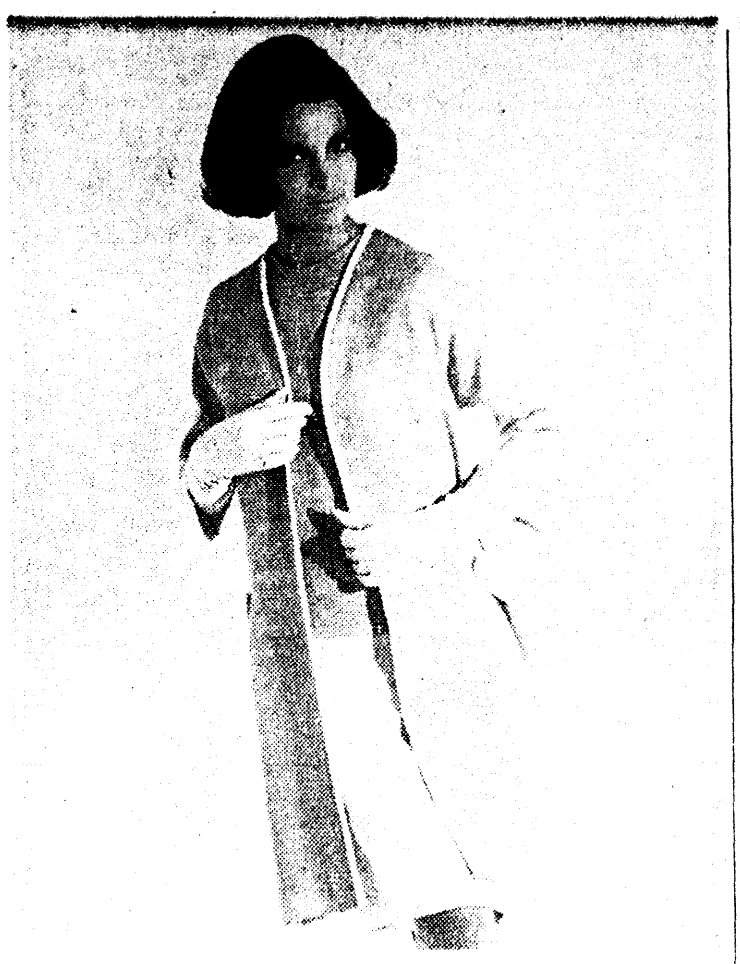
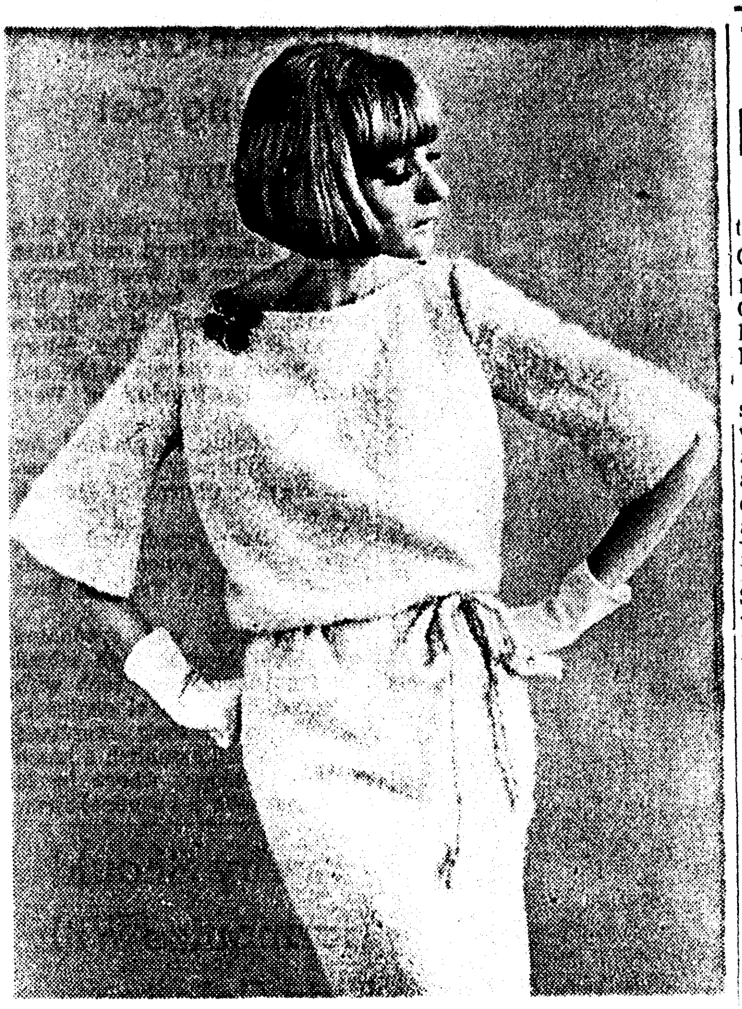
ADDED INCENTIVE is the description given this ensemble by Howard Wolf who adds a blouse and jacket to this great jumper. The solid jumper has a striped blouse to match and a white sleeveless, collarless cutaway jacket, stitched to pick up the color of the jumper.



THE ENSEMBLE, the most important of all Spring fashions, comes to life in Howard Wolf's Companions. The dress appears to be two-pieced in a lovely two-tone combination with the new important lowered waistline. The coat, with low placed back belt, is highlighted by a contrasting binding. The fabric is textured rayon and silk.



THE POPULAR BLOUSON is continuing into spring styles. Mr. Mort designs his blouson here in wool and mohair with elbow length belled sleeves and self tie belt. Its colors are ice green or pink.

Review Club Plans To Attend Convention

Mrs. Lester Martin was a guest at the bi-monthly meeting of the Review Club held Monday, January 20 at the home of Mrs. Sam Smith, 606 Auburn.

Mrs. W. T. Davis, president, welcomed the guest and opened the meeting with a tribute to the birthday of Benjamin Franklin. She quoted one of his famous statements —"After crosses and losses men grow humbler and wiser," and led the members in repeating the club collect.

During the business session announcement was made of the forthcoming convention to be held in Tallulah on February 29. A nominating committee was appointed and is composed of Mrs. Claude Smith, chairman; Mrs. Allen Givens and Mrs. Herschel Gentry Jr.

Mrs. C. P. Gray Jr., chairman of the advisory board, introduced the afternoon's program entitled "Circumspection Again." The first book concerning congressional analysis, "Deadlock of Democracy" by James MacGregor Burns was reviewed by Mrs. John C. Loftin. The book is an insight into the paralyzing conflict between the president and congress from the days of Madison and Jefferson to Washington today.

Mrs. Gray introduced the second half of the program entitled "National Affairs — Executive," which led to Mrs. Claude Smith's review of "The Ordeal of Power by Emmet Hughes, a memoir and appraisal of the man and the policies of Dwight D. Eisenhower during his eight years of presidency.

Following adjournment of the meeting refreshments were served in the dining room where Mrs. Davis presided at the coffee service. Those present were Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Thomas Dansby, Mrs. Calvin Folds, Mrs. H. A. Gentry Jr., Mrs. Allen Givens, Mrs. Prentice Gray Jr., Mrs. John C. Loftin, Mrs. Craig Morgan, Mrs. Claude Smith, Mrs. Sam Smith and the guest.

Jumpers, Ensembles In Spring Collections

Howard Wolf is jumping into 1964 fashions with the jumper, "the seen most often" design in his new spring collection.

The Dallas designer and manufacturer of junior dresses, demitasse suits and sportswear for the 18 to 26 year age group, calls his collection "Invitation to Spring."

In addition to jumpers and ensembles, the Howard Wolf collection is also rich in shifts, drawstring dresses, and the two-piece look in fantastic fabrics, body line and colors.

A master of the youthful look conveyed with sophistication, Mr. Wolf uses the jumper in many materials — many moods.

"Matchmaker" is a stunning jumper of acetate silk in deep colors matched by crewel embroidery on the sleeve of a white broadcloth blouse.

As new as spring '64 is "Relay", a cotton glen plaid jumper with a flat crepe bowed blouse.

"Winning Ways" is the significant name for a low belted tweed jumper. The tweed is beautifully textured and colored and follows Wolf's penchant for handsome belt treatments on jumpers. The white blouse is crepe.

In "Added Incentive", the jumper turns to the ensemble look and appears with a jacket. The solid jumper has a striped blouse sparked by a white sleeveless, collarless cutaway jacket, stitched to pick up the color of the jumper.

The ensemble look is always important in Wolf's collection and "Surprise Package", with its rayon linen jumper, crepe blouse and cotton and silk tweed jacket, gives the layered look. It can be worn as a three-piece ensemble or with the jumper alone or with the blouse.

Belted or not, "Fresh Approach", a dacron-cotton trench coat shift is beautiful. But in "Promenade" the belted back is the important added touch to set off a daytime through date time dress.

The new view drawstring dress is up to the minute in "Contemporary," an arnel print.

Pilot Officials Plan District Convention

Mrs. Polly Harris, of Winnfield, District III, Pilot Club International and other district administrative officers are meeting in Monroe this weekend to make plans for the district convention scheduled to be held in Monroe April 17, 18 and 19.

The Pilot Club of Monroe will be hostess for the convention with Mrs. O. Willis, president; Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, convention chairman and Mrs. Frank Parker, co-chairman, serving on the district convention committee.

Those attending the meeting at the Virginia Hotel Saturday and Sunday from out-of-town are Mrs. Polly Harris, Winnfield; Miss Phebe Hopper, first lieutenant governor, Corinth, Miss., Mrs. Louise Talley, second lieutenant governor, Leesville, La., Miss Sarah Ann Wallace, treasurer, Aberdeen, Miss., and Mrs. Ruth Allen, secretary, Winnfield.

Trimmings Take Spotlight In Spring Fashion

The trim's the thing for Spring. Feminine touches are IN. In frogs, fringes and braids; in ruffles of organdy or lace; in buttons of pressed leather, metal or jewel-stones; in decorative bindings for belts, collars and cuffs; and in embroidered accents with nautical or insignia motiffs.

Here's the stuff home-sewing creativity is made of. With today's versatile, easy-to-operate machine stitchers, it's a cinch to create a new - as - tomorrow wardrobe, or fashion-trim last year's sheath into this year's.

Slated for top popularity in ruffling are the white organdies sewn down with bright embroidered band centers; and laces or embroidered trims in white-on-white or black-on-white.

Piping with the look of leather is the mode. . . snake, suede or polished calf, real or so nearly so it's hard to tell.

Welt seaming is the big look in sports coats, suits and dresses, with matching or contrasting thread.

For the young folks it's the "Sissie shirt", the old sloppy joe sweatshirt with lace or organdy ruffled trim. And patching on the young is a sign of chic, not poverty; elbow patches are so "news" on sweaters, jackets and blouses, pieces of leather and suede are available with punched needle holes for easy application.

RETAINS SHAPE

If you want to avoid stretching pie dough, roll it large enough to fit the pan and let it settle naturally. If pie dough is not stretched, it has a good chance of retaining its shape when baked as a shell.

Fashion Flashes To Look For

. . . the glittery contradiction of sportive evening styles, such as a white satin jumper with a jeweled turtle-neck sweater.

. . . a trend for important jeweling, in gem stones as bold as if they were real, particularly at the ears and in the hair.

. . . acceptance of fake fur coats as classics, so that women have one wool and one fake fur as a matter of course.

. . . the new color combination, pink and green, in hostess gowns after Norman Norell, in resort evening dresses of chiffon.

. . . the way ruffles are suddenly the sexiest new fashion, used to half conceal deep necklines, to edge hemlines and sleeves.

. . . the new bright pastels in ski clothes, with quilted jackets in blush pink, in sun yellow, or in white with pastel prints.

. . . the new fashion status of the shirt, again something to collect, in pure white crepe, artists' prints, Pucci silks.

. . . return of the chemise, a short slip to wear under shorter skirts, with either a camisole top or a built-in bra.

. . . the resurgence of brilliant evening looks, with special hair-dos, dresses again decollete, lots of color and white.

17th Century Colonial Dames Display Antiques

The Edward Doty Chapter of the Colonial Dames of the XVII Century met Saturday, January 18 in the home of Mrs. Blanche Goodwin Williams, with Mrs. J. B. Rawlinson Jr. and Mrs. W. P. Douglass as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Emma Alexander presided at the meeting during which delegates were elected to attend the forthcoming state and national conventions. Those elected to represent the chapter at the state convention are Mrs. H. Flood Madison Jr., Mrs. A. P. Cook and Mrs. Virgie Sue Smith. Alternates are Mrs. David Garrett Sr., Mrs. James Madison and Mrs. W. T. Barham. Mrs. Edward Lee Gladney Jr., a member of Edward Doty Chapter, is state president, and will preside over the convention to be held February 6 and 7 in Baton Rouge.

Following the business meeting each member displayed a cherished antique and gave a brief resume of its history. Mrs. W. T. Barham brought her family Bible dated 1852; Mrs. W. P. Douglass showed an antique china tray; Mrs. W. M. Givens displayed a Bisque figurine; Mrs. David Garrett brought four tin types set in a rare four-way frame; Mrs. J. R. Ludlum presented wrought iron candlesticks; Mrs. James Madison showed an antique silver youth goblet; Mrs. Donald Quinn Jr., a Korean vase; Mrs. N. R. Spencer, a diamond ring.

Mrs. Corbin Turpin, a lover's knot pin made of hair; Mrs. Fay Walker, an antique writing pen with a mother of pearl handle; Mrs. F. J. Willey Sr., a pressed glass compote; Mrs. W. V. Garnier, a silver soup ladle; Mrs. Virgie Sue Smith, a coverlet which had been completely made by hand from spinning the yarn to dyeing and weaving the fabric; Mrs. J. B. Rawlinson Sr., showed two antique chemise buttons; and Mrs. William Mattison, a silver nutmeg shaker made in 1797. Mrs. A. T. Turpin Sr., displayed a hand blown pitcher; Mrs. Harold McClendon, a china compote and Mrs. Pat Martin a brass oil lamp.

During the social hour a dessert course was served from a table decorated with a seven branch candelabra which held an arrangement of peppermint carnations and heather. Mrs. William Mattison presided at the tea service while Mrs. Pat Martin, at the piano, played Rachmaninoff's C Minor Prelude.

In one corner of the living room an antique pedestal table held a spring arrangement of white and blue Dutch iris and yellow daffodils and acacia in a cut glass bowl. A specimen camellia blossom floated in a milk glass compote on the coffee table. Also in attendance at the meeting was Mrs. Hadley Leavell.

BUBBLE SILHOUETTE

The bubble silhouette is "in" for little girls. Carter, maker of infant and toddler clothes, says the bubble is similar to the rompers of yesteryear. It's made of cotton knit, woven cotton and stretch terry.

ADDED INCENTIVE is the description given this ensemble by Howard Wolf who adds a blouse and jacket to this great jumper. The solid jumper has a striped blouse to match and a white sleeveless, collarless cutaway jacket, stitched to pick up the color of the jumper.

Review Club Plans To Attend Convention

Mrs. Lester Martin was a guest at the bi-monthly meeting of the Review Club held Monday, January 20 at the home of Mrs. Sam Smith, 606 Auburn.

Mrs. W. T. Davis, president, welcomed the guest and opened the meeting with a tribute to the birthday of Benjamin Franklin. She quoted one of his famous statements —"After crosses and losses men grow humbler and wiser," and led the members in repeating the club collect.

During the business session announcement was made of the forthcoming convention to be held in Tallulah on February 29. A nominating committee was appointed and is composed of Mrs. Claude Smith, chairman; Mrs. Allen Givens and Mrs. Herschel Gentry Jr.

Mrs. C. P. Gray Jr., chairman of the advisory board, introduced the afternoon's program entitled "Circumspection Again." The first book concerning congressional analysis, "Deadlock of Democracy" by James MacGregor Burns was reviewed by Mrs. John C. Loftin. The book is an insight into the paralyzing conflict between the president and congress from the days of Madison and Jefferson to Washington today.

Mrs. Gray introduced the second half of the program entitled "National Affairs — Executive," which led to Mrs. Claude Smith's review of "The Ordeal of Power by Emmet Hughes, a memoir and appraisal of the man and the policies of Dwight D. Eisenhower during his eight years of presidency.

Following adjournment of the meeting refreshments were served in the dining room where Mrs. Davis presided at the coffee service. Those present were Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Thomas Dansby, Mrs. Calvin Folds, Mrs. H. A. Gentry Jr., Mrs. Allen Givens, Mrs. Prentice Gray Jr., Mrs. John C. Loftin, Mrs. Craig Morgan, Mrs. Claude Smith, Mrs. Sam Smith and the guest.

THE ENSEMBLE, the most important of all Spring fashions, comes to life in Howard Wolf's Companions. The dress appears to be two-pieced in a lovely two-tone combination with the new important lowered waistline. The coat, with low placed back belt, is highlighted by a contrasting binding. The fabric is textured rayon and silk.

Jumpers, Ensembles In Spring Collections

Howard Wolf is jumping into 1964 fashions with the jumper, "the seen most often" design in his new spring collection.

The Dallas designer and manufacturer of junior dresses, demitasse suits and sportswear for the 18 to 26 year age group, calls his collection "Invitation to Spring."

In addition to jumpers and ensembles, the Howard Wolf collection is also rich in shifts, drawstring dresses, and the two-piece look in fantastic fabrics, body line and colors.

A master of the youthful look conveyed with sophistication, Mr. Wolf uses the jumper in many materials — many moods.

"Matchmaker" is a stunning jumper of acetate silk in deep colors matched by crewel embroidery on the sleeve of a white broadcloth blouse.

As new as spring '64 is "Relay", a cotton glen plaid jumper with a flat crepe bowed blouse.

"Winning Ways" is the significant name for a low belted tweed jumper. The tweed is beautifully textured and colored and follows Wolf's penchant for handsome belt treatments on jumpers. The white blouse is crepe.

In "Added Incentive", the jumper turns to the ensemble look and appears with a jacket. The solid jumper has a striped blouse sparked by a white sleeveless, collarless cutaway jacket, stitched to pick up the color of the jumper.

The ensemble look is always important in Wolf's collection and "Surprise Package", with its rayon linen jumper, crepe blouse and cotton and silk tweed jacket, gives the layered look. It can be worn as a three-piece ensemble or with the jumper alone or with the blouse.

Belted or not, "Fresh Approach", a dacron-cotton trench coat shift is beautiful. But in "Promenade" the belted back is the important added touch to set off a daytime through date time dress.

The new view drawstring dress is up to the minute in "Contemporary," an arnel print.

Pilot Officials Plan District Convention

Mrs. Polly Harris, of Winnfield, District III, Pilot Club International and other district administrative officers are meeting in Monroe this weekend to make plans for the district convention scheduled to be held in Monroe April 17, 18 and 19.

The Pilot Club of Monroe will be hostess for the convention with Mrs. O. Willis, president; Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, convention chairman and Mrs. Frank Parker, co-chairman, serving on the district convention committee.

Those attending the meeting at the Virginia Hotel Saturday and Sunday from out-of-town are Mrs. Polly Harris, Winnfield; Miss Phebe Hopper, first lieutenant governor, Corinth, Miss., Mrs. Louise Talley, second lieutenant governor, Leesville, La., Miss Sarah Ann Wallace, treasurer, Aberdeen, Miss., and Mrs. Ruth Allen, secretary, Winnfield.

THE POPULAR BLOUSON is continuing into spring styles. Mr. Mort designs his blouson here in wool and mohair with elbow length belled sleeves and self tie belt. Its colors are ice green or pink.

Trimmings Take Spotlight In Spring Fashion

The trim's the thing for Spring. Feminine touches are IN. In frogs, fringes and braids; in ruffles of organdy or lace; in buttons of pressed leather, metal or jewel-stones; in decorative bindings for belts, collars and cuffs; and in embroidered accents with nautical or insignia motiffs.

Here's the stuff home-sewing creativity is made of. With today's versatile, easy-to-operate machine stitchers, it's a cinch to create a new - as - tomorrow wardrobe, or fashion-trim last year's sheath into this year's.

Slated for top popularity in ruffling are the white organdies sewn down with bright embroidered band centers; and laces or embroidered trims in white-on-white or black-on-white.

Piping with the look of leather is the mode. . . snake, suede or polished calf, real or so nearly so it's hard to tell.

Welt seaming is the big look in sports coats, suits and dresses, with matching or contrasting thread.

For the young folks it's the "Sissie shirt", the old sloppy joe sweatshirt with lace or organdy ruffled trim. And patching on the young is a sign of chic, not poverty; elbow patches are so "news" on sweaters, jackets and blouses, pieces of leather and suede are available with punched needle holes for easy application.

RETAINS SHAPE

If you want to avoid stretching pie dough, roll it large enough to fit the pan and let it settle naturally. If pie dough is not stretched, it has a good chance of retaining its shape when baked as a shell.

Fashion Flashes To Look For

. . . . the glittery contradiction of sportive evening styles, such as a white satin jumper with a jeweled turtle-neck sweater.

. . . . a trend for important jeweling, in gem stones as bold as if they were real, particularly at the ears and in the hair.

. . . . acceptance of fake fur coats as classics, so that women have one wool and one fake fur as a matter of course.

. . . . the new color combination, pink and green, in hostess gowns after Norman Norell, in resort evening dresses of chiffon.

. . . . the way ruffles are suddenly the sexiest new fashion, used to half conceal deep necklines, to edge hemlines and sleeves.

. . . . the new bright pastels in ski clothes, with quilted jackets in blush pink, in sun yellow, or in white with pastel prints.

. . . . the new fashion status of the shirt, again something to collect, in pure white crepe, artists' prints, Pucci silks.

. . . . return of the chemise, a short slip to wear under shorter skirts, with either a camisole top or a built-in bra.

. . . . the resurgence of brilliant evening looks, with special hairdos, dresses again decollete, lots of color and white.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Leave Neighbor Out Of Medical Diagnosis

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Our nine-year-old son has been out of school 32 days this semester because of severe colds and sore throats. Our family doctor has advised us to have the boy's tonsils removed during Spring vacation.

My next door neighbor says this doctor is an old-fashioned dodo who is practicing medieval medicine. She claims the doctors today do not yank out tonsils just because kids have colds and sore throats.

My husband and I have had some arguments about this. He seems to pay entirely too much attention to what this neighbor says, which irritates me.

What is your opinion? Should we have the boy's tonsils removed or not? — QUESTION MARK

Dear Mark: I am not a doctor. And even if I were I would not presume to diagnose your son's case through the mail.

It's true that fewer tonsillectomies are performed today than 25 years ago. But each case must be determined by individual diagnosis. Since you are undecided, get two other medical opinions and leave your neighbor out of it.

Dear Ann Landers: My friend who is 18 has been dating a boy, 16. I told her she was robbing the cradle. She told me to mind my own business.

What do you think? — LOVER OR REASON.

Dear Lover: I think she is indeed robbing the cradle and that you should mind your own business.

Dear Ann Landers: Last year my mother passed away. My older sister promised Mom that she would make a home for me until I got married. I am 18 and will graduate from high school in February.

My sister is good to me and I have a nice room. The trouble is my sister's husband. He is vulgar and coarse and I hate the sight of him. He has repulsive table manners and I can't stand the way he pushes my sister around. I don't know how a lovely, refined girl like my sister could have married this miserable, crude man.

I've told my sister how I feel and she says, "He's not perfect but he's my husband and I intend to make the best of it."

The man who manages the drug store where I work weekends would marry me in a minute if I said yes. He is 30 years old, a widower and has two small children. He would treat me well and give me a good home.

No, I don't love him but nobody else is breaking down my door. What should I do? — SWAN LAKE

Dear Swan: If you marry a man you don't love just to get away from an unhappy home you will make an even unhappier home for yourself.

So long as you live under your sister's roof you should refrain from making any critical comments about her husband. This is her problem and she is doing her best to cope with it. You don't help when you point out his unattractive qualities — of which she is surely aware.

Confidential to DEAD TIRED: Who wouldn't be — carrying yesterday's troubles and adding to them the burdens of today and tomorrow? Close the book on the past and live one day at a time. It's the key to survival.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Deason-Green Wedding Set February 1

Forthcoming marriage of Miss Martha Ellen Green and James Larry Deason of West Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Green of Dubach. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Randall of West Monroe.

The wedding is planned for Sunday, February 2 in Fellowship Baptist Church of Dubach at 4 p.m.

Miss Green graduated from Dubach high school and attended Louisiana Tech in Ruston.

Mr. Deason was graduated from West Monroe high school and from Louisiana Tech with a degree in chemical engineering. Following their marriage the couple will establish a home in Baton Rouge, where he is employed with a chemical firm.

Jewelry Should Harmonize With Skin Coloring

When wearing jewelry, you can enhance your natural beauty even more if you harmonize your make-up shades with the carefully chosen pieces to avoid clashing colors and effects. When choosing jewelry, beauty authority Max Factor advises that you first consider your skin tone coloring. Gold, for instance, is ideal if your complexion has a creamy tone. If there is a good deal of pink in your skin, silver will be more flattering and it will even tone down an overly ruddy complexion.

Silver colored jewelry is also a perfect complement for women with gray or silver hair. Fine line lipstick shades can be matched to the pink, rose, coral, or orange stones in your jewelry. A pastel shade of lipstick, such as pink pastel or coral sun will enhance the radiance of pastel jewelry, and a clear red shade, such as red on red, will bring out the color of your deeper jewel tones.

If your jewelry is predominantly blue or green, try wearing matching shades of eyeshadow. The sparkle of powder eyeshadow will create a particularly striking fashion effect when worn with matching jewelry.

Long Gowns Continue In Spring Styles

The long evening dress isn't just a fall fashion. It's evident that this prettier look for evening will continue for spring.

The effect of long gowns at fall and winter parties has made women in short dresses feel out of the fashion picture. After all, there is a glamor to a long dress which no short one can match. Even the same dress, when long, is more striking.

The long dress also overcomes all sorts of figure proportion problems, hiding many defects which short dresses reveal all too clearly. Short women, in particular, can make a much more impressive picture in long gowns.

Spring longs come in chiffon, organza or crepe, are colorful but simple, cool enough for warmer weather later.

Be Dramatic In Decor For Powder Room

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: What can be done with a very small apartment powder room to make it look like something? Right now the walls are pale pink and the carpet is wall-to-wall white cotton.

A: Since this room is only used on occasion, a black and white damask type design wallpaper with the white carpet would lend interest to the room. Keep it all black and white. At special times have some gay bright flowers in a small vase, carnations or daisies.

Q: My living room has a knotty pine fireplace and bookshelves. What color for slip covers on Lawson sofa, a fireside chair and draperies? One chair is in ivory leather. I had thought of oatmeal colored paper with gray woodwork, but is this too bland with the knotty pine? I would like to get away from green. Room has a southern exposure.

A: A Delft blue would be more pleasing than oatmeal color for the walls. With this, have pale beige for the fireside chair and also for the rug. For the slip cover on the sofa and the draperies, find a print in Delft blue ground with bright yellow and beige. Have bright yellow accessories.

BUDGET BUYS

Note to budget shoppers: Grade C fruits and vegetables are just as wholesome as higher grades and may be as nutritious. Use them in dishes in which appearance and texture are not important.

MISS MARTHA ELLEN GREEN

MISS JANICE MARIE FERGUSON

Wedding Set Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson Ferguson of Ruston, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Janice Marie Ferguson to Charles Lafayette Tannehill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy A. Tannehill of Urania.

Vows will be exchanged on Saturday, February 1 in the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in Ruston. The Rt. Rev. Girault M. Jones, D. D. Bishop of Louisiana, will officiate at the ceremony.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Mrs. Ben Gullatt of Ruston as matron of honor and bridesmaid will be Miss Dot Tannehill of Tullos. Richard M. Tannehill of New Orleans, twin brother of the bridegroom, will serve as best man and groomsman will be Jimmy Westbrook Jr. of Tupelo, Miss.

Miss Ferguson is a senior at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Mr. Tannehill attended Georgia Institute of Technology, Louisiana State University and the Episcopal Seminary, Nashotah House in Nashotah, Wisconsin.

PIZZA CHEESE

Cheese labeled "pizza cheese" usually contains less butterfat and less moisture than Mozzarella cheese.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE of Miss Linda Gay Cloyd to Billy Paul Sanford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford of Rayville, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver O. Cloyd, West Monroe. The wedding will take place January 31 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents with Mrs. Barbara Emory, sister of the bride, as matron of honor and Jerry Emory serving as best man. The couple will be at home in Rayville where Mr. Sanford is employed.

Spring Fabrics Brighten Home Sewers' Winter

Spring is bustin' out all over on the fabrics counters of the nation. Ruffles and braid are IN. And so are "way-out" prints, sculptured and embroidered textures, gentler stretches, white-on-white and vibrant colors.

The merry melange suggests one way for home - sewers to counteract midwinter doldrums. Make spring wardrobes. Working with the gay materials now not only makes the crocus season seem closer but eliminates the frenzy of spring shopping as well.

A more feminine look is emerging alongside the still popular understated styles. The new accents on ruffles and trimming gives the home - couteriere a greater chance than ever to sew for the many facets of her fashion fancy, the sewing machine industry points out. With today's machines, says the industry, she can ruffle, bind welt - seam, and embroider with ease.

The feminine-plus mood is seen largely in the variety of laces from lush re - embroidered or spanish-influence to cotton cluny types; and in the sculptured ottomans, brocades and matellasses in white-on-white or delicate pastels; and in the trend toward ruffles, buttons and braid trim.

Bold is the word for the prints that are IN . . . big single patterns, primitive bordered panel designs in bright island colors, and strong-lined outsized abstract strokes of dark on light or vice versa.

The textured look comes in slubbed and nubbed linens, rayons with a linen look, straw weaves, all - over embroidered patterns; piques of all descriptions, bird's eye, cord, waffle; soft colored tweeds, cloques, boucles and deep fluffed mohairs.

The stretch fabrics of the season are lighter weight, simpler to sew, lower priced and easier to wear. The stretch is in the weave rather than the fiber so they don't so much stretch as give for a more comfortable flexible fit.

The look in cottons, pure or mixed with synthetics, are in sateens, seersuckers, twills, denims, crepes, broadcoths, chambrays, sharkskins and sailcloth, in prints and checks as well as solids.

Grant-Bowman Vows Read In West Monroe

Vows uniting Esther Lenard Bowman and O. Doyle Grant, both of West Monroe, were performed in Trinity Baptist Church in West Monroe, on January 11 at 7:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Doshie Boyette Lenard and James E. Lenard Sr., both of West Monroe.

Mrs. Lloyd E. Lenard of Shreveport, sister-in-law of the bride, served as matron of honor and James M. Walker, West Monroe, attended his brother-in-law as best man. A program of organ music was presented by Elaine Ferrell.

A reception was held in the church parlor following which the couple left for a wedding trip to Alabama and Florida. They will be at home in Mobile, Ala.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Leave Neighbor Out Of Medical Diagnosis

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Our nine-year-old son has been out of school 32 days this semester because of severe colds and sore throats. Our family doctor has advised us to have the boy's tonsils removed during Spring vacation.

My next door neighbor says this doctor is an old-fashioned dodo who is practicing medieval medicine. She claims the doctors today do not yank out tonsils just because kids have colds and sore throats.

My husband and I have had some arguments about this. He seems to pay entirely too much attention to what this neighbor says, which irritates me.

What is your opinion? Should we have the boy's tonsils removed or not? — QUESTION MARK

Dear Mark: I am not a doctor. And even if I were I would not presume to diagnose your son's case through the mail.

It's true that fewer tonsillectomies are performed today than 25 years ago. But each case must be determined by individual diagnosis. Since you are undecided, get two other medical opinions and leave your neighbor out of it.

Dear Ann Landers: My friend who is 18 has been dating a boy, 16. I told her she was robbing the cradle. She told me to mind my own business.

What do you think? — LOVER OR REASON.

Dear Lover: I think she is indeed robbing the cradle and that you should mind your own business.

Dear Ann Landers: Last year my mother passed away. My older sister promised Mom that she would make a home for me until I got married. I am 18 and will graduate from high school in February.

My sister is good to me and I have a nice room. The trouble is my sister's husband. He is vulgar and coarse and I hate the sight of him. He has repulsive table manners and I can't stand the way he pushes my sister around. I don't know how a lovely, refined girl like my sister could have married this miserable, crude man.

I've told my sister how I feel and she says, "He's not perfect but he's my husband and I intend to make the best of it."

The man who manages the drug store where I work weekends would marry me in a minute if I said yes. He is 30 years old, a widower and has two small children. He would treat me well and give me a good home.

No, I don't love him but nobody else is breaking down my door. What should I do? — SWAN LAKE

Dear Swan: If you marry a man you don't love just to get away from an unhappy home you will make an even unhappier home for yourself.

So long as you live under your sister's roof you should refrain from making any critical comments about her husband. This is her problem and she is doing her best to cope with it. You don't help when you point out his unattractive qualities — of which she is surely aware.

Confidential to DEAD TIRED: Who wouldn't be — carrying yesterday's troubles and adding to them the burdens of today and tomorrow? Close the book on the past and live one day at a time. It's the key to survival.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Be Dramatic In Decor For Powder Room

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: What can be done with a very small apartment powder room to make it look like something? Right now the walls are pale pink and the carpet is wall-to-wall white cotton.

A: Since this room is only used on occasion, a black and white damask type design wallpaper with the white carpet would lend interest to the room. Keep it all black and white. At special times have some gay bright flowers in a small vase, carnations or daisies.

Q: My living room has a knotty pine fireplace and bookshelves. What color for slip covers on Lawson sofa, a fireside chair and draperies? One chair is in ivory leather. I had thought of oatmeal colored paper with gray woodwork, but is this too bland with the knotty pine? I would like to get away from green. Room has a southern exposure.

A: A Delft blue would be more pleasing than oatmeal color for the walls. With this, have pale beige for the fireside chair and also for the rug. For the slip cover on the sofa and the draperies, find a print in Delft blue ground with bright yellow and beige. Have bright yellow accessories.

BUDGET BUYS

Note to budget shoppers: Grade C fruits and vegetables are just as wholesome as higher grades and may be as nutritious. Use them in dishes in which appearance and texture are not important.

Deason-Green Wedding Set February 1

Forthcoming marriage of Miss Martha Ellen Green and James Larry Deason of West Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Green of Dubach. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Randall of West Monroe.

The wedding is planned for Sunday, February 2 in Fellowship Baptist Church of Dubach at 4 p.m.

Miss Green graduated from Dubach high school and attended Louisiana Tech in Ruston.

Mr. Deason was graduated from West Monroe high school and from Louisiana Tech with a degree in chemical engineering. Following their marriage the couple will establish a home in Baton Rouge, where he is employed with a chemical firm.

Jewelry Should Harmonize With Skin Coloring

When wearing jewelry, you can enhance your natural beauty even more if you harmonize your make-up shades with the carefully chosen pieces to avoid clashing colors and effects. When choosing jewelry, beauty authority Max Factor advises that you first consider your skin tone coloring. Gold, for instance, is ideal if your complexion has a creamy tone. If there is a good deal of pink in your skin, silver will be more flattering and it will even tone down an overly ruddy complexion.

Silver colored jewelry is also a perfect complement for women with gray or silver hair. Fine line lipstick shades can be matched to the pink, rose, coral, or orange stones in your jewelry. A pastel shade of lipstick, such as pink pastel or coral sun will enhance the radiance of pastel jewelry, and a clear red shade, such as red on red, will bring out the color of your deeper jewel tones.

If your jewelry is predominantly blue or green, try wearing matching shades of eyeshadow. The sparkle of powder eyeshadow will create a particularly striking fashion effect when worn with matching jewelry.

Long Gowns Continue In Spring Styles

The long evening dress isn't just a fall fashion. It's evident that this prettier look for evening will continue for spring.

The effect of long gowns at fall and winter parties has made women in short dresses feel out of the fashion picture. After all, there is a glamor to a long dress which no short one can match. Even the same dress, when long, is more striking.

The long dress also overcomes all sorts of figure proportion problems, hiding many defects which short dresses reveal all too clearly. Short women, in particular, can make a much more impressive picture in long gowns.

Spring longs come in chiffon, organza or crepe, are colorful but simple, cool enough for warmer weather later.

MISS MARTHA ELLEN GREEN

MISS JANICE MARIE FERGUSON

Wedding Set Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson Ferguson of Ruston, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Janice Marie Ferguson to Charles Lafayette Tannehill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy A. Tannehill of Urania.

Vows will be exchanged on Saturday, February 1 in the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in Ruston. The Rt. Rev. Girault M. Jones, D. D. Bishop of Louisiana, will officiate at the ceremony.

The bride-elect has chosen her sister, Mrs. Ben Gullatt of Ruston as matron of honor and bridesmaid will be Miss Dot Tannehill of Tullos. Richard M. Tannehill of New Orleans, twin brother of the bridegroom, will serve as best man and groomsman will be Jimmy Westbrook Jr. of Tupelo, Miss.

Miss Ferguson is a senior at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Mr. Tannehill attended Georgia Institute of Technology, Louisiana State University and the Episcopal Seminary, Nashotah House in Nashotah, Wisconsin.

PIZZA CHEESE

Cheese labeled "pizza cheese" usually contains less butterfat and less moisture than Mozzarella cheese.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE of Miss Linda Gay Cloyd to Billy Paul Sanford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford of Rayville, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver O. Cloyd, West Monroe. The wedding will take place January 31 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents with Mrs. Barbara Emory, sister of the bride, as matron of honor and Jerry Emory serving as best man. The couple will be at home in Rayville where Mr. Sanford is employed.

Spring Fabrics Brighten Home Sewers' Winter

Spring is bustin' out all over on the fabrics counters of the nation. Ruffles and braid are IN. And so are "way-out" prints, sculptured and embroidered textures, gentler stretches, white-on-white and vibrant colors.

The merry melange suggests one way for home - sewers to counteract midwinter doldrums. Make spring wardrobes. Working with the gay materials now not only makes the crocus season seem closer but eliminates the frenzy of spring shopping as well.

A more feminine look is emerging alongside the still popular understated styles. The new accents on ruffles and trimming gives the home - couteriere a greater chance than ever to sew for the many facets of her fashion fancy, the sewing machine industry points out. With today's machines, says the industry, she can ruffle, bind welt - seam, and embroider with ease.

The feminine-plus mood is seen largely in the variety of laces from lush re - embroidered or spanish-influence to cotton cluny types; and in the sculptured ottomans, brocades and matellasses in white-on-white or delicate pastels; and in the trend toward ruffles, buttons and braid trim.

Bold is the word for the prints that are IN . . . big single patterns, primitive bordered panel designs in bright island colors, and strong-lined outsized abstract strokes of dark on light or vice versa.

The textured look comes in slubbed and nubbed linens, rayons with a linen look, straw weaves, all - over embroidered patterns; piques of all descriptions, bird's eye, cord, waffle; soft colored tweeds, cloques, boucles and deep fluffed mohairs.

The stretch fabrics of the season are lighter weight, simpler to sew, lower priced and easier to wear. The stretch is in the weave rather than the fiber so they don't so much stretch as give for a more comfortable flexible fit.

The look in cottons, pure or mixed with synthetics, are in sateens, seersuckers, twills, denims, crepes, broadcoths, chambrays, sharkskins and sailcloth, in prints and checks as well as solids.

Modern Furniture Very Much 'In' This Winter

Modern furniture in many moods is in the spotlight at winter 1964 furniture markets. It's big news this year . . . it's modern, it's contemporary. It is defined in many ways, and this year it is said to be a "graceful combination of straight lines and subdued curves, producing a soft outline."

Modern is very much "in" this winter, with a vital new consciousness of quality in beautiful, well-made designs. New emphasis is placed on hand-crafted detailing, interesting wood patterns, inlays, veneers, carving, caning, spindles, more curvaceous lines in bent wood and upholstery . . . in short, the painstaking touches that gives a new status to this important segment of the furniture field.

The use of materials creates added design excitement in modern furniture through combinations such as leather with steel, glove-soft vinyls employed widely as upholstery, cushioning of genuine latex foam rubber for the softer new profile on seating pieces, slate and wood, touches of tortoise shell in tables and cases, the skillful matching of wood veneer . . . a new treatment using an old technique, rarely seen before in this contemporary application.

SLIM LINES

Upholstered pieces are slimmer and in multiple lengths for sofas, with arm, leg and back style choices for the first time. New furniture silhouettes are created by new construction techniques that suspend upholstered seating space in architectural frames of steel or wood. One sofa suspends foam rubber cushions in a sling of laminated fabric while another floats leather covered latex foam rubber cushions on a nylon net support in a rosewood frame. Other innovations in modern include the fully upholstered dining room chairs with latex foam rubber cushioning for pure relaxed comfort. Higher ottomans, more seating depth in sofas and lounge chairs; the new popularity of the chaise which now, with its tailored, "cushy" look has its place in the living room and is not relegated to the boudoir.

Another fashion note is the "pull-up" look. These are the chairs, benches, ottomans or stools that pull-up to the sofa or coffee table, for extra seating pieces. Sometimes they are banked under the table to be out of the way when not in use. They may be used an extra occasional tables, or, with topping of cushion, serve as chairs. Accent on relaxation and comfort is everywhere with recliners, rockers, chaises, ottomans . . . with swivel mechanisms for TV viewing or easy turning to conversational groups.

BOLD COLORS

Colors and fabrics, as well as new treatments and types of wood spice the new furniture picture. Colors are bright, bold and brilliant. Pastels on the whole are on the wane, but reds, persimmon, orange, the blues reaching into violet, greens from bronze shades to vivid, yellows and golds, hot pinks . . these are the color waves of the future as shown in the winter of 1964.

Texture headlines fabrics, and is more important than ever before. The hand-crafted nubby textures, the patterned weaves in geometrics, elegant damask weaves, velvets, brocades, prints . . . even the trend in men's wear is reflected here in houndstooth check (very big news), plaids and narrow stripes. Another unusual touch is the use of two kinds of fabric on upholstered furniture. The outside of a chair may be covered in a solid, while back and seat cushions sport a gay print, or vice versa. One of the more amusing facets of the fabrics picture is its present sojourn in the animal kingdom, with leopards' spots, tigers' stripes, for example, showing up not only in fabrics, but in rugs, wallcoverings, bedspreads and slipcovers.

Shopping Via TV Expected In Next Decade

NEW YORK (AP) — A revolution in the shopping habits of many American women is on the way, says an industrial designer.

Within the next 10 years they'll be buying routine goods, from their home by television. For expensive items they'll shop through store-to-door vans or at small artisan-like stores.

These are changes predicted by Walter P. Margulies, president of an international firm of marketing consultants and industrial designers. He explains:

"Retailing's next big breakthrough will be in television. The average housewife is growing tired of wasting her time in giant shopping complexes and of spending long, dreary intervals at the check-out counters. Why should she, when it is becoming technically feasible to coordinate routine shopping through a telephone-TV hookup to distribution warehouses located outside of town?"

ALL CREDIT CHARGING

This is how the TV shopping will be done: The shopper will phone her store and ask to be shown a video tape of supplies she's interested in. She'll make her selection over the phone and the computerized warehouse will mechanically assembly her goods and ready them for delivery to her home.

"And all of this type of shopping for daily, routine goods will be done by credit, with the charges probably being billed through telephone companies," Margulies suggests.

"On the other hand," he goes on, "shopping for the personal and more expensive items will involve a high degree of personal attention. We foresee store-to-door vans that will bring these items right to the housewife. We also foresee the development of groups of specialty shops clustered together in a central part of town. Large department stores will get into the picture by concentrating in the specialty field, grouping their quality products according to category and stressing indivualized attention."

Spring To Spawn Womanly Look In Style

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — You may be knee-deep in boots, choked up in turtlenecks, swathed in fake fur and shivering with goose bumps at the moment, but there is a new feminine you just around a sunny spring corner.

Soon you're due to peel off your cocoon of sportive tweeds and pack your "mannish look" in camphor. Although designers have divers ideas of how you should accomplish this, they have unanimously endorsed your fashion right this spring to emerge as a woman once again.

The many ways of being womanly, as interpreted by America's trendsetting couturiers, was a subject of study during the Fashion Press Week by visiting reporters.

This year more than 75 designers were represented in a marathon of style shows presented simultaneously by The American Designers Group headed by Kitty Campbell.

These styles indicate that you will have two choices in figuring this spring—either subtly or snugly. If you favor well-defined curves and/or a cinched in waistline, you will seek the designers advocating the fitted look.

If you prefer to suggest your shape rather than shout it, you'll drape yourself in bias-cut crepes and silks and loosely cut suits created by the unfitted camp.

But don't think you can guess by past performances which designer is following true to form. They are all mavericks.

Your hemlines will stay put but your waistlines will dance up and down like a yo-yo, with many of them settling around the hip bone, and sashed or belted for emphasis. Sleeves on the new spring styles are capped, or long, full and gauzy. Or dresses are bare-shouldered, to be covered with capelets or brief jackets when the air conditioning demands it.

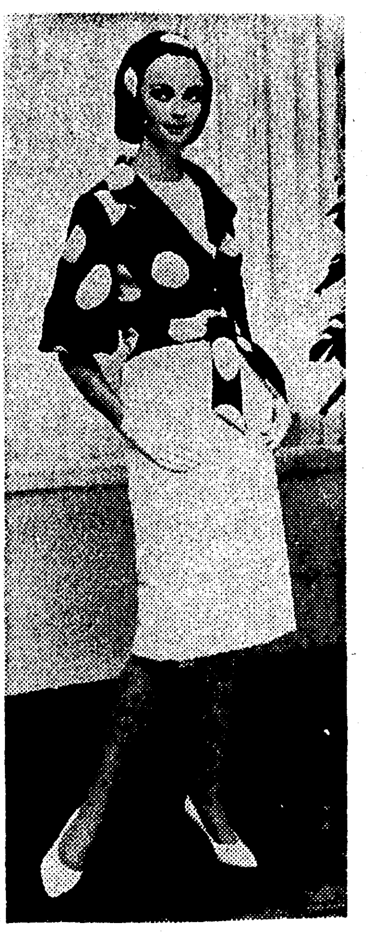
You'll be a white collar girl again this spring too, wearing, a frothy meringue to perk up your grey-pin stripes, soften your blacks, and sharpen your navies. And maybe you'll complete the icing with fake white cuffs, and slick white patent leather belts.

WHICH IS THE FRONT?

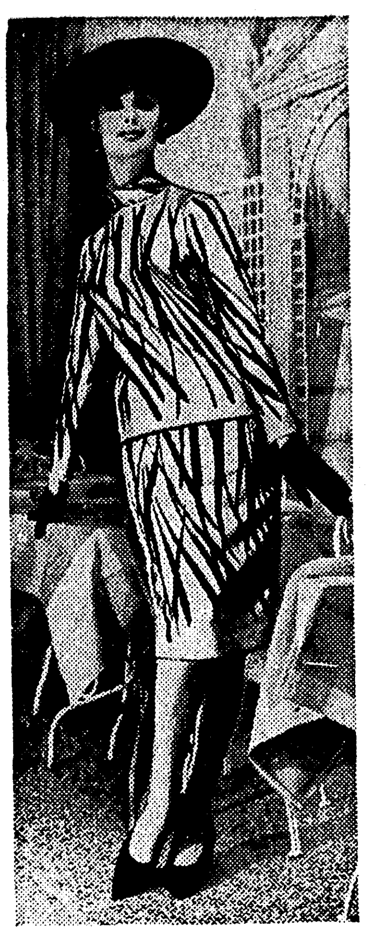
You will surely emerge from your winter cocoon a social butterfly, with gossamer things for going places that flutter and blouse and drape weightlessly across your framework. These will be imprinted with zingy splashes of dots and dashes, or delicate smashes of pastel posies, or gaudy giant horticultural fantasies.

Such will be yours in crepes and silks and chiffons that halt at the knees or float to the floor.

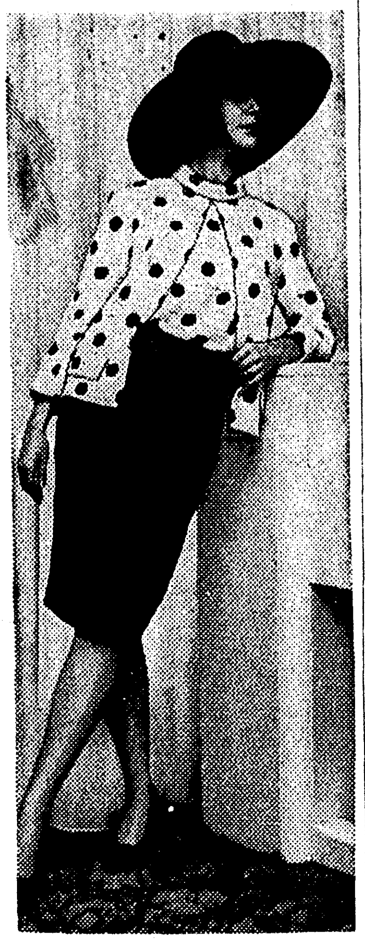
Perhaps much more of you will emerge than you modestly might have thought possible last spring. The designers who are going all-out for this womanly woman in fashion era are dropping decolletege to hitherto unknown depths.



BOLD DOTS . . . Giant black polka surah jacket and matching bandana hat is designer Pauline Trigere's way of getting the spring fashion message across.



AND DASHES . . . Black splashes of dashes on white silk two-piece costume with a long, lean overblouse was created by Teal Traina for the womanly season.



MORE DOTS . . . are on white in this silk pleated chiffon turtle neck bodice and matching jacket, with a jet black skirt by Geoffrey Beene. It's all femininity.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here are a few rules which will help you avoid nervous tension, which wastes so much energy and leads to chronic fatigue.

1. When life becomes very complex take time to make a few lists. Write down what you feel you must accomplish during the next few days or week and then divide the activities up into days. The feeling of having more to do than you can do is tiring. Once you see it in black and white, if you have planned in a realistic way, you will feel relieved.

By realistic I mean, don't plan more than you can do without strain. If you approach your lists from this viewpoint you will discover that lots of the things you had in mind can wait a little longer; that some of them are not absolutely and immediately essential; that the old world and your family and friends will go along in much the same way without such frantic efforts on your part.

DON'T FRET

2. Learn not to fret over nonessentials. Energy and happiness are wasted in mulling over a possible rudeness or wondering what someone thinks about you. Half of the time, the person did not mean to be rude or they didn't mean it like it sounded, and if they did, why become upset!

Many women also spend priceless energy which could be used in such happy ways by reaching for perfection in housekeeping and entertainment. They wait to extend hospitality until everything is perfect and even then they are not relaxed hostesses. If the lamp shade doesn't get fixed before the party, forget it. If a member of the family spills something on a rug just before the occasion, just don't mention it. It is certainly praiseworthy when a woman is interested in providing a well kept and well run, attractive home for her family, but it is a full time career to keep every detail of any home in perfect order.

AVOID RUSHED FEELING

3. Avoid the feeling of rush. Even if your day is crowded and you must go from duty to duty or from appointment to appointment it doesn't help to feel hurried. This feeling rather than the hurry, is the factor which exhausts you.

4. Organize your housework. This saves lots and lots of time and energy.

5. Everyone should have some privacy each day. Try to grab a few minutes a day to be alone, to dream, to think, to relax, to straighten out values, to get in touch with the sweep of life.

If you have the worry habit and would like help in overcoming it, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet "Worry" to Josephine Lowman in care of Monroe Morning World.

HOTTEST COLOR

Mexican Pnk s the "hottest" color accent on the 1964 home decorating front, according to latest reports. It is an intense hue that can be used effectively in throw pillow, area carpets or draperies.

You'll be a white collar girl again this spring too, wearing, a frothy meringue to perk up your grey-pin stripes, soften your blacks, and sharpen your navies. And maybe you'll complete the icing with fake white cuffs, and slick white patent leather belts.

WHICH IS THE FRONT?

You will surely emerge from your winter cocoon a social butterfly, with gossamer things for going places that flutter and blouse and drape weightlessly across your framework. These will be imprinted with zingy splashes of dots and dashes, or delicate smashes of pastel posies, or gaudy giant horticultural fantasies.

Such will be yours in crepes and silks and chiffons that halt at the knees or float to the floor.

Perhaps much more of you will emerge than you modestly might have thought possible last spring. The designers who are going all-out for this womanly woman in fashion era are dropping decolletege to hitherto unknown depths.

BOLD DOTS . . . Giant black polka surah jacket and matching bandana hat is designer Pauline Trigere's way of getting the spring fashion message across.

AND DASHES . . . Black splashes of dashes on white silk two-piece costume with a long, lean overblouse was created by Teal Traina for the womanly season.

MORE DOTS . . . are on white in this silk pleated chiffon turtle neck bodice and matching jacket, with a jet black skirt by Geoffrey Beene. It's all femininity.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here are a few rules which will help you avoid nervous tension, which wastes so much energy and leads to chronic fatigue.

1. When life becomes very complex take time to make a few lists. Write down what you feel you must accomplish during the next few days or week and then divide the activities up into days. The feeling of having more to do than you can do is tiring. Once you see it in black and white, if you have planned in a realistic way, you will feel relieved.

By realistic I mean, don't plan more than you can do without strain. If you approach your lists from this viewpoint you will discover that lots of the things you had in mind can wait a little longer; that some of them are not absolutely and immediately essential; that the old world and your family and friends will go along in much the same way without such frantic efforts on your part.

DON'T FRET

2. Learn not to fret over nonessentials. Energy and happiness are wasted in mulling over a possible rudeness or wondering what someone thinks about you. Half of the time, the person did not mean to be rude or they didn't mean it like it sounded, and if they did, why become upset!

Many women also spend priceless energy which could be used in such happy ways by reaching for perfection in housekeeping and entertainment. They wait to extend hospitality until everything is perfect and even then they are not relaxed hostesses. If the lamp shade doesn't get fixed before the party, forget it. If a member of the family spills something on a rug just before the occasion, just don't mention it. It is certainly praiseworthy when a woman is interested in providing a well kept and well run, attractive home for her family, but it is a full time career to keep every detail of any home in perfect order.

AVOID RUSHED FEELING

3. Avoid the feeling of rush. Even if your day is crowded and you must go from duty to duty or from appointment to appointment it doesn't help to feel hurried. This feeling rather than the hurry, is the factor which exhausts you.

4. Organize your housework. This saves lots and lots of time and energy.

5. Everyone should have some privacy each day. Try to grab a few minutes a day to be alone, to dream, to think, to relax, to straighten out values, to get in touch with the sweep of life.

If you have the worry habit and would like help in overcoming it, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet "Worry" to Josephine Lowman in care of Monroe Morning World.

HOTTEST COLOR

Mexican Pink is the "hottest" color accent on the 1964 home decorating front, according to latest reports. It is an intense hue that can be used effectively in throw pillow, area carpets or draperies.

'64 Chevy II Nova Station Wagon

CHEVY II by Chevrolet

You don't need a big car to get big performance. Not any more. You'll quickly see why when you check the '64 Chevy II.

There are two new higher performance optional-at-extra-cost engines for you to pick from. One is Chevrolet's strapping 195-hp Turbo-Fire V8. The other is a new chrome-trimmed 155-hp Turbo-Thrift Six.

If you've got a mountain to climb or a truck to pass, these are the engines that can leave either one safely behind you. In fact, this new Chevy II packs a wallop everywhere but in your wallet.

New brakes match this power, too. Bigger, to dissipate heat faster. Self-adjusting, to save you money. Other easy-care features include Delcotron generator and a long-lasting fully aluminized muffler.

Chevy II is smartly styled outside, tasteful and comfortable inside. There are a lot of models to choose from. A lot of extra-cost options and accessories to customize it just about any way you'd like. And a whole lot of fun to look forward to. At a very low cost. Test drive Chevy II at your Chevrolet dealer's soon. You'll like it!

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Epps Club Commended

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Epps Garden Club was responsible for the lovely arrangements that were featured on last Wednesday's T.V. and Fifth District Garden Center program. Many favorable comments were made by those who came by the Garden Center to see them after the T.V. show. "Congratulations" to these artistic ladies from the Epps Garden Club.

Mrs. C. L. Miller chose the Hogarth line of beauty for her design. She used the curving branches of baby ivy which she wired for her line material, placing it in a small soft green compote container. White mums, graded from bud size to large open blossoms, were used within the line. The green and white combination was quite pleasing in this long lasting design.

CRESCENT

Mrs. Ran Gowan made the crescent design using clipped pine to create her overall line in a tall green cylinder container. Burford holly filled in this line forming a good background for the filler of red nandina berries which were heavily clustered in the focal area. The contrasting red and green made a very pleasing color combination that is always in good taste to use in our contemporary home environment decorations.

Mrs. Steve Neal made the massed triangle design using all dried materials. Tan, brown and rust colors predominated. The primary line was made of two overlapping dried aspidestra leaves (rust in color) placed in a usabata container of the same color exactly. The overall pattern was formed by using small brown cat tails. These were followed within the design by a filler of deep brown magnolia leaves. The central area contained the artistic flowers made of corn shucks accented with mustard colored dried yarrow. A lovely combination of color in a design that would be so suitable in the den or family room.

Mrs. J. H. Lusk created the vertical design. She cleverly used the sansivera (3 stems) in tiered manner, placing these in a tall glass bud vase on a silver base. Within this vertical line she placed lavender stock with a grouping of lavender mums at the base for focal balance. The stock leaves were used as filler. Since the glass bud vase was rather delicate for the heavy sansivera leaves the water in the vase was colored dark blue. This gave more weight to the basic part of the design. To give further weight a small wooden base was added. This was unusual use of materials which is so appealing to the modern arranger.

SYMMETRICAL

Mrs. T. E. Lusk made a symmetrical triangle design using orange glads to form the primary line in a soft green compote container. The basic line of the design was achieved by using leather fern clustered. A filler of glad foliage and lavender spikes of blooming shrubs which greatly resembles the heather finished the massed design. This type arrangement is very suitable for a church, large club room, or banquet hall. I hope I can find out the name of this delicate filler material. It is so lovely and I believe it would dry perfectly.

Next Wednesday— Another wonderful club will have the show for the Garden Center and T.V. program. It is the Bayou DeSiard Garden Club of Monroe. Mrs. Harry Graham is the club president.

Date Reminders — Federated Garden Club presidents — please send in a report on your garden therapy work to Mrs. Sam Carriere, State Garden Therapy Chairman, Winnsboro. She needs your report before the end of the month — now.

The Louisiana Council of Nationally Accredited Flower Show Judges announces the Advanced Refresher Course in Flower Show Judging Feb. 17 and 18 at the Washington-Youree Hotel in Shreveport. All judges and student judges and all Garden Club enthusiasts, whether seeking credit or general information are invited to come for the full session or part. Fee — Entire course (before Feb. 10th) including two luncheons, $15. After this date $18. One day (includ-) ing luncheon). $9. The examination fee for those taking for credit, $2. One of the main attractions featured is the Lecture-Demonstration on "Functional and Exhibition Tables," by Mrs. Sylvia Hirsch, famous author, lecturer, accredited National Council Master Flower Show Judge and National Council Instructor. Her book, "The Art of Table Setting and Flower Arrangement," is now on the required reading list of National Council Flower Show Schools.

Mrs. Hirsch has been the recipient of awards from the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State and of the New York State Horticultural Society for her inspirational leadership and outstanding work.

Other speakers on the program are Mrs. Joe C. Hardin, Grady, Ark., whose subject is "Decorative Foliage Plants"; Mrs. Lucius Lamar, New Orleans, "Plant Nomenclature"; and Mrs. Drew LaCroix, Pineville, "Philosophy of Judges". Mrs. Jack E. Miller is chairman.

Advanced registration is advised. Mrs. Thomas L. Benson, 2028 River Road, Shreveport, La., 71105, is the registration chairman. Programs and registration forms may be acquired at the Fifth District Garden Center, 1501 Louisville Ave., Monroe, from Mrs. John Tolar. For further information write to Mrs. Jack E. Miller, Chairman, 161 Fremont, Shreveport, La. 71105.

Feb. 22-23, Sat. 3:30 to 8 p.m., Sunday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. — date and time for the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club's First Annual Camellia Show. Lee Hodges is chairman of show. Co-Chairmen are J. L. Jones, Mrs. Woodrow Hathorn, and Emil Wisakowsky. Artistic Arrangement Division chairman is Mrs. J. H. Thatcher. Everyone is invited to exhibit. There is no limit to the number of entries each exhibitor may make.

Fresh Camellias must predominate over other fresh flowers in the design division.

In the Horticulture Division there are sections for amateurs — specimen blooms; amateurs — collections; seedlings; and nurserymen or commercial displays. The place for the show is the Central Savings Bank and Trust Co. 300 DeSiard St., Monroe. Registrations for entering the arrangements should be made no later than Feb. 8 with Mrs. J. H. Thatcher Jr., 501 Speed Drive, Monroe.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: My brother and I are going to build a small, two-room vacation cabin. We have considerable knowledge of ordinary construction, but need some advice on this particular project, since we would like to undertake a cabin made of logs.

ANSWER: You've set yourselves quite a task, but it can be done, especially by two persons with some construction experience. Don't try it, though, unless you have a chain saw for slicing and making cuts in the logs. You'll have to check with local authorities regarding foundation regulations. Most areas require that the foundation be made of concrete of a specified depth. Logs are then sliced and placed on the foundation with the flat side down, bolted to the concrete.

After adding three or four tiers of logs, placed horizontally, the rest of the walls are made from logs set vertically. The top logs must be beveled so that the roof rests securely on them. Window frames and other openings can be made from 2 by 5s. How much and what kind of insulation you use depends on how thorough a job you want to do. But you'd better be sure to use caulking compound to keep the cabin weather-tight. You can get a good start on this by cutting and notching the logs properly so that they fit together tightly.

There are many variations of cabins you can build, some of which call for placing the logs horizontally from the base to the top. You should have no trouble with this because of your construction know-how.

Displaying Of Blooms High Point

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles prepared by members of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club on various phases of the growing and showing of camellias in the Monroe area. Various articles discuss the different problems and aspects of camellia propagation.)

The displaying of camellia blooms is the high point in the year's activities. The blooms show the results of what has been put into the bush by the owner each day of the year. This shows how the owner recognized the wants and needs. A well-treated plant has a way of showing appreciation, and this is by beautiful prize-winning blooms.

An article dealing with the preparation and showing of camellia blooms should present some of the steps that are necessary for the maintenance of healthy plants throughout the year. The most important topics of culture are as follows: watering, fertilizing, disbudding, mulching, resistance to disease and insects, light and air pruning. As one can see, this is a constant job; however, the results are rewarding.

NEXT STEP

If the above have not been done, then it is too late to tell what to do for this year's blooms. Now let's presume all this has been done and there are prize winning flowers. What is next?

Containers play an important part in keeping the blooms fresh up to the time the flowers are displayed. Any container that is used to store or transfer camellia blooms should be as airtight as possible. Many growers are convinced that this factor is extremely important in retaining freshness of blooms. After the container has been selected, then the person should go to the woods and get some moss from the trees. This makes ideal material to put the blooms on inside the box. Get this slightly damp but not wet. If this is not obtainable, then get some shredded waste paper and place this in the box. Spray the paper with water the night before placing it in use.

Generally speaking, it is well to delay picking the blooms until just before departing for the show. The actual cutting of the blooms is quite simple. Very few collectors are willing to brave the cold early morning hours to prepare for the show. Instead, they select the day before the show to take care of the blooms in order to get a good night's sleep. I am convinced that the factor of freshness of the flower is a most important element to consider in the preparation procedure.

QUALITIES

In selecting camellia blooms to display for competitive judging, certain qualities that make up a competitive flower should be considered. If the flower fails to meet certain minimum standards that are considered in judging, it certainly should not be entered for competition. In selecting the blooms, attempt to appraise the flower through the eyes of a judge. One should learn to consider all the factors instead of a single good point that the flower may have. It may be well to list some of the important points to consider when cutting the blooms. These are form, color, condition, size. A nomenclature book should be had, for this gives a complete description of each flower. This is what the judges go by.

In form it would be well to select a bloom that would appear as close to normal as possible for that variety. If the variety has several different forms, then select the form that appeals most, but it should represent perfection for that variety. As an example, the variety Purple Dawn has two forms, the open type and the more prized bud-centered. Judges will invariably select the bud-centered, other points being equal.

EXTRA MERIT

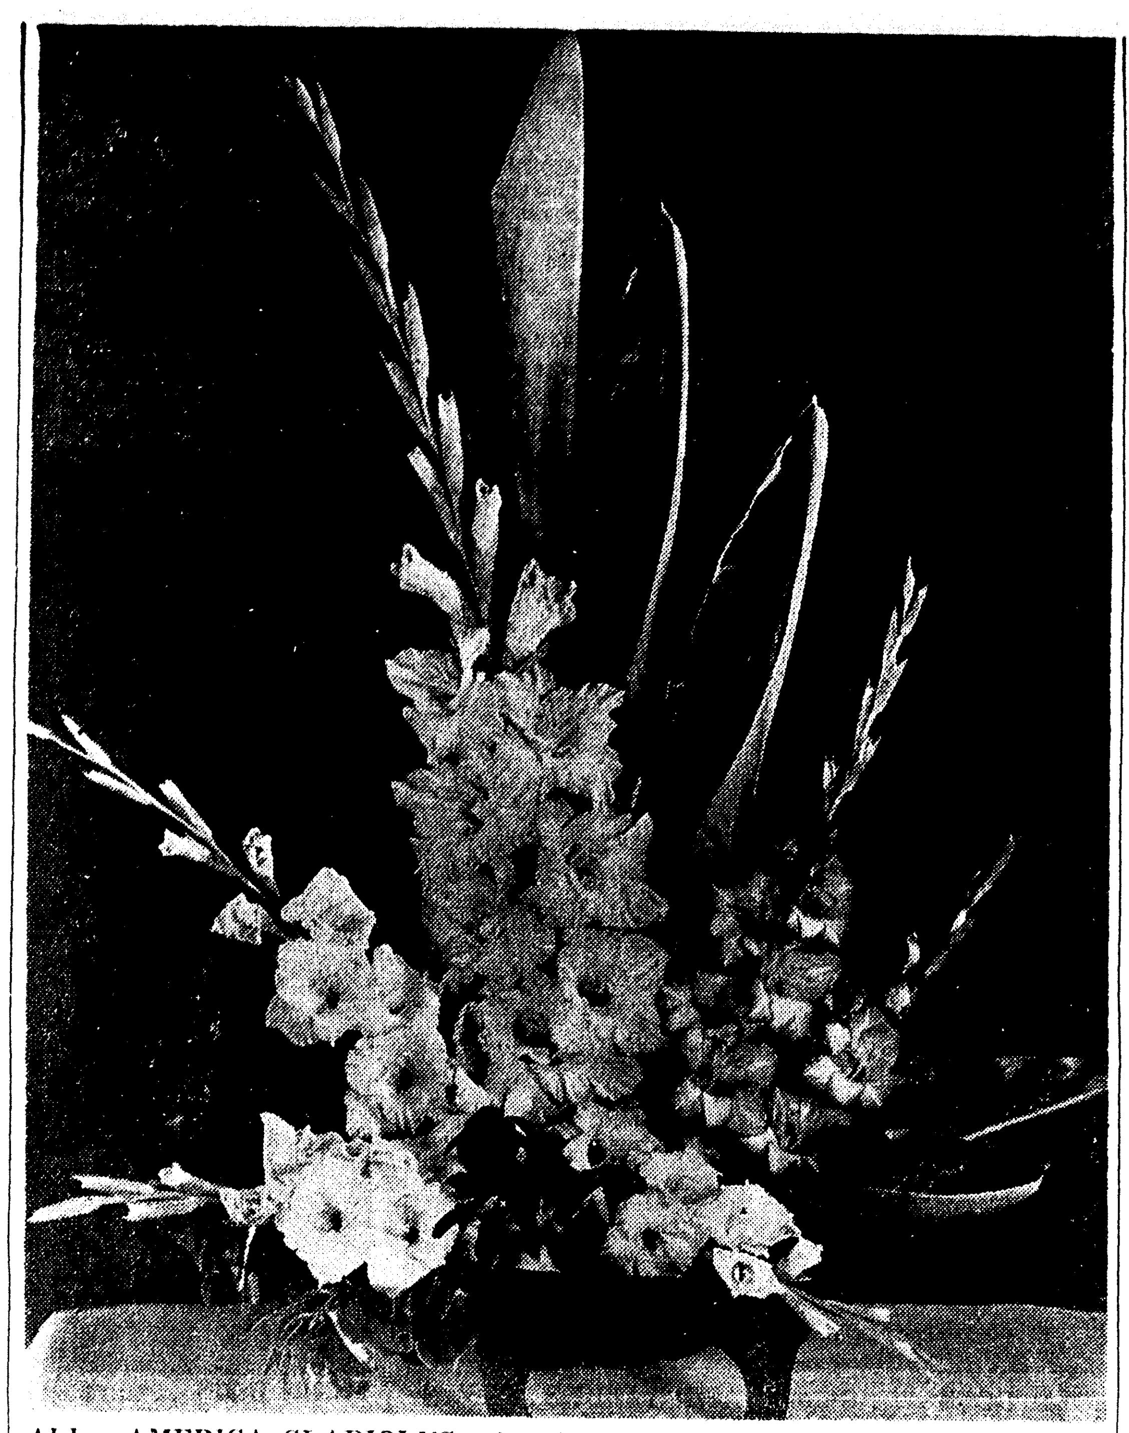
Special attention should be directed toward protecting individual blooms on a plant that, in the opinion of the grower, has extra merit.

Sometimes leaves that are next to the flower interfere with the full development of the petals. These leaves should be pulled away from the flower and attached by clothespins to another leaf or branch. This act will permit full and complete opening of the flower. If rain or drizzle threatens to damage these special blooms, it is sometimes advisable to attach a sheet of plastic to a frame or to other branches. Also a plastic freezer bag may be slipped over the bloom for protection.

It is better to pick each bloom individually and place it directly into the container than to pick a number of blooms and transfer them to the final container. Many a prize winning bloom has been dropped and brusied by carrying several in the hand at a time.

Here is a suggestion on how to revive a drooped bloom:

Soak the flower stems for one hour in a quart of fresh water, into which has been mixed a level teaspoonful of household detergent. Then place the stems in a quart of fresh water, spiked with six teaspoonsful of sugar and one of vinegar . . . Then presto, the blooms perk up as if freshly plucked.



ALL - AMERICA GLADIOLUS selections for 1964 shown here are La France with large, "Dawn pink" flowers, and miniatures, Blue Sapphire, and Snowsprite. The latter is a crystalline white with greenish tint in the throat.

Many Plants Are Classed As Poisonous

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Would you say that natural poisons in plants have killed more persons than man - made poisons on plants?

Cornell University botanist John M. Kingsbury says this is so. More than 700 species of plants in the United States and Canada are known to have caused illness or death in man and animals, he estimates.

Children should be taught never to put in their mouths any portions of plants not recognized certainly as food.

You may think you will recognize poison ivy. But aside from the formation of three leaves, the plant may have shiny, dull or hairy leaves and it may grow as a shrub or a vine. Also harmful to the touch are poison oak, a relative of poison sumac, an erect shrub or small tree with gray bark. This sumac generally is found in swampy areas.

AVOID EATING

Prof. Kingsbury says most poisonous plants are poisonous only when eaten. These include hemlock, encountered in wet areas or near streams. The most dangerous part is the dahlia like root cluster.

Two plants with lethal seeds are the precatory or rosary pea, often made into necklaces, and the castor-bean, readily available at garden stores. Don't leave these within reach of children.

Leaves of rhubarb, bulbs of hyacinth, narcissus or daffodil and some lily and amaryllis bulbs are poisonous. Also dangerous are berries, seeds or leaves of oleander, poinsettia, wisteria and daphne. Some philodendrons and caladiums are poisonous.

Cornell has extensive facilities for investigating plant poisoning. In one of its gardens are nearly 70 species of poisonous plants.

Musk Rose Key Found

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

A letter from Graham Thomas, the authority on old roses in England and Europe, brings the news that he has discovered the original type of the old musk rose. For over a century, now, English rosarians have been trying to find the true musk rose about which so much was written since the Middle Ages.

Although we have, today, several hybrid musk roses which have the "blood" of the old musk in them, rosarians wanted to find the original form of the species. In modern times, gardeners have wondered just what this odor called "musk" was like. Some authorities have thought that it was more fanciful than real. In English literature, it is presumed that the English and not the ancient Asian musk rose is referred to by writers like Shakespeare.

BEESWAX, HONEY

Our American authority, Roy Shepherd, says that the "musk" odor is more like that of beeswax and honey than that of the animal musk used in perfumes. He thinks, also, that the word, musk, may have been applied as a synonym for fragrance.

Whatever the case may be, the hunt for the true musk rose (also for the plant called "musk") has been going on, now, for some years in Europe. Graham Thomas has collected an amazing number of the old roses thought to have been lost. In 1954, I had a number of sessions with Thomas about my own personal search for old tea roses around Nice where there were once over 100 varieties of teas grown for the perfume business and the cut flower business.

We have mentioned before in the column that Thomas is in charge of many of the gardens and grounds of the old castles belonging to the British Trust. As he and I have travelled about from castle to castle, inspecting the gardens, he has several times mentioned that he might some day find the true musk. He does not say in his letter whether or not it was located at one of his gardens, but this is most likely, and it is certainly a triumph for him.

POTENTIAL

If the musk odor can now be bred directly back into modern roses, it will give them an interesting scent. Readers of the column will recall my description of the musk climber which travels 20 to 30 feet up into the trees at Kew. This specimen has been regarded as a relatively weak scented type. There is more of the musk fragrance in some of the hybrids of many types which were crosses with other roses. Our own Champney's Pink Cluster, originated in Charleston, can be found in many old gardens here in the South. Marechal Niel, Cloth of Gold and many of the teas like William Allen Richardson, Gloire de Dijon, Reve d'Or and Mme Alfred Carriere give us some idea of the musk odor.

It takes warm moist nights to produce the famous musk odor at its best. This condition is something we can certainly provide in Southern gardens.

'BAKER STREET'

NEW YORK (AP) — "Baker Street," a musical about Sherlock Holmes, is to be directed now by Harold S. Prince.

Previously Michael Langham and Joshua Logan had been nominated for the assignment. Prince, producer of two current musicals, is not involved in the management of "Baker Street," which is an Alexander H. Cohen enterprise.

Gardening Forum Set

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

I have good news for you, Mrs. Homemaker, if you want to make your home grounds more attractive this spring. There will be a garden forum for you at the West Monroe High School Auditorium on February 20th. Be sure to mark this date on your calendar.

Speakers for the day's event are specialists in their field and include Warren Meadows, associate specialist (horticulture), and Neil Odenwald, associate specialist (horticulture), of LSU Agricultural Evtension Service. Also, Dr. John Wright from Louisiana Tech will Speak. Some of the subjects which will be discussed are: Soil management, practical landscape development, pruning, pest control and lawns.

The group which met last week and planned this meeting to help you were: Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. M. L. Johnson, Mrs. J. W. Golson, Mrs. John Tolar, Mrs. K. R. Young, Mrs. Fred Riser, Mrs. Jewel Earl, Mrs. Frank Buce, Mrs. Ernest Grubbs, Mr. George Tyner, Mr. John Carter, Mr. John Birdsong and Mr. Jack Bagwell and the Agricultural Extension Staff, J. J. Joyce Jr., Donna Moore, and Floyd Kent. So, if you have any problems in gardening, be sure to mark February 20th on your calendar. There will be more information about your Garden Forum in this column each Sunday.

GARDEN WORK

Now for some work in the garden. Even though January and February weather is usually cold and bad, there are a number of jobs that need to be done in the landscape. These two months are considered excellent times for planting ornamental shrubbery. It is a good idea to prune evergreens and deciduous shrubs, other than those which flower during the early spring. If the early flowering shrubs are pruned now it will remove the flower buds that have already formed. Some of the summer blooming plants that should be pruned are althea, abelia crape myrtle, oleander and vitex.

Make plans now for those roses that you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to add to your garden. The best time to plant and prune roses is in February. You may clean the beds, feed and prune your roses all in one operation. Pruning is done to regulate the size of the plant and to increase length of stem of bloom and for a high quality flower. If they are not pruned they soon grow into a bramble patch and the flowers are small and of poor quality.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, did not plant annuals in the fall, some of our hardy annuals as sweet alyssum, calendula, cornflower, poppy, pholx should be planted by the end of February.

MEN'S STRETCH PLASTICS

We, of the fairer sex, no longer have the exclusive use of all cotton stretch fabrics. By spring men will be wearing stretch cotton shirts and slacks and by fall there should be a variety of other men's clothing made from these new stretch fabrics.

Two companies will market dress shirts made of cotton oxford cloth this coming spring and a third manufacturer will market men's slacks in cotton stretch fabrics, according to our U. S. Department of Agriculture research. The stretch cotton invasion of the men's wear field is just beginning. Dozens of other firms are testing fabrics for use in socks, sport shirts, sport jackets, hunting jackets as well as shirts and slacks.

GOOD NEWS

We in the Agricultural Extension building are mighty happy this week because the contractor has started remodeling, or we may say adding more to our office space. We are most grateful to our Police Jury members for making this possible. Those of you who come to our building know that we are literally bursting at the seams. Of course, this is to be expected because our building was built about 22 years ago and our program has grown in these past few years.

What's new on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A plywood sheathing with a special exterior glue and a water - repellent, fungi - resistant treatment of the edges.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That this sheathing, available at a slight premium over existing grades, has proved superior in resistance to adverse exterior effects and is immune to separation of the plywood layers even under severe storage and installation conditions.

THE PRODUCT—A synthetic fabric paint roller available in different pile heights for general work on average surfaces or heavy duty work on rough surfaces.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That this roller performs equally well in water or oil - based paints, that it has more paint pick-up, better rolling qualities and longer life than most other types of rollers, and that its covers will fit existing roller frames.

THE PRODUCT—A movable wall system without visible joints or seams, utilizing steel stud framing to which tapered - edged gypsum board panels are attached by means of a snap-in batten joint, doing away with screws, nails or other fastenings.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That a special water - proof tape, used for covering the joints, is completely hidden under a coat of topping compound, yet can be removed quickly with a sharp, upward pull, enabling the wall to be taken down quickly and set up somewhere else.

EASY REMOVING

Punch a small hole in the bottom of that can of cranberry jelly before removing the top with a wall-type opener. This method allows the jelly to slip out of the can easily.

ROSES of DISTINCTION
"TOPS IN ROSES"

Rose Reflections—

I walk today through roses
in my garden set apart,
and see again the roses
reflected in my heart.

I started loving roses
the day I started loving you.
You brought me bright red roses
when we were twenty-two.

Across the Bible that I carried
lay a rose of purest white,
symbol of the love we vowed
on our wedding night.

Yellow roses on my window sill
filled my heart with joy.
You kissed my lips and whispered
"we have our baby boy."

Soft pink baby roses
on yet another morn,
foretold the news you brought me,
"our baby girl is born."

Roses too on other days,
year after pleasant year,
their story told and bade me hold these special days more dear.

Fifty golden roses
for the golden years we've know,
bespeak in sweet reflection
that our love has sweeter grown.

Yes, I walk today through roses
in my garden set apart,
and see again the roses
reflected in my heart.

The central area contained the artistic flowers made of corn shucks accented with mustard colored dried yarrow. A lovely combination of color in a design that would be so suitable in the den or family room.

Mrs. J. H. Lusk created the vertical design. She cleverly used the sansivera (3 stems) in tiered manner, placing these in a tall glass bud vase on a silver base. Within this vertical line she placed lavender stock with a grouping of lavender mums at the base for focal balance. The stock leaves were used as filler. Since the glass bud vase was rather delicate for the heavy sansivera leaves the water in the vase was colored dark blue. This gave more weight to the basic part of the design. To give further weight a small wooden base was added. This was unusual use of materials which is so appealing to the modern arranger.

SYMMETRICAL

Mrs. T. E. Lusk made a symmetrical triangle design using orange glads to form the primary line in a soft green compote container. The basic line of the design was achieved by using leather fern clustered. A filler of glad foliage and lavender spikes of blooming shrubs which greatly resembles the heather finished the massed design. This type arrangement is very suitable for a church, large club room, or banquet hall. I hope I can find out the name of this delicate filler material. It is so lovely and I believe it would dry perfectly.

Next Wednesday— Another wonderful club will have the show for the Garden Center and T.V. program. It is the Bayou DeSiard Garden Club of Monroe. Mrs. Harry Graham is the club president.

Date Reminders — Federated Garden Club presidents — please send in a report on your garden therapy work to Mrs. Sam Carriere, State Garden Therapy Chairman, Winnsboro. She needs your report before the end of the month — now.

The Louisiana Council of Nationally Accredited Flower Show Judges announces the Advanced Refresher Course in Flower Show Judging Feb. 17 and 18 at the Washington-Youree Hotel in Shreveport. All judges and student judges and all Garden Club enthusiasts, whether seeking credit or general information are invited to come for the full session or part. Fee — Entire course (before Feb. 10th) including two luncheons, $15. After this date $18. One day (includ-) ing luncheon), $9. The examination fee for those taking for credit, $2. One of the main attractions featured is the Lecture-Demonstration on "Functional and Exhibition Tables," by Mrs. Sylvia Hirsch, famous author, lecturer, accredited National Council Master Flower Show Judge and National Council Instructor. Her book, "The Art of Table Setting and Flower Arrangement," is now on the required reading list of National Council Flower Show Schools.

Mrs. Hirsch has been the recipient of awards from the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State and of the New York State Horticultural Society for her inspirational leadership and outstanding work.

Other speakers on the program are Mrs. Joe C. Hardin, Grady, Ark., whose subject is "Decorative Foliage Plants"; Mrs. Lucius Lamar, New Orleans, "Plant Nomenclature"; and Mrs. Drew LaCroix, Pineville, "Philosophy of Judges". Mrs. Jack E. Miller is chairman.

Advanced registration is advised. Mrs. Thomas L. Benson, 2028 River Road, Shreveport, La., 71105, is the registration chairman. Programs and registration forms may be acquired at the Fifth District Garden Center, 1501 Louisville Ave., Monroe, from Mrs. John Tolar. For further information write to Mrs. Jack E. Miller, Chairman, 161 Fremont, Shreveport, La. 71105.

Feb. 22-23, Sat. 3:30 to 8 p.m., Sunday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. — date and time for the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club's First Annual Camellia Show. Lee Hodges is chairman of show. Co-Chairmen are J. L. Jones, Mrs. Woodrow Hathorn, and Emil Wisakowsky. Artistic Arrangement Division chairman is Mrs. J. H. Thatcher. Everyone is invited to exhibit. There is no limit to the number of entries each exhibitor may make.

Fresh Camellias must predominate over other fresh flowers in the design division.

In the Horticulture Division there are sections for amateurs — specimen blooms; amateurs — collections; seedlings; and nurserymen or commercial displays. The place for the show is the Central Savings Bank and Trust Co. 300 DeSiard St., Monroe. Registrations for entering the arrangements should be made no later than Feb. 8 with Mrs. J. H. Thatcher Jr., 501 Speed Drive, Monroe.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: My brother and I are going to build a small, two-room vacation cabin. We have considerable knowledge of ordinary construction, but need some advice on this particular project, since we would like to undertake a cabin made of logs.

ANSWER: You've set yourselves quite a task, but it can be done, especially by two persons with some construction experience. Don't try it, though, unless you have a chain saw for slicing and making cuts in the logs. You'll have to check with local authorities regarding foundation regulations. Most areas require that the foundation be made of concrete of a specified depth. Logs are then sliced and placed on the foundation with the flat side down, bolted to the concrete.

After adding three or four tiers of logs, placed horizontally, the rest of the walls are made from logs set vertically. The top logs must be beveled so that the roof rests securely on them. Window frames and other openings can be made from 2 by 5s. How much and what kind of insulation you use depends on how thorough a job you want to do. But you'd better be sure to use caulking compound to keep the cabin weathertight. You can get a good start on this by cutting and notching the logs properly so that they fit together tightly.

There are many variations of cabins you can build, some of which call for placing the logs horizontally from the base to the top. You should have no trouble with this because of your construction know-how.

Displaying Of Blooms High Point

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles prepared by members of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club on various phases of the growing and showing of camellias in the Monroe area. Various articles discuss the different problems and aspects of camellia propagation.)

The displaying of camellia blooms is the high point in the year's activities. The blooms show the results of what has been put into the bush by the owner each day of the year. This shows how the owner recognized the wants and needs. A well-treated plant has a way of showing appreciation, and this is by beautiful prize-winning blooms.

An article dealing with the preparation and showing of camellia blooms should present some of the steps that are necessary for the maintenance of healthy plants throughout the year. The most important topics of culture are as follows: watering, fertilizing, disbudding, mulching, resistance to disease and insects, light and air pruning. As one can see, this is a constant job; however, the results are rewarding.

NEXT STEP

If the above have not been done, then it is too late to tell what to do for this year's blooms. Now let's presume all this has been done and there are prize winning flowers. What is next?

Containers play an important part in keeping the blooms fresh up to the time the flowers are displayed. Any container that is used to store or transfer camellia blooms should be as airtight as possible. Many growers are convinced that this factor is extremely important in retaining freshness of blooms. After the container has been selected, then the person should go to the woods and get some moss from the trees. This makes ideal material to put the blooms on inside the box. Get this slightly damp but not wet. If this is not obtainable, then get some shredded waste paper and place this in the box. Spray the paper with water the night before placing it in use.

Generally speaking, it is well to delay picking the blooms until just before departing for the show. The actual cutting of the blooms is quite simple. Very few collectors are willing to brave the cold early morning hours to prepare for the show. Instead, they select the day before the show to take care of the blooms in order to get a good night's sleep. I am convinced that the factor of freshness of the flower is a most important element to consider in the preparation procedure.

QUALITIES

In selecting camellia blooms to display for competitive judging, certain qualities that make up a competitive flower should be considered. If the flower fails to meet certain minimum standards that are considered in judging, it certainly should not be entered for competition. In selecting the blooms, attempt to appraise the flower through the eyes of a judge. One should learn to consider all the factors instead of a single good point that the flower may have. It may be well to list some of the important points to consider when cutting the blooms. These are form, color, condition, size. A nomenclature book should be had, for this gives a complete description of each flower. This is what the judges go by.

In form it would be well to select a bloom that would appear as close to normal as possible for that variety. If the variety has several different forms, then select the form that appeals most, but it should represent perfection for that variety. As an example, the variety Purple Dawn has two forms, the open type and the more prized bud-centered. Judges will invariably select the bud-centered, other points being equal.

EXTRA MERIT

Special attention should be directed toward protecting individual blooms on a plant that, in the opinion of the grower, has extra merit.

Sometimes leaves that are next to the flower interfere with the full development of the petals. These leaves should be pulled away from the flower and attached by clothespins to another leaf or branch. This act will permit full and complete opening of the flower. If rain or drizzle threatens to damage these special blooms, it is sometimes advisable to attach a sheet of plastic to a frame or to other branches. Also a plastic freezer bag may be slipped over the bloom for protection.

It is better to pick each bloom individually and place it directly into the container than to pick a number of blooms and transfer them to the final container. Many a prize winning bloom has been dropped and brusied by carrying several in the hand at a time.

Here is a suggestion on how to revive a drooped bloom:

Soak the flower stems for one hour in a quart of fresh water, into which has been mixed a level teaspoonful of household detergent. Then place the stems in a quart of fresh water, spiked with six teaspoonsful of sugar and one of vinegar . . . Then presto, the blooms perk up as if freshly plucked.

ALL - AMERICA GLADIOLUS selections for 1964 shown here are La France with large, "Dawn pink" flowers, and miniatures, Blue Sapphire, and Snowsprite. The latter is a crystalline white with greenish tint in the throat.

Many Plants Are Classed As Poisonous

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Would you say that natural poisons in plants have killed more persons than man - made poisons on plants?

Cornell University botanist John M. Kingsbury says this is so. More than 700 species of plants in the United States and Canada are known to have caused illness or death in man and animals, he estimates.

Children should be taught never to put in their mouths any portions of plants not recognized certainly as food.

You may think you will recognize poison ivy. But aside from the formation of three leaves, the plant may have shiny, dull or hairy leaves and it may grow as a shrub or a vine. Also harmful to the touch are poison oak, a relative of poison sumac, an erect shrub or small tree with gray bark. This sumac generally is found in swampy areas.

AVOID EATING

Prof. Kingsbury says most poisonous plants are poisonous only when eaten. These include hemlock, encountered in wet areas or near streams. The most dangerous part is the dahlia like root cluster.

Two plants with lethal seeds are the precatory or rosary pea, often made into necklaces, and the castor-bean, readily available at garden stores. Don't leave these within reach of children.

Leaves of rhubarb, bulbs of hyacinth, narcissus or daffodil and some lily and amaryllis bulbs are poisonous. Also dangerous are berries, seeds or leaves of oleander, poinsettia, wisteria and daphne. Some philodendrons and caladiums are poisonous.

Cornell has extensive facilities for investigating plant poisoning. In one of its gardens are nearly 70 species of poisonous plants.

Musk Rose Key Found

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

A letter from Graham Thomas, the authority on old roses in England and Europe, brings the news that he has discovered the original type of the old musk rose. For over a century, now, English rosarians have been trying to find the true musk rose about which so much was written since the Middle Ages.

Although we have, today, several hybrid musk roses which have the "blood" of the old musk in them, rosarians wanted to find the original form of the species. In modern times, gardeners have wondered just what this odor called "musk" was like. Some authorities have thought that it was more fanciful than real. In English literature, it is presumed that the English and not the ancient Asian musk rose is referred to by writers like Shakespeare.

BEESWAX, HONEY

Our American authority, Roy Shepherd, says that the "musk" odor is more like that of beeswax and honey than that of the animal musk used in perfumes. He thinks, also, that the word, musk, may have been applied as a synonym for fragrance.

Whatever the case may be, the hunt for the true musk rose (also for the plant called "musk") has been going on, now, for some years in Europe. Graham Thomas has collected an amazing number of the old roses thought to have been lost. In 1954, I had a number of sessions with Thomas about my own personal search for old tea roses around Nice where there were once over 100 varieties of teas grown for the perfume business and the cut flower business.

We have mentioned before in the column that Thomas is in charge of many of the gardens and grounds of the old castles belonging to the British Trust. As he and I have travelled about from castle to castle, inspecting the gardens, he has several times mentioned that he might some day find the true musk. He does not say in his letter whether or not it was located at one of his gardens, but this is most likely, and it is certainly a triumph for him.

POTENTIAL

If the musk odor can now be bred directly back into modern roses, it will give them an interesting scent. Readers of the column will recall my description of the musk climber which travels 20 to 30 feet up into the trees at Kew. This specimen has been regarded as a relatively weak scented type. There is more of the musk fragrance in some of the hybrids of many types which were crosses with other roses. Our own Champney's Pink Cluster, originated in Charleston, can be found in many old gardens here in the South. Marechal Niel, Cloth of Gold and many of the teas like William Allen Richardson, Gloire de Dijon, Reve d'Or and Mme Alfred Carriere give us some idea of the musk odor.

It takes warm moist nights to produce the famous musk odor at its best. This condition is something we can certainly provide in Southern gardens.

'BAKER STREET'

NEW YORK (AP) — "Baker Street," a musical about Sherlock Holmes, is to be directed now by Harold S. Prince.

Previously Michael Langham and Joshua Logan had been nominated for the assignment. Prince, producer of two current musicals, is not involved in the management of "Baker Street," which is an Alexander H. Cohen enterprise.

Gardening Forum Set

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

I have good news for you, Mrs. Homemaker, if you want to make your home grounds more attractive this spring. There will be a garden forum for you at the West Monroe High School Auditorium on February 20th. Be sure to mark this date on your calendar.

Speakers for the day's event are specialists in their field and include Warren Meadows, associate specialist (horticulture), and Neil Odenwald, associate specialist (horticulture), of LSU Agricultural Evtension Service. Also, Dr. John Wright from Louisiana Tech will Speak. Some of the subjects which will be discussed are: Soil management, practical landscape development, pruning, pest control and lawns.

The group which met last week and planned this meeting to help you were: Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, Mrs. M. L. Johnson, Mrs. J. W. Golson, Mrs. John Tolar, Mrs. K. R. Young, Mrs. Fred Riser, Mrs. Jewel Earl, Mrs. Frank Buce, Mrs. Ernest Grubbs, Mr. George Tyner, Mr. John Carter, Mr. John Birdsong and Mr. Jack Bagwell and the Agricultural Extension Staff, J. J. Joyce Jr., Donna Moore, and Floyd Kent. So, if you have any problems in gardening, be sure to mark February 20th on your calendar. There will be more information about your Garden Forum in this column each Sunday.

GARDEN WORK

Now for some work in the garden. Even though January and February weather is usually cold and bad, there are a number of jobs that need to be done in the landscape. These two months are considered excellent times for planting ornamental shrubbery. It is a good idea to prune evergreens and deciduous shrubs, other than those which flower during the early spring. If the early flowering shrubs are pruned now it will remove the flower buds that have already formed. Some of the summer blooming plants that should be pruned are althea, abelia crape myrtle, oleander and vitex.

Make plans now for those roses that you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to add to your garden. The best time to plant and prune roses is in February. You may clean the beds, feed and prune your roses all in one operation. Pruning is done to regulate the size of the plant and to increase length of stem of bloom and for a high quality flower. If they are not pruned they soon grow into a bramble patch and the flowers are small and of poor quality.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, did not plant annuals in the fall, some of our hardy annuals as sweet alyssum, calendula, cornflower, poppy, pholx should be planted by the end of February.

MEN'S STRETCH PLASTICS

We, of the fairer sex, no longer have the exclusive use of all cotton stretch fabrics. By spring men will be wearing stretch cotton shirts and slacks and by fall there should be a variety of other men's clothing made from these new stretch fabrics.

Two companies will market dress shirts made of cotton oxford cloth this coming spring and a third manufacturer will market men's slacks in cotton stretch fabrics, according to our U. S. Department of Agriculture research. The stretch cotton invasion of the men's wear field is just beginning. Dozens of other firms are testing fabrics for use in socks, sport shirts, sport jackets, hunting jackets as well as shirts and slacks.

GOOD NEWS

We in the Agricultural Extension building are mighty happy this week because the contractor has started remodeling, or we may say adding more to our office space. We are most grateful to our Police Jury members for making this possible. Those of you who come to our building know that we are literally bursting at the seams. Of course, this is to be expected because our building was built about 22 years ago and our program has grown in these past few years.

What's new on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A plywood sheathing with a special exterior glue and a water - repellent, fungi - resistant treatment of the edges.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That this sheathing, available at a slight premium over existing grades, has proved superior in resistance to adverse exterior effects and is immune to separation of the plywood layers even under severe storage and installation conditions.

THE PRODUCT—A synthetic fabric paint roller available in different pile heights for general work on average surfaces or heavy duty work on rough surfaces.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That this roller performs equally well in water or oil - based paints, that it has more paint pickup, better rolling qualities and longer life than most other types of rollers, and that its covers will fit existing roller frames.

THE PRODUCT—A movable wall system without visible joints or seams, utilizing steel stud framing to which tapered - edged gypsum board panels are attached by means of a snap-in batten joint, doing away with screws, nails or other fastenings.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That a special water - proof tape, used for covering the joints, is completely hidden under a coat of topping compound, yet can be removed quickly with a sharp, upward pull, enabling the wall to be taken down quickly and set up somewhere else.

EASY REMOVING

Punch a small hole in the bottom of that can of cranberry jelly before removing the top with a wall-type opener. This method allows the jelly to slip out of the can easily.

ROSES of DISTINCTION
"TOPS IN ROSES"

Rose Reflections—

I walk today through roses
in my garden set apart,
and see again the roses
reflected in my heart.

I started loving roses
the day I started loving you.
You brought me bright red roses
when we were twenty-two.

Across the Bible that I carried
lay a rose of purest white,
symbol of the love we vowed
on our wedding night.

Yellow roses on my window sill
filled my heart with joy.
You kissed my lips and whispered
"we have our baby boy."

Soft pink baby roses
on yet another morn,
foretold the news you brought me,
"our baby girl is born."

Roses too on other days,
year after pleasant year,
their story told and bade me hold
these special days more dear.

Fifty golden roses
for the golden years we've know,
bespeak in sweet reflection
that our love has sweeter grown.

Yes, I walk today through roses
in my garden set apart,
and see again the roses
reflected in my heart.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

What happened to a friend of mine shouldn't happen to you ...... but it could if you're careless or fail to treat your cameras and equipment as valuable property. Two equipment-laden gadget bags were stolen from his car though he had taken the reasonable precaution — he thought — of locking the car and hiding the equipment on the floor of the back seat. The car was jimmied open and the bags were easily found.

Moral? Never leave cameras or accessories in the body of a car, locked or unlocked. The safest place for any valuable equipment is in the trunk of an auto where prying eye is likely to be aware of the contents. And beware of leaving clues in sight that might inspire some sneak thief into taking a chance of prying further, clues like empty flashbulb cartons, film boxes or a tripod.

Unfortunately cameras are small, valuable and easily disposable so they'll always remain a target for itchy fingers. When such valuable property is left within reach, it is too much temptation for some people to resist. If you are aware of that fact at all times you are likely to take better precautions against loss.

However even utmost vigil about your equipment can not prevent some robberies or loss from fire or accidents. The answer, of course, is insurance. Insurance is easy to get, it's comparatively cheap and protects against likely hazards.

VARIATIONS

In many cases it is not necessary to buy a special policy for your photo equipment alone. If you have a home owner or personal effects policy already, you can itemize your cameras and accessories and turn the list over to your agent. The equipment will be included at no extra charge.

Special camera floater policies are also available. You must list each item, give its serial number and value. The equipment is protected against theft, accidental loss, fire and damage at home, in use or on a vacation trip anywhere in the world.

My friend's recent camera losses and subsequent dealings with the police disclosed that this, alas, was no isolated case but only one in the regular run of such incidents. Also that many of the victims can't identify their property by serial numbers or approximate its value and they haven't bothered to take out insurance.

Scheduled for March 6 is "Lover Come Back," starring Rock Hudson, Doris Day, Tony Randall and Edie Adams. The April 10 production will be "The Great Imposter," with Tony Curtis and Edward O'Brien in the leads.

"Flower Drum Song," set for Aril 24, will feature in the cast Nancy Kwan, James Shigeta and Miyoshi Umeki.

Spring Feature Set At College For March 20-21

Tryouts for Northeast State College's spring production of the Gilbert and Sullivan operatta, "The Mikado," will be held on Mondya, Feb. 10, from 3 to 5 p.m. in Biedenharn Recital Hall, announced Prof. George Brain of the speech department.

There are numerous parts for singers, dancers and actors, Brian said. All students are invited to attend the auditions if they have an interest in musical show production.

"Each person will be given a chance to 'show what he can do' if he so desires," he added.

"The Mikado" will be presented in Brown Auditorium on March 20-21.

Church, Theatre Share Facilities

NEW YORK (AP) — A church and an experimental dramatic workshop are sharing facilities in a building around the corner from the Broadway theatrical zone.

The thespic venture called the American Place Theater, was established a year ago to help established writers in other fields test their talent at stagecraft.

Although there is no formal connection between the theater and St. Clement's Protestant Episcopal Church which uses the same auditorium, there is a link. The Rev. Sidney Lanier, the vicar, is codirector of the American Place group.

200th ANNIVERSARY

BOLOGNA (AP) — The 200th anniversary of this Italian city's municipal theater is being celebrated with a series of musical events.

Besides symphonic and chamber concerts, the fete includes performance of several operas. Among them is "Il Trionfo di Plenia," a work by Gluck that opened the auditorium in 1764.

CURTAIN CALL

"Once Upon A Mattress" is a costume show par excellence, so we are fortunate to have assembled the largest sewing circle in Little Theatre history. On top of the names reported last week, Nancy Franklin has added Mmes. George Brian, Adams Causey, Eloy Fominaya, Claude Fuller, Sidney Gill, Earl Graser, Edward Hayward, Alfred Klemme, William Mackey and Ralph Wilson.

This makes about 20 people in all who are involved in the intricacies of producing the lavish costumes needed for this show. Backstage, Lonny Fraze has recruited Betsy Taylor as prop girl, while Howie Lauther, John Goorley, Dick Vail and Val Nichols have joined the set construction crew. Before "Once Upon A Mattress" is over, thousands of volunteer hours will go into it.

VOLUNTEERS VITAL

Because we have the magnificent new Strauss Playhouse and put on shows of close - to - Broadway quality, it is easy to overlook the fact that Little Theatre, like all Monroe's community service groups, could not function without the unpaid services of hundreds of volunteers in the myriad jobs that have to be done. In its rage to riches career. Little Theatre has held fast to the concept that it is not only a form of culture and entertainment for its members, but equally a creative outlet for the non-professional as a medium for exercising talents in acting, music, voice, art, sewing, set building and the like.

Again we hail the volunteers that make our prsent program possible and invite anyone who might be curious about the personal opportunities in Little Theatre to use "Once Upon A Mattress" as a testing ground for his own interest in backstage activity. Many tasks remain to be done, which executive director Richard Clark or technical director Lonny Fraze will be glad to explain to all comers.

POSTERS

Kenneth Garrison has been a fixture of Little Theatre musicals since "Bye Bye Birdie" and fortunately for us he is also the grandson of Sam Page who has printed 100 extremely handsome silk-screen posters as his contribution to the success of "Once Upon a Mattress." The designer of the colorful poster was Carroll Green. Volunteers will soon invite businesses in the area to display them and we appreciate the space that is given them.

People are beginning to drop in for rehearsals of "Once Upon A Mattress." A recent evening saw the Ivey Faulks, Larry Shipmans, Chig Shoudys, Marc Swayzes, Bill Blythe, Bob Jones Elbert Lozes, Roger Morgan and Robert Wing among the spectators.

A chatty letter from Betty Bandy in Dallas brings the exciting news that Dell Moore, who graced so many past musicals, is to be married on Valentine's Day to Darryl Heikes, a United Press photographer, with Betty as maid of honor. Betty herself has been honored by her selection as one of 12 soloists out of a choir of 140 in the First Methodist Church of Dallas.

Eivie McGeehee, "Damn Yankees" choreographer, had been in Dallas with "Can Can" as a lead dancer and assistant to Toni Beck. He will be back next month in "Guys And Dolls," according to Betty.

A postcard from Scherck Bogen in London reports that he saw the Joan Littlewood production of "Oh, What A Lovely War," which he describes as an amazing satire. He was doing his best to get tickets for Laurence Olivier and Michael Redgrave at the Old Vic.

SAD NEWS

The recent death of Laura Slator saddened many a Little Theatre heart. With her late husband, she was one of the founders of our group in 1932. For eight seasons from 1936 to 1944, either Laura or Nick Slator served as treasurer and husbanded the scanty resources of the struggling organization.

Except for a part which Nick took in "Outward Bound," the Slators eschewed the stage as such, but they cheerfully undertook any other assignment. In their memory, Eula Davenport, Frances McHenry, Frank Breese and Julius Cahn have commissioned a Green Room tile.

Musical Deals With Analysis

NEW YORK (AP) — "Vertical and Horizontal," a book about psychoanalysis, is the basis for an unconventional musical being planned for future White Way exhibit.

The author of the volume, Lillian Ross, may turn over the adapting task to S. N. Behrman. Cy Feuer and Ernie Martin, specialists at musical production, are the tentative sponsors.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

What happened to a friend of mine shouldn't happen to you ...... but it could if you're careless or fail to treat your cameras and equipment as valuable property. Two equipment-laden gadget bags were stolen from his car though he had taken the reasonable precaution — he thought — of locking the car and hiding the equipment on the floor of the back seat. The car was jimmied open and the bags were easily found.

Moral? Never leave cameras or accessories in the body of a car, locked or unlocked. The safest place for any valuable equipment is in the trunk of an auto where prying eye is likely to be aware of the contents. And beware of leaving clues in sight that might inspire some sneak thief into taking a chance of prying further, clues like empty flashbulb cartons, film boxes or a tripod.

Unfortunately cameras are small, valuable and easily disposable so they'll always remain a target for itchy fingers. When such valuable property is left within reach, it is too much temptation for some people to resist. If you are aware of that fact at all times you are likely to take better precautions against loss.

However even utmost vigil about your equipment can not prevent some robberies or loss from fire or accidents. The answer, of course, is insurance. Insurance is easy to get, it's comparatively cheap and protects against likely hazards.

VARIATIONS

In many cases it is not necessary to buy a special policy for your photo equipment alone. If you have a home owner or personal effects policy already, you can itemize your cameras and accessories and turn the list over to your agent. The equipment will be included at no extra charge.

Special camera floater policies are also available. You must list each item, give its serial number and value. The equipment is protected against theft, accidental loss, fire and damage at home, in use or on a vacation trip anywhere in the world.

My friend's recent camera losses and subsequent dealings with the police disclosed that this, alas, was no isolated case but only one in the regular run of such incidents. Also that many of the victims can't identify their property by serial numbers or approximate its value and they haven't bothered to take out insurance.

LITTLE CHANGE NOTED

8 Wells Finaled In Area Drilling Action For Week

Activity neither rose nor fell substantially last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District.

A total of eight wells were completed or gauged in five of the district's 15 parishes, according to the report of Manager Duncan S. Cook. There was one recompletion.

Actively drilling or testing rigs numbered 25 and were located in seven parishes, while the total on new locations was well below normal — only seven and in six parishes.

The completions included three in Union Parish, all in the Monroe Gas Field, as well as two in Rapides and one each in LaSalle, Grant and Avoyelles.

Activity was heaviest in LaSalle Parish where nine rigs were drilling or testing, followed by Tensas Parish with five. Rapides and Caldwell with three each, two each in Avoyelles and Catahoula and one in Grant Parish.

Only parish with more than one new location staked during the week was Concordia which had two. Caldwell, Catahoula, Franklin, LaSalle and Tensas each had one.

The week's recompletion was in Catahoula Parish, section 19-5-6E in the Larto Lake Field. It was Murphy Oil Corporation's Farrier No. 1, recompleted Jan. 15 at 6,024 feet.

Seven wells were plugged and abandoned and three were 79 inactive sites in the district.

Further information on the week's completions, active rigs and new locations, taken from the Cook report, was as follows:

Yazoo Site Storage Tanks Built

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — American Petrofina Co. of Texas erected storage tanks Saturday as its apparent new discovery in Yazoo County, the Deason No. 1, sec. 25-12n-2e, two miles west of the Pickens oil field.

Operators continued to release no information on the well with the completion reported to be in a sand below 7,200 feet. The wildcat was drilled to 11,826 feet with production casing set at 7,737 feet.

Callon Petroleum Co. has completed its Junkin No. 3, sec. 3-8n-3w, second well in the recently found Quitman Bayou Field of Adams County as a dual producer. A sand at 3,932,35 feet flowing at the rate of 80 barrels of oil per day with a second zone at 5,492-94 feet flowing at the same daily rate. The well logged a record sand thickness for the Wilcox formation with a 42-foot interval recorded in the upper producing zone.

The second well in the new Blackburn field of Jones County has been finaled flowing at the rate of 225 barrels of oil per day. The new oiler is Triad-McAlester No. 1, cross sec. 14-7n-13w, completed from a perforated interval at 12,476-88 feet.

A new Smackover lime wildcat test is underway in Clarke County with the Brandon Co. rigging up at its International Paper Co. No. 1, sec. 8-2n-17e, three miles north of the Junction City Oil field. Contract depth is 11,500 feet.

In the hardrock country of northeast Mississippi, Pan American Petroleum Corp. continued to drill below 10,900 feet in its Calhoun County wildcat, the Hodges No. 1, sec. 4-22n-10e, six miles southeast of Calhoun Cty. The venture had original contract depth of 10,000 feet.

Humble Oil and Refining Co., tested its deep Hancock County wildcat, the Weston Lbr. Co. No. 1, sec. 6-9s-15w, three miles north of the Ansley Field. Operators are releasing very little information on the test with reports that a gas zone at 15,760-792 feet is the sand section under test. The venture is scheduled to be drilled to 16,000 feet with reports that additional sands below 14,000 feet may have been encountered.

Also in Hancock County, Humble drilled below 10,700 feet in its second wildcat, the Baldwin No. 1, sec. 1-10s-16w, three miles southwest of Ansley Field.

Humble recently secured lease from the state mineral lease commission on the Mississippi Sound waters covering 800,000 acres. It was reported extensive geophysical work will begin shortly. Humble has a second Hancock County wildcat about three miles from the coastal waters.

Field drilling during the past week saw two new oilers completed.

At Lazy Creek in Pike County, Biglane, Alford & Thornhill completed their Hodges No. A-1, sec. 9-4n-8e, flowing 323 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,734 feet.

Cotton Futures Waver Within Narrow Range

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices wavered within a comparative narrow range this week and closed Friday up $1.35 a bale to down 70 cents from a week earlier.

In the preceding week, the market chalked up gains of from $1.65 to $2.85 a bale.

Mill price fixing and short covering exerted mild upward pressure. Commission houses were active on both sides, and uncertainties with respect to the new cotton legislation continued to overhang the market.

Continuing heavy loan entries and increasing government cotton holdings were slightly bullish to sports but little influenced futures prices.

The New York Cotton Exchange service bureau estimated loan entires as of Jan. 17 at 7,239,000 bales, equal to the 1955 record, and forecast pledges would rise to 8,250,000 bales.

Government holdings were estimated at 12.4 million bales as against federalized stocks of 10.2 million a year ago.

Exports in the week ended Monday were 122,000 bales against 281,000 the week preceding and 23,000 in the comparable 1963 week. For the season exports rose to 2,421,000 bales as against 1,286,000 a year earlier.

Louisiana Betas Elect Officers

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Beta Clubs in Louisiana elected as president Saturday Colvin Gamble Norwood of Hanson High School.

The clubs from high schools from over the state also elected Barry Wilkinson of Port Allen High vice president and Gloria Ann Greybig of Mt. Carmel High in New Iberia secretary.

The Beta Clubs held their annual convention here.

U.S. Economy Is Pegged To Tax Reduction

Glowing Future Is Painted By President Johnson

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson painted a glowing picture of business during the week—if the income tax cut is quickly enacted.

His qualified prediction that 1964 will be a year of soaring prosperity came in his annual economic message to Congress.

Meanwhile, an $11.5-billion tax-reduction bill received final approval in the Senate Finance Committee on Thursday and indications were that the House-approved measure could reach the Senate floor by the end of the week or on Feb. 3.

The stock market apparently liked what it heard from the President. It spurted to another historic high.

Here's what Johnson had to say about the economy:

Gross national product—total of all goods and services—Topped the $600-billion annual rate for the first time during the final quarter of 1963 and is expected to hit $623 billion in 1964.

Personal income—Attained an average per capita of $2,500 in $963 for an after-tax total of $500 billion; expected to increase by $8.8 billion.

Corporate profits — Totaled $51.3 billion and, after taxes, $25 billion; an increase is expected.

Employment — Exceeded 70 million with an unemployment rate of 5.5 per cent of the labor force; the unemployment rate is expected to drop to 5 per cent.

Despite the bullishly optimistic predictions, Johnson made it plain he was not satisfied.

"New high ground is not the summit," he said. "That still lies ahead. Our 1961-63 advance—though impressive, sustained and noninflationary — has not gone far enough and fast enough."

He included in his message a price-cut proposal by his Council of Economic Advisers. They singled out the automobile industry as a possible area.

Coupled was a suggestion that in certain industries the overtime pay rate be boosted as a means of spurring an increase in jobs.

The automobile industry was silent on the price-cut suggestions, and some labor leaders said they couldn't see how higher overtime pay would result in more jobs.

Johnson followed up his economic message with his budget message, calling for a $97.9-billion expenditure in the fiscal year beginning July 1 and halving the deficit of the current year.

Democrats hailed the proposed budget as a realistic effort at cutting down expenditures. Republicans contended it was full of gimmicks.

The automobile and steel industries continued to forge ahead.

Automakers turned out an estimated 178,500 passenger cars, up 12 per cent from the 158,905 assembled the previous week and up 18 per cent from the 151,416 of a year ago.

Steel production climbed by 5 per cent during the week, reaching 2,130,000 tons against 2,120,000 tons the previous week. For the first three weeks of this year output was ahead of a year ago by 10.2 per cent.

The nation's stockholders in 1963 reaped a record harvest of $16.2 billion in dividends, the Commerce Department reported. This was 7.5 per cent higher than the $15.1 billion paid in 1962 by corporations issuing public reports. Big boosts were made by automobile, oil and machinery companies.

Grain Futures Falls In Spree Of Big Selling

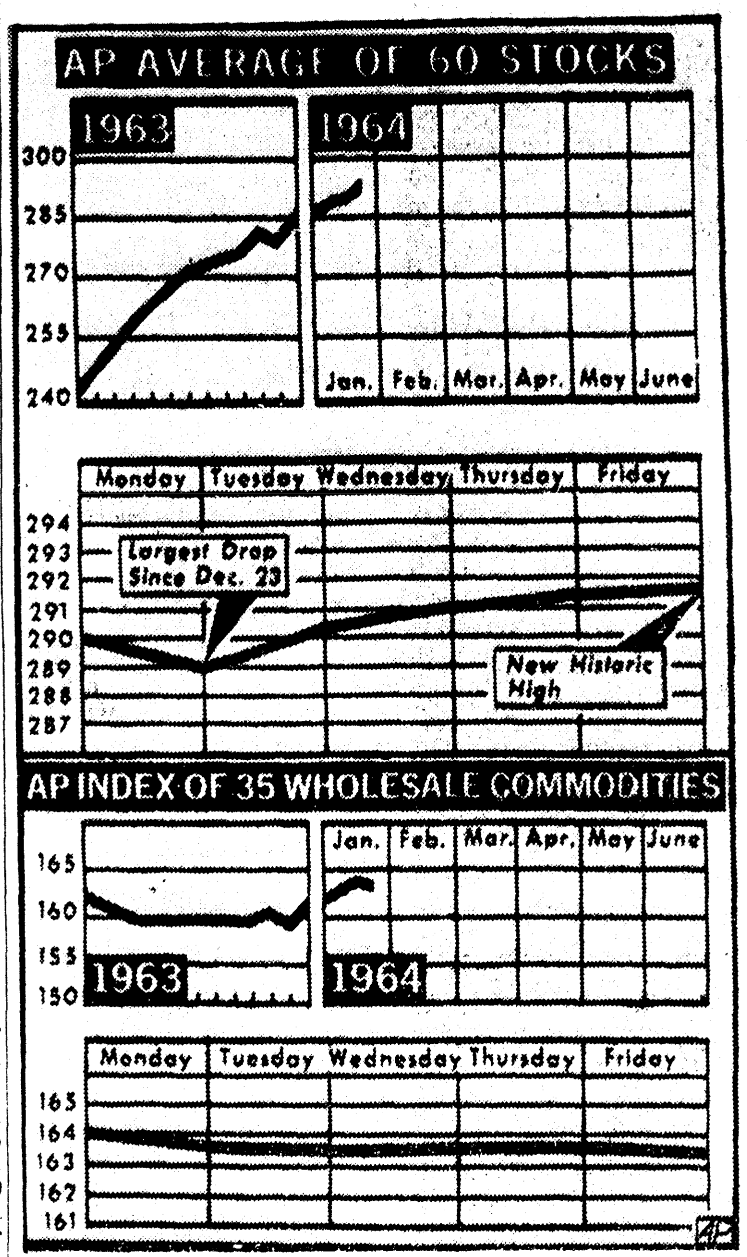
CHICAGO (AP) — The grain futures market stumbled into flurries of stop-loss selling on the Board of Trade last week and closed with numerous losses, some of them fairly broad.

Soybeans were the hardest hit, mainly because of the large open interest, which continued to dwindle as discouraged speculators speeded liquidation toward apparent outright withdrawal from the market.

At the close of trading Thursday, the open interest in all soybean contracts had shrunk to 298.4 million bushels, a decline of about 85 million since the record peak was reached a month ago.

Although exports were described as brisk at times, in wheat and corn, that category of business was not up to expectations for soybeans although the total for the year finally did catch up with the volume at the same time last year. However, brokers pointed out that nothing moved overseas during January 1963 because of a dockworkers' strike.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅛-1¾ cents a bushel lower than a week ago, March $2.21⅝-½; soybeans 3¼-7 cents lower, March $2.73⅝-¼; corn ½ higher to ⅛ lower, March $1.21⅛-¼; oats ⅛-¾ lower March 71½ cents; rye 2½ higher to 1⅛ lower, March $1.56.



FOR THE fourth straight week, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced to a new high, closing at 291.6 from 290.0 a week ago. The commodity index declined for the first time in nine weeks, closing at 163.4 from 164.0 the previous period. Livestock showed the largest loss. (AP Wirephoto)

Fertilizer Industry Investments Grow

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—More and more oil firms are investing millions in the fertilizer industry.

One oil executive said this week the "corporate marriage" trend between fertilizer and petroleum results from the simplest kind of economic forces.

"It boils down to the fact each has certain things which the other requires and each has needs which the other is capable of filling," said L. F. McCollum, president of the Continental Oil Co.

Continental is among the major oil firms which have invested or earmarked about $750 million the past year for the acquisition of fertilizer subsidiaries or for construction of U.S. and overseas plants.

Others include Socony Mobil, Cities Service, Gulf Oil, and Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

World fertilizer consumption is expected to double within 10 years. Such forecasts have played major roles in petroleum's intensified drive to challenge the chemical industry's dominant position.

The new trend on the part of the oil firms indicates increased emphasis on the use of natural gas in the production of ammonia, a major source for the vital nitrogen component of most fertilizers.

In a $100 million transaction, Continental recently acquired the American Agricultural Chemical Co. McCollum said the purchase brought together great raw material potential, aggressive marketing, extensive research facilities, and a pool of management and technical personnel.

Continental earlier acquired the Mid-South Chemical Corp., which distributes liquid nitrogen in 12 states.

The oil industry also is searching for other ways to serve agriculture.

Experiments are well advanced on the use of paraffins and other petroleum fractions for the control of plant fungus disease.

Selected fractions also are being developed as coating for fertilizers to control the rate of release of plant nutrients. A technical report submitted to the sixth World Petroleum Congress in Frankfurt, Germany, last June said such coatings can be easily competitive with expensive slow release fertilizers now on the market.

Jersey Standard's principal domestic affiliate, the Humble Oil & Refining Co., announced initial marketing plans last week for a new agricultural mulch which researchers have said can increase the yield from some crops 15 to 58 per cent.

Initial sales of the specially formulated water emulsion of petroleum resins will be limited to Arizona and California. Field tests, however, also have been made in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Colorado, South Dakota, and New Mexico.

The mulch costs about 35 cents a gallon and is sprayed over the seed beds at a thickness ranging from 5 to 20 mills.

The resin film absorbs solar radiation and retards evaporation of moisture from the seed zone.

Esso Research and Engineering Co. chemists told the Frankfurt Oil Congress Arizona experiments with cotton had increased the crop yield from 15 to 33 per cent. They said the yield of early—premium price—cantaloupe was increased 50 per cent.

Other Arizona tests involved carrots, onions, lettuce, squash and sugar beets. The reported yield increases ranged from 6 per cent for sugar beets to 58 per cent for onions.

Du Pont Names Distributor For Area Products

The Du Pont Company has announced the appointment of Louisiana Paper Company, Ltd., 319 Walnut St., Monroe, as a distributor for its professional maintenance products — a line of floor maintenance materials and general cleaning aids for industrial plants, commercial firms and institutions.

Louisiana Paper Company, Ltd., will service the Monroe area. The line, which features the Du Pont power spray system and a new cordless floor machine, includes the following products: a high-gloss liquid floor wax, slip-retardant floor waxes in both liquid and paste forms, a polymer floor finish, a wax remover and all-purpose cleaner, a floor sealer, a liquid for dust control, and a variety of cellulose sponge products.

The professional Maintenance products section was established in 1961 as part of Du Pont's fabrics and finishes department. Its products have been developed and formulated specifically for economical maintenance of any type of floor subjected to heavy traffic and for easy cleaning of counter tops, tables, and other equipment in commercial firms.

Appointment of the local distributor is part of a program to establish outlets throughout the nation. Distributors supply the Du Pont products and related services directly to users, including industrial plants, office buildings, schools, hospitals, hotels, restaurants, bakeries, and other firms.

New Jonesboro Inn, Grill Opens

Nomey's Inn & Grill at Jonesboro, is now open for business, George Nomey, owner, announced Saturday.

The new structure features 25 modern rooms, complete with tile shower and tub combination.

"Every room is furnished and equipped for the utmost in luxurious comfort and convenience," Nomey said. "Each room has individual thermostat for personalized comfort and automatic ice service."

The inn and grill is open 24 hours a day, Nomey added.

Stocks Gain Despite Big Profit Sales

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week advanced against some heavy profit taking and pushed the averages to their highest levels in history.

Trading simmered down to 26.3 million shares from 30.6 million in the previous week when the level reached the highest level since June 1962.

Turnover remained active, however, and Wall Streeters continued to notice increased signs of public participation. Although some of the recent high flyers were knocked down considerably, this did not lead to general selling, as some prophets thought it might.

The anti-inflationary aspects of President Johnson's economic message to Congress accompanied a fairly sharp decline on Monday. After some further weakness early on Tuesday, blue chips spearheaded a recovery drive which put the averages well ahead, even though more stocks fell than rose in the entire list.

From that point on, however, the averages and the advance-decline figures were in gear. The market rose moderately on balance for three straight days, making record highs in the popular averages every day.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week rose 7.35 to 783.04, its all-time closing peak.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.6 to 291.6, its record closing high. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index stood at a record of 77.11 as the week ended.

Such issues as American Telephone, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Radio Corp., Sears Roebuck, New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroad posted new highs for 1963-'64. In the case of AT&T they were all-time highs.

U.S. government bonds were steady to tiny fractions higher in spots. Corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange posted their third straight advance—the best string in over a year, based on the Associated Press average of 60 issues.

Volume totaled $71,238,000 par value compared with $74,844,000 the previous week.

Gober is a maintenance man at Texas Eastern's pipeline maintenance headquarters located in Monroe. This will be the third such course of instruction taken by Gober.

DIVIDENDS UP

New York Life policy owners for the second successive year will receive a record increase in dividends, according to general manager Jack Branch of the company's Shreveport general office. The increase of $28,400,000 will bring the total dividends to $185,800,000 in 1964 as compared to $157,400,000 in 1963.

About $3,300,000 will be coming to New York Life policy owners as dividends on individual life insurance and annuity policies in Louisiana in 1964, Branch said. The company has been doing business in Louisiana for more than 115 years.

SALES RECORD

Rambler retail sales in the Memphis zone of American Motors reached an all - time record in the year just completed, according to J. E. Woosley, zone manager.

During 1963, sales in the zone area rose to 13,741 Ramblers, an eight per cent gain over the 12,731 sold in 1962, Woosely said.

The Memphis zone covers Rambler dealers in Arkansas, most of Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, and a part of Kentucky.

R. James Stillings, LP-Gas division manager at Boston for Cities Service Oil Co., is joining the Supply and Distribution Section of the Natural Gas Liquids Department in Tulsa, it was announced today by George P. Bunn, vice president. Stillings replaces R. G. Hale who resigned.

Concurrently, he announced the promotion of G. L. (Andy) Anderson from LP-Gas representaiave Doug Gauger will expand his Wisconsin terriotry to include that formerly handled by Anderson. All promotions are effective Feb. 1.

Scouts In Action

An active patriotic Citizenry is essential to preserve and project the American heritage." Jack Panky, scout executive declared at the Den Mother's Blue and Gold Banquet.

Panky told the Den Mothers that the theme of "Strengthen America's Heritage" program is one of cooperation between the Boy Scouts of America and Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge.

The objective of this program is first, to help Boy Scouts of America membership and its public understand and appreciate the rich heritage of the United States of America and the inherent responsibility to preserve, enrich and pass on this heritage to future generations; and second to promote through Americanism programs all over the country the deep feelings of the Scouting membership in this matter.

"Children will need to learn the Four L's," Panky continued. "These four L's are love of learning, love of liberty, love of law and love of life."

"Through participation in the three phases of Scouting, Cubs, Boy Scouts and Explorers, the young people of today will be better prepared and have deeper experiences for assuming the leadership that will be theirs in a few years, he said.

Table centerpieces for the Blue and Gold Banquet carried out the themes of patriotism and aiming high. "Aim High in '64", the theme of Mrs. Barbara Bowen's display showed a Cub Scout about to take off in a golden rocket ship. A similar centerpiece was made by Mrs. Frances Herlevic of Pack 30. The Golden Eagle, symbol of America's strength, used by Pack 37 was made by Mrs. Virginia Perry. Mrs. Stanley of Pack 127 used a garden of spring flowers as her centerpiece. Representations of some of the early flags of the United States were made by Mrs. Jackie Szold for Pack 29 and a Conestaga wagon served as centerpiece for Pack 174 and was made by Mrs. Ellie Fant.

Relaxation and fun at the banquet were provided by Frank McDermott, field scout executive, with magic tricks, games and singing.

During the business session that followed committees were set up to continue the Workshop. Den Mothers who volunteered are as follows: Question and answers, Mrs. Ellie Fant; games, Mrs. Christine Frandsen; skits, Mrs. Jackie Szold; handicrafts, Mrs. Virginia Perry; ceremonies, Mrs. Joliene Whitfield, field trips, Mrs. L. A. Hunnicutt.

For National Boy Scout week, Feb. 7-13, the following was suggested: All Cub Scouts wear scout uniforms to school Friday, Feb. 7; all Scouts attend Church on Sunday, Feb. 9 in their uniforms; have Cub Scouts attend the television program, "Happiness Exchange" in uniform and with Pack identification on Saturday, Feb. 8. Each Pack was urged to have a display window at a business location in their town or community containing items the scouts had made in order to acquaint their community with this phase of Scouting.

Den Mothers who attended the banquet included: Mrs. Jean Johnston and Mrs. Charlene Shinn, Pack 3, Bastrop; Mrs. Barbara Bowen, Pack 67, Sterlington; Mrs. Elaine Strozier and Mrs. Ada Haddock, Mangham; Mrs. Virginia Perry, Mrs. Billy Stinson and Mrs. Hilton Tolbird, Pack 37, West Monroe; Mrs. Robert E. Szold, Pack 29; Mrs. Frances Herlevic and Mrs. Christine Frandsen, Pack 30; Mrs. Stanley Hayes, Pack 127; Mrs. Hugo Angelini, Mrs. A. P. Messina, Mrs. Gladys Machnik, Pack 6; Mrs. L. A. Comanche Lodge 254, will host the annual fall business meeting at the Louisiana Power and Light Co. auditorium, today starting at 2 p. m. Lodge Chief Larry Wade urged every member of the Order of the Arrow to be present as the entire year's work will be discussed.

LBJ Tells Of Impromptu News Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told newsmen ushered into his office without advance notice Saturday that it wasn't a "quickie" news conference they were attending.

He gave some indication also that he dislikes the word "informal" to describe his news conferences.

"I don't know what you call a formal one," he said. "I guess I ought to wear a white tie. I came to work this morning and I didn't think it was formal. I just thought I was supposed to be here, and if you all are here, I will give you anything I know at any time. Some of you, I think, feel that I don't see enough of you individually. I will be glad to do that."

Near the end of his meeting with newsmen, Johnson said: "This is a formal press conference. If there isn't any element of the press here that is represented, I want them represented here. Incidentally, I will see you next week. There is nothing going on here that we want to keep secret except some things which may fall within the national interest which must be kept secret. We're anxious to help you do your job, with objectivity, and as enthusiastically as I hope you all want me to do mine."

Asked whether he would have his next news conference in his office or in the big auditorium in the State Department where John F. Kennedy held his, Johnson said: "I don't know where we will have it. I think it is good enough to say I am going to have one.'

There was no count of heads at the news conference. Estimates ranged from 30 to 40.

Newsmen were called into the press secretary's office, expecting the usual written statements and other announcements, and were promptly escorted into Johnson's office.

Johnson was seated near a small table, with a cup of black coffee. With him was Harry Provence, editor of the Waco News-Tribune, an old friend.

Johnson's first presidential news conference came on a Saturday, Dec. 7, when 25 newsmen were invited into his office for coffee.

On Dec. 18, a weekday, Johnson held another conference without advance notice. That time 55 attended.

The third Johnson news conference listed on White House records took place at his Texas ranch Dec. 27, also without word in advance.

The White House does not list as a news conference a brief Johnson meeting with reporters on Thursday. On that occasion he read a statement about the Panamanian situation, then was asked one question about the progress of his program in Congress.

Johnson said that he has seen 30 or 40 reporters who have asked to come in on special things they wanted to know.

"Some of them wanted to write about Cousin Oriole," he said. "Some of them want to write about what I think of my wife. Some of them want to tell their editors that they saw me and here is what they think will happen in the wild blue yonder. I shall try to see all of them that I can with my schedule and I am very happy with them.

"I never enjoy anything more than polite, courteous, fair, judicious reporters and I think all of you qualify."

Lucy Johnson Meets Family Of Boy Friend

MAIDEN ROCK, Wis. (AP)—President Johnson's daughter, Lucy, met the family of her boy friend in the tiny community of Maiden Rock Saturday.

Lucy, 16, drove with Jack Olson, 18, and their ever-present Secret Service escort to enjoy a ham dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Olson and the youth's six brothers and sisters.

The young couple is spending the weekend at Rochester, Minn., with Dr. and Mrs. James Cain, longtime friends of the Johnson family. Maiden Rock is about 50 miles away, just across the Mississippi River in Wisconsin.

Newsmen were permitted in the yard but not inside the weathered, white frame house atop a hill looking down on the river valley.

Also joining the party was Jerry Sargent, 19, Minneapolis, boyfriend of Olson's sister, Karen, 19. Sargent said the young people laughed over old family photographs and that Lucy chatted with Jack's brothers and sisters.

Jack is a student at the University of Wisconsin. He and Lucy met while he was a page boy in Washington.

Mrs. Olson works in a bank. Her husband is disabled.

Lucy planned to return to Washington on Sunday.

LITTLE CHANGE NOTED

8 Wells Finaled In Area Drilling Action For Week

Activity neither rose nor fell substantially last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District.

A total of eight wells were completed or gauged in five of the district's 15 parishes, according to the report of Manager Duncan S. Cook. There was one recompletion.

Actively drilling or testing rigs numbered 25 and were located in seven parishes, while the total on new locations was well below normal — only seven and in six parishes.

The completions included three in Union Parish, all in the Monroe Gas Field, as well as two in Rapides and one each in LaSalle, Grant and Avoyelles.

Activity was heaviest in LaSalle Parish where nine rigs were drilling or testing, followed by Tensas Parish with five, Rapides and Caldwell with three each, two each in Avoyelles and Catahoula and one in Grant Parish.

Only parish with more than one new location staked during the week was Concordia which had two. Caldwell, Catahoula, Franklin, LaSalle and Tensas each had one.

The week's recompletion was in Catahoula Parish, section 19-5-6E in the Larto Lake Field. It was Murphy Oil Corporation's Farrier No. 1, recompleted Jan. 15 at 6,024 feet.

Seven wells were plugged and abandoned and three were 79 inactive sites in the district.

Further information on the week's completions, active rigs and new locations, taken from the Cook report, was as follows:

Yazoo Site Storage Tanks Built

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — American Petrofina Co. of Texas erected storage tanks Saturday as its apparent new discovery in Yazoo County, the Deason No. 1, sec. 25-12n-2e, two miles west of the Pickens oil field.

Operators continued to release no information on the well with the completion reported to be in a sand below 7,200 feet. The wildcat was drilled to 11,826 feet with production casing set at 7,737 feet.

Callon Petroleum Co. has completed its Junkin No. 3, sec. 3-8n-3w, second well in the recently found Quitman Bayou Field of Adams County as a dual producer. A sand at 3,932,35 feet flowing at the rate of 80 barrels of oil per day with a second zone at 5,492-94 feet flowing at the same daily rate. The well logged a record sand thickness for the Wilcox formation with a 42-foot interval recorded in the upper producing zone.

The second well in the new Blackburn field of Jones County has been finaled flowing at the rate of 225 barrels of oil per day. The new oiler is Triad-McAlester No. 1, cross sec. 14-7n-13w, completed from a perforated interval at 12,476-88 feet.

A new Smackover lime wildcat test is underway in Clarke County with the Brandon Co. rigging up at its International Paper Co. No. 1, sec. 8-2n-17e, three miles north of the Junction City Oil field. Contract depth is 11,500 feet.

In the hardrock country of northeast Mississippi, Pan American Petroleum Corp. continued to drill below 10,900 feet in its Calhoun County wildcat, the Hodges No. 1, sec. 4-22n-10e, six miles southeast of Calhoun Cty. The venture had original contract depth of 10,000 feet.

Humble Oil and Refining Co., tested its deep Hancock County wildcat, the Weston Lbr. Co. No. 1, sec. 6-9s-15w, three miles north of the Ansley Field. Operators are releasing very little information on the test with reports that a gas zone at 15,760-792 feet is the sand section under test. The venture is scheduled to be drilled to 16,000 feet with reports that additional sands below 14,000 feet may have been encountered.

Also in Hancock County, Humble drilled below 10,700 feet in its second wildcat, the Baldwin No. 1, sec. 1-10s-16w, three miles southwest of Ansley Field.

Humble recently secured lease from the state mineral lease commission on the Mississippi Sound waters covering 800,000 acres. It was reported extensive geophysical work will begin shortly. Humble has a second Hancock County wildcat about three miles from the coastal waters.

Field drilling during the past week saw two new oilers completed.

At Lazy Creek in Pike County, Biglane, Alford & Thornhill completed their Hodges No. A-1, sec. 9-4n-8e, flowing 323 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,734 feet.

Cotton Futures Waver Within Narrow Range

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices wavered within a comparative narrow range this week and closed Friday up $1.35 a bale to down 70 cents from a week earlier.

In the preceding week, the market chalked up gains of from $1.65 to $2.85 a bale.

Mill price fixing and short covering exerted mild upward pressure. Commission houses were active on both sides, and uncertainties with respect to the new cotton legislation continued to overhang the market.

Continuing heavy loan entries and increasing government cotton holdings were slightly bullish to sports but little influenced futures prices.

The New York Cotton Exchange service bureau estimated loan entires as of Jan. 17 at 7,239,000 bales, equal to the 1955 record, and forecast pledges would rise to 8,250,000 bales.

Government holdings were estimated at 12.4 million bales as against federalized stocks of 10.2 million a year ago.

Exports in the week ended Monday were 122,000 bales against 281,000 the week preceding and 23,000 in the comparable 1963 week. For the season exports rose to 2,421,000 bales as against 1,286,000 a year earlier.

Louisiana Betas Elect Officers

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Beta Clubs in Louisiana elected as president Saturday Colvin Gamble Norwood of Hanson High School.

The clubs from high schools from over the state also elected Barry Wilkinson of Port Allen High vice president and Gloria Ann Greybig of Mt. Carmel High in New Iberia secretary.

The Beta Clubs held their annual convention here.

U.S. Economy Is Pegged To Tax Reduction

Glowing Future Is Painted By President Johnson

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—President Johnson painted a glowing picture of business during the week—if the income tax cut is quickly enacted.

His qualified prediction that 1964 will be a year of soaring prosperity came in his annual economic message to Congress.

Meanwhile, an $11.5-billion tax-reduction bill received final approval in the Senate Finance Committee on Thursday and indications were that the House-approved measure could reach the Senate floor by the end of the week or on Feb. 3.

The stock market apparently liked what it heard from the President. It spurted to another historic high.

Here's what Johnson had to say about the economy:

Gross national product—total of all goods and services—Topped the $600-billion annual rate for the first time during the final quarter of 1963 and is expected to hit $623 billion in 1964.

Personal income—Attained an average per capita of $2,500 in $963 for an after-tax total of $500 billion; expected to increase by $8.8 billion.

Corporate profits — Totaled $51.3 billion and, after taxes, $25 billion; an increase is expected.

Employment — Exceeded 70 million with an unemployment rate of 5.5 per cent of the labor force; the unemployment rate is expected to drop to 5 per cent.

Despite the bullishly optimistic predictions, Johnson made it plain he was not satisfied.

"New high ground is not the summit," he said. "That still lies ahead. Our 1961-63 advance—though impressive, sustained and noninflationary — has not gone far enough and fast enough."

He included in his message a price-cut proposal by his Council of Economic Advisers. They singled out the automobile industry as a possible area.

Coupled was a suggestion that in certain industries the overtime pay rate be boosted as a means of spurring an increase in jobs.

The automobile industry was silent on the price-cut suggestions, and some labor leaders said they couldn't see how higher overtime pay would result in more jobs.

Johnson followed up his economic message with his budget message, calling for a $97.9-billion expenditure in the fiscal year beginning July 1 and halving the deficit of the current year.

Democrats hailed the proposed budget as a realistic effort at cutting down expenditures. Republicans contended it was full of gimmicks.

The automobile and steel industries continued to forge ahead.

Automakers turned out an estimated 178,500 passenger cars, up 12 per cent from the 158,905 assembled the previous week and up 18 per cent from the 151,416 of a year ago.

Steel production climbed by 5 per cent during the week, reaching 2,130,000 tons against 2,120,000 tons the previous week. For the first three weeks of this year output was ahead of a year ago by 10.2 per cent.

The nation's stockholders in 1963 reaped a record harvest of $16.2 billion in dividends, the Commerce Department reported. This was 7.5 per cent higher than the $15.1 billion paid in 1962 by corporations issuing public reports. Big boosts were made by automobile, oil and machinery companies.

Grain Futures Falls In Spree Of Big Selling

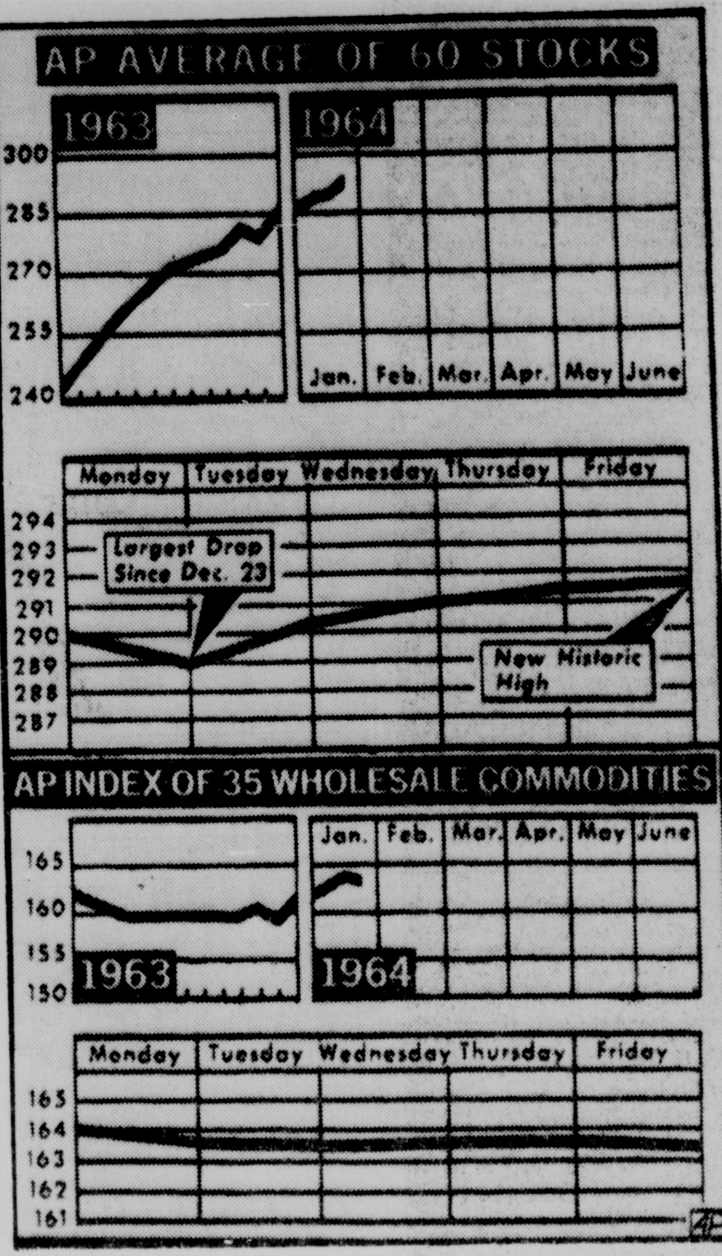
CHICAGO (AP) — The grain futures market stumbled into flurries of stop-loss selling on the Board of Trade last week and closed with numerous losses, some of them fairly broad.

Soybeans were the hardest hit, mainly because of the large open interest, which continued to dwindle as discouraged speculators speeded liquidation toward apparent outright withdrawal from the market.

At the close of trading Thursday, the open interest in all soybean contracts had shrunk to 298.4 million bushels, a decline of about 85 million since the record peak was reached a month ago.

Although exports were described as brisk at times, in wheat and corn, that category of business was not up to expectations for soybeans although the total for the year finally did catch up with the volume at the same time last year. However, brokers pointed out that nothing moved overseas during January 1963 because of a dockworkers' strike.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅛-1¾ cents a bushel lower than a week ago, March $2.21⅜-½ soybeans 3¼-7 cents lower, March $2.73⅜-¼; corn ½ higher to ⅛ lower, March $1.21⅛-¼; oats ⅛-¾ lower March 71½ cents; rye 2½ higher to 1⅛ lower, March $1.56.



FOR THE fourth straight week, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced to a new high, closing at 291.6 from 290.0 a week ago. The commodity index declined for the first time in nine weeks, closing at 163.4 from 164.0 the previous period. Livestock showed the largest loss. (AP Wirephoto)

Fertilizer Industry Investments Grow

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—More and more oil firms are investing millions in the fertilizer industry.

One oil executive said this week the "corporate marriage" trend between fertilizer and petroleum results from the simplest kind of economic forces.

"It boils down to the fact each has certain things which the other requires and each has needs which the other is capable of filling," said L. F. McCollum, president of the Continental Oil Co.

Continental is among the major oil firms which have invested or earmarked about $750 million the past year for the acquisition of fertilizer subsidiaries or for construction of U.S. and overseas plants.

Others include Socony Mobil, Cities Service, Gulf Oil, and Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

World fertilizer consumption is expected to double within 10 years. Such forecasts have played major roles in petroleum's intensified drive to challenge the chemical industry's dominant position.

The new trend on the part of the oil firms indicates increased emphasis on the use of natural gas in the production of ammonia, a major source for the vital nitrogen component of most fertilizers.

In a $100 million transaction, Continental recently acquired the American Agricultural Chemical Co. McCollum said the purchase brought together great raw material potential, aggressive marketing, extensive research facilities, and a pool of management and technical personnel.

Continental earlier acquired the Mid-South Chemical Corp., which distributes liquid nitrogen in 12 states.

The oil industry also is searching for other ways to serve agriculture.

Experiments are well advanced on the use of paraffins and other petroleum fractions for the control of plant fungus disease.

Selected fractions also are being developed as coating for fertilizers to control the rate of release of plant nutrients. A technical report submitted to the sixth World Petroleum Congress in Frankfurt, Germany, last June said such coatings can be easily competitive with expensive slow release fertilizers now on the market.

Jersey Standard's principal domestic affiliate, the Humble Oil & Refining Co., announced initial marketing plans last week for a new agricultural mulch which researchers have said can increase the yield from some crops 15 to 58 per cent.

Initial sales of the specially formulated water emulsion of petroleum resins will be limited to Arizona and California. Field tests, however, also have been made in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Colorado South Dakota, and New Mexico.

The mulch costs about 35 cents a gallon and is sprayed over the seed beds at a thickness ranging from 5 to 20 mills.

The resin film absorbs solar radiation and retards evaporation of moisture from the seed zone.

Esso Research and Engineering Co. chemists told the Frankfurt Oil Congress Arizona experiments with cotton had increased the crop yield from 15 to 33 per cent. They said the yield of early—premium price—cantaloupe was increased 50 per cent.

Other Arizona tests involved carrots, onions, lettuce, squash and sugar beets. The reported yield increases ranged from 6 per cent for sugar beets to 58 per cent for onions.

Du Pont Names Distributor For Area Products

The Du Pont Company has announced the appointment of Louisiana Paper Company, Ltd., 319 Walnut St., Monroe, as a distributor for its professional maintenance products — a line of floor maintenance materials and general cleaning aids for industrial plants, commercial firms and institutions.

Louisiana Paper Company, Ltd., will service the Monroe area. The line, which features the Du Pont power spray system and a new cordless floor machine, includes the following products: a high-gloss liquid floor wax, slip-retardant floor waxes in both liquid and paste forms, a polymer floor finish, a wax remover and all-purpose cleaner, a floor sealer, a liquid for dust control, and a variety of cellulose sponge products.

The professional Maintenance products section was established in 1961 as part of Du Pont's fabrics and finishes department. Its products have been developed and formulated specifically for economical maintenance of any type of floor subjected to heavy traffic and for easy cleaning of counter tops, tables, and other equipment in commercial firms.

Appointment of the local distributor is part of a program to establish outlets throughout the nation. Distributors supply the Du Pont products and related services directly to users, including industrial plants, office buildings, schools, hospitals, hotels, restaurants, bakeries, and other firms.

New Jonesboro Inn, Grill Opens

Nomey's Inn & Grill at Jonesboro, is now open for business, George Nomey, owner, announced Saturday.

The new structure features 25 modern rooms, complete with tile shower and tub combination.

"Every room is furnished and equipped for the utmost in luxurious comfort and convenience," Nomey said. "Each room has individual thermostat for personalized comfort and automatic ice service."

The inn and grill is open 24 hours a day, Nomey added.

Stocks Gain Despite Big Profit Sales

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week advanced against some heavy profit taking and pushed the averages to their highest levels in history.

Trading simmered down to 26.3 million shares from 30.6 million in the previous week when the level reached the highest level since June 1962.

Turnover remained active, however, and Wall Streeters continued to notice increased signs of public participation. Although some of the recent high flyers were knocked down considerably, this did not lead to general selling, as some prophets thought it might.

The anti-inflationary aspects of President Johnson's economic message to Congress accompanied a fairly sharp decline on Monday. After some further weakness early on Tuesday, blue chips spearheaded a recovery drive which put the averages well ahead, even though more stocks fell than rose in the entire list.

From that point on, however, the averages and the advance-decline figures were in gear. The market rose moderately on balance for three straight days, making record highs in the popular averages every day.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week rose 7.35 to 783.04, its all-time closing peak.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.6 to 291.6, its record closing high. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index stood at a record of 77.11 as the week ended.

Such issues as American Telephone, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Radio Corp., Sears Roebuck, New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroad posted new highs for 1963-'64. In the case of AT&T they were all-time highs.

U.S. government bonds were steady to tiny fractions higher in spots. Corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange posted their third straight advance—the best string in over a year, based on the Associated Press average of 60 issues.

Volume totaled $71,238,000 par value compared with $74,844,000 the previous week.

Olen K. Gober of 312 Pecan Drive in Monroe this week will complete a special first aid instructors training course in Little Rock sponsored by Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, according to E. E. Edmondson, the company's safety director.

Gober is a maintenance man at Texas Eastern's pipeline maintenance headquarters located in Monroe. This will be the third such course of instruction taken by Gober.

DIVIDENDS UP

New York Life policy owners for the second successive year will receive a record increase in dividends, according to general manager Jack Branch of the company's Shreveport general office. The increase of $28,400,000 will bring the total dividends to $185,800,000 in 1964 as compared to $157,400,000 in 1963.

About $3,300,000 will be coming to New York Life policy owners as dividends on individual life insurance and annuity policies in Louisiana in 1964, Branch said. The company has been doing business in Louisiana for more than 115 years.

SALES RECORD

Rambler retail sales in the Memphis zone of American Motors reached an all - time record in the year just completed, according to J. E. Woosley, zone manager.

During 1963, sales in the zone area rose to 13,741 Ramblers, an eight per cent gain over the 12,731 sold in 1962, Woosely said.

The Memphis zone covers Rambler dealers in Arkansas, most of Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, and a part of Kentucky.

Concurrently, he announced the promotion of G. L. (Andy) Anderson from LP-Gas representatiaye Doug Gauger will expand his Wisconsin terriotry to include that formerly handled by Anderson. All promotions are effective Feb. 1.

Scouts In Action

An active patriotic Citizenry is essential to preserve and project the American heritage," Jack Panky, scout executive declared at the Den Mother's Blue and Gold Banquet.

Panky told the Den Mothers that the theme of "Strengthen America's Heritage" program is one of cooperation between the Boy Scouts of America and Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge.

The objective of this program is first, to help Boy Scouts of America membership and its public understand and appreciate the rich heritage of the United States of America and the inherent responsibility to preserve, enrich and pass on this heritage to future generations; and second to promote through Americanism programs all over the country the deep feelings of the Scouting membership in this matter.

"Children will need to learn the Four L's," Panky continued. "These four L's are love of learning, love of liberty, love of law and love of life."

"Through participation in the three phases of Scouting, Cubs, Boy Scouts and Explorers, the young people of today will be better prepared and have deeper experiences for assuming the leadership that will be theirs in a few years, he said.

Table centerpieces for the Blue and Gold Banquet carried out the themes of patriotism and aiming high. "Aim High in '64", the theme of Mrs. Barbara Bowen's display showed a Cub Scout about to take off in a golden rocket ship. A similar centerpiece was made by Mrs. Frances Herlevic of Pack 30. The Golden Eagle, symbol of America's strength, used by Pack 37 was made by Mrs. Virginia Perry. Mrs. Stanley of Pack 127 used a garden of spring flowers as her centerpiece. Representations of some of the early flags of the United States were made by Mrs. Jackie Szold for Pack 29 and a Conestaga wagon served as centerpiece for Pack 174 and was made by Mrs. Ellie Fant.

Relaxation and fun at the banquet were provided by Frank McDermott, field scout executive, with magic tricks, games and singing.

During the business session that followed committees were set up to continue the Workshop. Den Mothers who volunteered are as follows: Question and answers, Mrs. Ellie Fant; games, Mrs. Christine Frandsen; skits, Mrs. Jackie Szold; handicrafts, Mrs. Virginia Perry; ceremonies, Mrs. Joliene Whitfield, field trips, Mrs. L. A. Hunnicutt.

For National Boy Scout week, Feb. 7-13, the following was suggested: All Cub Scouts wear scout uniforms to school Friday, Feb. 7; all Scouts attend Church on Sunday, Feb. 9 in their uniforms; have Cub Scouts attend the television program, "Happiness Exchange" in uniform and with Pack identification on Saturday, Feb. 8. Each Pack was urged to have a display window at a business location in their town or community containing items the scouts had made in order to acquaint their community with this phase of Scouting.

Den Mothers who attended the banquet included: Mrs. Jean Johnston and Mrs. Charlene Shinn, Pack 3, Bastrop; Mrs. Barbara Bowen, Pack 67, Sterlington; Mrs. Elaine Strozier and Mrs. Ada Haddock, Mangham; Mrs. Virginia Perry, Mrs. Billy Stinson and Mrs. Hilton Tolbird, Pack 37, West Monroe; Mrs. Robert E. Szold, Pack 29; Mrs. Frances Herlevic and Mrs. Christine Frandsen, Pack 30; Mrs. Stanley Hayes, Pack 127; Mrs. Hugo Angelini, Mrs. A. P. Messina, Mrs. Gladys Machnik, Pack 6; Mrs. L. A. Hunnicutt, Pack 31, all of Monroe, and Mrs. Ellen M. Fant, and Mrs. Joline Whitfield, Pack 174, West Monroe. Mr. Perry and Mr. Hilton Tolbird accompanied their wives as guests.

The February Den Mother's Workshop will be held Thursday, February 20, 9:30 a. m. at the First National Bank in West Monroe. The March theme, "Mardi Gras" will be featured.

Boys of Troop 27 which is sponsored by the Claiborne P-TA who helped in a recent March of Dimes project are Louis Pylant, Jeff Fant, Thomas Hern, Jessie Hinton and Scout Master, George Pylant.

Boy Scouts of Troop 38 helped at the recent Jaycee Jr., Football game held at Northeast stadium. The boys were Pat Hassion, Bill Mullis and Webb Berlin. Mr. H. C. Haddox is Scoutmaster of Troop 38.

Comanche Lodge 254, will host the annual fall business meeting at the Louisiana Power and Light Co. auditorium, today starting at 2 p. m. Lodge Chief Larry Wade urged every member of the Order of the Arrow to be present as the entire year's work will be discussed.

LBJ Tells Of Impromptu News Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told newsmen ushered into his office without advance notice Saturday that it wasn't a "quickie" news conference they were attending.

He gave some indication also that he dislikes the word "informal" to describe his news conferences.

"I don't know what you call a formal one," he said. "I guess I ought to wear a white tie. I came to work this morning and I didn't think it was formal. I just thought I was supposed to be here, and if you all are here, I will give you anything I know at any time. Some of you, I think, feel that I don't see enough of you individually. I will be glad to do that."

Near the end of his meeting with newsmen, Johnson said: "This is a formal press conference. If there isn't any element of the press here that is represented, I want them represented here. Incidentally, I will see you next week. There is nothing going on here that we want to keep secret except some things which may fall within the national interest which must be kept secret. We're anxious to help you do your job, with objectivity, and as enthusiastically as I hope you all want me to do mine."

Asked whether he would have his next news conference in his office or in the big auditorium in the State Department where John F. Kennedy held his, Johnson said: "I don't know where we will have it. I think it is good enough to say I am going to have one.'

There was no count of heads at the news conference. Estimates ranged from 30 to 40.

Newsmen were called into the press secretary's office, expecting the usual written statements and other announcements, and were promptly escorted into Johnson's office.

Johnson was seated near a small table, with a cup of black coffee. With him was Harry Provence, editor of the Waco News-Tribune, an old friend.

Johnson's first presidential news conference came on a Saturday, Dec. 7, when 25 newsmen were invited into his office for coffee.

On Dec. 18, a weekday, Johnson held another conference without advance notice. That time 55 attended.

The third Johnson news conference listed on White House records took place at his Texas ranch Dec. 27, also without word in advance.

The White House does not list as a news conference a brief Johnson meeting with reporters on Thursday. On that occasion he read a statement about the Panamanian situation, then was asked one question about the progress of his program in Congress.

Johnson said that he has seen 30 or 40 reporters who have asked to come in on special things they wanted to know.

"Some of them wanted to write about Cousin Oriole," he said. "Some of them want to write about what I think of my wife. Some of them want to tell their editors that they saw me and here is what they think will happen in the wild blue yonder. I shall try to see all of them that I can with my schedule and I am very happy with them.

"I never enjoy anything more than polite, courteous, fair, judicious reporters and I think all of you qualify."

Lucy Johnson Meets Family Of Boy Friend

MAIDEN ROCK, Wis. (AP)—Lresident Johnson's daughter, Lucy, met the family of her boy friend in the tiny community of Maiden Rock Saturday.

Lucy, 16, drove with Jack Olson, 18, and their ever-present Secret Service escort to enjoy a ham dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Olson and the youth's six brothers and sisters.

The young couple is spending the weekend at Rochester, Minn., with Dr. and Mrs. James Cain, longtime friends of the Johnson family. Maiden Rock is about 50 miles away, just across the Mississippi River in Wisconsin.

Newsmen were permitted in the yard but not inside the weathered, white frame house atop a hill looking down on the river valley.

Also joining the party was Jerry Sargent, 19, Minneapolis, boyfriend of Olson's sister, Karen, 19. Sargent said the young people laughed over old family photographs and that Lucy chatted with Jack's brothers and sisters.

Jack is a student at the University of Wisconsin. He and Lucy met while he was a page boy in Washington.

Mrs. Olson works in a bank. Her husband is disabled.

Lucy planned to return to Washington on Sunday.

CUBAN 'SOLIDARITY'

HAVANA (AP)—The Cuban government has proclaimed Monday as a "day of solidarity with Panama." There will be a major demonstration outside the presidential palace where Prime Minister Fidel Castro is expected to speak.

Management Courses Set Next Month

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The newly established LSU Management Services Institute Saturday announced its spring schedule of short courses for supervisors.

To be called Fundamentals of Supervision, the course consists of five days of intensive instruction in the basic elements of modern supervision. The first course is scheduled for February 24-28 and will be repeated April 20-24 and May 25-29.

Open to supervisory personnel in the Mid-South Area, the course will have an outstanding faculty made up of university professors and practicing business and professional men. It will be conducted in Pleasant Hall.

The course is specifically designed for supervisory personnel of businesses, large and small, governmental agencies, institutions and other administrative establishments. It is particularly suited for those organizations that do not have formal internal training programs or for those with programs who feel a need to broaden their own effort.

The Fundamentals of Supervision Course is the first of a series of activities that will be sponsored by the recently-established Management Services Institute. In announcing the establishment of the Management Services Institute earlier this year, Dean William D. Ross of the College of Business Administration stated that the Institute will not only provide a working link between business and industry and the University's College of Business Administration but will be a much-needed assist to the continued industrial growth of the State by providing a means for bringing to executives and administrators and latest developments in the administrative arts and sciences.

The purpose of the Institute is to establish a stronger tie between the university and the business community in Louisiana and in the Mid-South area served by the University. The Institute plans to offer a well-rounded program of on-campus supervisory and executive development activities for business, industry, government, professional and trade associations in the form of short courses and conferences.

The same service will be available on a tailor-made basis for companies and organizations having a need for such individual service. This program will be in addition to the University's Mid-South Executive Development Program for top management personnel which is now in its fourth year.

Activities of the Institute will be directed on a project basis by Willard E. Bennett of Willard E. Bennett & Associates, Management Consultants. Bennett is a practicing business executive of many years' experience, his most recent assignments being assistant to the president of Cities Service Refining Corp. His experience covers a broad range of management activities from line supervision to organization analysis and planning, all phases of industrial and labor relations, and supervisory and executive development. He is a native of Lousiana.

Soybean Forum Attracts 500 At Area Town

TALLULAH (Special) — The Eighth annual Tri-State Soybean Forum held at the Tallulah Country Club Friday was attended by more than 500 farmers, producers, buyers, elevator operators and exporters from Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana.

The keynote speaker, George Strayer of Hudson, Iowa, executive vice president of the American Soybean Forum, delivered an address on "Where Are We Going with Soybeans?" and crowned Louisiana Soybean queen, Miss Robbie Marie McMillin of Jonesville as Forum queen.

John Terrall of Lake Providence presided at the morning session. Herschel B. Ellis of Baton Rouge spoke on "Uniform Grading of Small Grains", Addison Douglas of Cargill Inc. of St. Louis talked about "The South and World Markets" and David Bryant spoke on Safe Use of Chemicals.

Tom Burch of LSU presided at the afternoon session which opened with a panel on soybean production problems with L. H. Mosely of the Mississippi Extension Service, Stoneville, Miss., as moderator. "Varieties and Planting Practices was discussed by Dr. John Gray, agronomist of LSU, "Weed Control" by Ruel P. Nester, "Insect Control" by Grover Dowell both of Arkansas Extension Service, Little Rock and "Harvesting and Storing" by Joe Smilie of LSU.

The Forum was sponsored by the Madison Parish Chamber of Commerce, Agriculture Extension Service for the three states, Louisiana Delta Council, Mississippi Delta Council, Arkansas Agriculture Council and National Cotton Seed Products Association.

Wives of the Madison Farm Bureau members served coffee throughout the day.

WOULDN'T STEP ON IT

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)— A school principal was surprised to walk into a classroom and find a barefoot teacher carefully sweeping the floor while the pupils sat with feet pulled up on their seats.

The teacher explained she had lost one of her new contact lenses. She discovered a short time later that it had just slipped to one side of her eye and the class returned to normal.

Management Courses Set Next Month

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The newly established LSU Management Services Institute Saturday announced its spring schedule of short courses for supervisors.

To be called Fundamentals of Supervision, the course consists of five days of intensive instruction in the basic elements of modern supervision. The first course is scheduled for February 24-28 and wll be repeated April 20-24 and May 25-29.

Open to supervisory personnel in the Mid-South Area, the course will have an outstanding faculty made up of university professors and practicing business and professional men. It will be conducted in Pleasant Hall.

The course is specifically designed for supervisory personnel of businesses, large and small, governmental agencies, institutions and other administrative establishments. It is particularly suited for those organizations that do not have formal internal training programs or for those with programs who feel a need to broaden their own effort.

The Fundamentals of Supervision Course is the first of a series of activities that will be sponsored by the recently-established Management Services Institute. In announcing the establishment of the Management Services Institute earlier this year, Dean William D. Ross of the College of Business Administration stated that the Institute will not only provide a working link between business and industry and the University's College of Business Administration but will be a much-needed assist to the continued industrial growth of the State by providing a means for bringing to executives and administrators and latest developments in the administrative arts and sciences.

The purpose of the Institute is to establish a stronger tie between the university and the business community in Louisiana and in the Mid-South area served by the University. The Institute plans to offer a well-rounded program of on-campus supervisory and executive development activities for business, industry, government, professional and trade associations in the form of short courses and conferences.

The same service will be available on a tailor-made basis for companies and organizations having a need for such individual service. This program will be in addition to the University's Mid-South Executive Development Program for top management personnel which is now in its fourth year.

Activities of the Institute will be directed on a project basis by Willard E. Bennett of Willard E. Bennett & Associates, Management Consultants. Bennett is a practicing business executive of many years' experience, his most recent assignments being assistant to the president of Cities Service Refining Corp. His experience covers a broad range of management activities from line supervision to organization analysis and planning, all phases of industrial and labor relations, and supervisory and executive development. He is a native of Lousiana.

Soybean Forum Attracts 500 At Area Town

TALLULAH (Special) — The Eighth annual Tri-State Soybean Forum held at the Tallulah Country Club Friday was attended by more than 500 farmers, producers, buyers, elevator operators and exporters from Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana.

The keynote speaker, George Strayer of Hudson, Iowa, executive vice president of the American Soybean Forum, delivered an address on "Where Are We Going with Soybeans?" and crowned Louisiana Soybean queen, Miss Robbie Marie McMillin of Jonesville as Forum queen.

John Terrall of Lake Providence presided at the morning session. Herschel B. Ellis of Baton Rouge spoke on "Uniform Grading of Small Grains", Addison Douglas of Cargill Inc. of St. Louis talked about "The South and World Markets" and David Bryant spoke on Safe Use of Chemicals.

Tom Burch of LSU presided at the afternoon session which opened with a panel on soybean production problems with L. H. Mosely of the Mississippi Extension Service, Stoneville, Miss., as moderator. "Varieties and Planting Practices was discussed by Dr. John Gray, agronomist of LSU, "Weed Control" by Ruel P. Nester, "Insect Control" by Grover Dowell both of Arkansas Extension Service, Little Rock and "Harvesting and Storing" by Joe Smilie of LSU.

The Forum was sponsored by the Madison Parish Chamber of Commerce, Agriculture Extension Service for the three states, Louisiana Delta Council, Mississippi Delta Council, Arkansas Agriculture Council and National Cotton Seed Products Association.

Wives of the Madison Farm Bureau members served coffee throughout the day.

WOULDN'T STEP ON IT

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)— A school principal was surprised to walk into a classroom and find a barefoot teacher carefully sweeping the floor while the pupils sat with feet pulled up on their seats.

The teacher explained she had lost one of her new contact lenses. She discovered a short time later that it had just slipped to one side of her eye and the class returned to normal.

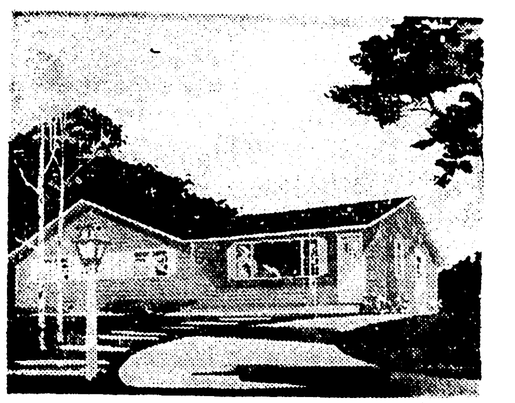
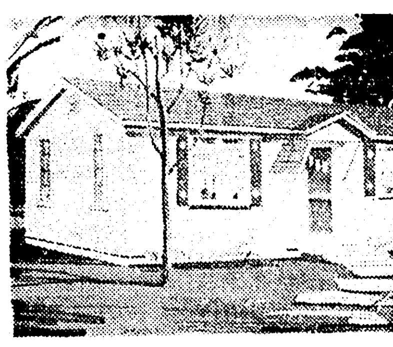
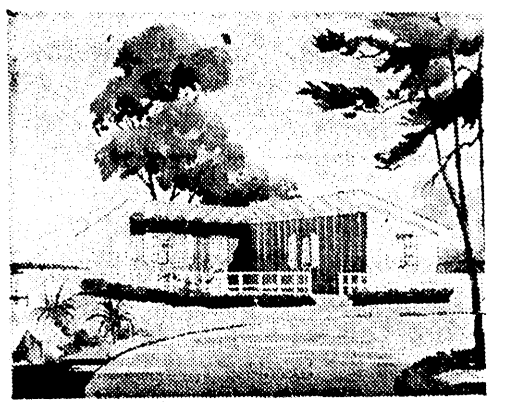
WHY PAY RENT?



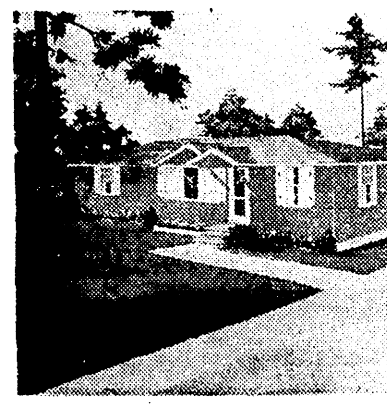
A gracious home providing ample space for the large family. The El Dorado offers more livable space for less cost than any other shell home on the market today. The exterior styling makes this home an asset to any neighborhood and the interior is designed especially for the wife with a discerning taste for future arrangements. As low as $49.98 per month in shell form for 144 months.



For compactness, convenience, and attractive design, Modern Homes offers you the Corvette. This model has two bedrooms which are ideal for a small family or couple and it features the increasingly popular living and dining room combination. The Corvette boasts a large kitchen to make cooking a pleasure. The gabled entrance lends itself to arrangements of flowering annual plants. As low as $30.98 per month in shell form for 144 months.



Your home away from home. The Riverette is a well constructed, beautiful looking house that will be ideal for a vacation cottage on the beach, lake, river or mountains. It features a large sun deck, full size bedroom, large living and dining area. The attractive extended roof overhang makes this home especially more comfortable in hot weather. As low as $31.98 per month in shell form for 144 months.



Simplicity marks this home with distinction—simplicity with original touches in the popular hip roof, large scenic window, and fashionable planter. The roof, which as an overhang, provides both protection and coolness. The Bonneville also has ample storage space and it features the separate dining room and kitchen. As low as $41.98 per month in shell form for 144 months.

Perhaps you would prefer the comfort of a spacious old home to the somewhat cramped modern housing. This home has a large kitchen, dining room, living room, three bedrooms and bath with plenty of space for an additional bath if desired. Situated in one of our best residential areas with Neville, Lee Junior High and Lexington schools all within easy reach. Brand new roof, paint and paper.

If we quoted the price you would think something was wrong with the property. Well we'll tell you both the price and what's wrong. It's $12,500 and it is not a late model. That's all. See for yourself. It is an excellent value.

More Negroes Take Vote Tests

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) —Fourteen more Negroes took voter registration tests at Hattiesburg Saturday, boosting the total number filing for voter application this week to 134.

The Forrest County courthouse closed at noon, thus cutting down the number able to apply. Pickets maintained a march outside the building.

Bobbie Jean Evans, 38-year-old Negro woman from near Hattiesburg, prayed on the front steps of the courthouse for the souls of demonstrators who were picketing.

Voter registrations which began here Wednesday, are being processed by Theron Lynd, court clerk who has been cited for contempt by a federal court on voter discrimination charges.

First Stage Of Saturn I Superbooster Being Prepared

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Preparations continued here Saturday for Monday's scheduled launching of the first two-stage Saturn 1 superbooster while engineers analyzed the cause of a rocket motor explosion in California.

The Saturn 1, most powerful known rocket in the world, will attempt to boost into orbit the heaviest satellite yet, a 37,700-pound monster, as part of the test mission.

The motor which blew up on a test stand in Sacramento, Calif., is a duplicate of the second stage to be flown for the first time on the planned Monday launching. At first, project directors at Cape Kennedy felt they might have to postpone the firing here until a thorough study was made of the blast.

Later, however, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the explosion at the Douglas Aircraft Co., facility had not given sufficient reason to interrupt Saturn 1 launch preparations. Fueling of the first stage and other preparations proceeded.

But project officials Rocco A. Petrone and Lee B. James told a news conference the analysis will continue.

"We feel sure," James said, "that the cause of the malfunction was in the stand and not on the stage being tested. This is heartening. However, if anything wrong shows up in a part similar to a part on the S-IV (second) stage here, we may have to hold up our launching."

He said the cause of the California explosion, which occurred just before the engines were to ignite, was believed to be centered in a pressure cutoff valve, part of the ground support equipment.

The second stage, a cluster of six Pratt & Whitney engines which burn high-energy liquid hydrogen fuel, will be flown for the first time on the upcoming Saturn 1 flight. Four earlier test flights of the first stage only were successful.

The 90,000 pounds of thrust of the second stage, combined with the massive 1.5 million pounds of thrust in the first stage, will give the United States a potent booster for future space missions once it becomes operational, hopefully in about 18 months.

The satellite to be orbited Monday is mostly dead weight with no scientific value. Officials emphasized the test nature of the launching and stated occupation with a useful payload would delay firing preparations.

First Public Showing of the Beautiful New

Concordia Parish Hospital

This long needed modern medical facility is truly the culmination of a community and parish enterprise made possible only through public cooperation.

The hospital represents an investment of $1,094,000.00 by taxpayers. Concordia parish property owners authorized a $547,000 bond issue which was matched by Hill-Burton funds. In addition, donations by many Concordia parish residents have helped furnish many of the rooms and much of the equipment.

The people of Concordia Parish are proud of this wonderful new example of parish progress and extend a cordial invitation to our friends throughout Louisiana and Mississippi to visit with us Sunday. We have built what we believe is one of the most modern and complete small hospitals in the South.

The hospital is built on 10 acres of ground which was donated by the family of the late A. B. Learned of Natchez, and the grounds have been beautifully and extensively landscaped by the Ferriday Garden Club. The air conditioned building has 42 private and four semi-private rooms and will provide patients with the services of specialists in all branches of medicine. Location of this modern installation is one-half mile North of Ferriday on the Ferriday-Clayton highway.

Included on the staff are 14 licensed and practical nurses, six nurses' aides and two laboratory technicians. Special facilities which are not always available in hospitals this size include an intensive care unit, recovery room with four beds, a heart defribolator and pacemaker, an Armstrong isolation incubator, a 10-bassinet nursery and a blood bank.

Later, however, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the explosion at the Douglas Aircraft Co., facility had not given sufficient reason to interrupt Saturn 1 launch preparations. Fueling of the first stage and other preparations proceeded.

But project officials Rocco A. Petrone and Lee B. James told a news conference the analysis will continue.

"We feel sure," James said, "that the cause of the malfunction was in the stand and not on the stage being tested. This is heartening. However, if anything wrong shows up in a part similar to a part on the S-IV (second) stage here, we may have to hold up our launching."

He said the cause of the California explosion, which occurred just before the engines were to ignite, was believed to be centered in a pressure cutoff valve, part of the ground support equipment.

The second stage, a cluster of six Pratt & Whitney engines which burn high-energy liquid hydrogen fuel, will be flown for the first time on the upcoming Saturn 1 flight. Four earlier test flights of the first stage only were successful.

The 90,000 pounds of thrust of the second stage, combined with the massive 1.5 million pounds of thrust in the first stage, will give the United States a potent booster for future space missions once it becomes operational, hopefully in about 18 months.

The satellite to be orbited Monday is mostly dead weight with no scientific value. Officials emphasized the test nature of the launching and stated occupation with a useful payload would delay firing preparations.

Congratulations...

It was our pleasure to supply material and equipment which helped make possible the ultra-modern Concordia Parish Hospital.

First Public Showing of the Beautiful New

Concordia Parish Hospital

This long needed modern medical facility is truly the culmination of a community and parish enterprise made possible only through public cooperation.

The hospital represents an investment of $1,094,000.00 by taxpayers. Concordia parish property owners authorized a $547,000 bond issue which was matched by Hill-Burton funds. In addition, donations by many Concordia parish residents have helped furnish many of the rooms and much of the equipment.

The people of Concordia Parish are proud of this wonderful new example of parish progress and extend a cordial invitation to our friends throughout Louisiana and Mississippi to visit with us Sunday. We have built what we believe is one of the most modern and complete small hospitals in the South.

The hospital is built on 10 acres of ground which was donated by the family of the late A. B. Learned of Natchez, and the grounds have been beautifully and extensively landscaped by the Ferriday Garden Club. The air conditioned building has 42 private and four semi-private rooms and will provide patients with the services of specialists in all branches of medicine. Location of this modern installation is one-half mile North of Ferriday on the Ferriday-Clayton highway.

Included on the staff are 14 licensed and practical nurses, six nurses' aides and two laboratory technicians. Special facilities which are not always available in hospitals this size include an intensive care unit, recovery room with four beds, a heart defribolator and pacemaker, an Armstrong isolation incubator, a 10-bassinet nursery and a blood bank.

YUP, ME, DADDY!
AND DON'T WORRY ABOUT HIM! HE HAS A SPOTLESS REPUTATION
THERE YOU ARE, CHARLIE! THAT'S MY CAUTIOUS, CONSERVATIVE JILL!
PRETTY GOOD, JIM! YOU KNOW FOR SURE SHE'S JILL, HUH?
YEP. JILL REALLY CHECKS A BOY OUT! LISTEN!
HOW DO YOU KNOW THIS BOY HAS SUCH A "SPOTLESS" REPUTATION, DEAR?
'CAUSE EVERY AFTERNOON AFTER SCHOOL HE WORKS AT THE ACME CLEANERS!! YUK, YUK!
HA, HA! WHAT DOES THAT PROVE, JIM?
THAT I TWINGOOFED AGAIN! (SIGH) THAT'S MY JAN!
OH, MAN! LOTS OF LUCK!

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Your readers will love us for this hint:

Many small tots like to play with soft plastic glasses in the bathtub . . . just for fun. But Mommy has to watch very closely, so the little one will not drink the bath water.

Solution: Instead of the glass give the little one a soft plastic funnel! Our daughter enjoys the funnel more than any glass as it keeps her quite mystified as to where the water goes.

As the child raises the funnel to drink, the water disappears. Mother will enjoy a few laughs, also, watching the expression on her little one's face.

H.F.R.

CRUMBY IDEA

DEAR HELOISE:

I used to dread crushing* corn flakes or crackers because it was awkward and messy, until the day I noticed that my rolling pin and cookie sheet (which has an edge all around it) were almost the same width.

Now I just pour crushables* into the pan and roll them! No spill, large capacity and good, evenly-crushed crumbs.

Houston

SLIP-ON SLEEVES

DEAR HELOISE:

I have a problem keeping my shirt cuffs and sleeves clean. I came across an idea the other day that I think should be called to the attention of your readers.

I took an old worn-out shirt,* cut the sleeves off and put them in the glove compartment of my car! Reason? . . .

When I have to change a tire or work on the car, I pull the cut-off sleeves over my shirt or coat (depending on the weather) and they protect the sleeves and cuffs.

Widower

MEDICINE CABINETS

DEAR HELOISE:

For those mothers who have little children in the house or elderly parents living with them:

I take adhesive tape and put a swatch of it across the top of each bottle of medicine or anything poisonous that I keep in the house.

Worried

Thank you for this hint. It could save lives.

100 TIMES

HIS
HERS

DEAR HELOISE:

If you and your husband like soft-boiled eggs . . . done in different times, write on one with felt marker or pencil so you can tell them apart! This saves washing two pans.

Mrs. John Kovel

DOUGH BOARDS

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who have the old-type dough boards or cutting boards: After squeezing half a lemon, turn the skin inside out, rub the stained wood with it and let it set a few minutes. Then wash the board with warm water and it will be beautiful and white when dry.

A. S.

FISH NETS

DEAR HELOISE:

When changing the water in a small goldfish bowl . . . put a woman's hair net over the top of the bowl before pouring the water down the drain. It will keep the goldfish from following the water.

Sandre Gary

STAINLESS SINKS

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's the answer for women who have spots in their stainless steel sinks:

After trying everything suggested I finally used cream of tartar. This takes out all stains and makes my sink look like new again.

This should be used just as you would apply any cleaner. Put it on with a rag, add a bit of water, and scrub. My sink was in really bad shape. I had to use this method three times, but it looks just like new now.

Lloyd Miller

LADDER SAFETY

DEAR HELOISE:

If you will staple a burlap bag around the bottom two steps of your ladder, you will find that as you step up each rung this will clean your shoes and keep the upper steps of the ladder from becoming soiled and slippery!

When coming down the ladder you also know when you have reached the two bottom steps. Prevents accidents.

Louise

EASY TURN UP

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a simple way to shorten a coat. I use the one-inch-wide, iron-on tape. It works beautifully and requires no stitching which will show!

Esther Glenger

A LIGHT AURA

DEAR HELOISE:

If you want a nice-smelling scent in your home before guests arrive, rub stick cologne on the bulbs of your table lamps before you turn them on. The heat from the bulbs will give off a delightful scent to freshen the air.

A Reader

It works!

Heloise

WHOSE BEST FRIEND?

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you know that diamond rings can be kept even prettier by brushing them with an old toothbrush and toothpaste? Rinse in clear water afterwards. This only takes a few seconds.

Sandy Ridgdell

VINEGAR MANICURE

DEAR GALS:

Did you know that if you wipe your fingernails in pure vinegar and let them dry before applying the polish, the polish will adhere longer?

I learned this from a manicurist.

Heloise

PROBLEM LICKED

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have a postage stamp which has lost its glue . . . just save it until you moisten the flap on an envelope. Rub the stamp against the moistened flap and it will pick up enough glue to stick to the envelope.

Bob Martin

RADIATOR BRUSH

DEAR HELOISE:

For a makeshift radiator duster . . . slip a sock (that's husband's unmated one) over a bottle brush. Both may be washed later.

Little Orphan Annie
PSYCHIATRY? WONDER DRUGS? SURGERY? THE WORLD'S TOP SPECIALISTS HAVE RENDERED THEIR REPORT: NOTHING CAN RESTORE ANNIE'S MEMORY OF THE PAST!
HELLO, ANNIE, SANDY!
GEE! THAT LETTER! GUESS IT MUST'A' BEEN BAD NEWS! I'M AWFUL SORRY, MR. WARBUCKS!
THANK YOU, ANNIE, BUT HARDLY KNOWING ME, WHY SHOULD YOU···?
—WHY SHOULD I CARE SO MUCH WHEN YOU GET BAD NEWS? I REALLY DUNNO, BUT I DO CARE!
Y'SEE, MR. WARBUCKS, I KNOW I'VE LOST MY MEMORY 'BOUT EVER'THING 'FORE THE ACCIDENT! I MUSTA' KNOWN LOTS AN' LOTS O' FOLKS; REAL FRIENDS!
BUT NOW? WELL, I GUESS I'VE JUST GOTTA START ALL OVER AND TRY T'MAKE NEW FRIENDS; AND 'SPECIALLY GET BACK TH' ONES I'VE FORGOT! ELWOOD AN' SANDY SURE KNEW YOU; SO MAYBE I'VE KNOWN YOU, TOO!
BUT NOW, TH' WAY I AM, I'VE GOTTA START FRESH! STILL, SOMEHOW, FOR SOME REASON, I GET TH' FEELIN' YOU'RE ONE OF MY WAY-BACK FRIENDS. ARE YOU?
YES, ANNIE! FROM WHEN YOU WERE A LITTLE, LITTLE GIRL, YOU CALLED ME "DADDY"!
"DADDY"? GEE! Y'KNOW, THAT SORTA SEEMS TO FIT!
I'M ASHAMED TO SAY, MANY TIMES I'VE BEEN A PRETTY POOR "DADDY" TO YOU; HAD TO LEAVE YOU, FOR YEARS SOMETIMES; BUT I'VE ALWAYS LOVED YOU, ANNIE, AS MY OWN!
SHUCKS, I UNDERSTAND ···"DADDY"!
TH' KIND O' BUSINESS YOU MUST BE IN, Y'CAN'T S'PECT A KID T'TAG ALONG ALL TH' TIME! BUT YOU'RE HOME NOW, "DADDY"!

Little Orphan Annie
PSYCHIATRY? WONDER DRUGS? SURGERY? THE WORLD'S TOP SPECIALISTS HAVE RENDERED THEIR REPORT: NOTHING CAN RESTORE ANNIE'S MEMORY OF THE PAST!
HELLO, ANNIE, SANDY!
GEE! THAT LETTER! GUESS IT MUST'A' BEEN BAD NEWS! I'M AWFUL SORRY, MR. WARBUCKS!
THANK YOU, ANNIE, BUT HARDLY KNOWING ME, WHY SHOULD YOU...?
—WHY SHOULD I CARE SO MUCH WHEN YOU GET BAD NEWS? I REALLY DUNNO, BUT I DO CARE!
Y'SEE, MR. WARBUCKS, I KNOW I'VE LOST MY MEMORY 'BOUT EVER'THING 'FORE THE ACCIDENT! I MUST'A' KNOWN LOTS AN' LOTS O' FOLKS; REAL FRIENDS!
BUT NOW? WELL, I GUESS I'VE JUST GOTTA START ALL OVER AND TRY T'MAKE NEW FRIENDS; AND 'SPECIALLY GET BACK TH' ONES I'VE FORGOT! ELWOOD AN' SANDY SURE KNEW YOU; SO MAYBE I'VE KNOWN YOU, TOO!
BUT NOW, TH' WAY I AM, I'VE GOTTA START FRESH! STILL, SOMEHOW, FOR SOME REASON, I GET TH' FEELIN' YOU'RE ONE OF MY WAY-BACK FRIENDS. ARE YOU?
YES, ANNIE! FROM WHEN YOU WERE A LITTLE, LITTLE GIRL, YOU CALLED ME "DADDY"!
"DADDY"? GEE! Y'KNOW, THAT SORTA SEEMS TO FIT!
I'M ASHAMED TO SAY, MANY TIMES I'VE BEEN A PRETTY POOR "DADDY" TO YOU; HAD TO LEAVE YOU, FOR YEARS SOMETIMES; BUT I'VE ALWAYS LOVED YOU, ANNIE, AS MY OWN!
SHUCKS, I UNDERSTAND ... "DADDY"!
TH' KIND O' BUSINESS YOU MUST BE IN, Y'CAN'T S'PECT A KID T'TAG ALONG ALL TH' TIME! BUT YOU'RE HOME NOW, "DADDY"!
